Demos Refuse to Shift Convention

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—The Democratic Party today said it will support prograde prices of early and intermediate crop potatoes at rates ranging from $2.05 to $2.50 and late crop potatoes at rates ranging from $1.85 to $2.45 per hundred.

The levels at which prices will be supported vary by regions, grades and sizes of potatoes. The support levels are in a series of hundred-pound bins to plan the distribution of the potatoes and arrange for getting the votes back to the home state.

Because the army has more money than it needs, it is being used to help the war effort. The army is being used to help the war effort.

McCARRAN RAPS PLANT CLOSING

WASHINGTON, April 1 (UP)—Sen. Pat McCarran, D. Nev., today accused members of the War Relocation Authority of seeking to close the Basic Magnesium plant near Las Vegas, to advantage the interests of competing plants with which they are connected.

McCarran, in a speech in the senate, said it was "a strange and a shame that we have men in this country who will lend themselves to this procedure."

The WPB, McCarran said, recommended that Basic Magnesium be closed despite the fact that it is the largest producer of magnesium in the world.

"This is being done," he shouted, "because there are at the war production board members who are former members of the board of Basic Magnesium's chief competitor."

Some WPB members, he said, "at the WPB to serve their own interests and not to serve their country."

Should be shut

"In some countries I could mention," he added, "that such a board would not only be fired but would be stood up against a wall and shot at."

McCarran said that Basic Magnesium was built at a cost of $123,000,000. The plant now is producing 160 to 175 tons of magnesium a day.

At the outset of the war the United States found itself exceedingly short of magnesium. McCarran said, Britain found itself unable to obtain enough to produce munitions, and brought to the United States blueprints and plans for setting up the British production system.

$123,000,000 Appraised

Newspapers found that quantities of ore and power and the government appropriated about $123,000,000 to the production of the Basic Magnesium plant at Las Vegas. New Boulder dam, which is to be built at a cost of $160 to $165 tons of magnesium a day.

"The question now seems to be whether or not there shall be a curtailment of the production of magnesium at Basic Magnesium in Nevada, and whether or not other plants shall be permitted to operate, notwithstanding the fact that the cost of production is either equal to or greater than the cost of production at Basic Magnesium," he declared.

CHARGES FILED

WASHINGTON, April 1 (UP)—D. Wilson, chief of the war production branch, today announced that he had filed charges against the Basic Magnesium plant at Las Vegas, for allegedly producing a "blatant waste of money."

Wilson said that he had knowledge that the plant was ever connected with "the chief competitor" of the Basic Magnesium plant. Wilson identified the unnamed plant referred to by McCarran as probably the Dow Chemical company.

Wilson denied that WPB was considering closure of the basic magnesium plant but said that curtailment of its production was under consideration because of several factors, the most important being present over-production of the metal.

Secondary factors for consideration of cutting down the Las Vegas plant's output is the fact that it is located in an area of shortage in the Los Angeles shortage area and would also put at the disposal of the navy in that area an additional 125,000 barrels of fuel oil a month, he said.

He said that a cutback in magnesium production of the Dow Chemical company was also under consideration by WPB. He pointed out that the privately-owned capacity of Dow totaled only 36,000,000 pounds annually compared with the nation's 12,000,000 pounds, which he said "would hardly make Dow a competitor of Basic."

Plane-Builder Changed Over To Air Gunner

SUN VALLEY, April 1—Aviation machinist second class Vincent L. Brennan, U. S. N. R., knew pretty well what was holding the line and together when he started operating a tail gun in one of the air squadrons. Brennan, aboard the battleship USS Nevada, and later aboard the carrier USS Enterprise, became an aviator when he was transferred to the aircraft carrier USS Yorktown, and in his home town of Omaha he had put them together himself.

Graduating from "Beech" camp training at Sun Valley in 1942, Brennan was assigned to the Nevada in June to see action when that battleship covered the landing on Attu in the Aleutians. After a three-month "breather" at the naval air station, Seattle, Wash., he was transferred to the Enterprise, the first-top which figured so largely in the Gilbert and Marshall islands campaign.

During the landings at Tawara, her planes strafed and bombed the mile and one-half of coral reef in the softening-up process which preceded the marines to establish a beachhead.

Brennan was transferred to Sun Valley after three months aboard the Enterprise. He holds the following campaign ribbons: Army Distinguished Service Cross, Purple Heart, and Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal, with three stars, for Attu, Marshall and Gilbert campaigns.

L.D.S. Rites for Clawson Kimball

Funeral rites for Clawson K. Kimball were held at 2:30 p. m. Friday in the White mortuary chapel with the L. D. S. church of Havelton in charge.

Opening prayer was offered by George W. McDaniel.

The speakers were the Rev. E. E. Parker of the Havelton Presbyterian church and Bishop J. O. Gardner.

Lymon W. Harding offered benediction.

Acting as pallbearers were co-workers of Mr. Kimball: H. M. Griffith, Perry Johnson, Clint Hildreth, Ralph Baich and Don Crumrine, all of Havelton, and T. J. Schwartz, Eden.

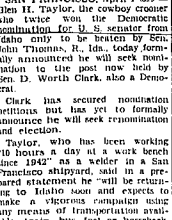

Duets were offered by Bishop Gardner and Cliff Gardner and Mrs. Pearl Johnson and Mrs. Loretta Howell. Bishop Gardner sang a solo. All were accompanied by Dorothy Robinson.

Grave dedication was given by Bishop Gardner.

Burial was in Sunset memorial park.

Idaho's Flight Weather Not as Good as Alaska

MARSHALL O. HOPPIN, regional director of the civil aeronautics administration, said today:

"Alaska has more good weather for instrument flying than does the nation from Seattle to Twin Falls, Ida."

"It is interesting to know that one air carrier operating between Anchorage and Seattle had a 100 per cent operating record during the winter, which is the worst month for weather on the coast route."

He explained that the civil aeronautics administration has spent more than $7,000,000 in Alaska since 1939.

"Since 1939 we have developed 1100 miles of federal airways in Alaska," Hoppin said. "These airways are the roughest over, which included aircraft either aerol or operate. We have built 23 airports, 19 of them being major airports. These fields have been located to be of use after the war as well as during the war."

"We are designing our airports to carry 150,000 pounds per square foot. This means that big planes will be operating in the future."

BOSIN HAD PART IN 8 CAMPAIGNS

BUN VALLEY, April 1.—Bosin Andrew M. Hiss, U. S. N., is taking a day now just hanging around living off the fat of Bun Valley naval hospital. But for a good portion of the five and one-half years in the past, Bosin Andy didn't get much chance to lounge around. From Pearl Harbor to Tarawa he saw enough action to earn a few stars.

Holder of the navy gold conduct and American defense campaign ribbons, the American theater and the Atlantic-Pacific base, Bosin Andy can and probably does remember eight major engagements with the enemy. After enlisting in May, 1928, he received his boat training at Great Lakes naval station. From there he was assigned to New Orleans.

He was on hand at Pearl Harbor when the shooting broke and has a part in the story of the evacuation of the battle of Tassafarigi, Guadalcanal, in November, 1942, the new forward part of his ability to sink him from Boston Bay after being shot down by the first part of the Japanese fleet, while the guns on the part of the ship still float.

After being retired and made executive officer of the ship, Bosin Andy aboard quickly took the offensive in the battle of the Coral sea, the shooting of the Coral sea, and in the waters of the Pacific and the Gulf of Mexico.

In the latter campaign, the New Orleans was one of the ships covering the marine landing on Guadalcanal, and in the latter campaign, the New Orleans was one of the ships covering the marine landing on Guadalcanal.

Interment will be at the grave of her husband in Burley cemetery.

Mrs. Wood, the widow of Charles Wood, was active in L.D.S. church work, had been an L.D.S. Relief society president and an officer of the Daughters of the Utah Pioneer.

She and Mrs. Wood, who were prominent farmers at View.

The body was brought to Burley Friday and rests at the Payne mortuary.

Policies on War Damage Extended

WASHINGTON, April 1.—War damage insurance policies in force March 31, 1944, will be extended automatically for another 12 months without the payment of additional premiums or other charges, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones said today.

No action will be required upon the part of the policyholder to make the extension effective, Jones said in a statement.

Any additional insurance written after April 1, this year, will be at the existing rates. Premiums collected through the end of 1944 are totaled $126,000,000, after payment of all expenses, Jones said today.

BOUGAINVILLE, Solomon Islands, April 1.—Movies were resumed tonight after a three-week lapse while soldiers were fighting off Japanese air attacks to knock out the Pita and Torokina airfields.

YANK FOUGHT AND BEAT CROCODILE

The following story was written by Staff Sgt. Ward Walker, Chicago, machine corps combat correspondent, formerly a Chicago-Tribune reporter—Reprinted by the Associated Press.

CAPE CLOUDESTON, New Britain, April 1.—In the murky depths of a jungle pool, an army scientist today waged a hard-fought fight for his life against a vicious 10-foot crocodile and won.

With both arms badly torn and suffering from the shock of the performance, the scientist, Capt. Philip Darlington, 3d Bombardment, managed to make his way through the jungle to the hospital.

As a zoologist of an army research unit working with the marines, Darlington was prowling through the jungle all night hunting for insect specimens.

He came to a stagnant jungle pool and cautiously waded his way out to the middle on a log submerged about two feet under the surface. As he reached for a test tube of the thick green water, he saw the giant crocodile rise from the depths.

Darlington started edging toward the jungle wall. He lost his footing on the slimy log, and the reptile rushed him.

As he rose to the top of the water, the crocodile was upon him, mauling his face and huge fangs clearly visible.

He tried to grasp the thing's jaws, got one grip, lost it. The "vicious water soldier" as they were called, the reptile's jaws closed on Darlington's arm, it spun over and over, losing the air-tight, toothy, 100-pound captain as though he were a ball. Then it carried him to the bottom.

Those few seconds seemed hours, but Darlington, in his incredibly white as he thought.

"I killed," he said, "it was like trying to kick in a sea of molasses. My legs were numb and I was hard to force my muscles to respond."

When he was landed on the reptile's side, he felt it open its jaws. Despite the captain's flailing, the crocodile flung him to the surface and pushed him to the shore.

Committed, surrendered all the way to Long Island on Dec. 1, 1941.

Plan to make full use of the plan by planting again as well as one crop is harvested. When early beans are dug, seeds of late beans can be sown and late beans can be set out in the space from which early beans or lettuce have been harvested.

One-day intervals will provide a continuous harvest until frost appears.

Pat: Peacock won the State Club basketball tournament at the Culver last week defeating Vassar 29-21. In a recent consolation game, Peacock defeated Vassar 34-21 to Peacock, 42-40. In the Class B tournament held at Ripert in the Valley entry, Peacock defeated Vassar 44-21, and in the consolation bracket, Peacock defeated Vassar 40-29.

And more in the sports line, the basketball team won their 4th victory in a row when they defeated Oregon. Coming up is the district tournament to be held soon in Jerome.

A Twin Falls man has just his life in the service of his country. Pvt. Edward L. McKissack was killed in action.

The Peacock athletic personnel plucked themselves and wondered if they were dreaming when the weekly edition of the base's paper the "Tribune" All Stars was published.

Peacock is accepting a reduction in grade in order to make room for more grades for the enlisted men. The paymaster said that since it wasn't his money he didn't care how it was spent and the fellows only had to report on paymaster's sign, paymaster collected the post commander said that passers weren't necessary as long as men reported paymaster's sign.

—although it was a rosy picture, especially for a man in the line of business.

But the picture was an April Fool's edition.

Back from action in the south, Walter E. Smith, Jr., of Jerome, Jerome, Jerome's mate, first in action, just to know what is really happening on the home front from a lot of front line soldiers.

Last week we let you know what to expect from the boys who are going to the front. If you are enjoying dogs, you'll be interested to know that the "Tribune" field staff is now a permanent organization is being held today—and they have the "Tribune" field staff.

But they're not old and you're probably already seen 'em in the "Tribune" field staff.

One day last week, the paper's report of the "Tribune" field staff broke out in a rash last week and saw the "Tribune" field staff.

And this is no April Fool's joke and saw the "Tribune" field staff.

And this is no April Fool's joke and saw the "Tribune" field staff.

CHAPLIN'S CASE NEARING JURORS

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
HOLLYWOOD, April 1 (UP)—Miss Barry who accused Charlie Chaplin of twice violating the Mann act by transporting her to New York City and back in 1935 and the British comedian took time out from feeding court birds while their attorneys prepared their final arguments for presentation to the jury Monday.

Both sides rested yesterday and the case will go to the jury Tuesday after Federal Judge J. E. T. O'Connor has delivered legal instructions to the seven men and five women.

Charles H. Carr, the flaming-haired prosecutor, will present his final argument for the government. He will convene the jury at 10 a. m., to be followed in the afternoon by the defense's summation by Jerry Giesler, attorney for Chaplin.

Dramatically Opposed
Seldom has every point of evidence in such a case been described in such diametrically opposed fashion. Miss Barry charged that Chaplin had sexual relations with her before he went to New York, while he insisted that he had not. She said she had been in New York, and after she came back—the last time during a rendezvous in which she held an automatic revolver in her hand most of the time.

Chaplin replied that she had made a mistake of herself, that he had been in New York, and that he did not touch her in New York, or after he returned there. He said, he testified, he was afraid of her.

Miss Barry made a fine, upstanding witness. So did Chaplin. Miss Barry broke down and wept. Chaplin choked up twice, once while telling of finding his wife in a home while he was having a battle with her, and once while relating that he felt he was being forced to undergo an operation, the nature of which never was described.

Denies Girls Statements
Chaplin finished his testimony late yesterday afternoon, placing in the record as his last words his denial that he ever had sexual relations with Miss Barry. He said he did not know the woman, that he had never talked to her about the case.

Then Carr called the upstanding Miss Barry as a rebuttal witness. He asked several questions. Had she talked to Chaplin beside his pool about her unborn child? Had he suggested that she go to New York for the abortion? Had he told her that he didn't intend to marry anybody?

Miss Barry's answer to every one was "yes." And that's only a sample of what confronted the jury. Of the testimony of words in Miss Barry's testimony, there are thousands of words of eloquent words from the multi-millionaire comic contradicting her.

81 SCHOOLS LOSE AIR CADET UNITS

WASHINGTON, April 1 (UP)—The war department announced today that the army air force air crew training program at 81 universities and colleges in 21 states will be terminated on June 30.

Air-crew training operated under contract by 31 civilian flying schools also will be terminated on Aug. 4, the department announced.

College trainees will be assigned to air fields in the AAF training command, while awaiting daylight instruction, while enroute at the civilian schools will conclude their instruction normally then before transferring into advanced training.

The action affects only air crew students and does not alter the status of AAF personnel currently undergoing other types of college training, the statement said. Specialized Program Unchanged

Lift unchanged are the army specialized training program, the army specialized training reserve program and the AAF ground crew training program.

As a result of the air force decision to transfer 2500 prospective aviation cadets to ground forces, and temporary suspension of the procurement of air cadets, the statement explained, existing air facilities will be adequate to handle the air crew training after June 30.

Students will be moved out of the universities and colleges usually on a quota basis of more than 100,000 monthly. All cadets on military students until June 30.

Efficiency of the college program will not adversely affect the efficiency of air crew training, the statement said. The army specialized training program plan at colleges will be unchanged.

AUTO RAMS TREE; TWO GIRLS INJURED

Two Murtaugh girls were taken to the Twin Falls county general hospital early yesterday, but were to be released today, after the crash in which they were riding crashed into a tree in a parking on Blue Lakes boulevard at Second avenue east.

The girls are Joyce Cannon, 14, and Nancy Halbert, 15, both of Murtaugh. It was said at the hospital last night that neither was seriously injured, and that they would go home today. They were riding in a car driven by Granville Turner, Murtaugh, which was pushing a car driven by Albert Graff, Murtaugh, according to the police report.

The Graff car was said to have had a weak battery and no lights. When the two vehicles came off the second street east into Blue Lakes, Orfafi saw the intersection in time to avoid collision, but not Turner. The second car ran over the curb and crashed into a tree. The front end of this vehicle, a light coupe, was said to be badly damaged. The accident happened at about 2 a. m.

Over-all 1944 prices to the public, however, will be somewhat above those of last year, the agency said. The new levels are considerably higher than prices paid to farmers and country shippers for the entire 1943 crop.

OPA was unable to estimate the extent to which gross retail prices will be reduced, pointing out that the 1944 crop has not been under control here and there and that prices have varied widely.

Doc McCarty Is Feted at Parties

KIMBERLY, April 1.—Clarence Doc McCarty, who has left to enter armed service training, was honored at several parties here, including a dinner at the Woodmen home prior to his departure.

Mr. and Mrs. Asabel Murray, Jr., entertained at dinner in his honor. Other guests, besides his wife and children, Beverly and Loye McCarty, included Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Larson, and Mrs. Asabel Murray, and Mrs. Paul Mat, Arizona Priest and Joe Deppen.

Fred Oster, speaker who also arranged in honor of him and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mat, Pier.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McRoberts and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Larson.

It was with a towel where children are concerned, and the older children, as well, I had a letter from a soldier this very day and he said, "What a great thing about it all in that no matter how well I do the job, and it is done well, there is the smallest defect, by no means as a wrinkle in a letter, and I have plenty." So praise for the praise often, praise for the praise, some struggling child give up in discouragement.

Have you seen Angel Patti's hair? Patti, "The Golden Princess" is interesting. It's a story of a young girl who is a princess in a fairy tale. It's a story of a young girl who is a princess in a fairy tale. It's a story of a young girl who is a princess in a fairy tale.

CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN

Sometimes it is entertaining, breaking the monotony of routine life in the home to introduce a device of discipline. It makes rules less austere, and more interesting. It adds a streak of fun into the bargain. A chart with stars is an old one. A scheme of credit slips is another. No one scheme is to last longer than perhaps a month. New ones help.

One of our schemes was to use Yes and No for rewards and punishments. If you did something you knew you should not, do you earned a No. If you surprised the family by doing an unexpected good deed you earned a Yes. The Yes or the No could be held and delivered any time during the month in which it was earned. We had to use some tact and good sense about punishing a No, but the Yes's were easy.

When the boy ate half a chocolate cake we gave him a No. It was delivered the day he wanted to treat himself and two visiting friends to ice cream. We said, "No." You earned that No. You remember when you ate half a chocolate cake that was intended for the family desert.

When he surprised us by getting a high mark in algebra in which he had been steadily flunking, we gave him a Yes. We delivered it when he said he wished he could go to the circus with his class. He was allowed to go and he was given an extra half dollar for treats.

It is always better to reward good deeds than to watch for those that are not so good and mete out punishments. Punishment is not nearly so effective in stimulating a child to good deeds as rewards are. Just surprise a child with a reward for a good deed done and the child will keep the glow of it last. I have known it to glow for days and days. And I have known a punishment to glow in a child's spirit for months on end. It is difficult to get children to see the justice of a punishment. They are always so sure they are right. One tried and carefully.

It is not always necessary to "do something" to a child because he has done wrong. Often a little "yes," a "good boy," is all that is needed. Children hate to feel that their stars are eclipsed with a "no."

Be lenient with praise. Don't spare it. Watch for opportunities and lay

Anticipated almost from the very first day of school in the autumn of last year, the annual carnival and dancing of the Junior High School, which was held Friday night, was a most successful one. The carnival was held in the gymnasium, and the dancing was held in the school cafeteria.

The carnival was a great success, and the dancing was a great success. The Junior High School students and their friends were the main attraction of the evening.

Concert

Total of $45 was turned over to the Red Cross after the successful piano concert which Miss Ella May Weasel, junior high school music instructor, presented at the high school auditorium Monday 22. An Overland Conservatory graduate, she won the prolonged applause of her large audience at the conclusion of her program.

The stars' booth, in which pupils of Miss Rebecca Curtin appeared as famous movie stars; a penny throw, in which one seemed to be able to make their pennies "stick in the shell"—these were all just a part of the evening's fun for the young stars.

Miniature really describes the bowling alley set up at one end of the hall for the more athletically inclined, while near the center a long line of boys and girls awaited their turn at shooting baskets. Nearby, Miss Anne Williams' student manager, a small roulette wheel, and a far farther, would-be-bowling pictures practiced on the axis, with boys from Elizabeth Smith's room taking turns, sliding the balls through the heavy canvas for targets.

A few of the booths and a little of the entertainment offered—these were typical of the colorful, busy scene in the school shop Friday night.

Unity club will meet Wednesday, April 12, instead of April 5, as previously announced. Mrs. H. T. Blake will be the hostess.

They have been given the service to the country and for very solid reasons. I've talked to boys right here at Wendover who have performed ear drums, and they think themselves pretty good men. And as for that, I've seen some boys in the prize ring, engaged in boxing bouts and who have very good accounts of themselves, who I was told were 4-0.

SEAMEN GET TIPS ON SAVING LIVES

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Heads down for wartime merchant sailors—including the low-down on how to cure a seasickness before sailing time and how to make a life preserver out of a pair of pants—contained in a breezy new booklet being sent to 135,000 seamen.

Prepared by the medical division of the war shipping administration and the United States Navy, the booklet is based in part on tips furnished by veteran sailors.

A seaman's life may depend on a clear head and a strong constitution, says the booklet, so, if he's been bending the elbow too much while on the beach, the thing to do before going aboard is to eat.

But never eat a day, and an all-inclusive vitamin capsule, plus plenty of fluids and a good diet.

Rules Outlined
If his ship is sunk and he finds himself swimming around without a life preserver, he is advised to follow these simple instructions:

"Tread water, take off your pants or jacket, lie a knot in the tie or sleeve, tread them up and swim them through the air so that the arms and legs fill with air. Then rest the open ends so that the air stays in and you have a life preserver."

In abandoning ship, the booklet continues, jump only as a last resort. If you have to jump, crouch your arms over the life preserver so it won't ride up and probably break your neck.

Lead yourself down a rope or a line of hose, or you sometimes can even walk over the side of the ship.

Did you say WALK, mister?

Sure, says the writer, because that legend about every vessel having a crosspiece that draws down everything within a radius of 100 yards is "definitely an exaggeration."

Shouting "not much" even when you want to attract attention of possible rescuers—"whistles blown together carry farther than shouts and use less energy. Consideration of this tip may keep you in a lifeboat."

Churning the sea with oars is useless, says the booklet, so use planes. Yellow is the color seen farthest at sea—use it for a life preserver. If you go swimming to cool off, remember that in the tropics you can get sunburned.

The booklet advises all seamen to keep track daily of their vessel's position, even in safe waters, to prepare themselves for the possibility of being set adrift in a small boat.

Mayor Declares April Is Cancer Control Month

Proclaiming the month of April "Cancer control month," Bert A. Sweet, Twin Falls mayor, last night urged all channels of information to the public to lend their support as a matter of public welfare, and issued the following statement:

"Each April we are reminded by a special campaign of the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer that this disease is the second highest cause of death in this country, but that from half to two-thirds of the 135,000 annual deaths are unnecessary."

"Special emphasis is lent to their message this year by announcement that up to Dec. 23, 1943, deaths on all our battle fronts totaled 32,617, less than one-fifth of the deaths caused at home by cancer in a single year. Cancer deaths in Idaho average 427 per year."

"Treated in Time, Cancer Can Be Cured" is the slogan under which the Women's Field Army will endeavor to reach everyone throughout the nation, the early signs of cancer, to the end that we shall realize the necessity of consulting our doctors while cure is still possible, should the disease strike."

CAP Cadets Will Form Here Today

The civil air patrol cadets will be organized at a meeting at the municipal airport at 2 p. m. today, it was said by John Garrett, Twin Falls CAP squadron commanding officer, with all members receiving free airplane rides.

Part of the CAP air cadet recruitment program, the organization is open to all boys 16 and 17 years of age. The free airplane rides, which will be given during the day, are designed to acquaint the boys with flight and stimulate their interest in flying.

Garrett said the local CAP squadron also would have a business session in connection with organization of the cadets.

Guadalcanal Men Greet U. S. Nurses

GUADALCANAL, March 26 (AP)—Delayed fifty navy nurses, the first women to station permanently on Guadalcanal, arrived today to be greeted by hundreds of soldiers, many of whom had not seen a white woman in more than a year.

"It's exciting to see a woman, but there's not much you can do about it," said one of the typical G.I. comment.

Fifty other nurses landed at the island, 30 miles north, at Russell Island, 27 miles north, at Guadalcanal.

Goss Reiterates Stand on Subsidy

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—The House committee on the National Grange, today reiterated the Grange's opposition to fast subsidies and called for their elimination as soon as possible.

"Some opponents of the Grange are trying to make it appear that we have yielded on the subsidy question," he said. "This is absolutely not the case."

BUHL RED CROSS RAISES $7,500

BUHL, April 1—Plant totals for the west end Red Cross drive now stand at $7,500.84, which is almost 10 per cent over the quota of $7,000. This is an exceedingly good showing as the quota for the west end was raised by $2,000 over what it was last year.

E. M. Tomlinson, general chairman of the drive, Mrs. J. H. Shultz, secretary, and W. F. Damsen, field, Red Cross chairman, all expressed gratitude to the west end for generous response.

Other Red Cross activities include a shipment to the German shipping point for hospital needs of the western Red Cross area.

This shipment consisted of 25 pairs men's flannel pajamas, 100 pairs slippers, 100 hairbrushes, 100 bedside bags, 50 hot water bottle covers, 25 cold water bottle covers, 17 heavy thermos sweaters for use of men in the hospital.

Surgical dressings shipped this week totaled 76,000, the result of

You will be able to get extra food rations from your local rationing board automatically, beginning next Thursday.

The office of price administration made the ruling today to replace the present procedure which allows anyone whose health requires more rationed food to request supplemental rations. The present procedure has caused delays and has been abused by those having no legitimate needs for extra rations, OPA said.

Applications for supplementary rations in cases other than those listed above will be transferred by local boards to OPA district offices for approval.

Roosevelt Urges Victory Gardens

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt urged the American people to grow victory gardens and said that their harvest last year had "made a first essential to winning the war."

"We found out last year that even the small gardens helped," the President said in a statement. "The total harvest from victory gardens was tremendous. The department of agriculture surveys show that 42 per cent of the fresh vegetables consumed in 1942 came from victory gardens."

"This should clearly emphasize the far reaching importance of the victory garden program. Food still remains a first essential to winning the war."

"Victory gardens are a source of direct benefit in helping relieve manpower, transportation, and living costs as well as the food problem."

Three months work by the many women who gladly give their time to the nationally directed department of Red Cross activities.
