'Pravda' Claims British Seeking Separate Peace

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, declared today "there is no truth" in the report published in Pravda, communist party paper in Moscow, that two English officials had conferred secretly with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop on terms of a separate peace.

MOSCOW, Jan. 17 (AP)—The communist party organ Pravda explained a bombshell in allied diplomatic quarters today by publishing a "radio dispatch which said "Two leading British personalities" recently met German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop to discuss "terms of a separate peace with Germany."

Unless the rumor is denied immediately and convincingly, it is not calculated to increase the confidence of the average Soviet citizen in British aid.

The dispatch, from Pravda's own correspondent, said the conference was held secretly at one of the central cities in the Pyrenees along the border of Spain and France.

The report was attributed to "information in reliable circles" and "vague circles" at Cairo.

The meeting had the object of the elucidation of the terms of a separate peace with Germany. It was said to be a win important German communications lines eventually leading to the Baltic for synchronizing the push toward the Baltic.

Eisenhower Reveals Europe Drive Near; Brandy Nomenclature

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The pre-invasion task in Britain already is far advanced, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower disclosed today, even as Gen. Sir John Dillley Wilson hinted at new blows in the Mediterranean, possibly into southern France.

This picture of allied might menacing Hitler from the west and south as well as the east was thrown into sharper focus with the announcement that Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veteran of Tunisia, has become senior American commander in chief in the theater.

Eisenhower, in his first press conference as western invasion commander-in-chief, warmly praised the work of his subordinates in Algeria, declared the front of the "work that has been done in advance of my coming," and lauded the "magnificent" work of the "United Kingdom" in "getting things ready and toughened for any job that lies ahead."

10,000 Feared Argentina 'Quake'

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 17 (AP)—Doctors, nurses and soldiers from all parts of Argentina were mobilized for rescue work today and rushed to provincial capital of San Juan, where thousands were reported killed Saturday night in what may have been the nation's worst earthquake disaster.

Press reports said as many as 10,000 persons lost their lives in the series of tremors which struck suddenly and violently through 10 to 15 miles towns within a 50-mile radius of San Juan, where 90 per cent of the buildings were leveled.

First government figures, telegraphed to President Gen. Pedro P. Ramirez from Argentina by Interior Minister Gen. Cesar Luis Perlinger at San Juan, were more conservative, placing the number of deaths at 500 in that city, perhaps as many as 1,000 in the rest of the province, and 4,000 to 6,000 in the rest of the country.

Reports from the city said San Juan still was without light, power, heat and telephone service. Communications. Emergency medical operations were performed by the army and telephone service was restored by the army.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—A long time ago in Chicago a state's attorney, or county prosecutor named John E. W. Wavman decided that vice must go and, after a long search up the south side area known as the line, where immoral property has been rife for years and years under different names and by common consent.

"Mr. Way was seen in ef-man last night by friends in power and the complaining officers denounced as police spies who were told to give a bad name for smoking a cigarette or showing a little bit of leg."

These part-time, or amateur, communists joined youth movements, consumers' leagues, women's clubs, and leagues, councils and congresses against fascism and for democracy which were, in fact, political diversions or cesspools of corruption. They picked up in a raid, the defence was

Which was reasonably true, although for some time after there were tapplings on the pines along dark streets at night, possibly mere echoes of a long past or the work of ghosts. But Mr. Wayman always that they were just studying art. But, at least, the more hardened and abandoned communists were easily identified by their aulenta and defiant contempt of the American form of government and could always be found where they belonged, which is to say, in the party.

to remain communists just as the dispossessed ladies of the line remained what they were by night although they talked of groceries and fleaky sinks and the care and feeding of children with their unsuspecting neighbors across the back-porch railings during the day.

This is not altogether a new device of the communists. For years, many of them have refused to live within the stockade of the communist party, pretending to be nothing more sporty than liberals or new dealers but committing communism on the quiet in universities, government, bureaus and unions of the scatter.

Gideon Planish

by Sinclair Lewis

THE STORY: As Dean of Kinship College in 1936, Gideon Planish is well-known in demand as a public speaker, and referred to as a "leader of humanitarians." His wife, Penny, is attractive, extravagant and ambitious. It is she who suggests they cash in on his lecture engagements.

Mr. A. J. Joslin had been a country teacher, a country banker, a country editor. He now owned an excellent printing plant in Des Moines, and he was publishing a bi-monthly magazine called Rural Adult Education.

Mr. Joslin had twice heard the inspirational service furnished by Dean Planish, and during January, 1937, he wrote begging the Dean for a few articles. He would pay 2 cents a word. The suggestion came just when the Dean and Penny were looking over the Christmas bills. It was Penny who had had the courage to add them up, and she was grinning. "Believe it or not... I guess it's wither-it or we seem to be $700 in debt."

They looked at Mr. Joslin's letter. They looked at each other. Penny took him by the hand and led him to the corner of the living room where they could see the clock. She pointed to this portable typewriter, and went out to mix him a drink. To telephone to the printer, the dealer that he could send up that leather cushion for him all.

Within three hours, the Dean had written an article on the condensed country high school as a means of preparation for college. Mr. Joslin accepted it and sent a check for $25.00. The Dean made the check over to Penny, and she went out and bought an imitation French porcelain mantel clock. Two weeks later, he wrote some spirited advice to college girls about teaching district school. He received $25.00, and Penny paid a new cleaning bill and bought a lovely thing in the way of a picture map of Iowa.

The Dean was cheered thus into writing a rather larger essay on the important books of the day for his material he had to read clear through the advertisements in the New York Sunday Herald-Tribune, and on the use of college libraries by rural communities. His check for $25.00, Penny banked, unthought. They both felt wonderful over the way in which they were tackling their debts, and in this mood the Dean dashed off a lustrous farm boys earning their way through college.

This check was for only $25.54. Penny took it and went out and ordered a new motor car, a Buick, and paid down part of the price, and this time, when she added up their debts, they came to $1,077.28.

"I just don't know how it happened," she wailed.

"I'm afraid you'll have to stop buying things—for a little while, I mean," treated the Dean.

"Oh, lover, don't be a cross and beat me."

"No, I won't do that. But we both got to restrain ourselves."

Gideon: "Why don't you write an article for Rural Adult about how folks can economize on the farm."

"I've never hardly been on a farm... But I'll write it."

"Oh, goody! That solves everything! And it was my idea, wasn't it?"

Before the end of March, when the faculty appointments for the next school year in Kinship were made definite, Mr. A. J. Joslin wrote to the Dean that he was discharging the editor of Rural Adult, who was a very poor public speaker, and would the Dean like to give up his present job and take the editorship? The employment, it was said among the notice teachers and more ambitious editors, and meaning "wages" called the "honorarium" would be $4,200 a year.

At that, he had been receiving $1,800 a year and, despite a $500 check, and an imputed letter from his father-in-law, he now seemed to be $1,200 in debt. He flattered himself by saying they talked for half an hour; the Dean accepted the editorship by long-distance telephone; then ceremoniously called upon President Buick, to ask whether he could get the editorship.

The President was a little abrupt: "Dean, I'm glad you came. I'd been thinking of asking you to drop in before we confirm the next year's appointments. And the fact is, I think you better take this editorship."

"The fact is, I'm afraid you've outlived your usefulness as an editor," he said.

"You're a good speaker, and very popular with the students, and you've started some interesting novelties—the course in Kinship and the Music Guild and the abolition of haring. That you've seen the fiasco and the Guild failed and, and you haven't done a thing about it. You're not really an executive—you're a promoter—and the activities that you promote aren't very sound. You just dream 'em and let 'em float off in smoke. And you've been increasingly neglectful of scheduling day-by-day details. You haven't even been here very much. So I guess both sides are perfectly satisfied, and we can say farewell with the best of good feelings."

So Gideon Planish firmly set his plume foot upon the upward path that would lead through the miasma of leaving and the black wind of editing to the glory of cloud-ruckus land, yes, even unto the world of committees and conferences and organizations and leagues, if implementing ideas and governing public opinion and molding public opinion and producing informed public opinion and finding the greatest common denominator in all shades of opinion.

Though he had lost the Christian name Dean, still he was Dr. Planish, who Dr. Planish—just as his first name, Dr.; and, as such, along with every Colonel, every Reverend Doctor, every M. D., every Minister, every Rabbi, every

TUESDAY, with the eyes of the world upon us, THE FOURTH WAR LOAN IS LAUNCHED!

It is the largest of all war loans in terms of individual participation—in the amount you must dig down for.

And—it is, perhaps, the most important of all War Loans. For it comes at a time when the eyes of all the world are upon us; the eyes of our friends, the eyes of our enemies, the eyes of our own fighting men.

We have just entered the crucial year of the war, a year of destiny, a year that promises to decide how good or bad a world we'll have to live in all the rest of our lives. And the world is wondering how deeply we mean it when we promise our men we'll back their attack, and when we promise our Allies we'll stick with them not only through the winning of the war but through the winning of the peace as well.

The Fourth War Loan is the home front's first big test of this new and vital year. It will take unity and determination of will of all the people to make the Loan succeed.

The need for this and other War Loans should be clear to every American. This war is the costliest effort ever undertaken by any country. It costs 250 million dollars each day. This is just the cost of the war, in addition to the regular, inescapable cost of running a great and huge country. Taxes can't take care of all this outgo. Neither can government borrowing from insurance companies, savings banks, corporations, and other large investors. It is necessary to turn to the people, their weekly wages, their savings accounts, the money tucked away in pantry sugar bowls, in socks, under mattresses.

This is as it should be. In a democracy, war is the business of all the people. Some must fight, some must work and put up the money.

It's the only way to raise the money. It's also the right way to raise the money. It gives you a good place to invest the extra money you have today. It's a curb on inflation, on that dangerous bulk of pocket money that leads to black markets and disastrous spending. It's a mattress for tomorrow, a sort of individually planned Social Security that will bring in welcome money in the years ahead when income might not be the Mississippi flood it is today.

These last are not the reasons for the Loans.

They are extra reasons, however, over and above the $1 interest you get on every $3 you invest. The fundamental reason for the Fourth War Loan is that your beloved America, at war and in danger, needs your help!

Every one who has a job or savings, should invest at least $100—if possible, $200, $300, or $500 extra. Some 5,000,000 Americans, volunteers, will be working to sell these Bonds. One of these volunteers will ask you to buy, where you work, at your home, or some other place. If by some chance, you're missed, find out where to buy and buy on your own.

The place where you work will have a quota. That's where you should make your major investment. That's where your personal quota really counts.

But...

The place you live also has a quota. Try to invest there, too. Other people will ask you. Salespeople, in retail stores, have volunteered to help and have an individual quota. If they ask you to buy, try to buy from them, too. Movie theaters, restaurants, schools, banks, postoffices, and many other places also will be selling bonds.

The Fourth Loan is a test of us as a nation.

The eyes of our fighting men are upon us to see if we are backing them.

... The eyes of our Allies are upon us to see if we are with them.

... The eyes of our enemies are upon us to see if we are soft enough to fall for a non-victorious, here-today-gone-tomorrow peace...

Are we? The answer is in your pocket!

Let's All
