BOISE, March 18 (AP)—Approximately 75 union truckers and warehousemen voted today to remain away from their jobs "until three men dismissed by the operators are reinstated," amid reports that the local walkout might spread throughout the 11 states served by inter-state trucking companies.

The U. S. conciliation service at San Francisco announced that its representatives would attend a meeting here Monday afternoon to attempt to adjust difficulties between the A. F. of L. International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, and the companies.

Mr. Young, vice-president of the Orange Transportation company, told an operators' meeting today the situation "can lead to complete stoppage of all trucking operations in the 11 western states unless it is settled today."

He said tonight his statement still stood, despite word that the conciliation service and other government representatives will meet with truckers and union men Monday.

At Idaho Falls Ray Jones, secretary of local 683, said a complete stoppage of all trucking operations in the 11 western states unless it is settled today.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLING

THIRTY-high staff officers here wish that the American people would adopt a more reasonable attitude toward the Anglo-American offensive in Italy.

They explain that there is no back to the general belief that the Italian front is the most important one in the war.

Our forces have already accomplished their main objectives in this area, according to the official viewpoint. They have knocked Italy out of the war and destroyed one of the three enemy dictators.

REVENGE — The opening gun of the invasion may be in the form of a diplomatic big Bertha aimed at Germany.

"BABY" THOSE TRACTOR TWINS

Sunday the Times-News carried a statement by Carl M. Anderson, chief clerk of the Twin Falls county ration board, pointing out the seriousness of the tractor tire shortage.

We feel this condition is so critical that it warrants being called to the attention of the farmers once more.

It is hard to believe that Twin Falls county's tractor tire quota for March is only one rear tire, two front tires and two inner tubes.

But it is a fact, nevertheless, and that's not only that, but there is no indication that this quota will be increased for several months to come.

Under these circumstances, it should be apparent that now is no time for farmers to consider conversion from the tractor to the mule.

And those whose tractors already are pneumatically equipped will be wise to take the best possible care of their tires. Proper inflation, repairing and retreading will help to avoid complete tire failure with a resultant up-tie of much-needed equipment.

The farmers of Twin Falls county might just as well reconcile themselves to the fact that the ration board will not be able to supply tires, and that plans should be made accordingly.

Even at best, a good many tractors may stand this spring and summer because of no replacement tires being available.

SOMETHING FOR THE VOTERS

Here is unquestionably the most important item of the moment: The bureaucrats are accusing our economy-minded congress of being wasteful and extravagant, with a charge of political bookkeeping thrown in for good measure.

All the fuss really started last June, when congress passed an appropriation for a large reprint of the 1943 Agriculture Yearbook.

There had been no shortage of that monumental volume in two years. Congress repeated to appropriate any money for it in 1943, what with the paper shortage and all.

But the year's paper shortage this year, but—well, maybe it has something to do with the elections coming on.

Anyway, the legislators apparently decided that it would be a good idea to reprint the electorate back home with a little something. So they slipped a yearbook appropriation of $176,000 into the June fiscal parade.

But the bill was charged, not to congress as is the custom, but to the department of agriculture, only makes it all the more confusing.

The thing seems to have brought the agriculture department and the government printing office to a slow boil.

There have been mutterings about such things here. The 1942 Agriculture Yearbook presumably has been sent out to constituents once already. And there are around 45,000 of these volumes left over, which, since they are outdated, will probably wind up in the trash.

Congress has ordered 231,250 copies, the maximum number allowed by the law. That is 550 for each senator, and 400 for each representative.

Each book contains 1296 pages; total paper consumption, 440 tons. The order also would require 40,000 yards of high-priority blue velvet for the covers.

Every one of the book's chapters, some 200 in number, is already available in pamphlet form.

Everybody seems very anxious to do the printing. The government printing office asked for bids, and only one firm responded; it bid is reported between $75,000 and $100,000 above the amount appropriated.

Well, to be sure, there is a great and valuable and indispensable institution. So is our custom of quadrennial elections. But sometimes their sodal conjunction produces the strangest results.

VERY WELL DONE!

The Twin Falls Red Cross war fund drive, as everyone is so kindly expected, has not only gone over the top, but is still going, considerably beyond the $26,000 goal.

Again this locality may be proud of its efforts. The government printing office asked for bids, and only one firm responded; it bid is reported between $75,000 and $100,000 above the amount appropriated.

He's Making Buhl Golf Course Really Sporty

Old & New Golf Course
at Twin Falls, Idaho, owned by Buhl Country Club, Inc.

Here's Jack Tingey, Clear lakes hatchery owner who is giving his time, enthusiasm and cash to make the Buhl country club's golf course one of the finest in the state. Tingey points to the plans by which a virtually new course is being made from the former layout. (Photo by Olin Scott—Staff Engraving)

Meet Jack Tingey, the 'Angel' Of Buhl's Golf Improvements

BY MARTINA YEITER
BUTL, March 18—Working tirelessly and practically night and day on the Clear lakes golf course, the Buhl Country club, Jack Tingey, a big man in every sense of the word, is one who loves to work in and get things done, stands out in the local golfing star, director, trouble-shooter and what-have-you. For the past two months he has worked extensively on the new plans for the course, and the country club owes much to his untiring efforts and great skill as an organizer and producer of results.

Asked why a busy man like himself should devote so much time from business, with no remuneration save personal satisfaction, he replied that golf is his favorite sport. But it is more than that; the whole of Buhl, Jack is public spirited, he wants to help Buhl prosper, and he is getting something out of it, a real course, instead of Buhl golfers going to neighboring courses for the lack of a good one at home.

A Real Course
"And this is a real one when it's done," said Jack, enthusiastically. "Clear lakes has always been recognized as the best natural site for a golf course in the country. The scenery and topography of the land are ideal. The natural hazards are varied, the ground not flat, and several small water hazards add much to the course. When completed it should be the most interesting in the state, and to the possible exception of Sun Valley, which has been much like ours."

Thirty Mr. Tingey decided the history of the Buhl Country club. "We acquired 1025 acres at that time bought 500 acres of land for a course in Melon valley. This property was really sold. It was about 1937 when Otto Perry leased the present Clear lakes site and began the first golf course there. We had natural pasture for fairways and about 100 acres, and the course was rough and not entirely satisfactory. Eventually the Buhl Country club was organized, and a complete modern course was recommended to the group. The Tingey brain.

Got Long Leas
Last fall the club secured a lease from O. E. Byaser of sufficient length so that improvements could be accomplished, and a complete modern course was recommended to the group. The Tingey brain.

When I asked for a little story about when he replied in genuine enthusiasm. "I don't know what you could say. There's nothing interesting about me!"

He was much more interested in giving his credit to E. M. Tomlinson's participation in the golf course project. Mr. Tomlinson, an engineer and a former mayor of Buhl, is dominating his services in making the surveys, laying the pipelines for the gas lines, and in other engineering problems. Everett Husted and Fred Harting have assisted in operation.

BAISCH SAYS RAF AVIATORS 'SWELL'

LEUT. JOHN K. BAISCH

Leut. John K. Baisch, 22, a native of Twin Falls, is an authority on both American and British methods of training pilots, for he was the wings of two air forces—USAAF and the RAF.

Because of high academic and military ability, he is 16 other cadets who graduated from the Santa Ana, Calif., airbase, were chosen to complete their training with the royal air force in Mesa, Ariz. Lieutenant Baisch and his fellow-Americans thus found themselves subject to all the rules and traditions of his majesty's air arm.

"One of the hardest things we had to get used to," the lieutenant writes, "was that RAF arm sailing. After you've been an AAF cadet a couple of months, you darned near go into the habit of keeping that arm sailing down. And then all of a sudden you have to begin swinging those arms like a drowning man in deep water."

Graduating from the course of training last July, the young flying officer wears the wings of the AAF on his left breast and the RAF on his right.

"We got our RAF wings the day we were inducted into the U. S. army and given our American wings," he explained.

The British method of training, he reports, is not radically different from our own. "Of course, they have their pet theories and we have ours. They are strong on navigation and ground school work. They seem to plug those things more than we do. They go from primary to advanced training without the equivalent of our basic flying school."

Swell Guys
"It was a great experience and the happy I was given the opportunity of doing it. Those fellows are a swell bunch of boys. Many of them had gone through the blizzards of the London blitz and knew what air war was all about. We were all green kids who had never heard of a bomb so off except in the news."

"They taught us plenty. Sure, we got along together fine. Why shouldn't we? We're in it together and we're going to win it together. After finishing our training course at Mesa, Lieutenant Baisch and the other American fliers, he was given a course in training flying with the American fliers. He is now on his third trip to the South Pacific with the air transport command."

Lieutenant Baisch writes his parents, Mrs. Metta Baisch and John Baisch, Twin Falls, that he met five boys from Twin Falls in Honolulu just a week before Christmas. It was his birthday, and they celebrated.

POLYGAMY TRIALS TO BEGIN MONDAY

By CARL L. JESTER.
SALT LAKE CITY, March 18 (AP)—Court trials of 40 persons arrested in a federal-state investigation of alleged polygamy practices in Utah, Idaho and Arizona, will begin Monday with the cases hanging on the government's assertion that the prosecution of plural marriages is in effect.

Successful prosecution, said Assistant U. S. District Attorney John H. Boyden, would halt the practice of polygamy.

Arrested, he said, were the 12 leaders of the "Fundamentalist" cult, publishers of the magazine "Truth." The 12 were named jointly in a grand jury indictment charging conspiracy to prepare and circulate through the "church," obscene, indecent and immoral writings which the indictment alleged were contained in the magazine.

Acknowledging that the words used in the magazine were in themselves not "dirty or filthy," Boyden said the magazine was "a vile and a nasty document in a vulgar, controlled manner."

The indictment described plural marriages as "sexual offenses against society" and asserted that the magazine "appealed to natural sexual instinct and appetites for unlawful sexual indulgence under a cloak of religious sanctity and approval."

But, according to defense attorney Claude T. Barnes, acting in court on preliminary matters, the indictment for the "Fundamentalist" magazine is "a charge of obscenity" and is "a charge of obscenity."

U. S. District Judge J. Foster Reed, in his preliminary ruling, said the government's charge of obscenity is "a charge of obscenity" and is "a charge of obscenity."

He told the defense attorneys they could seek to refute at the trial the government's charge of obscenity.

WITNESS ACCUSES EX-REA OFFICER

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—John A. Becker, Wisconsin, charged today that Robert J. Craig, former deputy administrator of the rural electrification administration, had broken down to him plans to create a national political organization to counter REA and influence elections.

Becker was former director of the Wisconsin development authority, an organization created to cooperate with REA in that state. He testified before the senate subcommittee which is investigating REA.

Becker said he was contacted by Craig at Harvey's restaurant in Washington on Dec. 12, 1940, at which time Craig outlined his plans. Craig, also under oath, had previously testified that he had never had lunch with Becker or making the statements which Becker on Dec. 11, 1940, recorded in a memorandum this memo is now in the committee's possession.

Committee Counsel Carroll L. Peedy repeated Craig's testimony to Becker and asked, "What was the truth there, anyway?" Becker replied:

"I am telling the facts and I think in time it will become clear that we did have such a lunch. Craig called my attention to the possibility of a political organization. This is the time for the American people to get together and elect a man who can win the war and then what?"

Lynd, a long-time resident of Idaho who used to practice law at Payette, said America fought last year was Spanish-American War. World war I without a national aim.

"One of these days," he said, "someone is going to define our national aim for us and before that time I think America should make up her mind and let the government know her wishes."

"My job is winning the war, but I think we should have a national aim. What we have been fighting for."

The general, who has held several important commissions and assignments in the Pacific since outbreak of the war, said the turning point in our favor in the war against Japan came at the battle of Midway.

Lynd and several members of his staff are enroute to San Francisco after a tour of four air force bases.

Alaska Air Crash Survivors Sought

FARRINGTON, Alaska, March 18 (AP)—An intensive search was underway today for the four crew members of a four-engine plane which crashed in a remote area of Alaska, survivors of a battle against severe temperatures after the plane crashed on Dec. 21.

Searchers, who had abandoned their efforts weeks ago, renewed the hunt on the theory two of the four missing men may be alive.

Crane at first reported seeing only one of his companions jump from the plane, but officers at Kodiak field said today it now was believed two had been seen.

The other flyers were Lieut. Harold Hopkins, Houston, Mex.; Sgt. Richard Simpson, Miami, Fla.; and Sgt. Ralph W. Smith, Norfolk, Va.

The plane crashed in the wilderness of Alaska near the northeast of Fairbanks after the crew members were ordered to jump at 15,000 feet.

The Bureau of Noxious Weed Control asks all farmers wishing to have noxious weeds cultivated during the 1944 to please contact the office as soon as possible.

The cultivation program will begin around April 1, and we will be able to take care of approximately 200 acres. The Weed Bureau also requests all farmers having empty carbon bluffs please to return these drums to the warehouse at the earliest convenient time. It may be that it will be impossible to get carbon bluffs during the summer if all drums are not returned as soon as they are empty.

On July 10, the Tumbler Green (the section that had been forced to return to base) was sent to Greenland in good weather. The P-38s were now ready and waiting for the next period of the flight to England, but a radio broadcast on the following day altered their plans.

Reykjavik, the Iceland radio reported, had been attacked. Contact had been broken. The P-38s were now ready and waiting for the next period of the flight to England, but a radio broadcast on the following day altered their plans.

The P-38s were now ready and waiting for the next period of the flight to England, but a radio broadcast on the following day altered their plans.

By this time all of the aircraft were running low on fuel. They had been airborne for only 10 to 20 minutes. Though fuel for only 10 to 20 minutes, the P-38s were now ready and waiting for the next period of the flight to England, but a radio broadcast on the following day altered their plans.

The following day the weather was rapidly changing. The P-38s on the ice, but without casualties. On the afternoon of July 11, three days after the flight had been forced down, the crew of the P-38s ingeniously cut the propeller off one engine, and started it up to generate power for their radio. They flashed their location to the bases, and a rescue party started out by boat in the choppy seas for a point on the coast near the wreck. The Coast Guard cutter Northland, en route with aviation gasoline and supplies to assist in the rescue, overtook the little boat as it headed up the fjord and assisted in making a landing by breaking ice for it.

PLANETS, STARS VERY DIFFERENT

By J. HUGH PRUETT
Astronomer, General Extension,
University of Oregon

"What is the real distinction between planets and stars?" asks a friendly reader who hams. "I am usually distinguished between the two classes for the simple reason, excepting sometimes when very near the horizon: stars do twinkle, and planets do not." Another characteristic feature is that the stars seem fixed in relation to each other. The word planet means "wanderer," for these slowly drift in relation to the fixed stars.

Planets, stars, comets and meteors are all celestial bodies, but planets are those which revolve around the sun. The planets are Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto. The stars are those which are not in relation to the sun. The stars are those which are not in relation to the sun. The stars are those which are not in relation to the sun.

Youngest Colonel

COL. RALPH H. MICHELSON, youngest of the four or five highest ranking officers of the 2nd Air Force, is the youngest colonel in the army. He is now serving with headquarters of the 2nd Air Force, and his rank is a permanent one. He became a colonel in the regular army, not a reserve officer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Michelson, Kimberly, (staff lieutenant).

Colonel, 27, Always Had Yen to Fly

KIMBERLY, March 18 — He is 27, four billion miles from our sun, but the nearest star seen across the vast and silent interstellar void, the blazing sun Proxima Centauri, is over 600 times farther away. Our sun with its splendid retinue of planets is this sun to occupy a very special place in the universe. The other stars, the stars are as brightly shining as the sun, but they are not in relation to the sun. The stars are those which are not in relation to the sun.
