Reds Blast Outer Defenses of City For Steady Gains

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The British raid (UP) today the German command had ordered the evacuation of Kiev started from the east. The evacuation from the nazi sixth army at Stalingrad.

MOSCOW, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Russian army's steady widening of its front along the Dnieper river bridges in battles of unparalleled violence, were reported today to have penetrated the semicircular outer defenses and approached the gates of the Ukrainian, Kiev, capital of the USSR.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Oct. 11 (AP)—Plodding forward on foot through Italian mud which made motor transport almost useless and against stiffening German resistance, Fifth Army Gen. Mark W. Clark's fifth army captured Pontelandolfo, 12 miles northwest of Benevento, in a further flanking move against the Volturno river, allied headquarters announced today.

Along the swollen Volturno, where the Allies were steadily widening their front, the Italian army's progress was reported to have been checked by the German's high ground. The American formation was not entirely broken, there was some doubt as to whether the Allies had penetrated the German's high ground. ## TALKS MAY FORCE $50,000 Blaze Guts Creamery at Burley

BURLEY, Oct. 11 (AP)—Firemen were forced to stand impotently by without water early today, while the local plant of the Jerome Cooperative creamery was gutted by flames which caused lost in excess of $50,000, and sent up a column of smoke visible for 10 miles.

The fire was discovered about 6:30 a. m. by Roy E. Elquist, an employee of the creamery company, who had come on duty about 5 a. m. Working on the second floor, Elquist noted a glow of light through a window and saw that the roof was alight at the south end of the building. The origin of the fire covered the boiler room of the plant, and the fire's first appearance there.

The building is located west of Burley, out of the city limits. The fire department sent a crew to the fire, but it did not have sufficient time to reach the worst fire place, which is six and a half blocks from the scene of the conflagration.

The fact that the fire started in the furnace room prevented the fire department from using an alternative source of water, as the boiler room was the only place where water supply was located in the boiler room. Firemen and others still filled the building that milk would continue to be received at the dairy station, with no interruption of service to farmers. It was taken to the company's plants.

By repelling the exclusion laws, he said, "we can correct a historic mistake and silence the distorted Japanese propaganda." The house immigration committee already has approved a bill to repeal the exclusion act of 1912, and Chinese enter this country on a quota basis, and grant citizenship to Chinese not residing in America. About 100 Chinese could enter the United States annually under the new law.

Mr. Roosevelt said that extension of citizenship privileges to the natives of Chinese in the country should be "another meaningful step in the direction of peace." It is no more possible to destroy Germany than it is possible to destroy Russia, he said. The Hitlerite state is possible and necessary.

Kin Told Name Of Victim of Jap Beheading

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 11 (AP)—A minister John Curtin said today that the name of the allied airman who was beheaded recently by the Japanese had been disclosed to his next of kin.

Curtin said it was not the policy of the Australian government to reveal the names of allied airman who were killed by the enemy. He added the name would not be published by the government but the acts of kin could be assured there are no bounds to the sympathy felt for them, which was the purpose of his statement.

The nationality of the airman, who was killed in the presence of Japanese troops on New Guinea, has not been disclosed. The sorting of kin could be assured there are no bounds to the sympathy felt for them, which was the purpose of his statement.

Forts Boost German Air Loss to 300

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Boosting the figure to more than 300 in three days, American Flying Fortress and bomber squadrons Thursday shot down 10 enemy planes yesterday, the air bombers took 300 German bombers and sent them to the ground.

The American jets blasted the important German transportation centers of Muenster and Corvair. The jets bombed two fighters, a communications plane, were lost by the American fighters, which also hit an enemy airfield near Enns, Holland, that blinding clouds of a smoke screen and aerial activity stifled the German's high ground.

DOUBT—The United States will recover hardly any value from the hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of installations which are being thrown around the globe with indifference.

It is extremely doubtful whether the United States will be able to recover any value from the hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of installations which are being thrown around the globe with indifference.

Almost every piece of property—buildings, living quarters, airplanes, railroads, etc.—is being sold for military rather than commercial or permanent consideration. They are located in out-of-the-way places and are receiving little or no attention because they will be bought by the end of the conflict.

The aerial spots from Accra on the African gold coast to Cairo, for example. The line was essential in transporting supplies and personnel to the middle east when the Mediterranean was closed to shipping. It had to be set up for the interior of the continent so that it would not be blocked by Axis planes operating from Rome's bases.

The desert area is unproductive and the comparatively small amount of soil in the south. The inhabitants are too poor and backward to be of any use. While some of the installations would be salvaged eventually, it is probable that the $200,000,000 million dollars spent will be lost.

The conditions applied to almost every other part of America's military base program—in Iceland, Greenland, China, the Caribbean, the Aleutians, etc.—could be applied to the African continent. But it must be kept in mind that there is nothing to be done about it. But the situation does call for a study as to whether this $200,000,000 million dollars is being thrown away in vain.

ERRANDS—The "fourth term" war—David K. Niles—did a disservice to his chief when he persuaded President Roosevelt to call for a new cabinet. The cabinet recommendation that the contract for the Montreal-Havana route be awarded to the Colonial Air Lines, an American firm, was a mistake. The route should have been awarded to the British Overseas Airways Corp., which is a more reliable carrier. It is probable that the $200,000,000 million dollars spent will be lost.

EMPHASIS—Mr. Roosevelt's willingness to listen to "palace advisers" in preference to congressional friends has frequently irritated members of his own party. The fact that he has chosen to ignore the instance of White House disregard of influential politicians.

Two months ago a delegation of representatives from Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia, at the behest of the President, called on Mr. Roosevelt. He explained that legislation relating to the projected new air route had been dropped out before CAFA for three years. He said that he had no intention of changing the international importance of a contract between the Canadian city and the Bahama. The President's decision was a disappointment to the delegation. He specifically promised that he would act quickly. He said that he would act quickly. He said that he would act quickly.

Russo Stars as Yankees Take Fourth Game of Series 2 to 1

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 11 (AP)—The New York Yankees handed the St. Louis Cardinals a 2 to 1 trimming yesterday to take the lead in the 1943 world series by a count of three games to one behind the star pitching and outstanding all round performance of Marius Russo in St. Louis.

Russo, an Italian stringer from Brooklyn, who had been of little use in starting in the American League pennant race this year because of a sore arm, came through with a more than adequate performance. He not only took care of the pitching, but most of the hitting. The St. Louis doubles and the second one led to the winning run after the Cardinals' pitcher had pitched the fourth inning, had come from behind to tie the game.

He was in trouble in the late innings but he always had enough to carry through.

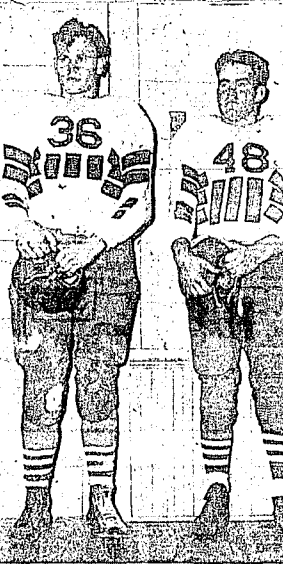

While Russo should have had a chance, the Yankees were knocking down the fouls against Max Lanier, the chunky southpaw who led the Yankees in the opening of the series. He pitched the first three innings, the rookie left-hander more who was charged with relief.

The Yankees had scored off Lanier in the fifth inning, but with better judgment on the part of centerfielder Harry Walker, who has never come out of St. Louis, Joe Gordon, part of last year's series who is leading in this one by a considerable margin, hit a low line fly to left-center. Walker tried to catch it, but he was a double, Bill Dickey, the veteran catcher, immediately singled to center. Gordon scoring, Harry Breen was held to first on his hit but he never could have gotten to second.

The cards were lucky to tie it up in the seventh as Russo infield failed to make a play on a fly ball which should have been caught by center out. Danny Lindner doubled down the right field line, despite the fact two men were out. Russ' batting started and Southworth held him on a line drive to the outfield. He was playing free and easy, would have sent him home, but they chose to let him go.

Marlin Marfan, the Cardinal pitcher, was in a jam. He was hit by Russo in the eighth, but he was not to be troubled. Russo pinch hitting for Lanier, scored on a sacrifice. ## Applying Again Batting Leader

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinals, and Luke Appling, Chicago White Sox, who were at the top of the list in hitting throughout the 1942 season are the National and American League batting champions, final averages have revealed.

This was the second time Appling had won the distinction, but his final average of .324 this year was far under his 288 figure which gave him the title in 1942. Musial's final average was .327, 42 points better than he had in 1942 when he batted .315.

Dick Waderstein, first year man with Detroit, and veteran Billy Herman, Brooklyn, were runner-up in hitting. Waderstein with a figure of .310 and Herman with .311.

Cardinal George National League team fielding laurels with a .968 average, while Detroit was tops in the American with .974. The present-hitting St. Louis club won National League batting honors with .270, while Detroit took the American honors with .261.

St. Louis' George was the only player to win the batting title in both leagues. He had eight defeats with the Cards made his top National League team man, while Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler, 20 decisions and four games as a Yankee made him top batter in the American.

Coach Turns Deaf Ear To "Title" Game Plan

"Just now we're thinking about playing our school and not about post-season championship games."

That was the answer of Coach Hank Powers of the Twin Falls Bruins when asked by a Times-News scribe whether Jerome High had requested that the Bruins and Tigers meet Thanksgiving day for what would be a southern Idaho title game. Any "title" significance, however, would hinge on a Jerome victory over Burley.

The Jerome coach said no such request had been made and that he would turn a deaf ear to the proposal at the present time. Reports from Jerome had said that the student body there had petitioned the faculty to schedule the game with the Bruins.

The Bruins, Turley, Burley, Hoback and Hagerman are the only eleven eleven in the Magic Valley. However, Burley and Twin Falls have played a 20-20 tie game. Jerome has one of the most powerful lineups in its history—a team so powerful, in fact, that it has yet to be defeated. In most games, Coach John Naby has had to use his regulars in only about half of each contest.

The game will be played around 170 points, while in Jerry Dicht, the quarterback, the Bruins have one of the speediest and most elusive backs in the area as shown by his performance against Gooding Friday night.

The victory put Jerome out in front in the Big Seven conference with four victories, one more than Burley, who unbeaten in the conference. The clash between the two is expected to be one of the topnotch attractions of the year.

Bears, Packers, Redskins Win

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Washington Redskins, Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers appeared to be the teams which will fight it out for the National Football League title, all three advancing by victories yesterday.

The Redskins, making their best defense of the 1942 title, handed the Chicago Dodgers a 27-0 shutout before more than 20,000 fans in Washington. Sammy Baugh, who paced the Redskins to victory yesterday, started a perfect performance when his passes resulted in the first two touchdowns and a field goal.

Wilbur Moore ran 28 yards for the first touchdown, and passed to Moore for the last six-point pass. Baugh also accounted for the Bears' 24 triumph over the Green Bay Cardinals.

Bill Luckman, quarterbacking for the winners, was forced to pass in the last half after the supposedly weak Cardinals had the Redskins' Bear ground attack in the first 18-hole match.

Errand for Q-74

By Malcolm Taylor

COPYRIGHT, 1943, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Capt. Raymond Imhof, Q-74, is a pilot who has been assigned to bring electrical material to the front lines. Ensign has been unable to bring out of Germany. The material which Imhof was to parachute into enemy territory is forced down. He discovers the pilot is a girl. They make their way toward Coblenz.

ALL CLEAR
CHAPTER XI
Imhof grew aware of a change in the night, which had been changing at his absorption for some time. He listened and realized the silence. Coblenz, unlit and unlit, the darkness was no longer alive with the flashing lights of warplanes. The field was over, the last bomber gone. A yoo-hoo sounded from the south and Imhof hurried back. Pat had done a good job on the trousers.

"You look as if you'd been dug out of a bomb crater," Imhof approved. Pat smiled a little. "I'm sinking into the ground, the way I feel. I'll have to dig out if I don't get something to eat soon."
"Why didn't you say so before?" Imhof asked. "I'm a pilot, not a paratrooper."
"I've unpacked the old silk and brought both the emergency rations. The two bars of chocolate and some concentrated food tablets. The chocolate was split from the rest of his body and stuck messily to the sides of his pants. He tasted the mints to Pat.

Imhof rolled what was left in the little silk and returned the package to her eye being the cushions of her seat.

"Pretty soon," said Imhof. "We want to be right on the edge of the town when the alarm sounds. That won't be for a bit yet though. Now we better see what we're to do in Coblenz. Clothes for you, of course. Right off. There may be anti-footing patrols out, and if we're not jumping, so we'll have to look sharp. Then we must get rid of this uniform. After that we'll have to hang around unobtrusively till we can get out of the town."

"When you change your clothes," Imhof continued, "you must change your whole personality. Pat, from then on you're my alter-ego, half-brother. You'll have to wear the hat. You're a bad case of bills-shoot—don't know who or where you are. You don't remember your name or address—well, maybe your first name you do. Imhof amended. "You act all dead. When anybody speaks to you, you don't seem to know it, or even hear them, and you don't answer of course. Perhaps you'd better play being actually deaf and dumb. What do you think? Can you do it?"

"I'll suppose so, if I have to," Pat said slowly. "I don't know how good an actress I am." She looked at him with a puzzled, almost a little as she often did when mystified. "I don't quite see the point, though."
"You're a dummy," he explained, "covering up, so people won't know you don't speak German."

Pat threw back her head and laughed merrily.
"But I do speak it!" she gurgled.
"You do?" Imhof shouted joyfully. This was a windfall. "Why didn't you say so?" he exclaimed.
"But you never asked me," she pouted.
Imhof, sobered, her German had to be really good or it would be of little use to meet the demands of the situation.
"Let's see," he said in German, and proceeded to put her through her paces. He found that she spoke far better than he had dared to hope. Fluently and correctly, yet not too elegantly—and, best of all, without a trace of English accent. Yet an accent, just a little, one that puzzled him to identify. Some dialect—Vorarlberger, or was it East Swiss? He asked her about it.

"Every summer the family—"

"No English," Imhof pulled her up, still in German. "You are not to ever breathe a word of English, not even if we're alone, unless I force you to." Pat promised soberly.
"Now what about the family?"

Pat explained. For years the family had summered in Switzerland as paying guests at a certain Swiss household. The practice had begun when the twins were young children and continued up to the outbreak of the war. The boy of English origin, these vacations had been treated upon with the result that neither girl spoke German with a trace of English. But more than that, she had learned to speak German. "Well, I'll be honest," Imhof granted. "Without thinking of a English girl speaking German with a bit of English here or there, it's a disgrace! Well, let's get going," he went on, and they left the amity and started down hill towards the outskirts of Coblenz.

When they came to the municipal cemetery on the edge of the city, Imhof found himself hoping that he would be able to find some becoming clothes for Pat. Some of other in Coblenz. She would do her best, but just. The thought made him turn and look at her. Feeling his gaze on her, Pat turned to meet it. What she saw in his eyes made her lower her eyes, a little breathless.

Suddenly a long sabbath walk was the silent, still, Imhof, springing up. Here we are, said and walking swiftly, they entered Coblenz.

What Are We Fighting For?

ENLIGHTENED men are today giving their all to establish the freedoms required for a constructive and peaceful world. Nations believing in the dignity of man have united to bring order out of chaos—men are giving their lives—families are torn apart—citizens are providing funds and volunteer services to those things which represent the American way of life.

In the end, our rightful cause will prevail. But...

We must strengthen the American home, church, school, and community—and through them the character and physical well-being of today's children who will, in a few short years, be the men and women who must cope with the tremendous problems of the nation and the world. We must give them a good start.

RIGHT HERE IN TWIN FALLS—We have the agencies which supplement the work of the home, church, and school. They have done a good job for years—they can and will do a better job in the future if we provide them with adequate resources.

YOU can help by investing in America's future through your generous subscription to our Community Chest. The Chest's campaign for funds is for the six agencies listed. They will receive all their funds for 1944 through this one all-out campaign.

THE CAMPAIGN IS FOR THESE GROUPS:

$13,000 is the minimum need for 1944

- BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA 30.7%
Thirteen hundred scouts and Cubs are active members of the final Active Area Council which is composed of eight Idaho counties. The Scout Program is for all boys, regardless of creed, color, social, or economic position. Boys and young men from 9 to 20 can be Cubs, Scouts, Explorers, or Air Scouts. This organization has been made Official Dispatch Riders for the Office of War Information. Surveys show there are about three thousand more boys who intensely desire Scouting. To reach these boys quickly this organization needs additional trained manpower which an adequate budget would provide.
- CAMPFIRE GIRLS 10.2%
This organization has eight Campfire groups for older girls and three Blue Bird groups for younger girls. Total membership is over two hundred. Goal for the coming year is to "make Campfire available to every girl who wants it." The girls aid constantly in community projects. The bicycle squadron recently performed valuable transportation service for the U. S. O. and Red Cross. Other community services have been rendered, such as assisting in flower sales, help for the community eating kitchen, care of younger children, and general war-time assistance, including collection of waste fats.
- CHILDREN'S HOME 2.0%
The Children's Home has served the homeless, dependent, and neglected children of Idaho for thirty-one years. This society is non-sectarian and receives children through the Probate Courts of the thirty-four southern counties. The children are placed in good foster homes. During 1942 the society cared for two hundred and thirty-three children. It receives temporary aid cases and extends free care until deserving parents can re-establish their home.
- PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION 12.4%
The Parent-Teacher Association is one of the largest groups in Twin Falls promoting the welfare of children and youth through home, school, and community cooperation. It makes available to underprivileged and undernourished children shoes, clothing, dental and optical care, and milk. Approximately thirty-five thousand bus lunches were served to school children during the school year 1942-43.
- SALVATION ARMY 26.9%
Over eight hundred meetings were held in connection with religious work, youth activities, clubs, social services, victory services, music, and relief. Some of the more important services included street meetings, one week's summer camp, hot and missing persons bureau, gift packets for service men, remaking of discarded garments for distribution, transient aid, subsistence, clothing and fuel. An extensive program of pastoral visitation and religious education was also promoted.
- Y. W. C. A. GIRL RESERVES 12.3%
The Y. W. C. A. and the Girl Reserve are the largest International organizations of Christian women. Their goal is to help girls grow individually in interests, ideals, skills and abilities, and to help them as individuals and as a group to assume responsibility for building a local and world community in line with Christian purpose. They will serve approximately 400 girls during the coming year. Their new home is now well equipped and all girls in the community are urged to take advantage of its facilities. They are steering community service work and war effort. This program has included a successful silk stocking drive, assistance with the rationing program, and war bond and stamp drive.
- YEAR ROUND CHEST EXPENSE 5.3%
This covers the cost of secretarial help, campaign forms and records, reports to subscribers, postage, etc.
