All guests were graduates of Jerome high school with the class of 1930.

CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRIZI

"Biddle, come in now." No answer from Eddie, aged three, who goes right on sitting motionless from his chair.

"Eddie, I called you. Come now. It's time for your lunch." Eddie did not look up. His attention stayed on the picture and the ball.

"Eddie, if I have to come after you again today I'm going to give you the hardest spanking you ever got in your life. You hear me? I'm coming right down after you. You'll see what you get. The idea—"

At once Eddie is off and away as if sprung from a trap. His mother runs after him until she catches him in a corner of the yard. She is out of breath and unable to do more than gasp. "Eddie, you know that's wrong. You're scolding me."

Training Routine

Now she has Eddie off by the collar while he resists with all his might. He kicks, he dips his head into the ground, he yells as though he were being murdered and his poor mother is ready to stop. This happens with variations every time Eddie is called into from play. He will have to be reeducated to come at all and that is going to take some time and a good deal of understanding.

Children have to be trained to come when summoned. While he still is a rambler, mother makes a point of seating herself comfortably with nothing else on her mind than this lesson. She has provided herself with a special treat—a cooking a bit of sweet chocolate, something the child will take as a good surprise. Then she calls him, making the first call that he is close to her. He comes at once usually, and gets his reward. Mother does not say it is a reward for coming, she says nothing at all about it and goes her way.

Making it a Habit

If this lesson is repeated daily, often enough to set the habit of coming when he is called, if his coming each time has resulted in pleasure for him, he will come promptly. As he grows in understanding the lesson, his mother makes the distance between him and her greater until she can call him from one end of the house to the other and have his prompt response.

The first time he goes out to play with other children his mother should be nearby when she calls him. If he delays at all, she must go to him and take him gently by the hand and take him into the house. If he has been well-trained previously he will not make a scene.

Should he not come when he is out at play, don't call the second time but go for him and escort him into the house. Children have to be trained by experience, to obey when called.

Letter from Idaho

Idaho January 1, 1944

Dear _____

Thought you'd be interested in how we folks at home are trying to help, so here's a clipping that tells how Idaho Farmers went to bat for you and Uncle Sam last year.

You'll probably want to show your buddies how your state is stacking up in war production. Tell them they can count on Idaho to come through again this year with bigger crops than ever before --- to help bring Victory nearer!

Since "Food fights for Freedom", you can put the Idaho "home front" down in the fighting column. We are doing all we can to back you up!

Love,

P.S.—Another indication of how we're trying to help is Idaho's 1943 purchase of nearly 57 million dollars worth of War Bonds!

Despite drastic handicaps in limited manpower and equipment Idaho farmers find a new, time-honored production method to convert. Although less than usual, wartime crops are into more essential war production, the history of Idaho farmers' production are listed some of the most vital products and latest official production estimates:

Potatoes	43,470,000 bushels
Onions	858,000 100 lb. bags
Wheat	7,200,000 bushels
Barley	12,716,000 tons
Rates	2,320,000 100 lb. bags
Hay	3,320,000 bushels
Dry Beans	358,000 tons
Green Beans	750,000 lbs. (comm)
Soybeans	198,000 bushels
Peas	36,000 pounds
Peanut	14,459,000 head
Cattle	913,000 bushels
*Field Seed	136,477,000 lbs.
*Veg. Seed	Butter, Eggs, etc. (Reports on still incomplete)

* Estimate from authoritative sources. Most total from U. S. Department of Agriculture, annual December forecasts.
