Embarrassed Deputies Facing Trial After Gambling Arrest

AMERICAN FALLS, Ind., April 18.—Two Booneck county sheriff's deputies accused of gambling in American Falls today are expected to face trial here tomorrow.

The two alleged gaming table operators, Nick Harris and Arthur ...

... as evidence.

The alleged gaming table operators, Nick Harris and Arthur ...

... coming in the wake of jittery ...

The dispute began Feb. 8, 1943 when Bannock sheriff's deputies crossed the county line to raid the "30 club," operated by Mike Joeris.

Barrick requested a territorial law giving sheriff's authority extending 600 yards beyond their jurisdiction.

The two deputies pleaded innocent to the charges of kidnapping. "Sure we gambled," said Hatch. "That's what we went to the club to do."

And we got our evidence, too. Records added.

The two asserted they went to the club on orders of Bannock Sheriff Alma Marley.

Hochman said he contemplated three men in a machine, a roulette wheel and a slot machine.

The man in the slot machine was a raid, and indicated he would introduce his hypothesis, first cast out the man of the slot machine, and then shall show us clearly to cast out the mote of the brother's eye."

Koester, unhappy middle-man to the jurisdictional dispute, asserted he is being persecuted by a syndicate of Bannock county night club operators.

PACIFIC WAR IS JUST BEGINNING

Military and political leaders believe the United Nations have just begun to fight the Pacific war and that it will be a long, hard pull to victory, the far eastern manager of the United Press, who has just arrived in New York from China, Burma, and India reports. He gives their views in the following dispatch.

By JOHN R. MORRIS

United Press Far Eastern Manager The United Nations have not yet really begun to fight their war against Japan in the opinion of most allied leaders in the Asiatic front. The peoples of the United States, except the Chinese, still have no clear conception of what they are up against in Asia, most of these leaders believe, and they see an urgent need that the whole far eastern situation be brought into focus so that Americans and Britons, particularly, may aid themselves for the struggle ahead.

Gen. Joseph Stilwell

The following comments, obtained by this correspondent from military, political and diplomatic figures on all the Asiatic fronts and from conversations with scores of persons who have long experience in the far east, will give a general idea of the immediate outlook.

1. The defeat of Japan probably will require from three to five years more fighting after the United States has been defeated. There is no such talk to victory over the Japanese. The Japanese will continue to fight after their military machine has been crushed, and that machine will be a great deal more effective than the one which has been smashed on land.

2. The problem of establishing a stable peace, once Japan has been defeated, will be as difficult as the war itself. There is no such talk of this problem, however, so far as allied leaders in Asia are concerned, that is insoluble.

3. The present Japanese drive into India is spectacular but of only limited importance. Should the Japanese succeed in capturing India, and seizing the supply line from the Japanese to British India, the Japanese forces in northern Burma, the result would be a local defeat, but it would not greatly affect the final outcome of the war.

4. The United States will be the dominant power in the Pacific ocean after Japan's defeat. It is taken for granted that the United States will retain permanent control over the so-called Japanese mandated islands which U. S. amphibious forces now are conquering.

5. China will share leadership in Asia with Russia and Britain. A restoration of British power in Burma, Malaya, Singapore and Hong Kong, and Dutch leadership in the Netherlands East Indies, is considered certain. Russia probably will expect a restoration of at least some of her former rights in North Manchuria, including trunk lines of the old Chinese Eastern railway, which furnished a short cut for rail traffic from Moscow to Vladivostok. Japan will be reduced to the status of a third class power.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Arthur Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board, would like a few words with you about the trust fund concerning which President Roosevelt velt and Senator Barkley went to the floor in their tangle over the President's insulting veto of the tax bill. You may remember that Mr. Roosevelt bawled out congress for refusing to raise the social security tax so that he could have one billion, one hundred million dollars more for general going expenses. Senator Barkley, in a

"When you say, 'So eventually the insured tollers will be windmilled of their original social security payment of taxes,' you apparently believe that the social security contributors are being taxed twice for the same purpose. The truth is that I am primitive about such problems, and, in the excitement of the moment, swung out into space with my opinion which was and remains that, having borrowed and used the social security contributions are taxed only once to pay for their benefits. As taxpayers, they may later, also be obliged to pay taxes to redeem government obligations issued to the trust fund. But when they do so, they are paying for the cost of the war and not for social security benefits. They would have had to pay these taxes to cover the cost of the war whether the bonds were sold to the trust fund or to private investors."

Altmeier's thoughts to you and I might say that this preamble is not intended to cramp his style but just to introduce the subject so that you will know what he is talking about. I doubt that you will understand him but still he deserves his say.

He takes neither side in the spat between the President and Mr. Barkley, holding that "both were right" which is double-jointed reasoning but simplicity, itself, compared to most discussions of a subject as mystical and controversial as religion.

Mr. Altmeier says, and we all know, that the trust fund holds government obligations or bonds which otherwise would be held by individuals.

Most of the pay rolls of today are met by the government, itself, so the government is paying both ends of the social security tax on the private investors. Thus, the public debt in the hands of private investors is just that much less. Instead of paying private investors, the government will pay the trust fund to cover the cost of future benefits to "The net result," Mr. Alunmeyer continues, "is that future congresses will not have to levy as high taxes as they would otherwise have to do if it were necessary for the (federal) government to pay private men's tax collector. So the treasury not only pays the social security but on every billion dollars spent for war work takes a loss of two million dollars in commissions paid to the contractor for his trouble in handling the money.

Washington is about to send a troubleshooter with the impressive title of vice-president to influence bickering Chinese generals to patch up their long squabble before we are dragged into the Sino-Soviet war.

Recently the press reported brief and sharply censored news of the feud. It is time to speak frankly and more extensively about this running sore and reveal data obtained from the highest possible sources:

DANCE WILL HELP FINANCE CENTER

To help finance the proposed Twin Falls youth center, a dance will be held Tuesday, May 2, at Radio Room, 1001 N. 1st St. The dance will be the first of a series of social events planned by the new Coordinating Youth Committee, announced following a meeting held last night in the KTPI main studio.

The tickets will go on sale after Friday, April 21, for $1.50 per couple, tax included.

The youth project is a direct outgrowth of the Junior Chamber of Commerce efforts toward that end and the co-chairmen of the coordinating committee are Jaycee representatives.

Junior and senior high school students will hold a ticket sale meeting. Plans of C. O'Leary and Principal John D. Platt, high school representatives, said music for the dance will be offered by a high school orchestra under the direction of Bob Hughes.

Policy and operating problems were also discussed at last night's meeting.

It was decided that a flexible policy will be employed and that the policy will be worked out by the youth management. The youth will assume most of the responsibility of the center.

The idea of the youth center was presented to Junior High students at a special assembly today and senior high students will be asked for opinions at a Friday meeting.

A joint meeting of the building and operating committees will be held at the home of operating chairman, Miss Madeline Garvin, this evening, when members will inspect the site for the center and remodeling work will be discussed.

Building for the center will be that which formerly housed the telephone exchange and is owned by the First Federal Savings and Loan association.

It was proposed that students take over the main responsibility for the center, with the Junior Chamber of Commerce acting as a sponsor.

CONFERENCES IN OIL OUTPUT OPEN

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP)—Oil and gas output must be held at a century of state department history 10 Americans and 11 British, and down today around a mammoth table and started actual work toward solving the economic world of tomorrow.

Their immediate objective is a study of international oil resources of common interest to their two countries, especially in the middle east where the United States proposes oil production on a huge scale in a British political and economic sphere.

Men All Experts

The study of these men, all experts on petroleum, was ordered by the London and Washington governments to prepare the way for a meeting later this year of high officials including Secretary of State Hull, whose job will be to formulate a joint policy on a multi-lateral policy if other countries like Russia are interested in coming in.

Beyond this lies the wide realm of political international economics and politics, including aviation and monetary questions on which a very tentative start already has been made. But oil is probably the key to many of the world's problems. Many officials believe and frankly say that "if we can agree on oil surely we can agree on anything."

Eight in Delegation

The American delegation of eight was headed by Charles E. Taylor, petroleum advisor to Hull. On the other side of the table were the British and the fourth-floor windows which overlook the White House grounds. Many of the delegates are in the center of the British oil delegation which he heads, likewise a group of eight men. In addition the Americans had two and the British three secretarial technical aides.

The first session was one of brief formalities. Serious work is to start later in the week.

Women Urged to Act in Politics

NEW YORK, April 19.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt has urged women to take a more active and vigorous interest in politics.

"Our great trouble is that we really don't stay awake," he declared, "and we sleep."

The best plan in the world, he said, is to get up and do it. It is worth a half of brains unless the voter chooses, capable persons to put it into effect, and they watch them closely.

Other party has any complete ability to choose the right person, she told members of the League of Women Voters. "The choice has to come from all the people, all the time."

I just saw a white face calf that was as big as a "pin" up girl in a soldier tent—well anyway this calf gets only SECURITY food and water and it is a dandy. P. L. Lawrence who owns this calf told me that Jerry—his son—is president of the Jersey association in these parts—but he tells me there aren't many good "P" boys around a Jersey so he bought this white calf. You could just see the calf grow—Now if any of my friends and customers are doubtful about SECURITY just drop in on P. L. Lawrence and take a look at the finest white face calf you ever saw. They come in and buy some SECURITY and watch your calves grow—saves you money too.

The lumber yard just unloaded another car of good Oregon coast fir dimensional lumber surfaced a size. This contains select No. 1 and No. 2, and there are all the different lengths. A shipment of western white and ash wire came in. You will find rabbit wire, chicken wire, hog wire and sheep wire. And those split cedar posts are moving out rapidly. If you need extra posts now is the time to get them. They are large and at a low price.

That car of shingles is nearly all gone but we hope to get another car. We have a fine composition roofing, light weight at $12.00 a roll and the heavy at $13.00 a roll. You will also find good 1 inch bridge plank in coast fir that will last nearly twice as long as the pine. We have it in most lengths, 3x12-10 to 3x12-24 ft.

If you see one of the new 3 gallon oil drums we got in our car load of oil last week. We have sold many of them. Filled with oil this is an economical and handy way to buy our Arkansas Motor oil. A barrel is handy size to handle and no dirt can get into your oil.

Our stock of general paint is good. Some of the colors have been discontinued but we still have a good selection. We are getting another shipment of linseed oil, and a barrel of pure raw linseed oil for livestock use.

What about your pressure gun grease and transmission grease? We have it in 10 lb. and 25 lb. pails at the pre-war price. Fat, goat, and mutton grease. You can get a gallon pail of this extreme pressure grease at only $4.75.

Make an appointment with your P. 88-Vico Station or dealer for this spring service without delay. Your car is a vital part of America's transportation system and needs better care than ever this year.

CAPONE BROTHER SOUGHT IN DEATH

CHICAGO, April 19 (AP)—Capone, 55-year-old youngest brother of the notorious "Scarface Al" and Walter Sanders, 45, a bartender employed in his Chicago tavern were sought by police today after the arrest of an old-time Capone mobster traced to the tavern owned by the "good boy" of the family of infamy.

James Larkin, 31, former race-horse owner, trainer, hotel, gambling house employee and member of the Capone prohibition era gang, was found with a bullet hole between his eyes in a dark alley on the west side early yesterday morning.

Traced to Tavern

Police quickly traced the murder to Capone's "House of Fame" tavern, where bullet holes were found on a wall and signs had broken a window. One part of the floor had been freshly scrubbed and officers said a blood stain apparently had been removed.

Two persons, who said they were in the tavern last night at the time of the shooting, Jerry Brennan, 27, and his 18-year-old wife, told officers that they saw bartender Walter Sanders push Larkin into a back room of the tavern. A few minutes later Capone took a gun from a drawer and followed the men into the room, Brennan said.

"We were all drinking heavily," he said, "and it's all been in my mind but I can remember hearing three shots fired."

Brennan said Capone then came out of the back room and sat at the bar in the front of the tavern. Sanders, described as "a real strike" ran out of the tavern and fled on foot, according to Mrs. Helen Kasper, owner of the building in which the tavern is located. Mrs. Kasper said she saw Sanders from her apartment.

Was Bartender

Brennan, who once worked as a bartender at the tavern, said Capone and Larkin had been drinking with him and his wife when they became involved in an argument over coffee from a $5 bill. Larkin accused Capone and Sanders of taking the money from the bar, Brennan said.

Police, searching the basement of the building, found the partially-burned remains of Larkin's hat, shoes, eyeglasses and a blood-stained towel. The steps leading to the basement also were blood-stained.

Speaker Says FR Won't Quit His Press Meetings

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 19 (AP)—George W. Miller, speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives and former editor of the Connecticut News, said in the annual Paul Buck lecture at Yale university today that he did not intend to quit his press conferences, as did President Wilson in the last world war.

"These passages at arms with the gentlemen of the press are a sort of emotional vitamin for the system, and need to be," Miller declared, "and they renew his assurance of the magic of his improvisations. Certainly lack has been with him so far."

Miller described the President's press conferences at the time of the supreme court and purge fight as "full of mingled wit, witlessness and blather."

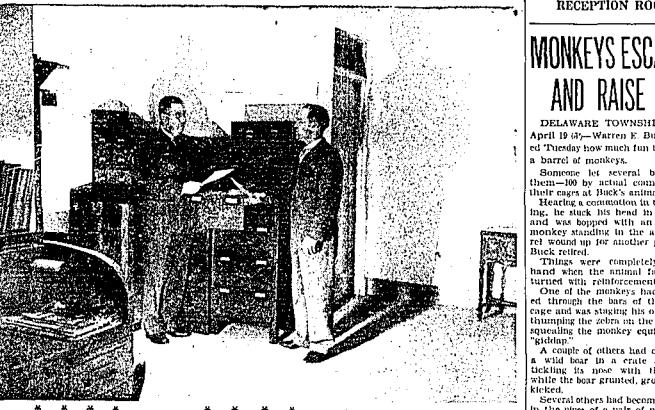

He said Mr. Roosevelt had continued as a "master of verbal fencing and lightning-walking" until the adverse by-elections of 1942.

Police Occupy Spacious and Efficient New Quarters

New Police Quarters Provide Advantages Lacking in Past

The modern police department serves the public in many ways besides the apprehension of criminals and the rounding up of riotous folk who will not or cannot go home.

The Twin Falls Police Department has recently moved into new quarters, which provides advantages far exceeding anything that the department previously has had available. Here the department is in position to carry out its duties more effectively, and its quarters are modern enough that the citizen cannot feel as though he is entering a room next door to the underworld when he visits the place.

The new quarters are designed to permit expansion when future needs warrant.

is discussing the department's new and improved record system with chief of Police Howard Gillette. Partially shown in the left background is the window which the arrest tables for booking prisoners, who are brought in through a door opening into the jail corridor. Prisoners to be booked are not brought through the reception room.

In the other photo the commissioner, left, and the police chief stand before a part of the record file in one corner of the investigation room. Out of the picture to the right in this room is a long counter for fingerprint and other investigation work, and the space where the "mugshot" camera is to be installed.

The chief's office is situated between the reception and investigation rooms, with a window opening into the record department. The new layout also provides a women's detention cell.

New Charges Says U. S. Hit Own Aircraft

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—Drew Pearson, newspaper columnist, disclosed today that allied planes were shot down 21 U. S. troops-carrying planes carrying nearly 400 soldiers over Sicily last Aug. 14, only three days after a similar incident when 23 transport planes were shot down by friendly gunners with a loss of more than 400 men.

The war department declined immediate comment on this second incident disclosed by Pearson. The first incident had been confirmed officially after it was revealed by a returned army combat correspondent in a speech at San Francisco.

Were in Formation

Pearson said in his "Washington Merry-Go-Round" column that the planes shot down Aug. 14 were in a formation bearing paratroopers to aid the British operations at Salerno. He said that whereas enemy guns probably accounted for some of the craft destroyed Aug. 11, the second group "were shot down by naval gunners—probably a combination of U. S. and British ships."

Declaring no steps have been taken in intervening eight months to provide anything, but ordinary transport planes to carry paratroopers in the forthcoming western European invasion, he said:

"The inside story of what happened over Sicily and the failures since is set forth here only with the hope that it may fill some of the high command to side with the younger officers who have fought a heroic battle to give better protection to paratrooper-carrying transports."

Command Changed

Prior to the opening of the Sicilian campaign, Pearson said, paratroop operations were under the command of Col. Mike Dunn, "a fighting Irishman." Dunn, he said, won an agreement from the navy that it would give him as many planes as he needed for his paratroopers to go into Sicily for fear of attack on the island.

But the navy soon sought to abandon the agreement, he said, and Dunn was replaced by Brig. Gen. P. L. Williams who "finely" yielded to navy pressure "—the early order was changed."

The first paratroop drop over Sicily, he said, took place on the night of Aug. 9-10, "before the navy arrived, and was immediately abandoned because of the navy's refusal to provide any planes to carry the paratroopers."

Several officers had become trapped in the pipes of a pair of hot-bellied planes used to test the building in winter.

As Buck and his helpers reentered, an old monkey with a philosophyical look stood just inside the door, juggling two eggs meditatively. Buck covered his eyes and cursed. The old-timer held his fire, but another intruder came from the apple barrel, now manned by three of the Simius. They fired till the last apple, then took to the rafters.

Things were completely out of hand when the animal farmer returned with reinforcements.

One of the monkeys had squinted through the bars of the cage and was staring his own roder, bawling the other on the back and squealing the monkey equivalent of "kiddap."

A couple of others had discovered a wild bear in a crate and were looking to use him as bait while the bear grunted, growled and kicked.

MONKEYS ESCAPE AND RAISE CAIN

DELAWARE TOWNSHIP, N. J., April 19 (AP)—Warren E. Buck learned Tuesday how much fun there is in a barrel of monkeys.

Buck, who has several barrels of them—200 by actual count—out of their cages at Buck's animal farm, is hearing a commotion in the building. He stuck his head in the door and was bogged with an apple. A monkey standing in the apple barrel and would up for another pitch and Buck retired.

ONCE A WEEK
Editor, Times-News:

On Easter day at our local church the attendance was about double the usual number and reports from the neighboring churches showed a similar condition which gives to all folk fearing people that grand and glorious feeling that we as people are progressing even in these times, when darkness appears to be on the face of the deep in all Christian nations while all heathen nations and non-Christian animals are at peace.

Which brings into mind the parable of the rich dairy man who started a dairy on an Easter Sunday with 600 dairy cows, 20 modern milking machines, 20 operators and all up to date equipment. These operators began their milking before breakfast on Easter morning. After finishing went to breakfast leaving all the cows in the barn.

They four again on Easter morning to do their milking and lo, they found themselves in the midst of the full of dry cows and they very dry and they prophesied and as they did so there was no rattling or shaking of the dry bones and no shivers came from them, nor did any one come to his home as recorded in Ezekiel 37-1 to 15.

I wonder if all successful dairies are as conducted in this local land of milk and honey, but come on back next Easter day. There will be service.

PHOENIX'S BOARD RAPS DRAFT PAY

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 18 (AP)—Maricopa county (Phoenix) elective service board No. 4 members today protested a recent suggestion by U. S. Sen. Alexander Wiley, R., Wis., proposing compensation for draft board members.

"The board said in a telegram to the senate's military affairs committee that it 'vigorously denounced' the proposal and 'there is not enough gold in Fort Knox to hire us to do the unpleasant tasks we are doing for the nation.'"

"To offer three men cash compensation," said the telegram, "for their patriotic efforts, no matter how well intended the gesture, constitutes the prostitution of patriotism and is far more insulting than flattering."

"We want no overtime, no time and a half our double time, the message continued. 'All we want is to be privileged to help win the war as quickly as possible.'"

"There are presently far too many feet in the public feed trough and to add 40,000 to 50,000 draft board officials is unthinkable."

That's a pretty positive statement from Reddy Kilowatt, but Reddy knows what he's talking about . . . as everyone will agree who ever enjoyed dependable electric hot water.

For dishes . . . for shaving . . . for baths . . . for laundry . . . for any of the scores of chores in every home that call for hot water, there's no substitute for this cleanest and safest water heating method.

Enjoy your electric hot water every way, but right now especially, avoid wasting it. Remember, electricity has gone to war, and dripping faucets waste hot water . . . so does dishwashing under running water rather than in a filled sink.

NO FUSS — NO BOTHER — NOTHING TO TAKE CARE OF!

Whether your electric water heater is installed in a closet or out in the open in the basement, it requires no attention or care. That's why hundreds of families are so enthusiastic . . . why those who don't already own electric water heaters have some of their war bonds already earmarked for them after Victory.

BLISS RUSSELL HURLS NO-HITTER AS BRUINS NIP BUHL, 1 TO 0

Jim Russell Drives in Run in First Inning

BUHL, April 19.—Bliss Russell made a debut as the Bruins' baseball coach an auspicious one yesterday. The coach, a right-hander, showing the one-year-old team, that he received at the Dodgers' camp in Salt Lake City last fall, hurled a no-hit game to give the Bruins a 1-0 victory over the Indians.

No-Hit Hurler

Russell came close to hurling a perfect game. Only two batters reached first, one on a base on balls, and the other on a hit batsman. He whiffed 16 Indians and his whites played errorless ball behind him.

It was a real day for the Bruins. Jim Russell, lanky sophomore who has become a left-handed pitcher, was in his first game with the Bruins in the space of 12 months, drove in the winning run in the first inning with a single after third baseman Al Starnes had walked and Buhl had pitched first.

The Bruins had a number of other chances to score. In the fifth inning, they took the lead, but the run was not scored. This was because Buhl's ball, which was thrown as good as Russell. He fanned 12 and gave up one hit but his main reason for the error behind him.

The Bruins will meet Jerome (Tom) Thayer and the Bruins today at 7:30 p.m. with Jim Russell as pitcher. The game will be played at the Twin Falls high school gymnasium Thursday night.

Two Changes In Pro Rules

PHILADELPHIA, April 19 (AP).—The national football league rule committee recommended Tuesday two major changes in the pro code and several minor alterations after sitting through a list of 43 suggestions made by players and club owners who will open their annual meeting here tomorrow.

The two big changes, which must be adopted by the league by a four-fifths vote, will restrict coaching from the bench and virtually eliminate out-of-bounds kickoffs.

Under the new rules, the committee proposed to permit coaches to communicate with players on the field by means, provided that they remain within a zone measuring 10 yards in each direction from the middle of the bench and do not encroach upon the field.

To prevent intentional out-of-bounds kickoffs, the committee suggested a five yard penalty on each kickoff until the ball is legally handled by the receiving side. This also applies to kicks that fall to travel yards, unless the ball is recovered or touched by the receiving team.

A. A. to Open 43rd Season

COLUMBUS, O., April 19 (AP).—George M. Trautman, president of the American association, predicted today that nothing but new government rules or regulations would prevent the league from playing out its 43rd baseball season which opens tomorrow.

The same eight cities which had cases when the association was formed in 1902 were represented today when "play ball" was sounded in Indianapolis, Louisville, Kansas City and Milwaukee.

PHILADELPHIA, April 19 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers pitching staff has increased to 14 members when 20-year-old Bill Lohman, an unexpected find, in his appearance before the opening game with the Phillies.
