Rancher Finds Bomber Wreckage; Four Killed

John W. Green, rancher of the south hills area, was already at the scene of an army plane crash when air corps officers and a Mountain Home rescue party reached the spot Sunday. Here the rancher surveys the shattered fragments of a twin-engine bomber reportedly shot at and forced to target-landing, went down approximately 15 miles south of the Twin Falls airport, killing all four occupants. 4 Mountain Home Fliers Die as 2-Motored Bomber Crashes 15 Miles From Twin Falls

Instantly killing all four occupants, a Mountain Home based twin-motored army target-towing bomber crashed into the side of a hill 15 miles due south of Twin Falls airport at 9:45 a. m. Sunday.

Formal announcement of the four deaths came Sunday afternoon from Lt. Col. Clarence D. Barnhill, Mountain Home airbase station commander, who listed the names but gave no details other than that a board of inquiry has been chosen.

One of two training planes which had been hovering over the city earlier in the morning, it apparently crashed after it "peeled" off and rolled upside down through a layer of low-lying clouds over the south hills. Observers believed that the crew failed to consider the height of the terrain which is approximately 6,500 feet. The planes had been flying at about 8,000 feet.

Two B-25s were among the casualties: Second Lieut. William R. Conroy, husband of Mrs. M. Conroy, and Second Lieut. Richard C. Clements, husband of Mrs. J. C. Clements. Other victims were Capt. Byron V. Dime, Dallas, Tex., and Pfc. George DeWitt, Los Angeles.

Plane Burned
After crashing the twin-engine converted bomber burned for over an hour producing a column of smoke visible from the municipal airport here. Wreckage was confined to a small area around the wreckage. It was believed that the ship "panicked" in flight, and that the wreckage was scattered over a large area.

Background ground was seen back for 50 feet from the plane in any direction. Only the rudder was disintegrated and thrown some distance away.

CAP pilots from here flew over and spotted the wreckage in the fire-blackened area after noting the smoke. When army personnel from Mountain Home arrived at about 11:30 a. m., civilian pilots guided them to the site as they drove to within two miles of the wreckage.

Called From Base
With the investigation officers were the pilot of the second ship which crashed. The wreckage was briefly before reporting back to the Mountain Home base by radio. Officers at the base immediately called the airport here stating they would fly to the site of the crash.

John W. Garrett flew over the wreckage before the investigation and guided them on the ground while Harry Harris and Charles Condit saw it from the air.

STRATEGY OF COP HIT BY KEY VOTE FOR IDAHO DEMOS

LEWISTON, Idaho, June 8 (AP)—Republican strategy in the forthcoming congressional election in Idaho, politics or opposition to everything accomplished by the Roosevelt administration, the party that if you strike at everything you may hit something to which, people object," William Hawkins, Republican county prosecutor, said in his keynote address to the state Democratic convention here today.

Contrary to tradition, generally observed by pre-primary keynotes, Hawkins, definitely expressed hope that "our delegates to the national convention are instructed . . . for Franklin D. Roosevelt. Should Roosevelt not be our candidate, then our delegation should be unconstructive."

Oppose Preparedness
"If we are to take Republicanism as the good thing," Hawkins said, "we will be listening to many who were opposed to preparedness. To those who have made it as an inconvient as possible for the present war effort, to the party that if you strike at everything you may hit something to which, people object."

He pointed out that if they had held office during the last 12 years would have as their chief policy, the good thing, the party that if you strike at everything you may hit something to which, people object."

"The political critics of the Democratic party," Hawkins said, "are the 'new deal' and their charges at the Roosevelt administration. None of them has the courage, or the soul of a lion, to say the least, to the people whose votes they seek, which of these legislative remedies they would support or oppose, if it returned to power."

Agreements Cited
Hawkins also cited the reciprocal trade agreements, the good neighbor policy, the wage and hour law, the Social Security act, the National Labor Relations act, and the anti-conservation program as evidence of "constructive legislation" or "carried over."

He said that "this is not producing inflation," as the last one did. He said that "this is not producing inflation," as the last one did. He said that "this is not producing inflation," as the last one did.

Allies Welcomed by City as Nazi Force Flees Across Tiber

By ROBERT VEHLHOLM
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, June 5 (UP)—The fifth army completed the occupation of Rome, first axis-held capital in Europe to be liberated, and swept on without pause across the Tiber river today in close pursuit of German forces fleeing in disorder toward a new defense line possibly 150 miles to the north.

American tank and infantry vanguards already were streaming north from Rome under orders to annihilate the enemy armies when allied headquarters announced the triumphant liberation of the religious capital of the world in a special communique on the 27th day of the Italian campaign.

"Troops of the fifth army occupied Rome on the night of June 4-5," the communique said. "Leading elements have passed through the city and are now the Tiber in some places."

"Adolf Hitler was reported by the official German news agency DWD to have ordered the city to be withdrawn northward of Rome to avoid drawing the enemy capital into a battle area. The clandestine radio Atlantic said the Germans were still in Rome, but were withdrawing from southern France and two others from the fall of Rome 'a stepping stone to the final and irrevocable decision to withdraw from public life' on the day on which allied troops enter Rome," and to turn their hands over to Prince Umberto, king of Italy.

"Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of the fifth army, called the fall of Rome 'a stepping stone to the final and irrevocable decision to withdraw from public life' on the day on which allied troops enter Rome," and to turn their hands over to Prince Umberto, king of Italy.

King Turns Over Rule to Umberto
NAPLES, June 5 (AP)—King Vittorio Emanuele has signed a decree giving up his throne and conferring his powers upon his son, Crown Prince Umberto, it was announced today. The king had announced last April, 13, that he would abdicate in order to withdraw from public life on the day on which allied troops enter Rome, and to turn their hands over to Prince Umberto, king of Italy.

JAPS BLASTED IN 5-WAY AIR RAIDS
By The Associated Press
The Japanese war octopus is running against ever-heavier allied air blows on five of its far-flung tentacles but Tokyo radio said today "an offensive which will hit China in two and foil American strategy" is ready.

Allied aerial successes were reported in new assaults in New Guinea operations in the southwest Pacific, against the Kurile Islands in the north Pacific and on Truk in the central Pacific.

Harass Invaders
In the vital China theater where Chinese troops are trying to stop the Japanese advance on Changsha in Hunan province, American aircraft harassed the invaders.

In the India-Burma theater an aerial assault on the Japanese "overhanging air superiority" was a major factor in placing those camps in the hands of the British and the Chinese. The Japanese were fighting for a Japanese Myittha base in the north of the Irrawaddy river, and the British and Chinese were fighting for a Japanese Myittha base in the north of the Irrawaddy river.

The enemy losses in the new attacks brought their total casualties to over 6,000 dead in the last six days of fighting, a period in which the Russians also knocked out 272 tanks and 260 planes.

IDAHO CAMPAIGNS ENTER LAST WEEK

BOISE, June 5 (AP)—Idaho's 50 primary candidates today started the final week of campaigning in what is generally regarded as an apathetic campaign.

Voters will call ballots a week from tomorrow but most candidates believe the vote will be light despite the number of aspirants.

Only two real battles have developed. One is in the senatorial campaign where supporters of James Hawley, Isole, Democratic aspirant, have attacked the "free-wheeling isolationist" record of incumbent Sen. D. Worth Clark, D., who seeks re-election.

The other is legislative repeal of the senior citizens grant act, an initiative measure to liberalize old age pensions, with members of the Idaho Independent Voters' league conducting a relatively quiet drive to defeat this it believes responsible for the repeal.

Service men and women overseas will not be able to vote in the primary but the legislature made it possible for overseas voting in the fall general election.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL AIRRIG

ATLANTA—Uncle Sam will never again enter a world war unprepared for aerial production. That was the lesson of the war. The air was when Japan attacked Pearl Harbor. The planes which destroyed our Pacific fleet. The planes which destroyed our Pacific fleet. The planes which destroyed our Pacific fleet.

With the invention and cooperation of President Roosevelt, Gen. Henry H. (Happy) Arnold, commander of the army forces, has established an historical section whose task is to set down for military posterity every move made from this day on. We learned that sky troops might determine the outcome of the conflict.

The annals of the ground forces and services of supply are also being written, but the basic principles of three divisions are being written. The first division is the new and potentially the most important war baby.

There was no official history of American military aviation, undertaken during World War. The late Col. Clayton W. Williams, who heads the novel project. The lessons of World War I military aviation were in part lost for lack of a scientifically compiled record. A single scientifically based progression of what could have come, had the war lasted a few months longer, was buried beneath the residue of war. The air was then a time for the new and potentially the most important war baby.

FOR FUTURE REFERENCE

Congressman James W. Wadsworth of New York recently spoke some words of advice to a group of generals and admirals, apply more directly to the general taxpayer public. They deserve to be passed along.

Mr. Wadsworth was pleading that this country avoid its past mistakes and maintain an adequate armed force after the end of the war. We have gone into each of our major wars woefully ill-prepared and yet, as Mr. Wadsworth points out, after each conflict, we have argued ourselves into thinking that we need only a "flimsy skeleton of a national defense structure."

Our armaments have not been entirely obsolete or peacetime Mr. Wadsworth explains it thus: "Whenever the American people grow restive under a tax burden they are apt to turn our military might into a political issue. The congressmen know whereof he speaks. He saw it happen in the twenties when, as senator from New York, he was chairman of the senate committee on military relations. And he admits that there will be plenty of temptation to repeat the process when this war is over. Such things as the interest on a staggering national debt and millions in cash for returning soldiers will bring unprecedented peacetime taxes.

It is obvious now that we paid a price for unpreparedness. Mr. Wadsworth says that we must not allow this to happen again. He says that we must not allow this to happen again. He says that we must not allow this to happen again.

Yet we had better face the fact now that the defeat of Germany and Japan will not mean the end of danger. The world is growing richer, more powerful, and more dangerous. The world is growing richer, more powerful, and more dangerous.

It will be well if we all impress ourselves with the fact that if we want world peace, we shall need the strength to enforce it. Whatever it costs to keep up that strength, it will be cheaper than another Pearl Harbor.

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER

People ask what the allies mean by "unconditional surrender." Perhaps one of OWI's news items offers a clue. According to OWI, German "tourists" have been ordered to wear a European passport, "poison the minds of neutrals against the United Nations so that Germany may prepare a springboard for another try (at war)." Such plans were being made in 1918 by the Prussian militarists long before Hitler aroused popular German enthusiasm for the president of the Reich. The allies must be clear on this point. The allies must be clear on this point.

Mass, Luncheon Open Catholic Women's Meet

With delegates still arriving Monday morning from out-of-town for the silver jubilee celebration of the Idaho Council of Catholic Women, solemn mass was celebrated at 10 a.m. at St. Edward's Catholic church with Mass: Joseph P. O'Connell, P.A.V.G., celebrant; the Rev. Fr. James Gray, Shoshone, as sub-deacon; the Rev. Fr. Donald Simmons, master of ceremonies. Immediately following mass, registration of delegates continued in the lobby of the Park hotel, with the figure expected to reach the 150 mark by the time luncheon was served at 12:30 o'clock in the dining rooms of the hotel.

Address of welcome to luncheon guests was extended by Claude H. Detweiler, president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, and principal address, "The Church and Peace," was offered by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Edward J. Kelly, Boise.

During a lighter time during luncheon entertainment was the clever hat game, in which four women appeared in styles of the 1920s and five more appeared in the latest styles of today. Mrs. Claude H. Detweiler, convention chairman, was responsible for the successful event.

Striking Decor
Festures of the decorations was a shrine, the three-foot statue of the Virgin Mary from the school, which was surrounded by white flowers, with blue hydrangeas fastened to the front.

A small Madonna, surrounded by blue iris and pink lilies, and other tables were decorated with spring flowers. Under the direction of Mrs. Forbes Patterson.

After the luncheon, the place cards, and each guest was given a favor of a card picturing the Virgin Mary.

Official opening of the convention with Mrs. Detweiler, introducing Mrs. Theodore J. Goodrich, Twin Falls state president, followed immediately after the luncheon.

Principal speaker at this afternoon's business session was the Rev. Fr. Donald Simmons, who discussed the silver jubilee of the Women's Council.

State officers will give their year's reports, and standing committee reports will be presented. Resolutions are scheduled to report. Resolutions are also scheduled for presentation and adoption.

Dance Tonight
Other social event today will be a dance this evening at the Idaho Legion Memorial hall, sponsored by Twin Falls Knights of Columbus.

Tuesday's schedule includes the first business session, with new officers to be elected, and a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. at the Park hotel, with 100 persons expected to attend. Later, the group will be conducted on a tour of the city.

Among the guests of honor at the convention are the following past presidents: Mrs. Fred N. Hawley, Boise; Mrs. Helen O'Connell, Boise; Mrs. John Hood, Pocatello; Mrs. E. J. Nicholson, Wallace; Mrs. Joseph P. O'Connell, Boise; Mrs. Paul Braun, Boise; Mrs. J. C. Hummel, Boise.

CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN
By ANGELO PATRI
Living with a child we soon learn his ways. We know what he is likely to do under certain circumstances and if what he is inclined to do is not good, we can prevent his doing it by arranging the circumstances. It is easier to choke out a poor behavior habit by preventing its repetition than it is to cure it after it has been expressed in action.

James Brown, who is in company of the helper down at the garage to plan things to be done to reduce the number of times Jimmie goes to the garage. Some pliers and a screwdriver are needed to get the exact amount, we must know what we want to do, and we must call for no money until we can train her to the error of her ways.

Face Facts
The baby cries whenever Granny is called to the kitchen. He is a temper. We face the fact boldly and tell Granny the baby is not to be held. Even if she is a little bit of a temper, she comes home dissatisfied. She does not go to her room, but she goes to her room to sleep. We face the fact that the baby is not to be held.

Children like to try new things. They should do so because they grow up and learn to do things for themselves. In new situations, we try to get the child to do things for himself. We face the fact that the baby is not to be held.

When children use machines we must show them the proper way to use them. We face the fact that the baby is not to be held. We face the fact that the baby is not to be held.

Brilliant Technical Skill Shown by Murray North

By LARRY J. HALL.
After a commendable rendition of the first movement from Schubert's Symphony in D minor (under the baton of Murray North), the young pianist, Murray North, then rose to a climactic finale, adding a dash of humor during a delightful variation, and a recital at the first Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon.

Through three Chopin selections, he displayed the finest technique, demonstrated earlier, adding a dash of feeling for the poetic Polish composer. The numbers, "Value in Music," "Revolutionary Etude" and "Fantasie Impromptu," are not representative of Chopin at his best, except in the more difficult portions of "Fantasie." However, they served to reveal the virtuosity of the pianist.
