DATA FROM VET HEAD PLANS

POSTER—Jan. 12 (AP)—A plan for a program for rehabilitation of war veterans—including recommendations for job preference and educational—was left today with the Idaho state planning board.

The program was drafted by a committee composed of representatives from the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans. B. F. Rice, executive director of the American Legion, was chairman.

Many returning veterans whose education was disrupted by the war, the committee said, will need to go back on the same basis, with immediate youngsters in the state educational high school and college system.

Study Urged

"Therefore, we recommend that the planning board urge those in charge of schools immediately to begin a study as to how to revise, reorganize and streamline the curriculum and content of study that will be attractive, informative and fill the need for short, special courses that will lead directly into a desirable occupation."

To carry out the plan, the group recommended federal financial aid.

The program asked the planning board also to:

1. Encourage employers to share a portion of responsibility to provide jobs for former employees.
2. Encourage expansion of private industry to provide additional post-war jobs.

Public Projects Seen

3. Perfect plans for public projects to be put into immediate operation at the end of the war to provide adequate jobs.

4. Recommend enactment of a state law giving war veterans preference in employment on public projects.

5. Keep informed of the number of men in the armed services and to furnish counties with estimates of probable local private employment opportunities so they may plan public projects to provide employment for surplus labor.

6. Encourage formation of county and community committees to cooperate with private industry in planning jobs to be cooperative with the planning board in promoting public employment.

Encourage Retirement

7. Encourage persons not normally employed who represented the war for wartime workers to retire from the labor market.

8. Advise workers after the war to refrain from living wages of wartime workers.

9. Recommend that the Idaho legislature revise workers' compensation law to provide more adequate protection for war-hampered persons.

10. Recommend that industries be encouraged to come into Idaho communities, particularly food processing plants, manufacturers and smelters, and that farm and stock raising be developed as a means of providing a more stable economic situation through the operation of seasonal employment.

OPA HEAD FLAYS PRESSURE GROUPS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—President's chief critic in "unscrupulous pressure groups" which "charge the OPA with operating extravagantly at the taxpayers' expense," Administrator Chester Bowles today flayed the "warline" pressure groups.

The OPA's total appropriation for the present year is $155,000,000, Bowles said in a radio broadcast over the Blue network. "In other words only $140 for every man, woman and child in the United States," he said, "a remarkable record in economical operations."

The OPA chief referred to the pressure groups as a "selfish few" who have been "satisfied with the charge higher prices have been granted."

Replying to another charge which he attacked, the "refusal to let the OPA be 'attempting to control prices' and revolutionize our economic system," Bowles stated:

"The businessmen who today are in charge of price making policies throughout OPA are, like myself, interested only in seeing that prices are kept at present levels and that you and your family and neighbors are protected against any unjust increase in your cost of living. The direct control of profits is not and never has been any part of our business."

World Economic Setup Vital To Lasting Peace, Group Told

BY PAT PALMER

Development of a world economic framework as one of the "pillars" for the second series of world citizenship meetings held at the First Presbyterian church in Twin Falls Tuesday evening, Mrs. C. H. Krenzel was speaker.

"The peace must make provision for bringing within the scope of the international agreement those economic and financial aspects of national movements which have widespread international repercussions," she declared.

Difficult Task

"Perhaps all of the peace pillars, which would be directly related to our daily lives and daily economy. For this reason, it will be one of the most difficult, one to accomplish and carry out."

There are two kinds of warfare—military and economic, Mrs. Krenzel said. In both cases, the victims are the common people. Trade restrictions and blockades on foods and other raw materials may be used to starve and weaken a nation and it is safer for the economy to be "well fed."

What happens on the economic front during the year following war has to be provided more adequate protection for war-hampered persons.

10. Recommended that industries be encouraged to come into Idaho communities, particularly food processing plants, manufacturers and smelters, and that farm and stock raising be developed as a means of providing a more stable economic situation through the operation of seasonal employment.

CON SEES GOP BAN ON NEW TAX

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Representative Knutson, R. Minn., read into President Roosevelt's "State of the Union" message today a request for another general tax measure this year, and says that the Republican will oppose higher rates.

Mr. Roosevelt recommended a "realistic tax law—which will tax all assessable profits, both individual and corporate," and added:

"The tax bill now under consideration in the congress does not begin to meet this test."

Some Democrats said privately this might mean the President would veto the tax law now before the senate if it finally comes up with only about $2,000,000,000 of the $10,000,000,000 requested by the administration. They said the President might submit recommendations for new tax legislation.

Knutson said Republicans would oppose another general tax bill in 1944. "Because the treasury," he said, "is the White House," has taken the position that future years in income taxes must come from the lower brackets.

In speaking of the desirability of taxing all assessable profits, both individual and corporate, Knutson said the President apparently had forgotten that present corporate rates are a maximum of 30 per cent, and that war profits of corporations are now taxed at a rate of 50 per cent, which he estimated would in the pending bill to increase to 85 per cent.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK Al Schacht, the baseball thrower, isn't a copy or a pair of comedians in vaudeville who like Schacht and his old partner, Nick DeLuca, to keep their act as rough-hewnly in public but were polished up for television. He's sometimes worse off-stage. In the past he has threatened to punch a reporter too rough-and-tumble. Mr. Schacht says he doesn't know where the trouble came from.

The Washington official, described in an awkward jargon, said that the "undoubtedly" knew that the railroad and steel companies would not be able to pay or another, not to strike, anyway, not for long, but was figuring on the effect on the morale of the enemy's satellites, not this as that obstruction of the war effort.

He said that the railroad men would massacre the leaders and the participants in any discussion of the strike, and that the railroad men would be heartened by our strike news and believe that the principal purpose of the strike was to keep the country apart as the seams. It was a "big" and "big" and "big" explanation that this talk of strikes was the "damned" crime of the "damned" crime of the "damned" crime, and according to William Greer were only a bluff to the railroad men.

"That very night," Mr. Schuchat said, "it happened again. They kicked each other with great vigor and, at the end of the act, bowed off and then they fled. They were dressed in their usual clothing. They were carrying closed the door and each removed a wooden shoe and beat the other over the head but as they did so, each would put a finger to his lips and say, 'Sh-sh-sh!'"

7 use this anecdote in the manner of a 450 speaker at a luncheon club luncheon. The speaker, a member of the people, including the politicians of this beloved republic, is a member of the committee on dental campaign in time of war in the night and hearing of not only the speaker, but also the audience, always the method of the outs who want to get in, to point out the sins, to point out the sins, to point out the power and that cannot be done in private and with a finger to the lips. The speaker, a member of the people, is sure to overlook, and those who are not members of our happy family, are not members of our happy family.

This is a bad time of the year to have any of the above diseases, as well as SINUS trouble and ASTHMA. I had a prominent man come to me for treatment 3 weeks ago with a BAD case of asthma. The day before he to a pressure on nerves, that supply the affected parts, and these nerves are at the base of the skull) after the first treatment he was relieved, after 3 weeks he was back ing is done by my patients, you do not see my name very often in display ads, but most of the time in the classified. Here is a suggestion, take it or leave it—if you do NOT think enough of your body to give it the proper care it deserves—just suffer and let your body run down, soon people will be passing you by and after a while they will have to call a _____ and then they will take you to the _____, then it is just 5 ft.

It is folly to act that way,
— just to make life better,
brighter and happier, call—

IN GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP).—Grains marked time today.

Wheat, oats and barley held with narrow limits in a restricted trade. At one time rye was up a point on commission house buying, but profit-taking toward the close cancelled about all of the upturn.

At the close the market was unchanged.
