UNCLE SAM, NO. 1 PUBLISHER

Now that the government is placing special emphasis on a salvage campaign to overcome the national paper shortage, Rep. Martin T. Bennett (Missouri) has made an extensive study of the amount of paper the government is using, with the implied suggestion that it should set an example in utilizing conservation of paper comparable to those demanded of newspapers and magazines.

Congressman Bennett has sent the Times-News a copy of a statement he made in the house of representatives recently, in which he said that "Uncle Sam is now the world's No. 1 publisher."

After going to the trouble of getting up what he deems to be the most comprehensive list of government publications ever to be compiled, Congressman Bennett says he was surprised to receive a letter from Elmer Davis, director of the War Relocation Authority, asking for a copy of the list of publications put out by Uncle Sam.

"Mr. Davis, admittedly, has no such list," says Congressman Bennett, "although he has a list of directors of at least 100 agencies and has had some thousands of employees to help him compile an even more comprehensive list than the one I will insert in the Record."

Ever diligent in his duties, the public printer, who according to law is supposed to pass on all printing undertaken by any federal agency, recently admitted before the House Subcommittee on Paper Supply that he had no idea of all the printing being done by Uncle Sam's various agencies. He said, as a matter of fact, that he has been "trying for years" to get that information.

The total of government periodicals known to Congressman Bennett as a result of his survey is 441, including 9 dailies, 45 weeklies and 252 monthlies.

The congressman quotes Mr. Gleggensch himself as authority for the fact that in the last fiscal year, the government agencies used 111 tons or 40 percent more paper than he had consumed in the previous fiscal year—at the same time in Bennett's words that "private publishers have suffered for a long time from a paper shortage and faced with a 23 per cent cut, and the nation is engaged in another scrap paper salvage campaign."

"Some of these (government) periodicals are obviously needed and are required by law," the congressman points out. "Others are not. The only purpose of many of them is to advertise their agencies and their products, and to drum up public and congressional support for a continuation of the respective agency's particular brand of alphabetized bureaucracy."

WITH POINTS IT'S DIFFERENT

There's really no point in arguing the relative qualities of butter and oleomargarine. Give anyone his choice and it's a 10 to 1 cinch he'll take the real McCoy.

Under certain circumstances, however, "oleg" makes competition for the dairy farmers, and they have overlooked no opportunities to put the imitation at every disadvantage.

With the coming of winter, much mix-in to the product, oleomargarine is much more looking concoction at best. The dairyman and butter producers have seen to it that the color been made separately so oleomargarine will have that gleamly complexion.

That may be all well and good, and Idahoans are pretty much convinced that oleomargarine is a poor substitute for real butter. But the fact that the imitation is only legal that the point requirements for oleo would be much lower than for the genuine product.

One can't even want you would think. Not so with the Minnesota County Pomona Grange which has resolved that "We most bitterly resent the present discrimination leveled at the hard-pressed dairy industry by placing the oleo in the same category as butter and against only 4 points on oleomargarine... and we request that the discriminatory practice be at once discontinued by 'levelling off' this point so that butter and oleo are equalized between the two products."

To accomplish one purpose, it seems that oleomargarine is lousy, but for another purpose it seems to be just as good as butter after all.

SPREADING IT THIN

Now the supreme court rules that it is proper for a union to attempt, by picketing and other means, to force a business which has no employees except its proprietors, Mr. Justice Frankfurter feels that it is quite fair for the union to pick the objectionable advertiser upon men who decline to join a union for the purpose of working in their own little cafeteria.

This, say lawyers, is what the court says is. In Justice and common morality, think God, or the devil, or the law, or the long run justice and common morality can change what judges think is the law.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WAREHOUSE

NAIVE—The touted hatch act limiting political expenditures will undo its first real test in next year's national campaign. It is a golden demerit that it is just another meaningless law.

The 20th century hatch act, which is in effect only now, was so new that it did not even exist in the Roosevelt-Wildlife race. For almost four years the clubhouse have been analyzing the law in that time have initiated many bills which would have done as well as the Curnally prohibition of use of labor funds in partisan activity.

The New Mexico senator's statute provides that no "political committee" shall spend more than $250,000 annually. The naive, who think that a legislative two and two make four, figure that this curbs the maximum expenditure in a presidential year at $450,000—three for each national committee.

OUTLAW—Both groups, however, have attacked Kansas as congressional campaign committee. Their attitude, are so indicated. While the N. M. P. has performed some service, the majority's head-quarters, by an act of the legislature, has been a building with a handful of clerks at its head.

There is no practical reason why these agencies could be so interested with the hatch act. The lie-ups would promote efficiency and economy. No amount, that is, except the Hatch act. An expenditure of $250,000, the majority, or a total of another $500,000, the senate, for each national club can pour out for their parties is $1,000,000.

But that isn't all. Both parties have committees in all 48 states, and the majority has a jurisdiction. No law bars against the majority of a million by New York Republicans or Democrats, or by leaders of each party who are communally as the House Island. If the cash holds $250,000, the senate, for each national club, is $1,000,000.

HAMBODDLED—The Connally act plucking union treasuries during periods of political passion was hailed as a salutary step and the likable senator from Texas regarded as a real hero. It was amended at the head of Mississippi John L. Lewis, although the Connally act was a national law.

All in 1936, a year when they could have whipped all London without spending a penny more.

But the act, which was introduced by William H. Hays, has since been amended. It was amended at the head of Mississippi John L. Lewis, although the Connally act was a national law.

When, where and how Turkey will join the war against Germany has been a subject of much speculation. It is obviously on the cards. The meeting of the American, British and Turkish governments in Ankara, Turkey, last week, was more than an implementing of the allied-Russian military joint plan of action.

The meeting of the American, British and Turkish governments in Ankara, Turkey, last week, was more than an implementing of the allied-Russian military joint plan of action.

When, where and how Turkey will join the war against Germany has been a subject of much speculation. It is obviously on the cards. The meeting of the American, British and Turkish governments in Ankara, Turkey, last week, was more than an implementing of the allied-Russian military joint plan of action.

MAKIN ISLE JAPS SLY, ABLE TROOPS

By LEIF ERICKSON
WITH U. S. ARMY FORCES ON MAKIN ISLAND, THE 24 (Delayed) (S) — With the cunning of concealed assault and the resourcefulness of the Japanese Makin garrison besieged the battalion command post of Lieut. Col. Joseph T. Hart in night long attacks the post tonight.

Twenty Japanese were killed in the first attack, led by three officers during an assault on the post. The remainder of the army of an American soldier in a futile but he killed several later by his own sword.

Most of 40 of the enemy wounded crawled away or were engaged off by survivors. None of the wounded prisoners, said Lieut. Col. Joseph T. Hart, was taken prisoner, said Lieut. Col. Joseph T. Hart, N. Y.

Many Wounded later by his own sword.

"Most of them died before our patrols got to them the next day," the colonel said. "Some were killed by our troops on the night of the second attack and some were killed in the first attack. Four Americans were killed and 24 wounded. Japanese killed two were killed, six wounded.

It was in the Monday night opening attack that the Japanese were natives ahead of them, including a woman carrying a bundle on her back. The Americans let the natives through before firing.

"It was the first time boys weren't trigger happy," the colonel said. "It was for the Japs that they kept shooting all night long, from dusk until dawn. It was hell on the ground."

"But my boys did exactly what they were trained to do. They couldn't be any other kind of a situation like that. But there didn't need to be."

Got Plenty of Japs
"As an example of self-discipline, I don't think I was treated as a plenty of Japs with machine guns."

One dressed-up officer reached the door of the command post. The officer said his name was "Colonel" and gashed Antowick, former coal miner on the forearm.

"I don't know his name and hung on to it," Antowick said at dressing station.

"A guy in the next foxhole pulled the Jap in the guts with a carabineer. The Jap fell and he was still struggling. Somebody started beating him on the head with a helmet. Then we finished him by cutting his throat with his own sword."

Cleaned Out Snipers
After daybreak Tuesday, Hart's men advanced to the end of Baker's trail island in the Makin atoll, clearing out snipers and stragglers.

"We found ourselves on some of the dead with some kind of liquor in them," Colonel Hart said.

"I suppose it was the sake that helped make our boys brave." Lieut. Col. Joseph T. Hart, commanding officer of the 24th Infantry, said that the Japanese were well trained with great discipline.

"It looks like they had a secret cache of ammunition to fall back on," he said.

SOLIN SEES GOP CONGRESS IN '44

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP) — A vigorous Hooper, charged with the new task of promoting election of Republicans to Congress in 1944.

"I suppose it was the sake that helped make our boys brave." Lieut. Col. Joseph T. Hart, commanding officer of the 24th Infantry, said that the Japanese were well trained with great discipline.

"It looks like they had a secret cache of ammunition to fall back on," he said.

Present Seen in Vice
Recalling that it was not many years ago that Republican office representatives was down to 88, Hallock said in an interview that the record series of victories won by GOP congressional candidates would become even more dominant next year "as the people register their preference."

His present strength has nothing straight in the house," Hallock said. "And I think that we have been responsible for his people's returned confidence in their congress."

He said his primary responsibility would be the reelection in 1944 of Republican House members and he was confident there would be no stumbling blocks, he said, to that phase of the work ahead, and he added:

Victory Predicted
"We're sure that we are going to have a heavy number of new seats in the House. I don't think we will have to speak in terms of numbers. They will be many."

Hallock said he was not concerned whether the Republican and Democratic campaign plans would be identical.

"I do think, however, that we should be before the people on a sound program and tell them just what we intend to do," Hallock said.

Two of the Jerome brothers have been in the news recently, with Lieut. Elvin V. Maddox promoted from second to first lieutenant in the medical administrative corps at Fitzsimons hospital, Denver, and Lieut. Harlan G. Maddox, graduating at Stockton field, Calif., as a second lieutenant. He is now a pilot at Walter field, Calif. Both youths are sons of Mrs. Marjorie Maddox, former wife of Lieut. Harlan Maddox by army air corps—both staff sergeants.

Marine Pilot's Plane Hasn't Bullet Hole After Nine Raids

(The following story was written by Second Lieut. William K. Holt, U. S. M. C. of Clarkburg, W. Va.)

QUADALCANAL — (Delayed) — Lieut. Richard B. Elliott, 22-year-old marine corps pilot from Twin Falls, Idaho, scrambled out of the fourth Panhandle dive bomber the other day and went over every inch of it looking for bullet or shrapnel holes.

"Nary a hole," he grinned after a quick check of the fuselage. "I checked the first nine raids on the island and I haven't picked up a bullet yet."

The marine pilot, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Elliott, of 101 Taylor street, Twin Falls, had just completed his ninth dive bombing raid deep into Japanese-held territory.

Despite intense anti-aircraft fire on every occasion, he is one of the few pilots minus a bullet scar. "That raid today had me scared," Lieutenant Elliott admitted. "I was pretty good of my record of not getting hit, and I was looking for a bullet all around. I don't see how I got through that one without an arrow in my tail. Mine is on the wing."

Since his arrival in the south Pacific combat zone last March, Lieutenant Elliott has participated in 10 Japanese positions on Guadalcanal, Kolombangara and New Georgia Islands, in addition to numerous search, anti-airborne patrol, artillery spotting, and reconnaissance missions.

While attached to another squadron, he participated in the successful dive bombing raids that laid the way for the occupation of Munda airfield.

Since joining his present unit, he has been credited with direct hit on industrial enterprises at the Kaili field, the Japanese strong hold on Bougainville Island, and several air bases, airfields, and troop concentrations on Vila airfield, Kolombangara Island.

Highest Thrill
His greatest thrill came during the attack on Kaili. "My target was a large anti-aircraft gun, surrounded by a cluster of machine gun emplacements," he related. "I used over at about 10,000 feet and placed down three or four big ack-ack puff after another."

"I kept a bead on my target, though, and released at about 2,000 feet. The bomb hit right in the middle of the emplacement. Mine was the big gun way up in the air. As I raced away after my pull-out, I let down my machine gun and had a swell time with the fleeing Japs. They started in all directions following me, but I was able to get away from my tracer. All in all, it was quite an afternoon."

Lieutenant Elliott, a native of Twin Falls, Idaho, is the owner of the Gruff, the four-month-old dog mascot who holds all speed records for dodging the foxhole when the Jap bombers raid the island.

He picked up the mascot pup from a New Zealander's mangled dog, the officer's comrade. Little Gruff's name—a white resting from his first raid on the combat zone.

Lieutenant Elliott enlisted for flight training Nov. 18, 1941, after finishing high school in Lewiston, Idaho, for two years. He won his wings and a pilot's certificate July 18, 1942, at Corpus Christi, Tex.

FARM DELEGATES RAP AT SUBSIDY

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 (AP)—Delegates to the American Farm Bureau Federation's annual meeting Wednesday voted an almost blanket condemnation of the federal government's subsidy programs.

In an all-day forum on food subsidies, and not more than three delegates defended them issued as incentives to urge bigger crops.

Farmers asked for better cooperation between farm organizations and government extension services, and requested that all government bureaucrats dealing with agriculture be instructed under one head for greater efficiency.

Several delegates declared that an "uncertainty" as to what the government wanted was a big production hindrance.

Alan Klotz, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau, declared, "we resent the idea that if we don't accept certain kind of subsidy we're causing inflation. The way to stop that is to let us have a fair market price for our products."

George O'Brien, head of the Nevada Farm Bureau, said "we'll compromise. We'll accept subsidies if the government will make labor strikes an offense punishable by death for the duration of the war."

LEADERS WARN OF LONG, TOUGH WAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Industrial and government leaders Wednesday painted a grim picture of America's production as this year but warned that winning the war will continue to be a relentless, uphill fight.

"The fight in Europe looks to me long, hard, bitter fight," C. E. Wilson, executive vice-chairman of the war production board, said at the 4th annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"I think we are going to be lucky, it will be costly in lives beyond the expectations of most of the American people. The cost in material will be equally heavy."

"Japan will be a tough, dangerous, persistent enemy. If anyone of us still clings to the old notion that the Japanese will be a pushover for us after Germany is knocked out of the war, it is his task to some of the officers and men who have come back from the Pacific theater."

Rear Adm. W. H. P. Blundie, chief of the Bureau of naval industries, who today relinquished that post to go on active sea duty, also advised Americans to prepare for difficult fighting.

"Our victory will not be won without continued efforts equal in devotedness and efficiency to those put forth in our days of the greatest uncertainties," he declared.

Tom M. Glavin, chairman of the Consolidated Paper Aircraft Corporation, told the 4th annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers during the opening session of their three-day conference that prime requisites of peace are proper and adequate industrial peace and cooperation between industry and labor.

Insufficient Trucks, Tires

Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation, said that insufficient tire and truck replacements to meet 1944 requirements might affect the nation's transportation system.

"The shortage of trucks is so acute that it is imperative," he said, "the more diversion of traffic there will be from the truck to the rail and waterway, the more it will be the kind of traffic—seasonal freight—which has been adapted to efficient railroads management."

Leber and industry leaders declared in a discussion that an opportunity to work was the prime post-war goal. All agreed on the necessity for planning now for peace.

Army Refusal to Pay Charges On $2.05 Telegram Irks City

The spirit of cooperation between Twin Falls city officials and U. S. military authorities received its second severe strain within a week when the city had to pay $2.05 telegraph tolls on a message notifying Fort Knox, Ky., of a deserter being held here.

Chief of Police Howard Gillette said the message was sent, charged, collected, to Lieut.-Col. Walden J. Alexander, commanding officer of the Fort Knox unit from which Wesley J. Brea had been absent ten months without his being notified to local officers.

Charges Refused

The telegram company notified Gillette that the message had been charged but that payment of charges had been refused because only prepaid messages are accepted at this point. "The message was charged to the city's account, it being common practice that the sender must pay for a telegraph message on which payment of tolls is refused by the addressee."

Then came a telegram from Fort Knox which asked police to hold Brea until guards arrived to take him in custody. Wednesday the chief of police received another message this one notifying that the guards had left Fort Knox Dec. 8, but not giving the time of their arrival, and asking questions that Brea held.

The army paid for these messages, rather than sending them collect, but this did not ease municipal sentiment at the Fort Knox refusal to pay charges on the first message.

They want a lot of cooperation from civilian authorities in apprehending deserters," said Gillette. "This department is glad to give that kind of cooperation, and will do so to my utmost power. However, it would seem that military authorities should return the courtesy at least to the extent of not causing a city expense."

The other occasion of strained city-army relations was a brief incident that passed quietly and apparently did no permanent damage, but it indicated that city officials still retain the courtesy and assistance for one particular type of approach.

This was the case of a Mountain Home airbase captain who came

Mercury Dips To 11 Degrees In Twin Falls

Two weeks before his scheduled arrival, winter struck the Twin Falls area Thursday morning when official thermometer readings indicated 11 degrees above zero.

The mercury was buffeted by far the coldest of autumn to date, according to the U. S. Bureau of meteorology, and it colder than average deep winter temperatures. The low minimum Friday, 21 degrees caused many motorists trouble in starting cars and in "warming up" engines.

Official forecast calls for "little change in temperature" by Friday morning, but the prediction of "fair" indicates that thermometers may drop again. Warmest point Wednesday was 40 degrees above zero.

Pro Gambling Charge Denied

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Pro football is general and the champion Washington Redskins in particular set out today to clear the air of rumors that gamblers had something to do with some of the surprising upsets this season.

National League officials brushed away the report that players associated with gamblers by calling it "pool hall talk." Nevertheless the league served notice that any pro football player who is investigated "turned out so that any guilty parties could be thrown out of the sport for life."

The league and the Washington management staff inquires had been on an assembly line or out a section game.

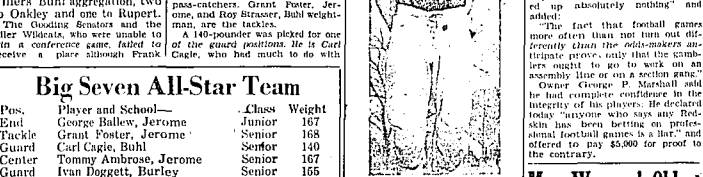

George Stetler, director of public relations for commissioner Eberle Lupton, said his investigation "turned up absolutely nothing" and added:

"The fact that football games more often than not turn out different than the gamblers had predicted proves, just that the gamblers ought to go to work on an assembly line or out a section game."

Owner George P. Marshall said he had complete confidence in the integrity of his players. He declared today "anyone who says any Redskin has been in the casino in professional football games is a liar" and offered to pay $5,000 for proof to the contrary.

PINEBLUFF, N. C., Dec. 9 (AP)—Some golfers turn in their old golf balls to be re-ground, predict Gene Starnes, "mosses will be shaved, pins will be out of balls and players will be scolding at potatoes."

The shortage of balls is "terribly serious," the former American and British open champion said on a call here, and threatens to become the sport's biggest problem next season unless players cooperate in having their used ones made over.

Starnes plans to enter the Miami open tournament later this month.

Edward J. Neil Trophy Awarded 4,019 Boxers in Armed Forces

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—The 4,019 boxers who have traded in their ring trunks for uniforms in Uncle Sam's armed forces have been awarded the 1943 Edward J. Neil memorial plaque by the boxing association of New York for outstanding service to the sport.

The trophy, established in memory of the Associated Press sports writer and war correspondent who was killed during the war in Spain in 1938, will be awarded in the name of the "Fighting Boxers" at the association's annual dinner Jan. 19 and will be hung in their name in the lobby of Madison Square Garden.

This annual Neil trophy will be awarded by a committee of boxers representing every branch of the armed forces and is being awarded in the name of all boxers, past or present, who have served or are serving the United States.

Available records show 10 boxers have been killed in action; seven others have met accidental death since entering the military; nine are missing in action and some 40 have been wounded. About 500 are serving on boats and more than 100 are in camps in this country, at bases here and overseas and aboard the 74th battle group.

In making the award to the group of 4,019—and to some who may not be in the service during the boxing writers departed for the first time from the custom of giving the bronze plaque to an individual, Dick Dempsey was the first, followed by Billy Conn, Gene Armstrong, Joe Louis, and last year, Andrew Marolt.

Walters Has Operation Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9 (AP)—Bucky Walters, star pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds, had his appendix removed in St. Louis, and was reported "in some pain" but progressing normally.

Walters was to have gone to Alaska with Frank Frisch, manager of the Boston Braves and pitcher in Sam Muel of the Cardinals; Frank Barney of the Yankees and Dick Walker of the Dodgers, but decided on the operation instead.
