YANKS SMASH AT BERLIN FROM AIR FOR FOURTH DAY

By Gladwin Hill

Heavy bombers of the U. S. eighth air force attacked Berlin again today, the fourth time in six days that daylight raids smashed against the German capital.

It was the second day in a row that the Posters and Liberators had hit Berlin, first attacked by American forces last Saturday and again last night.

Today's attack demonstrated the amazing reserve strength in equipment and the endurance of the eighth air force crews. Stunt forces of fighters from the eighth and ninth air forces escorted the bombers.

The first announcement gave no hint as to how today's raid was planned, but it was a surprise.

First Berlin announcements failed to credit the "great aerial battle" as during the previous night's raid. The German capital was hit at least 500 four-engine bombers.

Experience has shown that German resistance grows weaker the longer the bombing continues. The eighth air force's continued bombing operations tend to grow easier.

Part two of this series shot down by the Posters and Liberators.

YANKS BLAST AT NAZI ASSAULTS

By C. H. Cunningham

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, March 9 (AP)—American infantrymen fought off two new German attacks today, while allied bombing squadrons lashed out against Nazi supply lines.

German shock troops battered twice against the American line today, but were repulsed. The first attack was a surprise, and the second was a continuation of the first.

Sweeping on in pursuit of the broken German divisions, the Soviets engulfed more than 500 towns and villages, including Novaya Volga, 42 miles southwest of Krievy Rog.

The new offensive appeared aimed at both Nikolayev and at Odzhakov, whose fall would give the Russians a strategically important base on the Black sea and at the same time menace the large German forces still holding out east of those parts in the area above Kherason.

The German GTP news agency continued the Russian breakthrough, adding that Malinovsky's forces had achieved a "major breakthrough" in the area near Krievy Rog.

At the time, Russian and German forces were engaged in the fighting near Krievy Rog.

AIR MEDAL FOR 'MUSTANG' PILOT

LONDON, March 9 (AP)—A Mustang pilot, Robert E. Goodnight, son of the late Mrs. M. E. Goodnight, was awarded the air medal for meritorious service in combat during the war.

Goodnight was a pilot in a Mustang fighter group. He was shot down over the English Channel on October 14, 1943, and was captured by the Germans. He was held in a prison camp for several months.

Nazis Reel Back on 500-Mile Front as Soviets Blast Line

LONDON, March 9 (UP)—Robert Soviet troops ripped up the southern anchor of the German winter line today in their third major breakthrough since the beginning of March, sweeping the Nazi armies westward along a looping 500-mile front.

While twin Russian offensives in the Proskurov and Zvenigorodka sectors threatened to squeeze Marshal Fritz Erich von Manstein's battered forces back into Rumania, Soviet Premier Josef Stalin revealed that a third Soviet drive had exploded across the Ingulets river in the south, heading straight toward the Black sea ports of Nikolayev and Odzhakov.

In four days of savage fighting, Stalin announced in an order of the day, Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's third Ukrainian army routed nine German divisions and forced a crossing of the Ingulets on a 105-mile front.

Jap Base at Talasea Menaced by U.S. Gain

By DON CASWELL

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 9 (UP)—U. S. Marines, after one of the most hazardous landings of the southwest Pacific campaign, have cut Wilhelm's peninsula in two and are fighting their way down the peninsula toward the first of the big enemy bases on New Britain base of Rabaul, a front dispatch reported today.

The Marines, veterans of Guadalcanal, Tulagi, and Cape Gloucester, landed on the west side of the peninsula shortly after dawn Monday, cut across the narrows and started down the east side to establish positions near Talasea.

The penetration placed the American line 58 miles east of the previous position at Rekin Bay, which they captured Feb. 25. In their last previous jump up the northern New Britain coast.

Jap Positions Blasted
Japanese mortar and machine-gun fire greeted the marines, who came ashore in the face of a heavy enemy air attack, but the enemy gun positions were destroyed by nightfall.

Details of the landing were disclosed in a dispatch from Ralph G. Easton, United Press war correspondent, who went ashore with the marines, and in a dispatch from the United States Navy.

YANKS CUT DOWN 300 JAP TROOPS

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN NORTHERN BURMA, March 7 (Delayed)—Col. Charles Brach's "Oudonkan Ruffians" moved down 300 Japanese with company guns and automatic rifles today when the exhausted enemy forces made a desperate attempt to ford the Chindwin river.

Units of the Japanese 15th division, which took part in the capture of Singapore, laid down an artillery and mortar barrage for several hours and then attempted to cross the river at a point where the water was waist deep.

Refused to budge, the Americans lined the river bank with machine-guns and automatic rifles and refused to budge. As the Japanese slipped into the water, the enemy guns and rifles were mowed them down. When 300 Japanese bodies had been piled up near the village of Langon, the enemy forces withdrew once again within the enclosed area.

(Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill, commanding the American forces in the Hukawng valley, reported to New (left) today that including the 300 slain men, Langon Co. has troops have killed 650 Japanese since their first action in Burma late last month. American casualties, thus far, total only seven dead and 25 wounded.)

Unit Fights Back
Brach, who came from Cincinnati and brought up another unit of his outfit earlier to pound the Japanese concentration across the river unopposed, with 50 and 81-millimeter mortars.

An American observer climbed a tall tree in the vicinity and got a fine bird's-eye view of a Japanese unit which he estimated as approximately one company.

From this vantage point, he was able to correct the mortar fire and, give his men a play-by-play account of the action as the enemy line folded back under a wall of American fire.

Final Rites for World War I Vet

Funeral rites for Nathan Lounsbury were held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Reynolds funeral home chapel with the Rev. Herbert Hogg of the American Lutheran church in charge.

Music for the services was offered by James Reynolds, accompanied by Mrs. Hogg.

Participants were members of the American Legion, including L. W. Hawkins, Harvey Shirk, S. O. Lee, H. F. Hootch, William Brennan and Clifford T. Johnson.

Burial was in Twin Falls cemetery, where the Filer American Legion conducted graveside rites. Prayers, singing, coffee and supper were all from home.

Mr. Lounsbury was born in 1874 in Iowa and served in the American Legion during World War I.

Hansen Boy Wins Medal in Britain

FRANK HANSEN, 14-year-old boy, Boise, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom P. Hansen, has been awarded the gold medal for his outstanding service "somewhere in England" according to word received by his parents from Lieut.-Col. Chester L. Landaker, commanding officer.

"The colonel's letter said in part: 'In addition to Barnes' continuous service in the army for more than a year, he is eligible for this award must demonstrate fidelity, courage and exact performance of duty, efficiency through capacity to produce desired results, and behavior such as to deserve emulation. Sergeant Hansen's record in this respect has been a great satisfaction to me as his commanding officer, and I am sure that you as his parents also feel a great pride.'"

"It is of this type of service by such men as Sergeant Barnes that we as Americans are so proud, and which keeps our nation in the high place it has held and will continue to hold through history."

"Please allow me to extend my congratulations to you and to say that I am very grateful for having Sergeant Hansen in my command."

"The Hansen soldier is a member of an excellent general service team."

Corporal Palmer lives in a tent, and this has served as his abode for many months. In a recent letter to his parents he stated that "we were not very enthusiastic at first, but just the other, when the tents arrived by truck, we grabbed one and began constructing our bedroom in the center of the tent. The mud was just about ankle deep and we had no sleep."

He said that it rained about every day, but soon there were areas set up in the center of the tents so that clothing could be dried. Corporal Palmer told his parents that the weather is nice and the next it knows, and the alert is "terrible."

MORNING

ABANDONMENT OF BERLIN U. S. AIM

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Military observers believed today that the mounting allied air raids on Berlin may represent an experimental effort to force complete evacuation of the German capital.

A possible clue to the outcome of the stepped-up bombings—in which American planes have joined with three daylight raids in five days—was provided in reports from Stockholm and Bern saying that the rail government was considering Berlin's abandonment.

Vital War Plants

Berlin has many vital war factories, many of which already have been damaged heavily in previous raids by the royal air force. The evacuation, however, would shut down these plants completely and rank as a tremendous victory in the allied campaign against rail war production.

It was regarded as significant here from the standpoint of making Berlin untenable, that the attacking American Flying Fortresses and Liberators have dropped large amounts of incendiary bombs, rather than employing solely the tactic for which they were primarily designed—incendiary bombing.

If the American raids on Berlin were intended only to do further damage to war plants, it was said, the big bombers could have been more effective if they had used their cargo space to cart big, high explosives over the city.

Dropped Fire Bombs

Actually, however, the U. S. daylight raiders dropped some 350,000 incendiary bombs over large areas, and the flames of the burning Berlin were seen as far as 250 miles away from the metropolis.

Another reason for the stepped-up bombings is believed to be the desire by the allied command to destroy as much of the Luftwaffe as possible over Germany proper, thereby reducing the number of planes that the Germans can use to oppose a western European invasion.

Twin Falls Cowboy Is Famed War Writer's 'Personal Hero'

St. Frank (Buck) Everole, who is called a hero by men who do not use the word lightly, tells reporters on the Italian front that he once worked as a ranch hand and rode in rodeos in the Twin Falls vicinity.

Sergeant Everole, who may be remembered by cattle people in the area of the Magic Valley as the subject for two highly laudatory columns by Ernie Pyle, an outstanding war correspondent.

In the first column Pyle quotes a company commander who first said that every man in his company deserves a silver star award, and then directed Everole at "my own personal hero."

Sergeant Everole had two silver star awards, but this does not tell the whole story of his value to his company, or the platoon he commands. He is cold and deliberate in battle, a man on whom commanders place great dependence.

Says Pyle: "He is the kind of man you instinctively feel safe with when with other people. He is not helpless like most of us. He can improvise, patch and fix."

How the former Magic Valley cowboy has retained his appreciation of human qualities, in spite of his growing proficiency in the art of both killing and avoiding death, is described in the second of Pyle's columns.

"It gets so it kinda gets you, sorta these new kids come up," Pyle quotes Everole as saying. "Some of them have just got furs on their faces, and don't know what it's all about and they're scared to death. No matter what, some of them are bound to get killed."

Pyle, a veteran observer of the reactions of men in battle, gives Everole a high rating.

"It is to me, and to all those with whom he serves, one of the great men of the war," declares Pyle.

Commentator to Speak in Jerome

Jerome, March 9 — Arthur Oech, inter-mountain radio commentator, will speak in Jerome at 2:30 p. m. March 13 in the Varsity theater.

The meeting, at which Oech will be the principal speaker, is being sponsored by the Jerome-Lindsey-Blood County Best-Growers association and the past-war planning committee of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce.

Farmers in this territory having available acreage for sugar beet planting are being sent complimentary tickets.

In addition to Oech's talk the Chamber of Commerce committee will present a program and read discussions on post-war planning.

GRID "IRON MAN" WINS PROMOTION

Among the youngest air force lieutenants-colonels of Idaho is Don Brandon, 28, Twin Falls high school graduate of 1933 and the captain football "iron man" of Bruin varsity teams.

News of his promotion from major to lieutenant-colonel was received several weeks ago by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brandon, who moved from Twin Falls to Nampa in 1941. Colonel Brandon has a number of relatives still living in the Magic Valley area and is a close friend of the Ralph E. Lighfoot family here.

Colonel Brandon joined the air forces in 1940, received his training at Cleveland, Ohio; Hamilton field, Tex., and graduated at Kelly field, Tex., late that year. He received additional training in New York, was transferred to the Canal zone, then to Trinidad, then to New Guinea. At Trinidad he was promoted to captain. On return to the U. S. he became a major and a squadron leader in California, then was shifted to Fort Knox, Ky.

He is now somewhere in England. Colonel Brandon attended U. S. S. B. for four years after graduation in 1933, then went to the University of Nevada, where he was a football star. He was graduated in 1938. After graduation he taught freshman English and coached football at Lovelock high school, Nev.

His wife, the former Frances McDonald of Postville, now lives at Eugene, Ore., with their young son, Danny.

NATIONAL PRAYER FOR ROME URGED

BOSTON, March 9 (AP)—William Cardinal O'Connell, dean of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in America, called for prayers Wednesday that "Rome, the center of Christianity and the See of Peter, may be spared from desecration and ruin."

The Cardinal also asked for prayers for the welfare of our beloved Holy Father (Pope Pius XII) in a pastoral letter, made public tonight.

"I earnestly urge you to pray to God," read the letter, "to touch the hearts of the leaders of nations that they may all respect the unique spiritual life, the devotion, art and culture of the Christian world."

"God grant that Rome, the center of Christianity and the See of Peter, may be spared from desecration and ruin."

The letter will be read in all churches of the archdiocese Sunday, the fifth anniversary of the election of the then Cardinal Pacelli as Pope.

How to Ruin Dresses and Lose Friends

It's tragic how some girls lose their friends and ruin their dresses because of perspiration odor and stains. And there's no excuse for it! It's easy to save dresses. It's easy to save friends.

Use Arid, the new cream deodorant that helps you avenge dry skin and remove the odor from perspiration. Arid is safe and dependable for these reasons:

1. Does not irritate skin. Does not ruin dresses or men's shirts.

2. Prevents under-arm odor. Helps stop perspiration and the odor because of perspiration odor and stains.

3. A pure white, antiseptic, stainless cream.

4. No stinging or drying. Can be used right after shaving.

5. Avoids perspiration. Lotioning - burning - no fabric. Use Arid regularly.

Arid is the largest selling deodorant. Sold at all leading toilet goods stores.

During Collier's brief absence Kitty was sitting in a meditative silence. Peg reflected that Collier had acted more like himself in the past five minutes than any time she'd seen him for a year. Kitty was not in the mood to think she should no longer be surprised to find the current of Collier's vitality could recharge the atmosphere of a room.

He came back sooner than she expected, and she said impulsively that it hadn't taken him long to talk things over with Ben.

"I did the talking," explained Collier, who was a match with an exuberant scratch, and drew deeply on a cigarette. Exhibiting with pleasure and satisfaction, he said Ben looked at her as if he had a hanger.

"We all have, in a way," said Peg. "In spite of her former detachment she had begun to share Kitty's enthusiasm of Collier's return."

Collier, who was a match with an exuberant scratch, and drew deeply on a cigarette. Exhibiting with pleasure and satisfaction, he said Ben looked at her as if he had a hanger.

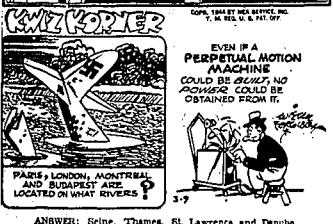

"What did you do with the Dickster?" interrupted Kitty impulsively. "I don't want to hear this thing's given you a job. I had an idea as if I was driving out."
