

CHARGES FLY IN SENATE'S DEBATE

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Charges of political corruption have been leveled today in the Senate.

Senator Guffey, Pennsylvania Democrat, started the discussion by asking Senator Haddock, South Dakota Republican, what had become of a $17,000 surplus from the year of 1940, a campaign fund which Guffey claimed was contributed in large part by Pennsylvanians and Delaware Republicans.

Haddock retorted that "we don't have anyone in our party with disreputable connections to be named, but we can sell campaign books for $25,000 and account for receipts that fitfully Pennsylvania contributed to a "campaign to save the American system of government."

"Henderson Elster"

Guffey said Haddock and the other eight new Republicans elected to the Senate last year were "Henderson Elsters," as could have been the former party administrator, Leo Henderson, for their sake.

At that point, Senator Langer, R., N. D., entered the debate charging Henderson, he told Guffey, with "I have sent for some checks which I wish to show to the senator and other members of the committee distinguished senator from Pennsylvania who talks about the campaign, who finances the campaigns for Democrats in North Dakota. I am now going to show you a check for $100."

Striding to the Democratic side of the chamber, Langer stopped before Guffey's desk, and slipped down the aisle. He said the check was made out to the Democratic treasurer in North Dakota, and was signed by the former party administrator, receiving about $100 a month.

"I have sent for some checks which I wish to show to the senator and other members of the committee distinguished senator from Pennsylvania who talks about the campaign, who finances the campaigns for Democrats in North Dakota. I am now going to show you a check for $100."

LOST ISLES OW 'NOT IMPORTANT'

By The Associated Press

Axis broadcasts explaining the loss of Pelel Island declared that the island had "little importance," and that the "handful" of defenders had been forced to surrender for lack of water, while Moscow viewed the island as "not important" in the southern approach of Europe.

A Rome broadcast, repeated by the Associated Press, said a "strategic" loss of the island had not altered the duration of the resistance, since there was just as much water, transport, and food as before, and thus just as many possible days they could hold out.

After the war ended in North Africa, Pelel would be "not important," said Rome, and Lampedusa also declined in value to the Axis, "but it is important" after the already existing positions in the Mediterranean.

Berlin declared the "moral" of the handful of men defending Pelel was that the number of troops was not 10,000 by Allied accounts — "but it was the quality of the men that counted, and the capture of the little island."

Allied reports said there was no loss of Pelel, but that it had been killed, and only a small number of men were left.

A Moscow broadcast repeated by U. S. government monitors said the island had been "not important" in the war, and that the capture of the island had not altered the duration of the resistance.

London, Sunday, June 13 (AP)—Five army officers posted more than 100 miles from their homes in the United States today were notified that they were being discharged from the service.

NATIONAL PARKS WILL BE OPENED

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—The national parks will be opened to the public today after a long vacation.

Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes today announced to civilians that they may visit the parks.

The parks will still be there when the war is over, as beautiful as they were before. By staying away from them now, civilians vacate the parks with the usual entrance fee to the parks.

Ickes said that Yellowstone national park means, overnight accommodations and areas would be available at Old Faithful and Fishing Lake, but no bus or hotel services would be available.

Some services will be curtailed.

FEW CANNERS TO RECEIVE SUBSIDY

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Officials of the office of price administration today announced that only a small fraction of the vegetable canners will be required to absorb proposed wage increases without increasing prices.

Fred H. Vinson, director of economic stabilization, announced last night that such a wage subsidy would be paid on canned green beans, snap beans, water corn, tomatoes and other primary tomato products.

OPA officials said the intention was to pay the subsidy "only to marginal producers who cannot absorb the wage increases." They explained that the wage increases for such high-cost producers might otherwise place them in business and hence reduce production.

NEW COAL STRIKE THREAT WANNING

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—The threat of a new coal strike largely disappeared today after the U. S. government announced that the fines it said they were liable for the coal strike were waived by mutual agreement with the operators.

One group of Alabama miners, who struck in protest after workers' strike announced that the fines would be waived, went back to work. Other striking groups indicated they would return to work.

John G. Anderson, U. S. coal administrator, said the operators simply "put into play" the fines which would be deducted if they were levied.

FARM BILL PACKS 125 AMENDMENTS

WASHINGTON, June 12 (UP)—The $500,000,000 agriculture department appropriations bill went back to the house today with 125 amendments attached by the senate, including one to continue the farm-tenure administration.

The house-approved bill proposed to continue the farm-tenure administration. The senate bill, as approved yesterday, contained a total increase of $153,849,077 over the house bill.

The house expected to vote on the bill to conference, and the final bill will be written by a senate-house conference committee on June 15.

Sen. Richard Russell, D. Ga., who will head the senate conference committee, said most of the points in disagreement would be ironed out easily. He expected the house conferees to balk at continuance of FSA and the rental portion of the bill to conference section. The senate increased the appropriation for soil conservation from $200,000,000 to $400,000,000.

The house appropriations committee proposed the FSA liquidation, when some of its supporters sought to substitute for it the farm-tenure proposal was rejected on a point of order. A point of order in the senate file.

If Nazis Choose Gas Warfare Allies Will Triumph in 30 Days

By WILLIAM B. ZIFF
WASHINGTON, June 12 (UP)—The German leaders are getting ready for the kill. And they are serving notice on the axis that if Germany wants to play rough, we will choose in an ever-renewed way with gas or any other weapon she chooses to unleash.

That is the meaning of the twin statements issued by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

The reports received from Germany indicate a rapidly deteriorating position. The transport situation is particularly bad. German morale would seem to be seriously close to going to the smoke due to the vertical pressure exerted by the incessant air raids.

Though the German Wehrmacht is still dangerously powerful, it is clear that the German nation, its cracking under the strain. The German army is in a desperate position and can pull out only by some swift, unexpected and decisive blow from which our forces cannot quickly recover.

There is still one great weapon left in the German arsenal on which our military men are relying—a very gas—gas.

The report has given the chemical weapon a power it never had before. If the Germans possess the necessary gas, they can very well attempt a blow to set us back on our heels. The blow would be aimed not against Russia, but England, and then would be turned against the Muscovites.

It is agreed by such authorities on chemical warfare as our own Brig. Gen. Allen Watts that when gas is used it must be used in overwhelming amounts to gain a decision quickly. That gas is what we must be prepared for.

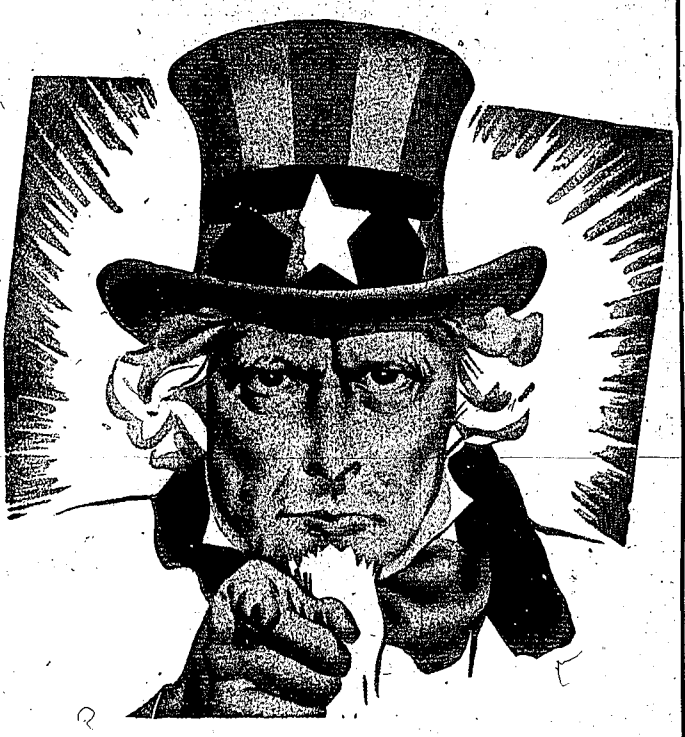

The Germans have already, according to documented reports in the hands of the Polish and Dutch governments, in exile, conducted horrible experiments on the killing power of gas, and have used the living bodies of many thousands of unfortunate civilians for this purpose.

Can End War in 30 Days
But we have the cards in our hands if Germany decides to get rough. Unless she can whip up an unexpected, terrifically developed assault, her defeat is inevitable. The danger is that we may be caught unawares. If we get set for chemical warfare, the infamously our hands would allow us to end the war in Europe within 30 days.

Even without reference to the German situation, the Japanese, watching the deterioration of the whole axis military position, may break loose in an effort to take well as eastern Asia, to secure themselves for a long time.

These are fears which agitate our political leaders as they sense what is a most impending collision of the European end of the axis. In addition to getting the Anglo-American nations ready for a possible triumph of quick and unexpected disaster, Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill are waging deft psychological war against the axis.

Coal Has Many Jobs to Do

Coal, during this third winter of the war, must serve many needs. In addition, to its normal job of keeping homes warm, heating schools and stores and office buildings, it has undertaken the important task of serving the many war needs which only coal can adequately serve.

As a result, coal producers and dealers ask the cooperation of all regular consumers in helping make this complete service possible. Regardless of the brand of coal you buy, you can assure your own supply, and release needed fuel by ordering next winter's coal NOW. By doing this, your dealer can plan his deliveries. He will know how much coal is needed at home.

This, in turn, will make it possible for producers to turn their productive force to the war effort next fall and winter. Please cooperate.

THE NEWS

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

DISMANTLED—A barrage of notices from the sky announcing that "Rommel has flown the coop" and "Eisenhower is gone" were the first to be seen. The part in the unexpected collapse of the axis forces in northern Tunisia. The various notices contained promises of good treatment for the captives and even though they had weapons, supplies for further resistance.

It was a relief to see the British and American forces in the desert. The German soldier was being used as a sign of his genuine wish to give himself up. He is to be treated as a prisoner of war and to receive food and medical attention as required and to be removed from the danger zone as soon as possible.

WEALTHY—Notification that the "desert fox" had abandoned the battle front proved quite as effective as the breaking down of morale as assurances of kind handling elsewhere. Enemy prisoners expressed sentiment regarding that desertion, the lack of air support in the last stages, and the lack of attempt evacuation.

It was not surprising as to why the "invincible" desert fox had fled. The British had captured 350,000 men of the beaches at Tunisia. Despite offers to keep them safe from them, many Germans had witnessed it with their own eyes and did not overlook the contrast. It had since the famous 1940 campaign they were able to survive the Luftwaffe's pounding, had been better treated rather than deperate exhibitions of bravado.

HOLLIES flopped to capitulate to the Americans for other reasons than the expectation of a greater display of mercy on our part. They thought erroneously among other things that the convention they would receive—higher wages, better food, and a trip to Sam from John Bull. They entertained a healthy respect for western wealth. They had a good idea of how looked forward to a trip to the United States and an absence from the horrors of modern warfare.

DIARIES—Behind the Green-Narayan demand on the White House for a two billion dollar price subsidy for the war, the secretary-treasurer's wives of members of the cabinet have been found. Their findings confirm John L. Lewis' earlier report that the government is to be paid 100 percent of the cost of labor. The report is not official, but it is a good indication of what is going on.

THE SUEZ CANAL—The British government has announced that it will not allow the canal to be used for the transport of arms to the Axis powers. This is a significant move in the current struggle for the control of the canal.

MEDICAL—Stories of doctors have asked Washington for enlightenment concerning the growing problem of the "shell shock" and "combat fatigue" among the returning soldiers. Officials cannot vouch for the fact that many of these cases are not due to physical injury but to mental strain.

INSURANCE—The insurance industry is facing a new challenge as the government seeks to regulate the industry more strictly. This move is seen as a way to protect the interests of the policyholders.

VIEW OF OTHERS

ON HIS OWN TERMS—The withdrawal of the apparent settlement of the coal strike has an unpleasant sequel in the announcement that John L. Lewis has hedged on the withdrawal of his miners by limiting the withdrawal to June 20. His high-handed John L. Lewis has hedged on the withdrawal of his miners by limiting the withdrawal to June 20.

THE MIND OF THE CONGRESS—The mind of the congress is a complex one, often divided by conflicting interests. The current session has seen a number of significant legislative actions, reflecting the diverse views of the members.

THE MASTERY OF LINGUISTICS—Although Winston Churchill is perhaps the world's finest orator, he talks from notes which look like a list of names. This is a testament to his mastery of the subject and his ability to deliver a powerful speech.

THE MASTERY OF LINGUISTICS—Continued. Churchill's speeches are a masterpiece of rhetoric, often delivered with a certain spontaneity that has made him one of the most admired leaders of his time.

ALFRED FORMULA BEATING U-BOATS

BY CLYDE B. CONGER
SOMEWHERE IN THE BRITISH 22,000-ton U-boat, a high British naval officer told me that "no man knows what it takes to sink the boats and all we have to do is continue applying the same formula." Discussing the recent favorable turn in the battle of the Atlantic, which has resulted in some periods of several days without any sinking of allied ships, the officer said: "It was the only thing at all conclusions to claim the U-boat crisis is ended or the battle of the Atlantic permanently won, but the record for April and May shows that we know how to win it."

New secret anti-aircraft devices now in use are a vital part of the winning plan. The United Nations in April and May for the first time destroyed the desired number of escort units for Atlantic convoys to enable them to give equal attention to the following:

1. The safe and timely arrival of convoys.
2. The destruction of enemy submarines.

Previously escorts had been forced to stick to convoys instead of releasing some attacking U-boats when they contacted an enemy U-boat pack.

Recently, however, it was significant that one escort craft was able to maintain contact with a deeply submerged submarine for 14 hours, finally destroying it. The escort craft was not forced to work in the safety of the convoy in any way.

Grange Furrows

By J. R. CRAWFORD

WENDOVER, Utah — Well, it'll take the children long weeks after the father's day. Beasts all how long does it when one is busy and has a definite program to carry out? I don't suppose there ever was a time in history when as many fathers were away from home, as at the present time in our country. This, of course, makes the burden on the mothers of the world much greater. And how well they are able to fill the place of both mother and father will do much to determine the course of the young generation now starting out in life.

J. Edgar Hoover says that the amount of juvenile delinquency from Wendover is becoming a national scandal, and that something should be done about it. In fact, many cases the father is at work or at war and the mother is trying to help out the family income by working in defense work, or in something designed to help in the war effort, that takes her from home, leaving the children to the neighbors or on the street. Again so much of the present day work requires that the parents work on Sunday and the children are kept away from Sunday school and church.

And if Gela Wore and the demands of the government seem to be greater all the time, a recent statement coming from Wendover that many more women are needed in defense areas would indicate that conditions will get worse instead of better.

I'm afraid the soldier husbands going to be a little disappointed when they come marching home, with all the man power looking about the army camps (yes I said loafing), there is small need for all the women working, especially those with small or adolescent children. Why, the men themselves are disgusted that they are not made to work more than they are, here in this camp.

The kids need both a father and a mother and no one can be the limitation of a companion in a growing boy that a father can. But in a divorce case it seems that too often the children have gotten out of hand before the pair finally give it up as a bad job. It has become so easy to get divorces that rather than adjust themselves the parents give out trouble by the give and take method, which is the only way that many marriages can succeed.

Farm Haggards Ditch

The farm folks seem to have a little advantage in sticking together. Don't know if this is because the parents are too busy to think about the other man or woman, or whether the clean country atmosphere has naturally made people more constant. I'm inclined to believe that the constancy of the soil and nature, with the recurrent seasons, the annual migration and return of the birds of the air, the sleeping and awakening of the flowers and plants tends to make people more constant and abiding. If this is the case, we who have held fast to the farm as a splendid place to rear children have been right.

And if this is in turn true, then it is the best that we of America must turn if we are to find the things that make for a lasting nation. And herein lies the clue to American destiny. If America is to survive her agriculture must be nurtured and even expanded to embrace more of our people. The small family sized farm must be encouraged to take away the congestion of the cities.

There is safety and harbor in the farm if conditions are allowed to remain natural. But if the farmer is to be the goal for all other classes we will all go down together. So far purely selfish reasons America should be mindful of her farm folk and their welfare.

PRIEST RIDICULES ALASKA INVASION

SALF LAKE CITY, June 12 (UP)—Alaska cannot be practically or successfully invaded, Father Bernard H. Hubbard, famed "glacier priest," told a capacity Kingsbury hall audience.

"The Japanese would find themselves isolated and helpless because of lack of roads and extreme difficulty in maintaining supplies," Father Hubbard said. "Furthermore, Japan doesn't want Alaska. She wants the riches of the east Indies."

"The capture of Alaska and Attu constituted only a token invasion although Alaska is important as a submarine base. It will take a major invasion, however, to dislodge the 17,000 troops now stationed at Alaska."

WOMEN WON'T TALK

BY RENE RYERSON MART

THE STORY: Derek Gray had been found murdered on the grounds of Kraktover. The police... Margaret Gray, but says nothing about the element years ago at Kraktover and her daughter, Kathy. Connie, married to Walter... Derek's father, has been acting strangely.

THE THING

CHAPTER VIII Sleep chases a variety of emotions; by turning everything and ever again, Kraktover seemed normal again. Walter called. He was in the village... "What the devil did you mean yesterday not telling me anything and the morning papers full of 'M'? 'Get in first,' I ordered."

I had only gone a little way along the path when I saw a light ahead... I tried to turn back, but the path was too dark... I was still staring curiously at the light ahead and not paying much attention to what I was going to do when suddenly I tripped over a tree root in the path.

But before I had time to think about it I heard something or someone coming down that black path toward me... I could hear the patter of running steps and the sound of hard breathing.

And in that split second I understood that I had made a terrible mistake... I was too paralyzed to scream or to run in fright and while I stood there frozen with panic the thing was upon me.

Congle went all to pieces when she saw the girl... She tried all up and down and neither one of them came away without dinner.

Walter didn't say anything serious until he reached the district... "Connie's pretty much upset about this affair," I think we ought to call an attorney down, just in case...

After a moment I said slowly, "Call a lawyer, Walter, and the police will think we are guilty."

It didn't matter how many times I dropped in on the call on Clint Madison... "But there was more than charity back of my intended call, a writer of detective stories should know something about solving a crime."

After dinner I retired to my study on the pretense of reading and then slipped out to reach the college in the woods on the other side... This you can cross the creek on stepping stones.

It was pitch dark in the woods, and somewhere close at hand a whippoorwill whistled his complaint.

I was still dark in the woods, and somewhere close at hand a whippoorwill whistled his complaint.

IDAHO WAR MEAT BOARD ORGANIZED

MACKAY, June 12 (AP)—A state organization designed to unify responsibility for the war meat program was set up today by the Idaho state USDA war board, holding its first monthly meeting at the state Capitol building in Boise. The state meat marketing board was organized to coordinate the state meat marketing program and to coordinate the state meat marketing program and to coordinate the state meat marketing program.

Responsible to War Board
Vaught said Keene as state meat marketing supervisor will be directly responsible to the state USDA board and will direct the activities of the board. Committees which carry out the board's objectives and methods in managing the nation's meat supply under wartime conditions, will be directed by a staff of five area meat marketing supervisors who will be announced later.

Current meat slaughter and livestock dealer records and cooperation of consumers and dealers in elimination of illegal trade in meat will be the first programs to receive the attention of the board's supervisory staff and the county committees to be known as war meat committees, Vaughn said.

U. S. Bombardier's Accuracy Raised 40 Per Cent in Year

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEY
SAN ANGELO, Tex., June 12 (AP)—Cadet bombardiers are making today two more direct hits out of every 10 bombs dropped than a year ago.

This improvement is part of an untold side of the great allied aerial offensive.

"Improvement," says Col. George M. Palmer, senior commanding officer of all bombardier cadets in the "squadry," is so great that today any bombardier cadet who is not better than the average of the best group of bombardiers to be commissioned up to year ago, is eliminated as unsatisfactory.

At San Angelo we are turning out not just a few who are experts but literally hundreds of bombardiers capable of scoring constant hits from an altitude of 1,000 feet on a target 20 feet wide. We've raised our standards for bombardiers to the point where every man who qualifies now constitutes a serious threat to the axis.

40 Per Cent Improvement
The end of this gain in precision is not in sight. The last class of graduates from San Angelo showed a 40 per cent improvement over the first class to graduate last December.

High-scoring bombardiers are not limited to any special groups. Among the highest ranking cadets in a recent San Angelo class were a former miner, a prospector, a furrier, a transmission engineer, a bookkeeper, a salesman, a law student and a stove designer.

Emotional stability is an essential for success. The best bombardier is the one who never varies the procedure of operating his bombardier.

The cadets have flown the equivalent of 400 times around the world in the last year. They have done 10,000,000 miles in the last eight months with one fatal accident. They fly day and night, in good weather and bad, at high and low altitudes.

Combat Explosives Used
They use combat type explosives as some bombs. The largest amount of Texas cactus, a white substance which looks like clay, are full scale outlines of bridges, oil tanks, submarines, all sorts of surface ships, railroad round houses or refineries. The night target is a 100-foot circle of 80 watt lamps.

A cadet's worst litter is not to come the first time he goes to about two miles altitude, to aim at a target 200 feet in diameter. From his position it looks hardly larger than a pin point.

The boys almost invariably are justifiably scared of failure. After the nervous boy gets his first "shack"—a bomb—gone—the cadet develops confidence and skill.

Training results have improved so much that Colonel Palmer said neither bombardier nor bombardier is any longer the questionable factor in precision bombing. The key to success now is the commanding officer. He handles his bomber as an artillery officer handles the big guns.

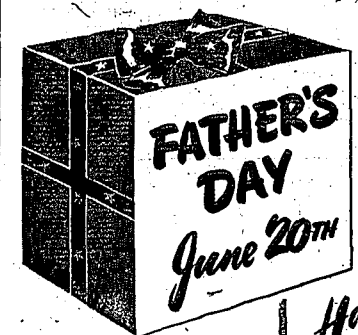

As Accurate as Artillery
"Our bombardier planes," Colonel Palmer explains, "can now produce the same accuracy as artillery and even greater effect."

Flora are taught not only how to fly but how to fly a bombing mission. There is a vast difference, Colonel Palmer says, between a pilot to make two-minute runs over a target. This time is now reduced in training by more than 80 per cent.

The bombers take evasive action, which means that they fly courses intended to puzzle both ground defense and interceptor planes. Training now simulates every combat problem, except fighter plane attack and the business caused by near misses of anti-aircraft fire.

"The commanders of tactical bombardment groups have been asked," Colonel Palmer says, "to find it difficult to believe that we no longer qualify cadets with scores which were considered very satisfactory for precision bombing a short time ago."

The University of Pavia, Italy, was founded in 825.
