

NATION TO HONOR IDAHOAN'S VALOR

PRESTON, Ida., March 17 (A)—Idaho will pay tribute tonight to the bravery of Pvt. Nathan Van Noy, youthful Preston soldier who gave his life while beating off, almost single-handed, a Japanese assault on a Pacific Island.

Gov. C. A. Bottelger will give a medal of honor to the young man and the congressional medal of honor will be presented posthumously by Col. A. E. Merrill. Fort Douglas, Utah, representing President Roosevelt.

Van Noy is the first Idaho soldier of the Second World War to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor. Only one other Idahoan ever has received it. He was Thomas C. Nelbaur, Sugar City, who won it for bravery in wiping out a German machinegun nest during the First World War. Nelbaur died two years ago.

Van Noy married a machinegun

The Japanese were repulsed, leaving behind more than 25 dead, most of whom Van Noy was credited with killing.

WINCHELL-RANKIN DEBATE PROPOSED

JACKSON, Miss., March 17 (AP) — A suggestion that Con. John E. Rankin and columnist-commentator Walter Winchell settle their longstanding differences in a joint debate got a couple of tentative approvals Thursday but the tickets aren't on sale yet.

Submitted to the Mississippi legislature in the form of a concurrent resolution by Sen. John Calkins, the idea was endorsed by the senate, sitting as a committee, and placed on the calendar subject to call. The resolution proposed that the debate be staged at a joint session of the Mississippi house and senate.

Winchell, at Miami Beach, Fla., commented that he was "honored by the suggestion," but countered

The resolution urged the debate because Winchell "has placed our own congressman John E. Rankin under the microscope of analysis and has differed with said Rankin's points of view on legislative and other subjects . . ."

WEED CONTROL, AREA NO. 1

For years Twin Falls county has known that noxious weeds have been a menace to its agricultural productivity. A serious problem steadily growing worse.

Because all previous attempts have failed to bring this situation under control, the conclusion finally has been reached that some concerted action must be taken immediately, or else.

With approximately 20 per cent of the 26,000 acres in this state already infested with noxious weeds, there is no time to lose. Half of this infestation has developed during the last 10 years and the greater portion of that half since 1930.

Fearful of this emergency, our city and county post-war planning boards regard weed control as their No. 1 problem. They have spent much time and money trying to figure out some workable solution.

For some time there has been a state law designed to facilitate the control of weeds. But until 1943 was the law amended so as to permit boards of county commissioners to establish weed extermination districts, naming the weeds to be destroyed and setting a deadline for their destruction, with the provision that if the weeds are not destroyed within the allotted time, the county can do the work and assess all costs against the property.

The trouble all along and up to now has been that landowners have hesitated to participate in the program and the county has lacked the manpower necessary to undertake its part of the job.

Even though the manpower problem hasn't been relieved and the whole set-up can still bog down for that reason, it now appears that the law finally has been put into effect.

It is particularly significant because it had its inception largely with the landowners themselves and demonstrates the type of co-operation that will be necessary for a successful battle against a common enemy.

Truman, Greenhugh, local rancher and member of the Twin Falls city council, and the 35 other landowners, who have banded together voluntarily to get this program underway, are to be congratulated for their spirit and foresight.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLWIND

DISCRIMINATION—Ninety-thousand dairymen in upper New York have learned from experience why federal price controls, although a wartime necessity, will probably be discontinued after the war.

Although the incident affected only a single product in a fairly limited area, it is a case in point. Producers of milk in the southeast, feeders of cattle in the north and coal operators in the anthracite and bituminous regions have undergone the same trials.

The fact seems to be inescapable that, even with the best of intentions and personnel, the office of price administration is doomed to make errors of this or any other administration.

New York's dairymen were allowed a subsidy in order to keep down the retail cost of milk in the lower cities. Some were paid a hundredweight while others were paid 40 cents.

The system was also thrown with apparent discrimination. Farmers living outside Rochester, Buffalo, for instance, received the top amount, while their neighbors who shipped to New York City hundreds of miles away were given only 25 cents.

Next day, Mr. Rogers issued new regulations designed to equalize the milk payments.

THEY—The virtues assumed at first that the difference in the amounts resulted from some factor as railroad rates and distribution charges at the point of delivery.

CHIPPING GERMAN IS A LONELY JOB

By GEORGE TUCKER

ON THE CASINO FRONT, the night chipping of small bottles of men is pinned down by machine gun fire in the turn of the night.

Setting is lonely work. You can't see and there isn't anybody to talk to. You "simply take up a bottle and wait and every time you see a German you try to kill him."

But outside have their own snipers with special telescopic sights, but sometimes there aren't available and then anybody's likely to be pressed into service.

"It's sort of informal. If you're in position to snipe, you snipe," said Pvt. Felix P. B. Peterson, Norwegian.

There was a small local action devoted to take a high round over-looking an enemy position. You can't see and there isn't anybody to talk to. You "simply take up a bottle and wait and every time you see a German you try to kill him."

The attack didn't quite come off as planned. The daylight caught the men in an exposed position. Part of the force was pinned in a T-bar and the rest began to fall in and in the end the attack was a failure. But it didn't mean just as dead as yesterday or tomorrow.

Three Brothers Among Burley Group of Times-News Carriers

By OLLIE MAY COOK

Nothing better sounding out to far-flung legions awaits this crew, but nevertheless here on the home front three boys, Times-News carriers and street sellers of Burley, are ready to "take off" doing their part in bringing the fast moving news of today to the people of their communities.

With the boys in Harold (Shorty) Stiles who, for a number of years, has made daily trips to the town in the east end of Idaho Valley, delivering the Times-News to carriers as soon as possible after they are off the press. Harold, he has now relinquished his job to his brother, Virgil, who is now in the U. S. Army and Al Judkins, who has taken over the route.

Harold is a carrier boy and as he said "has practically grown up with the Times-News."

Three Brothers

In the Burley group are three brothers, David Gochman, route four carrier, and his two younger brothers, Ralph and Bryce, street-sellers. David is one of the most versatile and peppy examples of humanity I have ever met. Add to his Times-News carrier, he handles a popular weekly magazine and manages the sales of this as well as those of the newspaper through his smaller brother, who carries a full quota of school work and takes part in various school activities, finds time to work at his own "selling press," and to handle much other jobs.

If there is still-handed and David is around, he is in there pitching in no time at all. If the hotel finds a selling job he will do it, or work for or take over some new job, everything he does with his hands, he does it to fill in the gap.

Herbert Brandt, former carrier, who recently gave up his route for other work, is the David Gochman, who is in the new future group, and the two boys work and plan together. With the aid of their two small printing presses they have laid the foundation for a possible career in the field by turning out various items of stationery, including a small "local sheet" of their own. Without exception, they are the most all-inclusive hobby possible to imagine—in his own words, it is, "everything he does with his hands, he does it to fill in the gap."

Tangent on Job

This will represent an increase of two mills or 11 per cent over last year's sales and is in recognition of maintaining the schools during 1944-45. All school operations are now in the hands of the boys and it will be necessary to again raise salaries to compete with neighboring schools and surrounding states in holding and replacing teachers. The election of the district at the time of election, or (b) a person who lives within the district, and the husband or the wife of such taxpayer, in case the taxpayer is married.

GOODING TO VOTE ON SCHOOL LEVY

GOODING, March 17.—A special school election will be held March 21, between the hours of 2 and 6 p. m. in the high school building, where the school levy will be voted upon. The school levy is a levy of 10 cents per $100 of assessed value, and it will be necessary to again raise salaries to compete with neighboring schools and surrounding states in holding and replacing teachers. NAZIS HAVE LOST HOPE OF VICTORY

By RALPH E. HEINZ

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP)—Under the constant pressure of the Russian army and the air forces of the allies, the German hope of victory has all but disappeared. There is now widespread belief that the German army is being driven out of the East, and that the German army is being driven out of the East, and that the German army is being driven out of the East.

Germany never has recovered from Stalingrad and Hitler's prestige as a military leader, personally of the German army, has been shattered. Today is at its lowest. Except for the Hitler youth, no one in Germany seriously believes in a military victory now-shattering a miracle.

No Hope Seen

"That miracle could only be the collapse of the Russian army or the maintenance of the status of their bombing raids as too easily in their places. Almost no German civilian expects either of these miracles and, gloomily, they make preparations for the worst."

Despite the gloom, however, the German people are still fighting. The German people are still fighting. The German people are still fighting. The German people are still fighting. The German people are still fighting.

New Farm Labor Plans Outlined

JEROME, March 17.—"Details for handling the 1944 farm labor program in Idaho are rapidly being completed in accordance with provisions of the federal law recently enacted by congress," reports C. E. Arnold, county agent. This is the recent information received by Mr. and Mrs. Arnett from Dean E. J. West, public labor officer, recently arrived in Idaho extension agent, who with D. L. Point, state emergency farm labor supervisor, attended a conference a short time ago in Des Moines, Iowa.

The new law provides that for the purpose of assisting in providing an adequate supply of workers for the production and harvesting of agricultural commodities, the several states, "an appropriation is made and apportioned to the states and the basis of need for expenditure by agricultural extension services of land grant colleges in such states."

BOY, 17, CHARGED IN BOISE MURDER

BOISE, March 17 (AP)—Prosecutor Oliver M. Koetsch today filed a complaint in the justice court of J. M. Lamper charging Calvin Turner, Jr., 17, with the murder of Mrs. Lottie Martin, 45, who was fatally bitten at the USO center here Wednesday evening.

The youth is the son of the Rev. Calvin Turner, pastor of the African Methodist Episcopal church and manager of the center, who found Mrs. Martin, coming to the USO center behind the snack bar he operated at the USO. She died three hours later.

Sherrif Don Hendrick said young Turner confessed full details of the crime after bloody shoes and socks were found at his home.

Hendrick said the youth told officers he "resented" Mrs. Martin because he thought she was a Jew and he continued pilfering of a can of beer at the center.

He told investigating officers, said.

LIGHTNINGS TO LONDON

• By CAPT. BERNARD W. CRANDELL

Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.

THE TOMCAT TANGLE WITH TROUBLE

The next fighter squadron to make the jump out of Labrador was the 48th, which had been in the area since the last war. The old squadron had had some hot days back in 1918, but none of them held a candle to the memorable day of July 6, 1942. Four sections of four P-38s were in the air, each with every square mile of water in the Davis Strait from the Arctic Circle to the southern coast of Greenland. An 8,000 foot ceiling and 100 mph. lightnings, each quarter following a B-17, took off at intervals for Greenland, that morning. The weather forecast proved to be about as accurate as a DNR from news broadcast.

The flight sections were named for major personalities. Tomcat Black, Tomcat White, Tomcat Yellow, and Tomcat Green. Tomcat Black was in the lead, followed by the P-38s, which streaked through the sky, each with its own mission.

Mr. Tomcat Yellow was the first to begin his hunt. He attacked a B-17, which was flying at an altitude of 25,000 feet. The Lightning hit the B-17, but it didn't explode. The B-17 continued on its way, and the Lightning continued on its way. The B-17 was hit again, and it exploded. The Lightning was hit, but it didn't explode. The Lightning continued on its way, and the B-17 continued on its way.

For a while, the P-38s had slipped through the barrier nature had set up, the rest had not. In the fog and back where they had started from. And by this time, the Tomcat Yellow and Green were in the air over Davis Strait, looking for the same individual who had been hit.

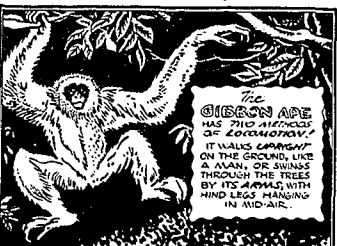

Their lead B-17 was a report on weather at the two Greenland airbases; there was a radio "black-out" peculiar to the atmosphere in that region. They climbed to 20,000 feet and saw a higher bank of clouds ahead of them. It appeared to break off to the north, however, so the lead B-17 continued on its way.

Green began to pick up the B-17, so climbed up to 10,000 and broke out between cloud layers. The B-17 navigator called Yellow (radio communication between the planes at short distances was still possible) and said he was returning to Labrador, thinking he was in closer to the lead than he actually was.

Major Chambers in the lead B-17 (Yellow) radioed that neither was clear at Labrador base. Green, after some hours of flying, made landing some 350 miles north of the Labrador dome, where the B-17 navigator got his bearings. If the gas held out, they could still make it back to their starting point.

They made the "drome" all right. They had taken off at 11:15 the morning and landed back on the same runway at 7:30 that night, so the pilots were still stiff with cold and exhaustion that they had to be pried from their seats.
