Air Raids Flay 7 Jap Pacific Island Bases; Solomons Push Halted

Flier Missing

WASHINGTON, March 14 (UP)—Army and navy airmen have struck more hard blows against seven Japanese bases in the Marshall and Caroline islands, a continuation of their drive to pulverize enemy defenses in the central Pacific, the navy announced today.

The latest attacks were made on Sunday and all U. S. planes returned safely. The target in the Caroline was Kusaie, where army Mitchell medium bombers scored several fires.

Army Liberators and countless dive-bombers hit four bases in the eastern Marshalls. They bombed the ammunition dump and radio station at one island and ammunition dump and gun emplacements at another.

Navy search planes hit two other enemy-held Marshall bases and damaged Jap fighters in an air engagement near Pohnpe in the Carolines.

BODOLG TO REGIME BOERERE WITH RED RECOGNITION

NAPLES, March 14 (AP)—Rusakov's establishment of diplomatic relations with Premier Pietro Badoglio's government appears to have further strengthened his regime, already endorsed by Prime Minister Churchill, and to have given King Vittorio Emanuele a firmer hold on his throne.

Italian monarchist leaders said they would continue to oppose the king's abdication, and give credit to the Badoglio government.

British Stand Pat
In London, it was reported that Britain would stand pat on the issue of the king's abdication.

Churchill Hints New Action Against Eire

LONDON, March 14 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told commons today that Britain and the United States plan "to isolate southern Ireland from the outer world"—a virtual ultimatum to Eire, where President De Valera has refused to cut off that potential supply post during the Irish war to the opening of the western front.

Churchill was clearly implied as extending restrictions to the border between southern Ireland and Eire, and perhaps even a complete blockade of Eire, where President De Valera has refused to cut off that potential supply post during the Irish war to the opening of the western front.

500 JAPS DIE IN SUICIDE ATTACKS

By WERN HAUGLAND
QUADALAJA, The Boloninas, March 14.—Five hundred Japanese hurried themselves into the sea, upon the barriers before the island in the Boloninas Saturday, and their bodies formed a gruesome, bloody, stinking human mat on the barbed wire entanglements.

The Americans used rifles, machine guns, bayonets, hand grenades and bazookas to halt the repeated suicidal attacks against the Boloninas. The Japanese knew no hope and had but one purpose—to kill as many Americans as possible before they died.

Amidst the frustrated, the American casualties were officially announced as light, while Japanese were estimated conservatively at more than 1,000 killed. The first initial attack on the beachhead began March 8.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command headquarters in the Philippines defeated the enemy attack in force, and inflicted heavy losses. Fourteen army corps headquarters announced that 501 Japanese bodies were found dead on the beachhead. The Japanese were in front of allied positions after the loss of the attack was repulsed. Enemy bodies in the jungle outside the wire were not counted.

Three Attacks
There were three main attacks Saturday. The first began dawn and the others during the morning. All three were repulsed. The Japanese sentrymen were killed by furious mortar and artillery fire during the first attack.

Some Japanese managed to penetrate the barbed wire and mine and at last report were keeping the flames. American soldiers kept their machine guns running against their foe's persistent sniping.

By nightfall Saturday all the enemy penetrations had been repulsed and lines were back to their original positions, with other suicidal attacks expected.

Buhl Sergeant Holding Down Key Job in Air Service Unit

AN AIR SERVICE COMMAND transport group, England—In 1930, Master Sergeant Vernie Ballou, a native of Twin Falls, Idaho, was sent to England to take a job with the Air Service Command transport group. He is now a key man in one of the army's most important services—the service command transport unit. He serves as sergeant-major of his outfit which is charged with the repair and replacement work on the very American warplanes in the air. (Army air forces photo—staff engraving.)

He was born in an oil camp in Idaho in 1917, and spent his childhood moving from one Western town to another. He managed to scrape up a grammar school education and he stopped there for a while. He then went to the University of Idaho where he studied for one year. Sergeant Ballou attended Idaho State Normal school specializing in psychology and sociology.

Like those subjects, he explained, "because they deal with people and they give you a better understanding of what's going on around you."

This is the understanding which Sergeant Ballou has brought to his job. It is an understanding that is being taught to the men who work in restaurants, lumber camps and railroads after he has had to quit school on Dec. 27, 1930, a few days after he ended his 135 mile trek, he enlisted in the army. SLAIN MAN SAID TORTURE VICTIM

CHICAGO, March 14.—Police said today that James De Angelo, 42, whose body was found in an automobile trunk Saturday, apparently had been tortured for days in an effort to make him talk and theorized also that he might have been slain in another city.

"In my 25 years of police work," Police Lieut. Andrew Allen said, "I've never seen a case where a man apparently took as much punishment as De Angelo."

There is every evidence that his captors made no effort to kill him quickly and mercifully. De Angelo battered and bound body was found in the luggage compartment of his own car and on a busy north side street here, where, said Capt. John O'Malley of the Huron avenue station, "there was a car parked for days."

De Angelo was last seen in Chicago "not possibly in Calumet City, Ill., or Springfield, Ill."

O'Malley said police also were investigating whether De Angelo had been associated with two other men, recently slain, in any black market activities in Chicago.

DETAIL-FOR TODAY

Pin-Up Girls

PIN-UP GIRLS are an institution in the army. In many places the actual printing of pictures is forbidden and the outcome is alarming, morale sinks to a low level, frustration is rampant, and the sale of newspapers at the post exchange falls off. Where Pin-Up GIRLS are tolerated they are never encouraged to the point of being a new peak. The barracks walls look like a theatrical artist's office and inspection officers find it hard to inspect the right object. A PIN-UP GIRL must have that certain indefinable something called "cuteness," a languorous expression and a few clothes as possible. This makes her a member in good standing.

Ex-Missionary Decorated for Pacific Valor

(The following story was written by Tech. Sgt. Frank J. McElroy, Philadelphia, Penn., a marine corps combat correspondent.)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC (Delayed) (By—Marine Pfc. Howard C. Bennett, Thibault, La., a fighting Marine missionary, has been awarded the Navy and marine corps medal for heroism.)

The 30-year-old marine, who still continues to hold special services for fellow Mormons on the Pacific island, was cited by Lt. Col. H. P. Halsey for his bravery and devotion to duty in working with other Marines to rescue personnel wounded when a Jap bomb fired a discharging munitions ship.

Officers said that Private Bennett was one of the first to leave the intense heat and recurrent explosions aboard the burning vessel. He aided in getting the wounded ashore and treated, then returned to help tow overboard "hot" shells scattered by the initial explosion.

At this moment Jap planes renewed the attack and scored a second hit. Bennett sustained shrapnel wounds in the back, but since he recovered completely.

Before he collapsed in the machine for combat duty, Bennett was an active missionary of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, preaching in Illinois, Missouri and Ohio. On his arrival at his first post in the Pacific he began holding regular spiritual meetings and conducting services for fellow Mormons.

A younger brother, Mr. William L. Bennett, is serving with the army overseas.
