U. S. NAVY SHORE PATROLMEN HERE

First contingent of shore patrolmen to be on duty in Twin Falls tonight. The U. S. Navy has ordered a detachment of 100 men to the downtown area of Twin Falls Saturday night.

Seven afloat, the first group from Sun Valley represented part of a job of men who will be rotated every week for duty here. In permanent charge of the detachment is P. D. Gossy, chief specialist, of the 13th naval district headquarters at Seattle, who will return here from Sun Valley every week with a new group of patrolmen.

Although city and county peace officers, the city council and other groups sent a delegation to the 13th naval district headquarters requesting shore patrolmen only two weeks ago.

Red Cross units, equipped with food, blankets and medical supplies, are working in the city.

Official U. S. government weather bureaus admitted they were puzzled by the storm. They said it was at least a dozen different storms, each striking compact areas in a relatively brief period of time.

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Sunday, June 25

(AP) American shock troops closing in for the kill last night drove to within 1,000 yards of Cherbourg's city limits, and were so close that observers could see the Germans destroying installations inside the city, which also was torn by the explosion of ammunition dumps.

British naval forces threatened a German sea escape attempt early Saturday morning, sinking possibly a small German ship. The Americans also battered their way toward Cherbourg from the south, east and southeast.

The Americans had the support of Allied air forces at point-blank range. Air support also was the key to the success of the operation. The bombers blasted the German pillbox positions with 100 lb. bombs.

Information reaching headquarters was that the Germans had been ordered to evacuate the area. The Americans had been ordered to advance.

German broadcasts acknowledged American troops had entered Cherbourg, termed it a "miraculous feat" and said it was a "great victory." The Germans also said they were retreating into the city only after the Americans had entered.

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Sunday, June 25 (AP)—Twenty-two Japanese aircraft were destroyed on the ground in a midday bombing attack on Yap, northernmost target of the force of the American command headquarters announced today. There was no enemy interception.

GERMANS FIGHT TO GAIN

ROME, June 24 (AP)—The Germans hurled fresh armor and their air force into the battle of Italy today, but they were repulsed by the army thrust on through the mountains to the south bank of the Ombrone river. The Germans were repulsed in the battle for the town of Roccastrada, which is about 10 miles northwest of Rome.

The point reached on the Ombrone river, the Germans were repulsed. The French had to fight through the heaviest enemy armor in the week of fighting through heavy minefields to reach it.

This spectacular gain severed an important lateral road leading east from the town of Roccastrada, adding to the problems of Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring in withdrawing his army through the mountains.

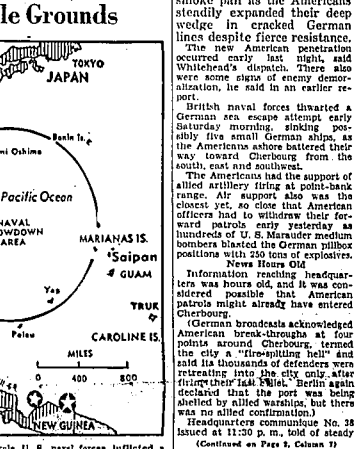

West of Roccastrada on the coast another column of allied infantry and tanks was fighting at the outskirts of Follonica, which straddles the coastal highway leading north to Pisa.

Nazi Take Town The Germans registered one of their most important gains in the battle of Italy today when they captured the town of Follonica, which straddles the coastal highway leading north to Pisa.

Twin Red Offensives Push Toward Vitebsk

LONDON, Sunday, June 25 (AP)—Two mighty red armies are closing pincers from the north and south on Vitebsk in White Russia and the German-occupied town already is threatened with capture. More than 5,000 Germans were killed in this area as Soviet infantry fought its way forward with the massed support of armor, artillery and aircraft.

In closing in on the main force, Hitler's elite remaining units in the Moscow region were new breakthroughs in new defensive positions. The Soviet army pushed up to 25 miles in the north and lengthened the whole central front line to approximately 150 miles.

More than 600 were liberated in fighting on all fronts yesterday, including more than 200 which had been freed by the Finnish army in the north.

$10,000 Sought Because Birth Was 'Sideways'

HOLLYWOOD, June 24 (AP)—The birth of her baby was not a sideways event for Norma Jeane Baker, but since it was made a public event, it should be worth $10,000.

SALT WILL CURB HAYSTACK FIRES

Hay fires, which cost American farmers approximately $200,000 each year, may be largely curbed through the use of proper hay salt at stacking time, the Twin Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday in an especially prepared bulletin covering the subject.

The bulletin states, "The salting of hay actually does not cost anything because farmers feed salt to their stock in some other manner. Hay Green has properly cured with hay salt retains its essential nutrients much better than unsalted hay."

"Hay," the bulletin states, "if left in a field to be dried by the sun loses nearly 20 per cent of its food value. If, however, salt is added before the hay is completely dry, it retains its most important elements. Actual tests show that salted hay contains 15 per cent protein as compared with eight per cent for unsalted hay produced on the same ground."

The bulletin carries instructions for the proper use of salt as follows:

Alfalfa, nine pounds of salt per ton in wet weather; five pounds per ton in dry weather; clover, 10 pounds of salt in wet weather; five pounds in dry weather; timothy, five pounds in wet weather; three pounds in dry weather; ensilage, six pounds of salt to each ton of forage; and straw, seven to 10 pounds of salt in wet weather and three to five pounds in dry weather.

Food, Clothing Men Will Meet

A similar technical and educational meeting will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Regency.

Chairmen and chief and senior clerks, price panel clerks and assistants will also attend the sessions.

WALLACE, CHIANG ISSUE STATEMENT

CHUNGKING, June 24 (AP)—President Henry A. Wallace and Chiang Kai-shek announced in a joint statement today that they had agreed provisionally on the war against Japan quickly and efficiently was the most urgent job before the two nations.

The statement, issued after Wallace's visit with Chiang and other Chinese government officials on mutual problems, said the two "found themselves in agreement on basic principles and objectives."

Devoted to Welfare

"The objective of victory in the Pacific is the establishment of a democratic peace based on political and social stability deriving from a government devoted to the welfare of the people," the statement said.

"Enduring peace in the Pacific will depend first, on effective and permanent demilitarization of Japan; second, on understanding, friendship and collaboration among the four principal powers in the Pacific area, China, the United States, Russia and Great Britain; and all United Nations willing to share responsibilities for postwar international order; third, on recognition of the fundamental right of present dependent Asiatic peoples to self government and early adoption of measures in political, economic and social fields to prepare these peoples for self government within a specified, practical time limit."

China's Position

The statement took cognizance of China's "excruciating position" in Asia and her importance in any peace structure for the Pacific.

"It is essential that a peace structure to continue the ties of friendship in Chinese-American relations and to maintain relations on a basis of mutual understanding between China and the United States, China's nearest neighbor," the statement said.

Veteran Speaks

Col. Duane Toler, who has recently returned from active duty in the south Pacific with an honorable discharge, was the main speaker of the afternoon.

Overseas six months and on Guadalcanal for five months, Toler described the Guadalcanal USO. A large building in two sections, he explained, served as USO headquarters. The building was connected by a snack bar which served pineapple, grapefruit and tomato juice and frozen cheese sandwiches. In one section was a large room, studio for war work including equipping. He stated, included was a large room with tables for reading and "a little room to throw the ball." The room boasted a piano and a stage for shows put on by USO and movie talent. Actors and actresses visiting them included Mrs. Elliott and Randolph Scott.

Toler added that several good movies were staged by the men themselves. There was a lot of talent on the island, he declared.

Made official

Mr. Toler's address was followed with a talk by Capt. Ralph Powell of the marine corps. Also included on the program was a Spanish guitar duet by Mrs. W. F. Packard and Miss Bertha Lecklin. Los Angeles guests of Mrs. Packard, a Hawaiian and Spanish guitar duo, were Mrs. Margaret Pursey, Mrs. Mary Bonnett, Mrs. Puck Whitlock and Mrs. June Campbell, all servicemen's wives, and Mrs. Doris Reed.

BOY, 11, SEVENTH HIGHWAY VICTIM

Killed instantly when the truck in which he was riding with other members of his family overturned Friday night, Owen Glen Smith, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Smith, Rock Creek ranger station, became the victim of the seventh highway fatal traffic accident in 1944.

The crash occurred three miles south and one-half mile west of Kimberly where the family were en route to the Rock Creek ranger station, where Glen Smith had been assistant ranger for the past four years.

Plowed Under Glats
The boy was plowed under tractor glats and a 20-ballon gas drum when a front wheel broke of the pickup truck, locked, and threw Owen and his two brothers, Robert, 13, and Roy, 9, from the back of the truck into the roadside field.

An attending physician stated that Owen was killed instantly when the heavy corrugated glats fell on him, breaking vertebrae in his backbone and cutting several arteries.

Both of the boy's brothers received lacerations and bruises while his parents and sister, Dixie, riding in the cab, were uninjured.

Apparently not until after the crash looked, the truck skidded 25 feet, struck a culvert, then caused a fire which was extinguished before turning over, Sheriff Warren Lowery, who investigated the crash with Deputy Sheriff Silas Olms, stated, "Groceries and household articles scattered in the field strewn over the field in which the vehicle came to rest."

Gasoline Near-Fire
Fire, which could easily have endangered the lives of the occupants of the cab, was kindled when a carton of matches were set off by impact and landed in a pool of gasoline dripping from the drum.

For some strange reason the gasoline failed to ignite, Sheriff Lowery said.

Funeral services for the boy will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Reynolds funeral home chapel, Bishop Dudley T. Whittall of the U.S. Kimberly ward will officiate. Interment will be in the Sunset memorial park.

Book Sent From Here Finds Way To Pacific Vet

A Twin Falls couple who donated many books to the soldier book drive about two years ago found that one soldier really enjoyed a book they donated because he wrote them about it from New Guinea.

The V-Mail letter came from Train Sgt. O. L. Brant to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Painter, 313 Stoughton street, north.

"I justly know how to select this letter but here goes," Brant wrote. "The outfit that I'm in is made of canvas and I picked up a book 'The World of Tomorrow' with your name and address. So I thought that you might be interested in knowing that your book is safe and in very good use in New Guinea. I've read it and found it to be very good."

The soldier also wrote that he resided in St. Joseph, Mich., before joining the service and that "we (his wife) will soon be having our 10th anniversary. I haven't been with her on the last two as you are. I've been overseas some time now. I have high hopes of getting home sometime this year."

Mr. Painter, who has a son, Lieut. Bruce Painter serving as a pilot in a troop carrier command in the south Pacific, said:

"I'm going to write Brant right back and thank him for his letter. It was something for him to take time out to write and tell us he enjoyed a book."

Death Struck Here Friday Night

Deputy Sheriff Silas Olms inspects the tractor that which landed on Owen Smith's back, killing him Friday night after the crash in which he was riding overturned after traveling over 200 feet with a locked front-wheel brake. A 20-ballon gas drum, shown in the left and rear of glats, also hit the 11-year-old boy. The car, belonging to the U. S. forestry department (see item), was driven by Glen Smith, assistant ranger at the Rock Creek station. (Staff photo-grav)

Water Big Problem for Yank Soldiers on Saipan Island

By MAC R. JOHNSON
Former Times-News Staff Member
SAIPAN ISLAND, June 20 (AP)—Water, of which the U.S. troops, who now control roughly one-third of the southern portion of Saipan island, have worked feverishly to overcome a temporary shortage of water and rationing.

"These men snatch a few hours sleep when they can in hotly sun-drenched tents, but they are forced to live in a fine dust by military vegetables. The dust, which is 10 to 12 inches deep, is so fine as talcum powder and a slight breeze whisks it into their eyes, noses, mouths and into their ears, machines and vehicles."

Men Exhausted
Despite this, however, the men must exert themselves to the utmost to move supplies, ammunition and water, of which I saw quantities being loaded onto vehicles and moved forward.

The fighting troops on the most advanced front get fresh water even if that in the rear may suffer for short periods. At one important command post, officer and men were told in the morning that water was short and that they could have only two rations.

The water turned out to be as clean as though it had been mixed with fine coal dust. A physician, however, deemed it drinkable after four chlorine pills had been put in each canteen. The water apparently had become black inside the barrels in which it was stored at a rate base for use in this operation.

This was an isolated case, however, as in other places where I stopped, I learned the water problem had been licked.

It was believed that the Japanese were suffering more than the Americans from lack of rations and water and that this was an important factor in their retreat.

BOND VOLUNTEERS HIT $153,605.75

Efforts of women volunteer workers have resulted in $149,701.23 in war bonds being sold in Twin Falls in a house-to-house canvass since the fifth war loan drive got underway with $120,540 realized through the traveling bond booth in the downtown area. Mrs. J. L. Reed, city chairman, announced Saturday.

The $153,605.75 to date does not include the $190 which has come through sale of "Warages" by the bondholders with Mrs. Clyde Carlisle in charge. The girls will continue to sell at various meetings and at dances between now and July 4.

In announcing total of the drive to date Mrs. Reed said that one captain has completely finished her call list while 10 others have called back and will be back in the field.

"Some people have complained that volunteer workers have not called on them to ask them to buy bonds," Mrs. Reed said. "The captains have visited every home in their district. Of course, some people were not at home even though the captains and workers might have called back several times. But benefit of these people I wish to say that if they will call me at 0393-35-1 or Mrs. O. G. McMill at 1494, arrangements will be made to have someone call at their home at a stated time."

Mrs. McMill is chairman of the county drive.

Records show that Mrs. James Bryson, who has been making a drive to receive an "E" citation from the government, Mrs. Reynolds, captain of Mrs. Harley Beer and she canvassed the section on Blue Lakes and Twin Falls avenues and 14th avenue east. Mrs. W. P. Hargis, first woman to reach the "E" award, worked on Eighth and First north and served under Mrs. Ralph Carpenter, captain.

Foods for Yank Prisoners Sent All Nazi Camps

In view of the possible increase of American prisoners of war during the European invasion period, a three months reserve of American Red Cross standard food packages has been established in virtually all German prison camps. It was announced Friday by Mrs. Helen Bailey, executive secretary of the Twin Falls chapter, American Red Cross.

Nearly all prisoners of war camps in Germany have been supplied with reserve clothing as well, she was informed by Mrs. Fannie Heller, headquarters of the Red Cross.

Shipped by the American Red Cross, these supplies have been in transit through the International Red Cross in Geneva, Switzerland.

The Red Cross urged that all families and friends of prisoners of war use the free printed letter forms in order to speed delivery of mail behind barred wires in enemy prison camps.

Form letters from Britain arrive in excess time, men within camps overseas observe. Therefore, mail from the United States, it is believed, could be speeded up also by use of the form letter.

These forms can be obtained through the post office, according to Mrs. Bailey.

Two CAP Fliers Aid Plane Search

The Twin Falls CAP pilots—Harry Harris and Benny Hogue—Saturday participated in a search for a P-47 Thunderbolt fighter from the Pocatello airbase which was overdue there late Friday night.

The pilot of the Thunderbolt, it was developed, crashed landed the ship in the vicinity of Antonia Falls and was only injured slightly, being able to walk for assistance.

The pilot reported shortly after Harris, with Harold Vilmos as observer, and Hogue, with Dick Hewitt as observer, took off on the search. Both Twin Falls planes returned to the local field.

5th WAR LOAN

Every white wooden cross that marks the grave of an American fighting man is paid for in full—with a gold star, a handful of bitter-sweet memories... and an empty heart at home.

It's tough to die alone, far from your loved ones, with the feel of the metal that's biting out your life—but some fighting man is dying that miserable death right now, because our country asks it of him.

When a Victory Volunteer asks you to double your bond buying during the Fifth War Loan, think of the cost of a wooden cross before you answer—think of the price some soldier—and his family—is paying at that very instant. Then pledge every dollar you can. Because you have an American heart—because it's your country and your duty.

The association will recommend to the state board of health that the state should have more doctors than it has now.

Association members also said there probably would be quite a bit of discussion about the length of the fishing season at Salmon reservoir.

It is understood that a number of sportsmen would prefer that season there be closed for part of the year.

God's Front Porch

A Novel By KETTI FRINGS

Copyright, 1944, Ketti Frings—Reprinted, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.

The scene: Heavenly Blend Junction, half-way point between the Earth and the Valley.

The Story: Old Mrs. Johnson, the gossip, is sitting on the porch after supper, waiting for her husband. When her inebriated chatter arouses God's displeasure, she and Emily go for a walk.

The applan had left him shaken. Julie had suddenly and reticently stepped to the kitchen.

The old man stood looking out into the evening. The moon was early tonight, big and yellow, with a touch of red. One liked him moon. It so seldom made any trouble. Thies seldom off schedule. Yet, the moon was good, deplorable. He could still hear Julie's murmuring in the distance. Julie had been about tomorrow. The old man often thought it was one of the finest things he had made, he said to himself, aloud.

20. Good evening, Pinky. I thought you'd be out with everyone else. Don't you feel all right?

Pinky had sat next to her at the table at noon. She was English and prettier than most. Father thought with soft dark hair and blue eyes she reminded him of a little of Martha. She couldn't have been much older than Martha when he married her. Little Phillip was four.

"You look pale," Betty Alberton observed further.

"What? Oh, no, an I feel all right."

"Well, it's a good idea to take a walk the first day on so, get used to the altitude. I let it myself at first. Come along, Phillip."

But to Phillip meant to "come along." He pulled back, pointed to the telephone. "Mamma, can I look at that?"

"No, darling. I'll just wait you. Wouldn't you rather go over to the garage?"

"Please, Mamma."

Betty sighed and shook her head. "I should never have started him at it. First, it was only to find out how his father was doing. They only day he found his father."

"Just look once, say hello, Mamma."

"Well, say hello another time. Daddy's busy. He'll like it better if you went out and played."

Suddenly Pinky bowed down to the so, put his hands on both his arms, gazed fondly into his eyes. All children were surely dear to him. "Phillip, don't you remember what your father told you when he went away?"

"The story studied him a moment."

"Yes, I know," he said finally. "The story of the man who was not lost on Pinky. Phillip's father had come away to war, but the two who had been left behind—they were the ones who had died."

"Long black eyelashes blinked solemnly. "How do you know?"

"All fathers tell their little boys the same story."

"Yeah!" Phillip turned and looked up at his mother.

She nodded. "You see, darling? So come along now."

Suddenly he let her lead him down the steps and through the gate. Betty turned and smiled. "Thanks, Pinky."

"Oh, please," Julie, don't bother me with it now."

The old man moved wearily in the front doorway, turned back, as she came toward him along the hall, brandishing a screwdriver.

"But you said you wanted to fix it."

"Fix what?"

"The gate," she told him irritably. "It's been creaking for weeks now."

"Then there's no hurry, is there?"

"Oh, Father!"

"Now, Julie. He tried to appease her with a smile. "I will, really. I will. Tomorrow." He patted her, moved on out to the porch, where Pinky was dejectedly sitting on the steps. His second look through

"Just think—my screwdriver must have made this one with her own little hands!"

CONGRESS VOTED $67,000,000,000

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Members of congress were home-ward or convention-bound today after five and one-half months of well-bested congressional session, which they voted $67,000,000,000 in new funds to carry on the war and began to lay the groundwork for the return of the nation's economy to a peacetime basis.

The $67,000,000,000 in new funds voted this year was $17,000,000,000 less than the total voted last year, reflecting the passage of the peak in war production and the downward trend in war spending that since June, 1940, has amounted to $39,000,000,000—over a third of a trillion dollars.

The major legislation dealing with the changeover to peace actually to get on the books during the session from June 10 until adjournment yesterday was the bill providing for an orderly method of terminating war contracts.

Many Other Studies
However, many studies of other phases of reconversion—demobilization of the army, development of the war materiel, public works to take up the slack in employment when war plants shut down and unemployment benefits for the changeover period—have been made and will be considered in legislation as quickly as possible in the future.

Legislative work could without failure yesterday with few senators or representatives on hand when the final "must" bill, the second deficiency appropriation which included funds for the OPA, was sent to the White House after both branches approved a conference report.

Congress adjourned the house at 4:55 p. m. and the senate at 5:01 p. m. until Aug. 1. If the war or domestic situation requires quick legislative action, the adjournment resolution, as adopted, would permit the president of the senate and speaker of the house or the leaders of either party to call the members back within three days at any time prior to Aug. 1.

Unless an emergency occurs, congress will reconvene Aug. 1 only to start a series of so-called three-day recesses—meeting every Monday and Thursday without taking up any important legislation until regular sessions resume sometime in September.

While completing action yesterday on the $49,000,000,000 war department supply bill, which included only $18,000,000 in new cash, and the second deficiency appropriation, both houses sanctioned a series of less important bills.

During the 112 legislative days of the session and the 19 days actually spent in session by the senate, congress not only cleared up the supply bills, but also enacted a new tax bill over President Roosevelt's veto and a state's rights soldier-vote bill.

It provides mustering out pay for members of the armed forces, gave the taxpayers a simplified system of individual taxation, increased the estate tax limit from $200,000 to $500,000, provided wide benefits for discharged members of the armed forces and extended for one year the price control act, the lend-lease program and certain war powers of the President.

Our Hearts Were on Beaches, Says This Soldier in England

By IAN HINKELACKER

"Our hearts were in the day" and our hearts were on the beaches of France."

That's why the game of beachball played June 7 by American air personnel "somewhere in England" wasn't much to brag about. That was the day after D-day.

That's a Twin Falls man, Cpl. Clayton Mullins, known a letter to his wife, Mrs. Maxine Dean Mullins, on the day after never-forgotten D-day. How did these men who were left behind in England feel about the invasion? There could be no clearer expression than this:

"At first every one had a certain elated feeling, and then he became more thoughtful and he prayed those of our men who have given their all."

"I'm sure that we will think of us who didn't take an active and actual part in the landing—feel very humble and proud in the mind and in our hearts about the men who made the supreme sacrifice and although we didn't do the job, we will feel as much superior to those in the states who shared their country's call when they returned home, no distinction between great and small."

In almost reverent mood, he continued: "May we always humble ourselves in the presence of the memory of those men who have given a new lease in America."

"Perhaps, some day, they will be remembered in their full glory. Let us hope so. I'm sure that they wouldn't be very happy in the thought that perhaps they were just a pawn. Let Almighty God put aside into the hands of those who will carry the suffering all their days, and may this day—D-day—be forgotten to those who will enjoy what these men gave their lives for."

And then, as a man who is caught with tears in his eyes, it happens so rarely—is not to "bring it off." Corporal Mullins expresses the mood. "I don't know, honey, what got me on that tangent. I guess it must have been the music that was on the radio."

Corporal Mullins, who has been in the states with the air force the last 13 months, was employed at the Remington Arms in Salt Lake City before entering the armed forces. He is a graduate of Twin Falls high school, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mullins, Addison avenue east. His youngest brother, Robert Mullins, will leave Thursday for military service, the fourth member of the Mullins family to participate in World War II.

Corporal Mullins' other brothers are: Pfc. Carl Mullins, serving somewhere in the Pacific with the marines, and Pfc. James Mullins, stationed with the army at Denver, Colo.

SKATER BREAKS AIM
BUILT, June 24—Bobby Howard, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Howard, fell while roller skating on the sidewalk near his home and broke his left arm near the wrist.
