2ND FRONT DELAY MAY BE SERIOUS

By Harrison Salisbury
LONDON, Aug. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt and British Premier Churchill decide against a major second front operation this year, in favor of a major offensive in the Mediterranean.

The Russians already have made it eloquently plain that anything less than an attack directed at the German divisions—one-quarter to one-third of the total—will be regarded with indifference.

There also is the fact that in such countries as France, the underground movement is still with increasing difficulty due to mass deportations.

It is most likely that the considerable psychological edge which the allies have been gaining in the past few weeks would be blunted if present success were not followed up by more energetic operations.

The basic strategic decision which opens the present situation is that Mr. Roosevelt is in which theater the next major allied punch is going to be delivered.

With the heavy concentrations required for a major offensive, there are the question of whether the allies could simultaneously mount a huge attack from Italy toward the Balkans.

There are political as well as military questions involved in the decision facing the two leaders.

The issue of relations with Russia already has been well publicized by the absence of Josef Stalin as well as the indications of the perfect Anglo-American alliance.

There have been suggestions that the Russians feel further delay in opening a major second front would be more closely related to the post-war political situation in Europe than present relative military aspects.

INVASION SHIPS ESCAPE BOMBING

By FRANK TREMANN
HEADQUARTERS, U. S. AMPHIBIOUS FORCES, SOUTH PACIFIC, Aug. 17 (AP)—The three lightly armed navy cargo vessels and two destroyer escorts were subjected to one of the most sustained aerial attacks of the south Pacific war during and following the invasion of Vella Lavella island last Sunday, it was revealed today.

American planes carried out 13 bombing and strafing attacks against the ships over a period of 45 hours, but damage was minor and there were only two casualties.

The commander of this small group of ships revealed that they not only carried out their mission under the most difficult conditions, but also shot down eight to 12 enemy planes and damaged several others.

Of the 12 attacks made on the small unit, four were launched while the cargo vessels were beached and unloading.

Japs Wasted Lot of Lead
The hectic, hard fighting fast talking, gray thatched commander, explaining that the ships were boxed in a narrow area along the beach, told me I don't think any group of ships with such little speed were ever bombed so much and came out with practically no damage. The only loss was a lot of lead and caught lots of lead.

The success of the ships' defense against the attacks was attributed to their ability to concentrate a large amount of firepower.

"The Japs didn't respect our firepower," he said.

"The most wonderful thing about the operation was that they used our ships, our cargo, ourselves and completed the job despite the attacks."

The first attack occurred at 8:15 a. m. when about 40 planes of an unknown number of divebombers strafed and bombed the little group of ships, most of which was strafed by bombs.

Called "Miracle"
"It was a miracle it wasn't hit," the commander said.

Anti-aircraft guns and fighters knocked down 17 of the raiders, he said.

The second attack came at 12:37 p. m. from dive and high level bombers which strafed the commander's flagship. In mid-afternoon, 12 zeroes made a strafing attack.

"We could see two divebombers pulling up at points at each end of the beach firing flat trajectory," he said. "They did zeroes came around each zero—didn't know we were there a reception of fire."

Members strafed for the third onslaught at about 5:30 p. m., but most of their bombs hit the beach.

The first night attack came while the ships were passing through Cinc Strait.

Then followed eight attacks in the next three hours. Bombs crashed around the slow-moving ships, but there were no direct hits.

FOR VISIT CANADA CAPITAL

OTTAWA, Aug. 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt's visit to the Canadian capital next week will mark the first occasion a President of the United States has come to Ottawa. The trip will be in return for many visits by Canadian state leaders, government officials, prime ministers and the king and queen to Washington.

Details of the visit were announced today as a head of a state, the President will be the guest of the governor-general, the Earl of Athlone, at government house. He comes at the governor-general's invitation.

While President Roosevelt has not been in Ottawa before, he has been close to the capital. Five years ago he was in Kingston, Ont., where he made his declaration that the United States would "not stand idly by" if the domination of Canadian life by a foreign power was threatened.

That statement marked the first public utterance forecasting the unity of interest which now binds the United States to Canada and the rest of the empire.

It is believed President's visit will be a courtesy one and that most official business will be transacted at Quebec.

So far as could be learned, machinery had not yet been in motion to call members of parliament to Ottawa for either a formal or informal meeting. Members are scheduled to meet in Ottawa in the fall.

Members of parliament were not in session.

Mrs. Brennan told the court that Catherine, seven children, was difficult to manage. "I couldn't watch the six other children and her," she said. "My husband works nights and she runs away."

Detective Richard Scott, who said he discovered the girl after neighbors notified police, said Catherine told him she had been taken from the shed "only to do the family washing and then they let me every day. I had two cats and a cup of tea."

CAUGHT SHORT

The war production board is reported to have laid off a large number of informally, they may have to shift from grain to molasses. Such conversion is delayed by the fact that tankers would be needed to bring the molasses and the annex tankers necessary to take gasoline to our invasion troops all over the world.

It develops that, instead of there being a shortage of grain available for the manufacture of butadiene for synthetic rubber, there isn't even enough grain for industrial alcohol for other war uses without taking it from stock-feeders and housewives.

Our current butadiene program calls for 230,000 short tons to be made from grain alcohol. Rubber producers have been asked to reduce the synthetic program may be held up by the increasing grain shortage. They have been told that alcohol will be provided for the butadiene plants. But some of them wonder if the increase in the time it takes to come down on grain for eating and for feeding livestock and hogs, there won't be a lot of produce against such diversion.

As for the oil shortage, there is going to be trouble because we relied so heavily upon grain as a source for butadiene.

That reliance was at least partly the result of a lack of synthetic rubber. There was supposed to be a surplus of grain, and did not look ahead to the heavy demands we now face and the greater one that must be met by the synthetic rubber industry.

STRAIGHT FROM SHOULDER

The Beltinger Rubber company has performed a real public service by informing motorists, flitely and with excited reasons, why they must not expect a floor of tires in the near future. "Take extra care of your tires," the company advises; because it will be the end of next year before synthetic tires will be available in sufficient quantities to keep all essential cars and trucks on the road.

OVER-OPTIMISM AGAIN

Once more, this time because of the feeble optimistic reports from Sicily, there is a wave of over-optimism sweeping the United States. It is easy to find optimists wondering whether we might not even win the war in Europe before Christmas.

It is also a matter of fact that the Germans, now are the Germans prepared to go all out for the Italians. Without doubt, all propaganda is brighter now than at any time in the past. The industry is being deceived.

Servicemen's Tax Regulations Told

The current tax payment act of 1943 does not provide for the withholding of tax from the source from the active-service pay of members of the military or naval forces of the United States, according to an announcement by John R. Wiley, Boise, collector of internal revenue.

"For this reason," said Wiley, "such members will be required to file a declaration of estimated income and victory tax on or before Feb. 15, 1943, if they meet the following requirements:

- "Every individual whose 1942 wages were greater than his 1942 salary and who was reported to file all income taxes for 1942;
- "Every individual whose gross income for 1942 was more than $2,700 (or was subject to withholding); or

BOTT PROTESTS INFESTED WHEAT

BOISE, Aug. 19 (AP)—Gov. C. A. Bottelorn last night asked Attorney General Earl H. Miller to determine whether the state of Idaho can take action against federal bureaucrats who are responsible for large quantities of food which are being hoarded by the state seed laboratory. He certified the hoarding of seed which is being held in excess of the second in which he took issue with federal agencies which are affecting Idaho farmers. He had announced a conference for Friday morning to determine whether Idaho is being discriminated against on the matter of federal projects by some federal bureaucrats and if so why.

In a sharp protest statement he branded the seed problem "an outrageous and it resulted from 'un-American' practices for dumping of noxious weed grains" by the governmental units.

Idaho placed a quarantine in effect against such shipments earlier in the summer when similar weeds were found in the wheat, and under terms of the quarantine, the state and the federal government credit corporations were to have the wheat inspected and then the quarantine lifted as to shipments so that additional inspections could be made in Idaho.

"I have now been informed that certain such seed is being hoarded with four varieties of weed seed, was brought into our state without our knowledge," said the governor.

He added that the car of wheat was unloaded at Idaho before the infestation was discovered.

"We found wild morning glory, chickweed, and other weeds in lettuce seed in the wheat in large quantities," said the governor.

"We are spending thousands of dollars every year for the control of noxious weeds, and the federal bureaucrats break their agreement and ship in such infested wheat out of our state," he said.

"I am not going to permit such infested wheat to be shipped into our state," he said. "I have asked Attorney General Miller to advise me on whether we can take action against those who are responsible for this outrage."

"The source of the state will be called into service, if necessary, to stop this practice. We are going to stop this unfair and unethical dumping of noxious weed grains into our state."

Gadget Protects Pea Crop

The photo above shows how C. W. Werner, Hansen farmer, uses a sheet metal cylinder on his tractor to compress wind-blown peas and to prevent blowing. This cylinder inserts eight inches from the individual tractor and mowing equipment. (Staff Engineer)

Famer's $7.50 Gadget Worth Lots More in Saving Pea Crop

How a gadget idea conceived in the mind of a farmer saved several hundred dollars worth of peas when tornado-like blow cut them. This July 31 is recalled by C. W. Werner, Hansen community farmer.

Werner, who had worried at the susceptibility to wind of his pea crop, with their characteristic bluffs when cut and laid in windrows. A couple of days ahead of the severe blow he decided what should be done. He ordered the fabricating of a sheet metal cylinder 28 inches in length and approximately 20 inches in diameter. One end of this he fastened to the wheel of his tractor in the manner shown in the accompanying photograph.

On operating the cylinder travels eight inches from the ground, and runs along the last windrow as each new swath is cut. This compresses the peas in the windrow, and makes them much less liable to blow. Werner had cut about a fourth of his 10-acre field of peas when he thought of the contrivance, and had it made before continuing. It worked so well that he went out the next day and rolled the peas he had cut before and stalling it on his tractor. He says it saved $2,000 damage to peas owned by R. A. Bodenbender, who lives on the north side, and the wind blew hard in Werner's neighborhood.

ADVERTISING OF SPUDS BOOSTED

BOISE, Aug. 19 (AP)—Idaho will boost its potato advertising program harder than ever in 1949-49. Harvey Schwendman, chairman of the Idaho advertising commission, said because of the record U. S. crop of spuds this year.

"Much emphasis is being placed on moving the early russet crop this year through trade paper advertising and letters to the jobbing trade," Schwendman said, in explaining the promotion for the early russet crop.

A plan to begin advertising this week to over 2,000 jobbers, brokers and chain store headquarters using letters to jobbers in Idaho potato seed, to store russet for future sales, and to write to the advertising commission for free store banners.

The advertisement in the packer, produce trade publication, will run weekly throughout the season.

Advertising of the late russet crop, usually scheduled for about Nov. 1, will probably begin two or three weeks earlier this year with a heavier schedule of newspaper advertisements in more markets than last season.

Wallahe 'Clears' Most Big Firms

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Vice-presidents of Wallahe today congratulated 93 or even 99 per cent of corporations from his recent denunciation of big business but warned that "the common folk" must see through the propaganda of those who are demanding a return to "old fashioned Americanism."

"By free enterprise they really mean free enterprise for big business, but not for little business."

"The vital for the people who buy from the corporations, who sell to them, who work for them—their most serious threat is the propaganda of certain of the big corporations."

TRUCK CROPS IN STATE PROGRESS

BOISE, Aug. 19 (AP)—Idaho truck crops made fair to good progress in the first half of August, the U. S. bureau of agricultural economics said.

Some white Spanish onions were being dug Aug. 18 and the first yellow Aug. 19. Fields were not expected to average much greater than in 1942.

Lettuce was getting off to a good start and early fields are being thinned, with an expanded acreage in districts. ### CONGRESS TO GET VOICE IN PACTS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—A compromise between congress and the executive departments to give the legislators a voice in temporary post-war agreements appears in the making.

Some officials had favored handling them without reference to congress. But some legislators had contended such agreements would be treated and must be approved by a two-thirds vote of the senate.

Under the proposed compromise, such questions of international cooperation as must be arranged in advance of a final peace treaty would be handled by an "agreement" subject to congressional approval by a mere majority of both sides.

Senator Green, D. R. I., reported the first concrete movement in that direction in announcing that a senate foreign relations subcommittee had decided on that procedure for a proposed pact for cooperative rehabilitation of war-devastated countries.

He said the proposed pact had been discussed by the subcommittee with Secretary of State Hull and the state department that congressional approval "would have to be obtained" before any agreement is to be made to implement the agreement.

Asked about the pact with the executive branch, Green said a press conference they were part of the effort being made to promote closer cooperation between the legislative and executive branches of the government.

Green said that the state department had nearly completed drafting the pact covering the machinery for the cooperative relief and rehabilitation in areas freed from war devastation. It will be submitted to other participating governments before presentation to congress.

DEHYDRATOR FOR JEROME CANNERY

JEROME, Aug. 19—A fruit and vegetable dehydrator has been installed in the cannery's kitchen in Jerome, and will be available for anyone who wishes to preserve foods by this method.

Mrs. Florence Schullz, district home demonstration agent, will be at the kitchen each forenoon from Friday, Aug. 20 to Wednesday, Aug. 25, to assist anyone with operation of the dehydrator.

The dehydrator method of preserving fruits and vegetables is said to be becoming very popular. Advantages of the method are that the final product requires very little space for storage, the storage containers are cheap and easy to secure, and a maximum of food elements is preserved.

A leaflet giving instructions on "Preservation of Fruits and Vegetables by Drying" is available at the county agent's office.

Jerome's canning kitchen is now ready to accommodate local residents who wish to take advantage of the canning equipment, installed this week, officials reported.

Women who wish to use the canning kitchen will make their reservations through Mrs. C. D. York before coming to the kitchen. Hours are from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. week-days including Saturdays.

Breads, corn, beans, greens and carrots as well as tomatoes are being canned.

Arrested

The arrest of 23-year-old Barbara Egan, above, of Oakland, Calif., charged with illegal possession of 2.94 gaudium ration stamps, brought to light existence of a ring with at least $5,000 stolen "A" gasoline coupons in its possession. The girl pleaded not guilty to the charge.

PEOPLE REFUSE FREE TRAINING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—3600 are so plentiful that it is not possible to take the government's free training for skilled work.

Because of this, War Manpower Commission Chairman Paul V. Nitze instructed regional directors of the agency today to urge war goods producers to pay learners' wages to trainees—if necessary to get them to take courses.

The WMO bureau of training reports that enrollments in training courses in public vocational schools, which are free, but carry no pay-increment, dropped from 104,000 in April, 1942, to 40,000 in April, 1943, and were down to 42,000 at the end of June, the last month for which figures are available.

Part of this fall was due, it explained, to the fact that many employers, impressed by the resistance to unpaid training, have been putting in and more trainees on the payroll.

Enrollment for "supplementary" training courses, given to persons already on somebody's payroll, increased from 89,640 in April, 1942, to 100,000 in June, 1943.

Work Slowed by Lack of Material

JEROME, Aug. 19—The construction work on the Jerome dehydrator plant has been considerably slowed by the lack of building materials, it was announced.

However, a carload of badly needed lumber is expected to arrive this week. Women are busy picking up and being stowed in the building, which when completed will have capacity of 150 carloads of potatoes and onions.

Applications for women who wish to work in the plant are still being considered. All women should apply through the local office in Jerome.

The plant is expected to be finished by early September.

Not a drop of whiskey has been made in months...

America's great distilleries are working 24 hours a day, 7 days a week producing nothing but alcohol for war purposes...

That's why the present supply is limited...

THAT'S WHY RATIONING IS NECESSARY IN IDAHO...

Probably you've asked yourself these questions...put them up to your friends or to the clerk in the liquor store:

What's behind this whiskey rationing?
 Why can't I buy as much as I did formerly?
 These are fair questions. They deserve honest answers, based on facts like these:

- The distilling facilities of the entire beverage distilling industry have been engaged 100% in producing alcohol for war purposes since last fall.
- This alcohol is vital to America's all-out war effort, since it is used in making smokeless powder, synthetic rubber, chemical warfare materials and medical supplies.
- The only reason any whiskey is available today is because, long before Pearl Harbor, normal stocks were laid away annually to mature and mellow.
- The supply of mature and maturing whiskey in this country, as of February 28, 1943, totaled approximately 400,000 gallons (after adjustment for proof and allowance for evaporation).
- But...not all of this supply is available now. Part of it will not mature until 1946.
- part until 1945, part until 1944 and part in 1943. And...a post-war reserve is necessary to avoid a one-day period while new whiskey, made after the war, is maturing.
- At the present rate of demand the entire 400,000,000 gallons (including even the immature stocks) would be exhausted in about two years.
- Rationing, therefore, is imperative if this limited and unreplaceable supply of whiskey is to last for the duration...if long lines in front of liquor stores are to be eliminated...if the available supply is to be fairly and equally distributed to all who desire it.
- Rationing in this state will be on a share-and-share-alike basis. You won't be able to buy as much whiskey as you formerly did, of course. But what you do get will be good whiskey...legal whiskey (tax paid)...made by reputable distillers.

So we should buy in moderation...drink in moderation...and Idaho's rationing will work to the benefit of all.

IN THIS FIELD HOSPITAL, somewhere in the jungles of New Guinea, war-alcohol plays a mercurial role. For it is used in making medical supplies that alleviate pain, combat infection, ease heroic lives.

THIS FLYING PORTRESS is Berlin-bound. Its bomb racks loaded with block-busters. And it flies from end to end runway on a line of synthetic rubber, much of which has war-alcohol for its base.

THIS SUBMARINE is hunting the Pacific for quality potato peels. And when a ship slip is sighted, and the coil to battle stations sounds, war-alcohol helps propel the Yankee torpedo.

THIS GENERAL SHERMAN tank comes dead with glory in the sands of Tunisia. And the shells strewn on the Pacific Axis columns were fired by synthetic powder, made from war-alcohol.

NAZIS' FALL IN 1944 PREDICTED

By FRANK L. MARTIN
 NEW DELHI, June 10 (Delayed) (AP)—First World War—The German leader told several thousand young American officers and men gathered in India today that they were "a lot better" than he was when he was shooting down German planes over France. He predicted that the British would conquer a few months, Germany would follow in the fall of 1944, and Japan would crack in 1945.

While visiting most of the American and British officers and pilots gathered the younger pilots and ground crew around him much like a football coach calls in his squad for a pep talk.

In the shade of a tree, under the wing of a plane, or wherever soldiers gathered informally, "wick" speakers told them their outstanding work against the Japanese in Burma, and told them their handouts about what their counterparts were doing to other members of the axis on the other side of the globe.

To officers and men in Delhi he predicted that the part of the world would play in the future allied strategy in crushing Germany and Japan, and that the already suffering industrial cities of Germany and other parts of Europe were being bombed day by day, he said.

He said a new bomber will join Liberators and Flying Fortresses and will be the determining factor in crushing Germany, Rickmanbocker declared. He told members of the 10th TAF that this new super fortress of the air is especially designed for bombing Europe and will have double the load and fighting power of the planes they are flying out here now.

No nation could survive the pounding of a fleet of these planes can get where they will be in the coming year, Rickmanbocker said.

Umbrella Man

Octogenarian Sam Goldman of Chicago makes up an eloquent rant against the war in a circuit court where Judge Isaac Twiss, who has been castigating them from cradle to each other.

SOLDIERS LOSING FAITH IN HITLER

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 10 (AP)—German residents of Hamburg were restless, and many had soldiers fighting on the Russian front no longer believe Hitler can lead them to victory, a 20-year-old Swede just returned from Hamburg from the eastern front said but many have.

Sigfried Forberg, who got out of the German army when his mother discovered that by a previous marriage her son was still a Swedish Volunteer, said in the record of the bombing of Hamburg.

He gave the newspaper Dagens Nyheter a picture of the conditions in Hamburg and on the eastern front.

"I lived in Hamburg for 10 years, and as I bicycled around the city following the radio I was told that 10 per cent of the town was undamaged, but it looked to me like everything was destroyed."

"You couldn't recognize the town. Even before the last attack, the people wanted peace, and after that everyone was saying: 'The only thing one now wants is peace.'"

"It is a common sight now to see a picture thrown into the street."

Hit attacks against Germany have changed the attitude of soldiers fighting on the eastern front. Their morale is still good, but they are weary about what is happening back home. They still respect Hitler, but they don't believe he can lead them to victory."

Forberg said that it and 16 year old boys were fighting in the southwest of Leningrad, indicating the strain placed on the military command supply.

He said that as he was returning from Russia, through Poland, he found the Poles still fighting the Germans, even snuffing hand grenades at them on the streets of Warsaw.

NAVY PHYSICIANS DOCTOR NATIVES

SEGL, New Georgia, Aug. 11 (Delayed) (AP)—In thimble built that serve as clinics and in the country where navy doctors travel on relation of mercy, the white man is building up a great reputation for good deeds among the New Georgia Vaganut natives.

I saw American doctors at work on Vaganut Island, just across the southern tip of New Georgia, and I thought this is the good neighbor policy in practice thousands of miles away from our own backyard.

I went there with two navy doctors, Lieut. Wilkie Hoover, Tulsa, Okla., and Lieut. J. P. Lusk, Chicago, on market day—the day set aside for the treatment of natives for all kinds of contagious skin diseases.

For five hours, natives of all ages moved through the thimble built clinic—and for five hours without rest, the white man is building up a great reputation for good deeds among the New Georgia Vaganut natives.

The Indians didn't like it one bit, but natives from six years up to 100 years old were lined up to see a whimper, Lieutenant Hoover explained they had been accustomed to treatment by medical missionaries before the latter had fled from the Japanese. The skin disease had broken out and spread widely again, so the natives were glad to have the new treatments.

Dr. Lusk crossed the island on foot with a native guide to treat two girls who had been shot in the legs by a Japanese officer several days before. Without the skin ointment treatment of American medical officers, both girls would have been dead by now.

The original Order of the Purple Heart consisted of purple aprigged silk edged with silver braid, and was worn on left breast of the uniform. The present decoration is a gold heart-shaped medal bearing a bust of General Washington on a field of purple enamel.

STRANGE DISEASE FOUND IN TEXAS

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP)—A new disease called bull fever, which was found in Texas and evidently is transmitted by a tick, was described in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The report was made by Col. John C. Woodland, Maj. Norwood J. McDowell and Capt. John T. Richards of the army medical corps, who said the disease was first recognized at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. They said the disease resembles Colorado tick fever in some respects, but also might be confused with other disease conditions, such as malaria.

The physicians found the disease apparently does not spread easily, and seemed to confer immunity on those contracting it, also no recurrences have been observed.

The disease usually began with a chill, followed by fever, headache, prostration and nausea. Recovery took a long time. The doctors said all the victims had reported and prolonged exposure to bites by a tick called the lone star tick, so named because of the star shaped mark on its back.

Training camps at the naval training station, Farragut, are named for horses of the present war.

300 Men Troop to USO For Evening of Dancing

Well over half of the army air force complement of 600 men who arrived Wednesday and were bivouacked near town for the night were entertained during the afternoon and evening at the Twin Falls USO center.

The largest group of service men at the center consisted of 300 men who were brought by USO hostesses and more than 45 aides.

Though it was impossible to keep an exact count, at least 200 soldiers were at the center sometime during the evening.

Typical USO fashion, Coca Cola, food, ice, lemonade, coffee, cookies and sandwiches were served. During the evening the group managed to stave away the mosquitoes which provided much of the fun for the dancers.

Guests included the Twin Falls girls found that as they large group of army men, the soldiers seemed to respect the corner of the nation. The khaki clad men found the music and dancing to be a most enjoyable place and a pretty well run.

Dance started at 11:30 p.m. as the men were to be back in camp at midnight.

Strenuously appreciative, the soldiers boozed the hostesses with thanks—"I've had a lot of fun in the army," really said to be on a floor again.

Mr. Harold L. Frank, commanding officer, praised the USO for its efforts to show his men a fine time, during their brief stop in Twin Falls.

The air force group and its 500-vehicle convoy of trucks, jeeps and cars camped at Joyce park, overnight. Many of the men enjoyed the Harmon pool swimming pool and dozens used the park facilities for volleyball. The convoy departed early Thursday.

CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

When the experts write about the care of children, they are obliged to be definite and positive so that the words they set down seem laws. In the majority of cases they are laws but always, where children's growth comes into question, there must be made for the particular child concerned.

The rule would say, every child should have milk every day, but somebody's child cannot digest milk. Let your no be no and your yes be yes so that the child learns to respect the word "no" as final. It is all human and prone to error. The child who is not to be fed, perhaps because each child and each circumstance differs from all others in every field of human activity.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Sister Elizabeth Kenny appealed to medical authorities last night for more widespread use of the infantile paralysis treatment with which she is associated the medical world four years ago.

AIR DRIVE LOOMS AGAINST RABAU

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Officially today mediated an aerial attack against Rabaul, Japan's key defense bastion in the southwest Pacific, as the result of the American advance in the Solomon Islands.

The newly acquired base in the Solomons will permit a two-way air assault on Rabaul, they said.

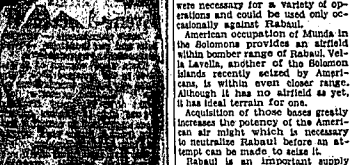

The only raids made on Rabaul so far have been carried out by planes based in New Guinea. Those planes were necessary for a variety of operations and could be used only occasionally against Rabaul.

American occupation of Munda in the Solomons provides an airfield within bomber range of Rabaul. Vella Lavella, another of the Solomons islands recently seized by Americans, is within even closer range. Although it has no airfield as yet, it has ideal terrain.

Acquisition of those bases greatly increases the range of American air power. It is the key to the Japanese stronghold defense line now extending from northern New Guinea to New Britain and New Ireland and to the Solomons.

Sherman, who is now on a visit to Washington, said that both Munda and Vella Lavella are within bombing range of Rabaul.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1943, 2,223,000,000 tickets were in circulation in the United States.

The women have taken over in another field. At the opening of the California state convention of the American Legion in San Francisco, Polly Maguire, of San Jose, first woman sergeant-at-arms of the convention, received congratulations from state commander Leon Kapelle of Stockton.

INDIANS ROSE OUT YAKKEES TWICE

Heath's Homer in 14th Decides Second Game

CLEVELAND, Aug. 19 (P) — The New York Yankees ran into an ambush and were scalped twice by the Cleveland Indians, 9-3 and 7-5, in the first and second games of the double-header contest in the 14th inning.

The first game was played in the morning and Heath started the Triple on the trail in the first inning with his 10th home run of the year and his teammates continued their 12-hit assault on four pitchers with four runs in the third and three in the sixth.

However, Lefty Al Smith threw in the last inning and the Yankees came within one of tying the score in five but finishing runs in six was blocked by Joe Gordon's 11th homer.

In the afternoon game the teams reversed the pattern of play with the Yankees leading in the first inning and the Indians scrambling from behind with a ninth inning rally. The difference was that the Indians managed to get three hits on a walk and three extra-base hits, one of them a real beauty, in the seventh inning of Cleveland's seven home runs.

Charlie Keller hit his 20th home run in the 10th inning and the Indians again managed to tie and win in five but finishing runs in six was blocked by Roy Cullenbine to settle the issue.

Many of the city's younger players and were industrial workers, armed forces, and older players who were tournament minded.

Officials announced that entrance fees will be waived to secure refunds at the Times-News business offices.

DEATH WRITES THE LAST EDITION

By Adeline McElfresh

THE STORY: Joe Parker, well-loved editor of the Thames-News, has been found slumped to death. Clem Evans, sports writer, and Pat Ezon, Cleveland, society reporter, search his papers for a clue.

DAVE
CHAPTER II
Pat was sitting at the letter box, had found in Joe Parker's desk when the side door opened and a cold blast of air ushered someone into the room.

"For Pete's sake, hello, there!" said the man, "I've been looking for you. I've been looking for you."

"Dave Ezon," she cried. "So you did come!"

"How are you, Pat?"

"Pat smiled up at him. His hands were the same old thrill through her."

"Never better—until today!" There was a hitch in her throat.

"I know," he nodded, "I caught a plane... Lucky I finished that assignment before he was taken Sunday. Is there a clue?"

"No, sir," Clem Evans answered him. "Not a thing but the knife—no fingerprints on it."

"Listen, you may get that information, Parker, but you'll never find my husband's name here, ruined by a civic-minded paper like yours. My set-up is a gold mine."

Both men snatched at the letter. There's a funny letter on that upper flap, she thought. It's out of line."

"That nodded. She had seen it, too, but—"

"What good will that do?" she asked hopefully. "Where do we start?"

Dave Ezon shook his head. "I don't know," he said. "But we'll do something. We've got to find out what happened. There was a hint of the old Dave in his tone that stirred memories in her heart, memories that she had long made up her mind to forget. Too, she felt little sorry for him—and pity was the last thing in the world she wanted to feel for Dave Ezon."

It was after dark when Dave, Pat and Clem left the Express office. They had finished looking through Joe Parker's desk without success. That one letter seems to be the only bit of evidence in the case, and the possibility that it might prove anything was initially vague. What chance did she have to check over the papers in the room?

Pat sighed as she settled herself in Clem's room. The faint sound registered all the misery and sorrow that had filled her heart since morning.

"Me, too, Pat," Dave managed a crooked grin. He slammed the door shut, locking it to toss out his cigar. "All set, Clem?" he asked when the sports editor slid under the bed.

Evans nodded glumly. "We must make a pretty grim trip," Dave began, trying to make his voice sound light and carefree. "Not a smile in the bunch."

Neither of the other two spoke.

Clem kept his eyes straight ahead. Pat's hands were tightly clasped in her lap so they wouldn't tremble. Clem Evans' voice broke in on his thoughts. "You take the car and drive home. I'll be ready to go in five minutes. I'll be ready for you by the time you get back."

"O. . . But I hate to put you out like this. I could go down to the hotel, Clem."

Clem snorted. "You do that," he said. "And Mary would make life miserable for me. If there's anything she loves, it's company. And when that company happens to be Dave Ezon, well, she'll be back twice, maybe three times."

Dave sighed as he got out of the car to hurry around to the driver's seat. Pat heard him tell Clem he'd be right back.

"You seem to be quite a hero to Clem's wife, Dave."
