Light Carrier Princeton Dies Proudly in Philippine Sea

The end is near for the light carrier USS Princeton, as a cruiser stands by pouring streams of water into the stricken warship, hit by Japanese bombs in second battle of Philippine sea, after having taken her crew to safety. The planes visible on the flight deck had just returned from earlier attacks against the Japanese, were lost with the carrier when flames finally exploded her powder magazine. Despite explosion that fatally damaged ship, American torpedoes were necessary to sink her. (U. S. navy photo).

Freely and, only these officers and men of the light carrier USS Princeton, crowd the whiteboat and wait impatiently to be rescued. Two others had to be rescued by boat. Most of the 135 men aboard the Princeton were rescued. (U. S. navy photo).

Fears, Favors and Futility

The series of editorials which the Times-News has carried during the previous several days points out the fundamental reason why this newspaper believes there should be a nation-wide return to our basic form of government in preference to a continuation of the so-called new deal regime. We say nation-wide because a united front all up and down the line will be required to stem the growing tendency toward "government by bureaucrats."

ELECTION DELAYS POLISH DECISION

By ALEX H. SINGLETON
LONDON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Poland's elected government will not accept Russia's terms for a second round of the United States presidential election and then may press Washington for a clear-cut statement on the position, a Polish close to government circles said today.

Usually reliable Polish quarters said Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk's cabinet was reported split on the question of accepting the Russian line as an eastern border, basic condition in the Soviet's plan of settlement.

But complete solidarity within the cabinet was reported on outstanding iron-clad guarantees from the three big powers of Poland's postwar sovereignty and independence—regardless of the decision in the territorial dispute.

The Polish informant, who cannot be identified by name, declared that Poland was prepared to accept the terms by a "choice of being murdered or committed suicide."

From other Polish quarters came indications that Mikolajczyk and the cabinet are anxious to see the possibility of American and British pressure upon Russia to withdraw her backing of the Polish national liberation committee at Reich.

GREEK LEFTISTS HOLD SALONIKA

ATHENS, Nov. 4 (AP)—Premier George Papandreu's government may be facing its most serious political problem of the Greek liberation in dealing with the self-constituted authorities of Salonika.

Salonika is almost entirely in the hands of the extreme left wing Elass Front, dominated even the Greek blue and white. The problem is different than at Athens, which was divided between political successors of rival resistance groups and the Elass Front.

The Elass Front are actively engaged in restoring Salonika's port under direction of a small party of British experts. In Salonika bay, partisan fishing schooners already have begun to mine-shoers with ordnance. The trailing ice, storage divers remove explosive charges from mine fields.

Still Time to Send Best Yule Greeting Overseas

Christmas packages to service men and women overseas have been on the way for several weeks, but there is still time to send more kodak pictures to add cheer on Christmas day. A snapshot or more in each letter won't be too many, and if one special picture is made a part of the Christmas greeting card so much the better.

Kodak pictures are the means of a father keeping in step with the development of his son or daughter he has never seen. When P. C. W. Gilbert returns home his young son won't seem a stranger in him because Mrs. Gilbert has sent snapshots of Billy Ray, now eight months old, to him every few weeks since his birth March 1, 1944.

Several pictures in special pocket folders that fit in an ordinary envelope going first class mail will reach many a serviceman—smaller number sent airmail will speed to further points.

CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATHE

Because many of us are worried about the behavior of our children, we are looking around for some ready cure for what ails them. The first idea that comes to mind is the task of the church. What are the churches doing to allow young people to get into such a mess?

It is human to look for somebody to blame for our ills or our ills. Human but ineffective, for after we have accused and blamed and threatened, the hard fact of our own responsibility stares us in the face. The church is an institution that we have built. We are the church. If we are strong, and active in our faith, the church goes well. If we are indifferent, neglectful and lazy, the church goes bad. It is the fused spirit of its members, can do nothing.

If we want the church to help us with the children, we have to get to work to move the church machinery toward that purpose. We have to help pay the workers. We have to forward its plans and its interest and that is not done by sitting at home Sundays and reading the papers and telling the children not to be late for church, it is to be done by personal, well-directed effort. Somebody has to teach the children and that somebody looks very much like you.

Mothers have a great share in laying the foundations of character which means the religion of the child as he grows. Their teaching must begin as soon as the child understands language. Any mother, however busy, can spare 15 minutes, even five minutes, to put her children to bed in a mood of faith and trust, in a spirit of goodness.

Little prayers, verses and hymns are a part of the child's daily talk about the deeds of the day will turn habits of thought into ways of living, for a lifetime. The church can point the way but the mothers and fathers have to show the way for the child, set his feet on it and steady him there for the years of his growth.

Christmas Book

Christmas soon will be here and one of the gifts every child in this country should receive is a good book. A good book and anything else that he may like, but the book must be better.

I have found a lovely little book for the use of little children and their mothers at bed time. It will help with this task of character training through religion. It is called "Small Faith." (See Deuteronomy 32:2) It is a set of beautiful verses from the Bible, selected to make Orton Jones. The pictures by Elizabeth Jones are lovely. Don't miss

GOP RETAINS 14 WILLKIE BACKERS

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 4 (UP)—Forty members of the national committee which was carrying the recent campaign for the late Wendell Willkie today urged the election of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for president.

The group, headed by Republican National Committeeman Ralph C. Poole, Willkie's pre-convention campaign manager—emphasized they were not attempting to speak for the late presidential candidate but merely wanted it known how they felt.

"We have not attempted, we cannot and will not, attempt to speak for the late and beloved friend, Wendell Willkie, whom we are confident future generations will judge one of the very great men of our time," the executive committee statement said.

"We who were closest to him in the campaign speak only for ourselves."

Guerrillas Strike Over Spain Border

BARCELONA, Nov. 4 (AP)—A correspondent for the Associated Press reported today from "inside Spain" that Spanish Republican guerrillas who stretch across the French border had occupied at least nine villages of the Aran valley in the Pyrenees.

However, a dispatch from Barcelona, possibly later, said the military commander of the Catalonia region had sent companies to the third mountain division on their victory over Spanish republicans whom they recently expelled from the Aran valley.

Combat published photographs purporting to show prisoners captured by the republicans in Leiz, one of the points of capture, and Maquis pushing a mobile gun under a sign marking the village of Broot.

Assessor Sees Bright Future For GIs Returning to West

There still remains a vast frontier in the United States—a frontier in which returning servicemen can find homes, farms and perhaps establish towns and cities, George A. Childs, Twin Falls county assessor, declared yesterday.

He offered a challenge to private industry to develop the potentialities of the western states in a rehabilitation and reclamation program that would, he said, offer not only homes but construction employment to several hundred thousand men. Servicemen would be given priority to the land and the construction jobs, he proposed.

"One of the problems that a war brings is that of the returning servicemen, and how to help them make a satisfactory readjustment to civilian life," Childs said. Childs recently conducted a survey on irrigation in 13 of the 17 western states, and learned that this country now has 17,131,682 acres under irrigation, and 14,101,123 additional acres which could be irrigated if the required reservoirs, ditches, turnouts and pump-out plants were constructed.

The statistics were furnished by departments of reclamation, engineering and agriculture in the several states. Childs started the survey last autumn, after he had been requested by selective service board and cooperating agencies to investigate projects for returning soldiers. Final reports were received only recently.

Much Land Available "If the 14,000,000 acres of land available for irrigation were divided into 60-acre farms, they would make homes for 400,000 families," Childs said. He further theorized that "with four persons to a family, this would be approximately 1,600,000 people. Counting an equal number in towns and cities, you would have a population of 3,200,000."

He estimated that the construction work, alone, in preparing the facilities for irrigation, would require 300,000 men for a number of years, while the construction of public buildings and country roads would require another 200,000 laborers for a long period of time. Additional acres of land which could be irrigated, according to figures made available to Childs, are as follows:

- Nebraska, 820,000 acres; North Dakota, 807,360; Montana, 1,096,200; Utah, 500,000; Wyoming, 714,000; Idaho, 1,500,000; Washington, 1,428,120; Oregon, 1,800,000; Kansas, 191,335; Texas, 1,200,000; Arizona, 600,000; California, 2,355,000, or a total of 16,104,000.
- No reports have as yet been received from Colorado, New Mexico and Oklahoma and South Dakota, which would probably increase the total acreage considerably, Childs said.
- "Development of these areas would give private construction companies and business firms the opportunity to invest huge sums now idle. Private industry had on deposit $6 billion dollars last March in banks throughout the country. Of this $7 billion dollars was in cash, and the sum is probably greater now," Childs said.
- He estimated that the construction work, alone, in preparing the

60 EX-SOLDIERS GOING TO SCHOOL

BOISE, Nov. 4 (AP)—Idaho already has 60 World War II veterans enrolled in its institutions of higher learning under the "G. I. bill of rights." A. H. Chatham told the Navy Mothers club here last night.

The state department of public instruction said more than half the veterans here enroll in the University of Idaho and the remainder scattered among the other schools and colleges.

"The 'G. I. bill' guarantees at least one year of free education or vocational training to all honorably discharged service men and women who entered service prior Sept. 16, 1940, he said, providing they have been in service 90 days or more.

The program, handled by the veterans administration here, also provides veterans with additional schooling not to exceed the length of time spent in active service up to a maximum of four years, he said. Substantial allowances of $50 to $15 a month are granted.

Power Availability The Idaho power company can make available a million kilowatts of additional power to late war veterans manufacturing that might be undertaken in the future, with rates that are practically the same as those offered by government-controlled power plants, Childs emphasized.

"Twin Falls county, hub of the Magic Valley empire, with 200,000 acres of the most productive irrigated farm land to be found anywhere in America, is one of the most ideal spots in Idaho for the returning servicemen to consider," Childs declared.

He called attention to the fact that the county is crossed by two highways, U. S. No. 30 and No. 93; that the Union Pacific railway line connects it with the West and Southern Pacific; that it has ample bus and truck connections, and that the prospects are good for all kinds of air transportation in the not-too-distant future.

Versatile Land Yield In addition to various kinds of fruit and farm crops, including wheat, oats, barley, corn, rye, potatoes, beans, peas and onions, farmers in the county grow under contract many types of garden seeds.

for 12 nationally known seed companies. One of the largest beet sugar factories in the world is located in the county; one milk condensary, putting out canned and dried milk, and two cheese and butter factories are operated in the county. The only wool condensing plant in the northwest is in Twin Falls county. It also boasts one of the largest flour mills in Idaho. He cited these as the nucleus of industries to be developed in the county in future years.

An indication that the industrial development in the county is progressing at a satisfactory rate, can be seen in the establishment of a potato starch factory and two farm machinery manufacturing companies.

DEGAULLE TO USE ASSETS IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—The newly-recaptured French government will be allowed to dip freely into its own money bag in this country, treasury officials said today.

The State Dept. will keep hold of the draw strings for the present. French funds are still officially frozen. But the De Gaulle government can use its assets under licensing by the treasury. After the licensing will be liberal.

The liberality doesn't apply to funds owned by private French interests. Those assets are still tied up tightly. Unfreezing of the French assets, which amount to $140,000,000—public and private—is under consideration by this government. But treasury officials said "a number of problems" must be worked out first.

Dewey and Bricker are Real TEAM-MATES...REAL AMERICANS

Dewey and Bricker have proven that they are leaders, and that they can work together in harmony. If you believe in the youthful vigor of America as a nation—then you will like the ideal of youthful, honest, energetic leadership. Dewey and Bricker, both in the prime of life, are ready to serve you, and to accept responsibility for leading America into a period of achievement.

That's Why It's TIME FOR A CHANGE!

That's Why It's TIME FOR A CHANGE!

That's Why It's TIME FOR A CHANGE!

DEWEY IS YOUTHFUL AND VIGOROUS!

It's a young man's age. We need tremendous progress in this country and it will take youthful vigor to put it over—His election will be an inspiration to Americans.

Roosevelt has reached the age of retirement. In private business and in most civil service jobs, men are not expected to be at their best after 60—and their retirement is made a matter of business policy.

Dewey Will Have Good and Able Men Around Him!

Already Dewey has shown how he selects real leaders to counsel with him. While he has made no political promises or commitments, yet the best leaders in America are ready to answer his call for cabinet posts or other important leadership jobs.

Roosevelt continues to depend upon Harry Hopkins, Madame Perkins, Harold Ickes, Henry Wallace, and Sidney Hillman, not to mention the endorsement and support of Earl Browder.

Dewey Has a Real Running Mate--Roosevelt Has Truman

Governor Bricker is recognized as a real leader of honesty and ability. If he were required during the next four years to step in as president, he is capable of doing so with credit to our country.

Because the Democratic Convention bowed to the pressure of Sidney Hillman's Political Action Committee, Roosevelt has Harry S. Truman as a running mate. Decide for yourself if you want to risk the possibility of his serving as president of the U. S. A.

'ALCAN' HIGHWAY BEST IN WINTER

DUHL, Nov. 4.—Capt. John L. Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Harris, Duhi, is enjoying his first years in the States after four and one-half years of continuous service in the Alaska and Aleutian Islands.

Harris worked on the Alcan highway for two and one-half years, and he reports that, in spite of all the work, as a road which can only be used at its best in winter, when the ground is frozen. He explained that the road had to be built across the glacier-ground runs the highway as it progresses.

Also much of the ground is spongy where it is not glacier bed, and it presents an ever-present problem in keeping it possible for the hauling of supplies and troops.

Tennessee Coast

"The climate zone the Alaska coast is very temperate," said Corporal Harris. The fogs of the Aleutians seldom penetrate to Alaska, and the country as a whole has much to commend it. In fact, Anchorage is a beautiful little city. The best farming country is around Homer, and in the westward section, where they really grow very fine crops.

"One day and temperature climate contribute to an amazing productivity," he says. Here, you can raise a moose, moose, bear, and still many four-legged animals for the natives. I have never seen a bear, but I am sure of pelts throughout Alaska, and off and on at various points in the Aleutian chain. The Japs had put years of work on some of the islands, and they have been here a little while, but for many years, they have been in the islands their bases."

Alaskan Village too

Corporal Harris accompanied to Duhi by Capt. Thornton Wright, a native of Alaska, who follows the army in that territory about two years ago and has never been to Duhi will spend the winter, though in Duhi with Harris, and both will leave for Fort Ord when it ceases.

HARRIS KNOEDEL

Harris enlisted in the army on Dec. 8, 1937, at Fort Douglas, where he served the first six months. He was stationed at Fort Mileson, Mont., for one and one-half years, and then followed by six months at Fort 26, Idaho, and has been there continuously since.

He was stationed Aug. 12, 1941 to Elizabeth Cooper, from Nihilnik, an old Alaskan-Russian settlement, which was followed by six months at their two-year-old son, and the first of the year.

Corporal Harris and Capt. Wright will begin six months of specialized training at Fort Ord, Monterey, Calif., at the completion of their present leave. Harris is a former member of the Duhi national guard.

Top Thrill to Overseas WAC Is View Of U.S. Landscape 'All in One Piece'

By JEAN DINKELACKER

The biggest thrill in returning to the United States, after serving 21 months overseas with the first group of WACs sent to foreign duty, is to see the countryside "all in one piece," 7/3 Marjorie Byram declared here Saturday.

"Until you've seen an entire country, such as Italy, reduced to a series of yawning holes and shell craters, rubble, wreckage and general devastation everywhere, you can't appreciate the contrast of solid ground and buildings intact," Sergeant Byram said.

Sergeant Byram arrived in Twin Falls last week on a Friday evening after flying from Italy to Miami, Fla., via Casablanca, New York and Bermuda. One of the first WACs to land in Africa in 1943, she was also among the first to be granted a furlough home.

Farewell by Gen. Clark

Sergeant Byram, who has been serving with a WAC attached to the 7th Army, was in Italy, where she was among 12 WACs who were sent home by Capt. Gen. Mark Clark when they "looked off" recently for the states.

He talked to and shook hands with the 12 women, whom WACs "good troops" who had acquired themselves well as soldiers.

Four of the group were with the fifth army WAC unit, stationed near Duhi, and Sergeant Byram said she is secretary work at headquarters.

General Clark was enlisted men's clothing all of the time. In fact, he has seen them in their officers' clothes and dress uniforms. The men seem to appreciate it. If you don't know who General Clark was, you might just him by chief of "this front," Sergeant Byram said of the commander-in-chief of the fifth army, Major General.

Fifth Army Staff

Sergeant Byram looked slim and neat in her WAC uniform. Her hair was unbuttoned, and into the V of the neckline was tucked a dark red flower. She was wearing a formal neckerchief which distinguishes the every-day attire of the fifth army, both men and women.

"When we wear our dress blues, they are blue, of course," she explained.

Wide interest in the election was manifested throughout the army. Sergeant Byram commented, "I believe the majority voted, but I am not sure. Officers were required to vote, but I have seen them through papers and other means, and I'm sure that a number of soldiers interested in the election otherwise would not have voted," she said.

When the WACs landed in Africa, they were greeted enthusiastically by the servicemen. "But we knew we were on the spot and had to justify ourselves in such a way that additional units would be sent overseas here. We knew that life was going to be a great deal better than we'd ever known it, but we asked for it, and we took it. It was a little without squawking," she explained.

Sleeping on a straw mattress was followed by six months at Fort 26, Idaho, and has been there continuously since.

He was stationed Aug. 12, 1941 to Elizabeth Cooper, from Nihilnik, an old Alaskan-Russian settlement, which was followed by six months at their two-year-old son, and the first of the year.

Corporal Harris and Capt. Wright will begin six months of specialized training at Fort Ord, Monterey, Calif., at the completion of their present leave. Harris is a former member of the Duhi national guard.

Red Cross Group Receives Thanks

Two letters of appreciation were read at the Red Cross central Idaho camp hospital meeting held Friday at the Idaho Power auditorium, it was reported by Mrs. W. C. Carpenter, chairman.

The servicemen at Sun Valley expressed their appreciation in a letter only are sold; others were infants in the hands of exclusively, and British collectors' parades, since which are stocked entirely with batteries. But one must ship cautiously in order not to "buy up" junk, she said.

"The WACs buy little clothing in Italy, because it is so scarce, and what is available. What the WACs need they get from the army we send home for, and most of them concede that the Italians should be "first served" when it comes to clothing.

After working a year without vacation, Sergeant Byram was sent to the Isle of Capri for a rest. It is one of the beauty spots of the world, the place she'd like to go for a vacation after the war, Sergeant Byram said.

Sergeant Byram is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Byram, 745 George avenue north. She is a graduate of the Hazelton high school and Lewiston State Normal college. She has also attended summer sessions at Washington State college, Pullman, Wash.

She enlisted in the WAC Aug. 11, 1942; took her basic training at Des Moines, Ia., and was sent to Duhi, Idaho, where she became a platoon sergeant. After a brief time at Camp Schrier, N. J., she sailed Jan. 13, 1943, for Africa, going over as a corporal. She will be sent home for a vacation after the war, Sergeant Byram said.

TOMMIES BLITZ NAZIS IN GREECE

ROME, Nov. 4.—British troops and Greek patriots have driven the Nazis completely from Greece in a whirlwind campaign that was little less speedy than the lightning attack of 1941, after British headquarters announced today.

An RAF officer here has declared the last German paratroopers crossed over into Yugoslavia Thursday night—33 days after British troops landed on the rocky western coast of the Peloponnese Sept. 26. It took the Germans 21 days to overrun the little country in the spring of 1941.

It was an almost bloodless victory for allied arms, for so anxious were the Germans to get out of Greece well did the guerrillas do their work, that British ground forces were able to conquest of 1941, after British headquarters announced today.

Street Fighting Flares

A German broadcast said Nazi troops had strong positions in northern Albania, and were engaged in street fighting with "communist elements" in the capital of Tirana itself.

Five German airmen who fell back into Yugoslavia were under attack from Yugoslav partisans at Bulo, 13 miles north of the Greek border, and at Skopje, 70 miles farther north, Marshal Tito's headquarters announced. Both towns were declared under siege.

In the retreat up the Vadar valley toward Skopje, the Germans left a trail of blown road and rail-line wreckage to delay the pursuing British, but it was not yet certain that the Tommies had crossed into the Balkan country.

The allied communists mentioned only "patrols" toward the Greek-Yugoslav frontier.

The reconquest of Greece ended three years and six months of Nazi rule during which it was estimated 500,000 Greeks died from starvation, executions and mistreatment.

The southwestern United States has several new dorsets, which could be reclaimed by irrigation.

AMERICANS LOST FIND OWN LINES

By BOYD LEWIS
SOUTH AMERICAN TROOPS
OF ROTTERDAM, Nov. 4 (AP)—A company of American soldiers including one from the 1st Airborne Division and 65 men came back today.

For three half days they had fought their way out of the Canadian army and had held the line inside the German Maas river line.

Men of the company, unshaven and filthy, told the story of their dramatic stand a few minutes after they returned from the front lines where they were ordered to advance troops to advance and establish beachheads on the north bank of the river.

Out of Rotterdam, the American units behind us made a surprise attack and were able to capture an advance line behind made from water-logged foxholes in the banks and last for more than 72 hours.

The hot company had several machine-guns from behind and were machine-gunned from behind in half accurate fire from self-propelled guns, mortars, and snipers in the front.

Their rifles were consumed the first day. From then on they had nothing but their hands and feet. Some were wounded by some of the men pulled from nearby fields.

By the end of the third night the men were exhausted and the wounded were in bad shape.

The commanding officer reluctantly got out a white flag and was preparing to surrender on the bank and would not be given medical treatment.

Then they heard voices and they crawled out of the foxholes to greet their deliverers who were amazed to find them alive.

The names of the boys in this regiment had been unavailable. The commanding officer met among the food-stuffed men making their hands and greasing every one.

Company commander Ernest D. Fox Salt Lake City, Utah, said the company started making the river crossing in British assault boats Monday afternoon.

"We had the mortar team to run into an enemy outpost and sink it."

"We discovered an unmapped foot bridge to the left of us. We had been heavily mined. Robert Wick, Officer N. J., walked across the bridge and detached the wires so we could cross."

Nazi Snare
The Germans had mortar batteries planted in rows on both sides of the river and they were fired and then opened fire from the rear.

"I ordered the men to dig in. But we were in a soggy ditch below deck level and they had no dug more than two feet before the holes were filled with water."

But the men stayed in the cover as the night counter-attack and their situation appeared hopeless just before the rescue.

BRITISH TO GET LESS LEND-LEASE
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Current British-American negotiations for less lend-lease supplies for the British empire contemplate no change in the basic "ground rules" of lend-lease supplies for the foreign economic administration and today.

These rules are that no lend-lease articles or British-made articles similar to those received under lend-lease will be exported, and all lend-lease shipments—essential civilian supplies as well as munitions—shall be governed by strategic decisions.

The strategic decisions which will govern lend-lease supplies sent to the British empire, especially to the United Kingdom, that already is reflected in the fact that the British are asking for only one-third of what they have been receiving year after year.

Combat? It's Old Story for Rugged Burley Paratrooper

By JUDY ALLEN
BURLEY, Nov. 3.—There are soldiers and soldiers, but not many men like the experienced and able paratrooper to serve their country as much as a certain paratrooper regiment.

Private Joe Rollo J. Morris is a member. Private Morris, a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Morris, Burley, has been overseas for two years, has made night commands drops behind enemy lines in North Africa, Sicily, Italy, France and Holland.

Recently from the war department that he was wounded and hospitalized for the second time Tuesday they received an airmail letter from him stating that the wound was in the leg, not bad, and that he was already back with his unit in Holland, engaged in night operations and missions into Germany.

This last fox wound occurred on Oct. 5 in Holland. Private Morris was wounded in the leg and was hospitalized in "Zurich" and received the purple heart.

In letters home lately he has told about driving a German tank which blew up, of holding the bridge at Nijmegen, of driving a pontoon over 20 miles into Germany and back without lights at night, and of the capture of a German tank.

His letters home are so interesting that he could write a book of high adventure when he comes home.

He volunteered for the paratroops at Fort Douglas, March 10, 1942, and the following August he graduated from paratroop school at Fort Benning, Ga. He was attached to a parachute infantry regiment and shipped to North Africa in March, 1943. There he served with the British 8th Airborne in the desert, between El Alamein and Tunisia.

On June 8, 1944, he jumped into Sicily the evening before the invasion of that island began and fought through the entire Sicilian campaign. He dropped back of the German lines and took part in the invasion of Salerno and went on with the army which captured Naples. His paratroop unit was next behind the German lines on Volturno ridge, where they died that the enemy after all efforts had fallen from the front.

Private Morris was then moved to Ireland and then to England to prepare for the invasion of France. He parachuted into Normandy on the evening of June 5, 1944, the night before the invasion began. The job of his jump was to take and hold the town of St. Merre Leticie at the southeast extremity of the Cherbourg peninsula, a vital spot where German reinforcements were concentrated and where the enemy would approach from the Cien area.

Task First French Town
The paratroops arrived at their objective at 11 p. m. June 5, and by 2 a. m. invaders day they had captured the town, three hours before the airborne troops landed. Six Mere Leticie was apparently the first French city liberated by the allies and the major task that the paratrooper regiment be given a French decoration.

Morris was shot through the chest, while the unit was attempting to capture a bridge on June 10 and was taken to England for hospitalization. There he received the purple heart.

At Nijmegen too
His next jump was into Holland on Sept. 4 with an airborne division. He was with the paratroopers who seized the Nijmegen bridge on Sept. 16 and held it until Sept. 20 for the army to pass through. They found the bridge full of demolition charges which the nazis had placed. Morris writes, General Dempsey stated afterwards that the holding of this bridge saved 25,000 casualties for U. S. soldiers.

Since then Private Morris has been engaged on night raids into Germany and has been in the more all the time. Soon he hopes to come home to his family.

When the paratrooper unit was on a commando-paratroop action after another, ought to be enough for one soldier to serve.

Shot on Trip
"He was shot while on a trip to the mountains in the north," she continued. "His wound wasn't serious but it took two days to carry him by stretcher down the mountains to Carigrata. Then the doctor didn't operate and my brother died. We think the doctor didn't operate because he was afraid he would be punished by the Japs if my brother recovered."

"My husband died from fever. When he joined the guerrillas, he wasn't used to going barefooted in the mud and over rough terrain. He had to learn to eat Filipino food—even rice—because his family lived in a mountainous region city in central Luzon) and always ate American food."

WOMAN MUST PAY BACK ALLOTMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 4 (AP)—Mrs. Arlene Bookman today balanced the neatly paycheck of $12.50 she gets for salting tables and the bill for $1000 the got from the government and figured she could pay it off in about 10 years—maybe.

Maybe longer, considering she supports her 72-year-old daughter and her aging mother.

The bill arrived yesterday with a note. It said the government shouldn't have been sending her all those allotment checks for her husband and would she please send the $1025 back at her earliest convenience.

Was Puzzled
"User did know what they were for," she said, "and I still don't." Her husband left her in 1942 for good but she was through and was going to join the merchant marine or something. She didn't hear any more from him. Then in November, 1942, the mailman brought her an allotment check for $1025.

"I didn't know what it was all about," she said, "and I still don't."

Private Morris was then moved to Ireland and then to England to prepare for the invasion of France. He parachuted into Normandy on the evening of June 5, 1944, the night before the invasion began.

War Medical Advances Saved 60,000 Who Would Have Died

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Sixty thousand American soldiers are alive who would have died since Pearl Harbor if they had been wounded in World War I.

This report was made by Col. William Thompson, director, reconstructing consultants division, office of the surgeon general.

The high success is due to new techniques, he said, in particular, the use of the old treatment of complete bed rest in doing wounds.

These reports of the advances in war medicine were given by Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general of the army, in a report to the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States.

The men whose bodies were whole were made so by surgical techniques that are new or improved over the World War I days. The results are to arms, legs, and most bones, including face, hand and jaw. New surgery especially has saved men from a life of shrapnel and varied amputations.

Twelve thousand wounded men a week, equivalent to 52 divisions year, are being returned to fighting condition from army hospitals in the United States alone.

OFFICERS PLAN AACHEN ADVANCE

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXERCISES: The infantry dug field defenses and natural obstacles ahead of the concrete and steel of the Siegfried line above Aachen are likely to prove tougher than the crust on the opinion of officers planning the next move.

Some of the men who breached the defenses of concrete and steel in the last weeks of the war, it is told today how it was done with the mortar assault tactics of the American tank and doughboy team. There were no new devices, no secret weapons, used in the hole 11 miles wide and four miles deep in the "concrete wall." Two thousand boxes were knocked out and 6,000 Germans were captured in the town.

PHILIPPO Were Destroyed: Those pillboxes, in the view of the men who broke them, were "little better than deathtraps."

But here where there are, according to Lieut. Col. Thomas Crystal, 32, of Miami Beach, Fla., of the 10th corps which made the breakthrough:

"The river is wide enough to form tank barriers—but they are worse than the streams themselves. They are mud and they are impossible to cross without bridging."

To guard this in the last few weeks since the final real threat to the line, the Germans turned out whole communities including some Dutch, to dig everywhere possible every foot of soil at the top of a zigzag trench lines, anti-tank ditches and gun positions.

"Behind us is the breached concrete pillbox line—the last of the concrete between us and the heart of Germany, but not the last of the defenses."

WEAKER SEX MAY DECIDE ELECTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Women may cast the deciding vote in this election for the first time in history by calling the tune on the nation's domestic and international affairs during postwar years.

And that leaves many men, more than ever before, wanting to know why women vote for a certain candidate.

Because of his personality or looks? Because she does or does not like his wife?

Or does she vote on campaign issues? If so, what sort of issues are uppermost in her mind?

Of course, some women vote the party line every time. Of course, some vote as their husbands do.

Independent Choice: But women leaders in politics, business, the professions and labor say that the woman whose vote could be considered for independent choice will vote on political issues.

Women leaders of both major parties say this wartime election, especially, finds women voting according to how they believe a candidate will handle the problems of the war and of the peace.

Naturally women are interested in getting their men home from the wars—victorious, mind you—as soon as possible. But where is the father who wouldn't vote for that too?

Responsible women reject the suggestion that their voting slates are swayed by such wartime restrictions as rationing. Women leaders of both parties deplore that notion and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has called it an insult to the intelligence of the woman whose men are fighting the war.

Perhaps most of all, women want to make absolutely sure that our government will do everything possible to prevent another war. They don't want their sons and grandsons to fight again.

Exert Influence: Women are exerting more influence in this campaign than previously, partly because many more have taken an active interest, partly because it's likely that women will cast the majority of the votes Tuesday.

Campaigners have been paying attention to the soft voices of prominent individual women. Each party has arranged as a major part of its campaign, speeches by prominent women supporters.

The Non-Partisan League of Women voters has flooded the country with factual information on issues of this campaign and directed armies of women volunteers on a get-out-the-vote drive.

Bowles Maps Sensible Plans For OPA Reconversion Days

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (NEA)—Eighty-one hundred members of office of price administration's 500 farm, labor, consumer and industry advisory committees have an eight-page memo from Administrator Chester Bowles in which he outlines fully and for the first time his ideas on postwar price control policies. Bowles worked on this important statement for weeks, trying out parts of it in area conferences and radio talks to get the thing in simple form.

The result is a typical Bowles job with picture charts for eye appeal and just about as far removed from the usual type of stilted government policy statement as anything you ever saw. It is written in first person singular, for a direct, straight-to-the-shoulder, conversational appeal. And you can understand it. For instance:

"I am well aware that any delay on our part in setting prices would be an even greater hardship on the small manufacturer than for large ones," he writes. "We must make sure that any manufacturer who needs a new price can get a decision quickly. In order to do this, we will adopt the final ceiling prices for all reconversion products not on the list of 12 major items." Autos, refrigerators, washing machines, sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, radios, clocks and watches, furnaces, ranges, electrical appliances, pianos, phonographs.

Many firms have already indicated that they plan to sell at their 1942 prices . . . They will not need to call on our field offices at all. Firms whose higher production costs make a price adjustment necessary will be able to present the facts to the nearest office and receive a price based on a set of standards arrived at in Washington. These will be standards that can be quickly applied without referring back to Washington . . .

A complete plan, including pricing standards for the smaller manufacturers, has been developed . . . If necessary, we are prepared to announce full details of the pricing procedure each manufacturer will follow within 48 hours after V-E day.

"Finally, we are studying the possibility of completely exempting from price control certain (small) manufacturers . . . We are anxious to do this in order to eliminate as rapidly as possible all unnecessary red tape and needless regulation.

These lines are typical and in a way they express the whole message Bowles is trying to get across to American industry. The six aims of this postwar pricing policy are stated in encouraging production, continuing high war rates, protecting against increases in the cost of living, preventing collapse of farm prices, simplifying application of controls and eliminating all controls as rapidly as possible.

In a way, this is a courageous document to stick out at this time—just before election. The memo was sniped at as a typical new deal plan intended to regiment American industry after the war. From the Democratic side, however, it can be pointed to as proof that the administration policies on price control have kept down the cost of living, preventing repetition of runaway inflation and the crash after the last war, while at the same time keeping up corporate profits, farm income and wages payments well beyond the peaks of 1929.

But Bowles had his eye on another date than the election in putting out this memorandum, and that was the possible end of the war in Europe, with its resulting 60 per cent devaluation of the war economy.

How long this controlled-price period will last, Bowles is not prepared to say. The timing will vary from item to item, he says. But as the need for war production decreases and the need for civilian production increases, hardship cases will be given relief, price controls will be taken off as fast as possible and one of the most difficult and disagreeable of all wartime restrictions written off the books. only briefly.

W. H. "BILL" DETWEILER GOVERNOR

Not what Bill Detweiler says for himself . . . he's modest. Nor will he be elected by "promises" to either groups or individuals. Bill Detweiler makes no "campaign" promises. His inherent honesty demands this. But when he makes a promise he has never been known to repudiate it. You can bet your bottom dollar that he'll come through . . . in name, in spirit and in action. That's "Bill"! But, underneath this reluctance to push himself forward is a power-house of foresight and action . . . and a keen, uncompromising sense of right and wrong. That's the kind of Governor Idaho needs. That's the kind of Governor YOU want, isn't it?

Read . . .

the opinions from an editorial endorsement of W. H. Detweiler which, more than two years ago, predicted a choice by Idaho's thoughtful, earnest voters:

"Detweiler offers no ill-considered promises."
"He promises no jobs."
"He would go into office owing no favors . . ."
"His deeds square with his words."
"Nobody will own him."
". . . hearty, mentally tack-sharp."
". . . applies the rule of right and justice to all public questions."
". . . remarkably familiar with the mechanics of Idaho statecraft, which he approaches with sound business intelligence."
". . . a record brimming with aggressive spunk, falcon-eyed thrift and fearlessness."
"He is a practical choice."
". . . eminently potential to become a commanding figure and one of Idaho's ablest and best governors."
"The power of plain people that can nominate can be the power that elects him."

IDAHO STATESMAN 8-9-42

If you haven't met Bill Detweiler already, just ask any of Bill's friends about him, regardless of what party they belong to. Ask any of the hundreds of American Legion members with and for whom he has worked . . . on every war veteran problem. Ask any of his former acquaintances and they'll tell you that Bill Detweiler is the only candidate for Governor with a definite program for real progress of agriculture in this state. Ask any Idaho legislator who has seen, first hand, the rapid rise in respect for him as a statesman who holds Idaho's future progress FIRST!

Or ask any of the majority of newspaper publishers throughout the state who have known and observed him closely. Or read some of their most scrutinizing editorials. For instance, we reprint here several quotations from a newspaper which has hardly ever endorsed a candidacy at the primaries, but which more than two years ago recognized Bill Detweiler's unusual qualities as an able and aggressive state executive.

This advertisement was sponsored in the interests of a greater state, and was paid for by some of the Idaho folks who really KNOW W. H. "Bill" Detweiler.

Democrats Favor Regulation—Dewey Free Enterprise Hope

Editor, Times-News:—
 As I talk with Democrats during this campaign I find that they believe in a lot of government regulation for our civilian life. They do not believe in having less regulation. We shall have, and should have, more and more regulation. These Democrats, those followers of Roosevelt who have new faith in that efficiency makes for abundance and a more nearly equal distribution of wealth.
 They feel that the new deal has been tried and found to be of beneficial success.
 But here is where the Democrats make their mistake. They think that the new deal has been tried out. That is what we call reasoning from a wrong premise. In the building a house on a foundation that will not support its weight.
 To demonstrate that it is a success the new deal would first have to pay for itself. It is not possible in free enterprise, not in government, and demonstrate that it can keep going without a tax to stimulate it.

Why Does FR Refuse Trial For Kimmel?

Editor, Times-News:—
 Admiral Kimmel says the true story of Pearl Harbor has never been told. He has demanded a trial and new defense. Why?
 The few people realize what a terrible disaster Pearl Harbor was for our country. It was not only our ships, airplanes and 2,000 men at Pearl Harbor that were lost, but the loss of our fleet, the whole south Pacific except Australia fell to the Japs. The allies lost a quarter of a million men with ships, cannon, arms, planes and equipment.
 All right, besides all this think of the men, ships, planes, etc. we are taking in retribution. And think of them all together and you will have the total of the Pearl Harbor disaster. Again I ask why? Who was responsible?
 Last Christmas I met a flyer from the aviation Home office. He was a young man, probably 25 or 30. Said he had been in the service since 1918. Since he was decorated with bars, stripes, etc. I asked him what they all stood for.
 He said, "Well, I've taken part in five of the major battles of the Pacific. I was in the Philippines, I was in Guadalcanal and New Guinea. I was at Hickam field when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor. We were running around like a bunch of chickens in the field and getting hit up on our guns. Not a plane got up on Hickam field. Four got up on the ground. One was shot down. We were so thick that we couldn't tell where we were shooting."
 He answered rather curtly. "To tell the truth it isn't their fault." And I said, "Well, they were in command. If it wasn't their fault, then, whose fault was it?"
 He said, "Well, it wasn't our fault. We fellows had been in the night and days for six weeks and had the day before went flying. We got the 'All Clear' sign from Washington. Those commanders are just taking the rap for the flight instructor. D. C. You folks don't need to think we don't know what we're fighting for. It's our fault. I rubbed his fingers together." "The admiral." "Well, anyway, when you vote just 'Remember Pearl Harbor.'"

No One Man Ever Cured Depression and Reader Says We Must Trust Congress

Editor, Times-News:—
 Some Forum writers have depressed their minds out on simply it is that—that they are caused and cured by presidents. They reason that Hoover brought us on in his second year, and Roosevelt cured us. Perhaps Stalin, Hitler, Mussolini and the right, belittling democratic government. You know Hitler and Hitler, Hitler, Hitler, Hitler and creating prosperity. And also creating great national debt and so did Roosevelt. So it seems that folks who believe good old-fashioned democratic government made the U. S. great are only fooled by the "bad" capitalists.
 In that case I'm foolish. I don't credit one man for so much in America. I have never known any individual depression without one man governing a new deal, and I think we would have again, and without adding a lot of debt on the next generation, either.

With Energetic Blows, This Reader Defends FDR Record

Editor, Times-News:—
 I heard Mr. Henry Dwoznak's speech and must put these things in clear and definite care. Many of our young men are now giving their lives for the country that they were born in a life of crime, among that group are some of the army's most efficient officers.
 Mr. Dwoznak referred to the national debt of 215,000,000,000.00. It was as stated by F. D. Roosevelt when the O.G.O. had been in harness for 12 years they had already a lot of warships and not one new one added and all supplies left to rot in decay. Since F. D. Roosevelt took over he has built the finest navy ever had in our history and put into operation a bridge of ships across the seven seas and men and material for war purposes (for our defense) are being safely landed on all parts of the world.
 F. D. R. has put the German U-boats greatly out of the sea. Now that and most important is the more than 100,000 DEAD, hospitalized, and equipped with the best surgical instruments and new discoveries for our sick and wounded.
 A surgeon, a commander of a large hospital unit, writes me that through his plans and our modern medicines and my very efficient corps of surgeons we are not losing a patient." And Mr. Dwoznak calls that "wasted money." I think that took more than a quarter million dollars and they are carrying men and supplies to all parts of the fighting front and bringing back wounded and sick soldiers to modern hospitals in our homeland. That took more than a quarter million dollars. The people do not want "wasted money" just because they have been sent to represent the people of Idaho in the congress of the U. S. three times. You have been a failure except to serve the old guard Republicans and determine the most heroic officer of the President through all these trying years of our country. Why should the people send you back for a fourth term? Yes, Mr. Dwoznak, it is time for a change not of presidents but of state representatives in congress. The people do not want to elect Phil Evans, the man who cheats our citizens and business interests who will devote his time to serve in this crisis.
 EVANS WOOD (Wendell)

For Humanity, He Urges Reelection Of Mr. Roosevelt

Editor, Times-News:—
 I would like very much to tell the people of the good old U. S. A. how I feel.
 There has been a lot of folks trying to tell us how but I think the right and only way is to go to the voting place with your hand up as though you intended to go to the staff, then just walk the way your own good judgment tells you. There has been a lot of talk about the good old "minute man" and just as well too. It would have been pretty bad, even harder—for some of us has favored ones had it not been for our friend, Mr. Roosevelt.

Says Evans Ran as Socialist, Then Republican—But Failed

Editor, Times-News:—
 Thinking that the election is the proper time to say something about the candidacy of Henry W. Dwoznak, I am making an effort to enlighten you in your esteemed paper.
 First let me say that Congressmen are not elected by the seven counties neighboring to Twin Falls and this reason for this is as follows:
 1. He is a militant advocate of the old socialist party. He has close attention to the needs and the requests of farmers and stockmen. He is a militant supporter of the great majority here.
 2. He is a militant supporter of the actions of a congressman so able and so careful of the interests of the common man.
 3. The attacks made by Phil J. Evans on Congressmen during the "Black Record" exposed the patriotism of this efficient and public spirited citizen. He suggested the voters of this district who are acquainted with the true record of this man.
 4. He is a member of the military record of our Congressman in the World War. He remained in his five months in the trenches in France. He has never been hospitalized of his war record.

Here's a Blow at Truman Acceptance Of Anyone Who Will Help Elect FDR

Editor, Times-News: If we are to believe Senator Truman not only a Mr. Roosevelt's indispensable but also a man who will help elect FDR...

How far do you suppose Roosevelt could have gone in preparing this nation for war if the Republicans had not come along with their money, their men and their brains...

For our faith in Mr. Roosevelt had long since faded away before Pearl Harbor. When this administration sold out...

Mr. Roosevelt may be able to fool some of the people all of the time, but he is not able to fool all of the people...

Every talk that any of the GOP makes they condemn the new deal but while this new deal as they call it was going on they did all they could to get this country...

Attack on Borah By FDR Arouses This Man's Ire

Editor, Times-News: Some time ago in Mr. Roosevelt's Foreign Policy Association speech, he attacked the late Senator Borah for being wrong about whether there was going to be a war in Europe...

When Senator Borah died, Mr. Roosevelt spoke of him as my good friend. Now he attacks the dead senator and even claims credit for something Senator Borah brought about...

Dewey Right in Saying Only A War Made Jobs Under FDR

Editor Times-News: 'Evil minds have evil thoughts of others' was recently quoted by a young man who was speaking to the Times-News. Could that be the reason an article entitled being said of Governor Dewey and Westbrook Pegler...

'Vote for Wilson. He will keep us out of war.' Wilson got the votes of large numbers of Republicans and Democrats, and so got World War I in 1918 in a lifetime that we were promised 'again, again and again, your boys will not have to fight in foreign wars.'

Roosevelt got the votes, again, a lot of Republicans vote, now there aren't enough Democrats to elect a President, and so got World War II in 1944 in a lifetime that we were promised 'again, again and again, your boys will not have to fight in foreign wars.'

Almighty Dollar Rules Campaign, Reader Declares

Editor, Times-News: I have been listening and reading quite a few political talks by both parties. And it seems kind of queer that anyone is coming before the public and tell such stuff as is being put before the public just to try to get votes. What they will do is to get that almighty dollar!

But they that get Hoover in office another four years there wouldn't be any dollar for them to get.

Idaho Can Depend on CHARLES C. GOSSETT

HE KNOWS HOW TO BE A GOOD GOVERNOR

Charles C. Gossett is a man of the people. He has always been a friend of the farmer and a friend of labor. He believes that there should be a place in our democratic form of government for everyone.

Gossett KNOWS HOW to be a good governor because he is fully qualified by experience and training to fill this high office. He served four years in the Idaho Legislature and four years as Lieutenant Governor and president of the Senate.

Idaho can do no better in these trying times than to elect a man with Gossett's qualifications for Governor.

Read this Editorial: IDAHO BELIEVES IN DWORSHAK

"We believe that Congressman Henry Dworshak ought to be re-elected and that he will be re-elected by a vote ranging from 70 to 75 percent of the total vote in Idaho. He has earned such recognition from his constituents and there is every indication that the congressional district are going to accord it to him. Now serving his third consecutive term, Mr. Dworshak has shown both ability and integrity in guarding the interests of Idaho and the nation east in his office and in continuing him in office and in assuring Idaho of having a capable congressman in the lower house of congress, who knows his way about and how to get what the state and the nation needs to further its progress and prosperity. We confidently believe that it is now Mr. Dworshak and his constituents who have the best equipped man in Idaho ever sent to the House and that continuing him there will redound to the honor of Idaho, to the honor of the nation and to the advancement of her best interests at home.

"Looking back over more than fifty years of Idaho congressmen, Henry Dworshak easily stands at the top. Already an influential member of the House, his influence will grow with continued service. He is equipped with the ability and the will to become an outstanding member of the house. Fortunately for Idaho, he is a member of the Idaho 2nd District. We recognize the worth of Henry Dworshak."

WE NEED MEN LIKE THESE IN WASHINGTON

VOTE REPUBLICAN

EFFICIENT,
FAIR AND PROGRESSIVE
GOVERNMENT!

When they go to the polls on Nov. 7, there are several things the American voters should keep firmly in mind.

This country is slowly emerging from the greatest war in world history, and a nation geared to a wartime economy of such magnitude must face manifold problems of serious proportions in its attempt to return to normalcy.

At the same time, our country is faced with by far the greatest national debt in all its history, a debt that staggers human imagination.

There is no way of escaping the very firm line that must be drawn between our ability to pay off this debt and our efforts to maintain a fair standard of living.

During this great transformation, we must weigh carefully all those federal expenditures which are not absolutely necessary. Efficiency must be the watchword. The future welfare of this nation and all its 48 states must be kept foremost in mind.

Either we will emerge a greater, freer and more prosperous country with better living conditions for everyone, or we will retrogress into a future of fear and uncertainty.

Never was it more important that we trust state and national affairs to capable minds — men with foresight, ability and experience—for the decisions that are to be made within the next several years may have a vital and long-lasting effect on our security and happiness as Americans.

We need men in Washington who have this great responsibility well in mind—men whose courage, integrity and convictions are above all question.

Thomas E. Dewey and John Bricker, Republican candidates for president and vice president, are outstanding examples of men this country needs to head its government during these trying times. They are fundamentalists in the sense that they feel this country must continue to grow on a firm foundation.

In the United States congress they will need the support of men with similar convictions, men like Gov. C. A. Bottolfson and Henry Dworshak, Republican candidates for U. S. senator and congressman, respectively.

Idaho is fortunate in having men like Governor Bottolfson and Congressman Dworshak available as representatives in Washington. Both are thoroughly experienced in public office, both have the welfare of their state at heart, both have the ability to bring influence for their country's good.

For the nation and the state, we need men like these in Washington.

$200,000,000 IN FOOD FOR ITALY

Ex-Cowboy Dodd, AAA Boss, Says Crop Record Remarkable

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—In the war department of agriculture, J. E. Dodd, chief, agricultural adjustment agency.

Nearly every farmer in the nation has heard about Ed Dodd, or at least knows him by AAA. But few know that the quick-smiling chief with the curly hair was once a cowboy on the River (Ore.) command and right now actually would rather be out riding his horse, cutting each of his little ranches of a few thousand acres a year, holding the title of a hobbyist day in his private office.

Third of sitting in an office, the rancher-farmer-business man says. "I'd rather be working my white faced cattle. And I can make more money at home than I can in Washington. But I stay because I am helping a large part of people, and I want to be of general possible service to others."

Dodd wanted to talk more about the American farmer war-time record than about hunger.

"I was proud of the production of tanks guns and planes," he said. "I was proud of the record set by our farmers probably the most remarkable achievement records will be set hereafter. It is the record of the American farmer."

"I just think it's a success record for a war. And whatever credit is due to the farmer, it is due to the farmer himself. It is due to the farmer's own initiative and to the farmer who went to their neighbors personally and asked them to do it for them. And they did it."

Dodd had a war department official call him several months ago and told him the supply of food was running low. Dodd immediately got on the telephone and within 24 hours the supply of corn for increasing the present war building up again. Not a minute was lost. Dodd said the corn was loaned quickly because of cooperation of farmers.

Dodd said he will come all the way from drug store and a flour community organization in a dinner band to organize.

Applications of Mr. and Mrs. Nola Olsen for membership were voted upon during the business meeting.

It was voted to present a $10 gift for Christmas to the camp and hospital program. A report was made by the home economics chairman upon the food served at two farm teas in this vicinity.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. B. E. Eakin, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Janousek and Mrs. and Mrs. Sherman Arthur. F. Heister will be in charge of the next meeting's program on 4-11 work. The meeting has been set for Nov. 10 at the American Legion home.

Here's How Next of Kin Get Word of Prisoners of War

By NEA SERVICE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—As of Oct. 1 there were some 50,000 U. S. soldiers, sailors and marines known to be prisoners of the Germans or Japanese. There were, in addition, some 50,000 reported missing. Some of the missing may be dead, others may be reported later from the prison camps.

Headquarters of information on United States personnel held prisoner by the enemy are at the old World War I munitions building in Washington, D. C., which is the Geneva convention, governing treatment of prisoners, requires that each of these prisoners of war information bureau in the United States and Germany notified this agreement, though Japan never did.

Army Does. All the United States, the army handles this work for all services—army, navy, marines, coast guard, civilians.

Before an man can be reported a prisoner of war he must first be reported missing in action. This is done by the commanding officer of the addutant general's office in Washington, which maintains a file and reports the case to the casualty branch.

This man doesn't become a prisoner of war until he is so reported by the direct communication in the form of a capture card captures him the prisoner himself, addressed to his next of kin. Ordinarily, however, the first word the next of kin will get is a telegram from the War Department stating that the man is missing in action.

As soon as a man is captured, the enemy obtains from him such information as his name, rank, serial number, home address and next of kin. This information is sent by the many authorities to the International Red Cross. From ITC at Geneva, therefore, will come to the war department an initial cable giving a list of newly reported prisoners by name, rank and serial number. From this first list the prisoner of war information bureau prepares information for various relief agencies which notify the next of kin, giving the relative's first name and the man previously reported as missing in action is now a prisoner of war.

A copy of this notification is then transferred from the identifying agency to the prisoner of war information bureau of the provost marshal general's office. It follows up the initial telegraphed report with a letter to the next of kin, explaining how and where he may be communicated with.

From 30 to 50 days later there will come a second cable from the provost marshal general's office, confirming names and numbers and specifying the prisoner of war to which each man has been assigned.

A second letter now goes out to the next of kin, relating this new information and indicating the many instructions and labels for mailing out parcels and tobacco. And in the prisoner of war information bureau the case now becomes a record in a "middle-size file" as well as on a "checkbox" record. This so-called "checkbox" record is instantly available for reference.

After two weeks with relatives notified, the information bureau sends out a letter to the next of kin, relating this new information and indicating the many instructions and labels for mailing out parcels and tobacco. And in the prisoner of war information bureau the case now becomes a record in a "middle-size file" as well as on a "checkbox" record. This so-called "checkbox" record is instantly available for reference.

Red Cross of the prisoner of war information bureau present to explain Article 77 of the Geneva convention, governing treatment of prisoners of war, to demonstrate given every captured American as soon as he reaches a German transit camp to show what his initial weekly food ration each prisoner gets to supplement his German diet, to explain the prisoners' rights and restrictions, and to give lists of official news from prison camps in which each club has a special interest.

Former Prisoners' Sentations. At some of the meetings it has been possible to introduce ex-prisoners who have been hospitalized men who have recovered from battle injuries so serious that they are no longer capable of giving military service, and are therefore considered unfit for release. In all there have been some 200 American soldiers repatriated from Germany, though no military personnel has been repatriated from the Pacific.

A reporter who can give a firsthand account of life in a prison camp creates a sensation, always. Next of kin members generally won't let such a guest speaker go home without giving the news over and over again, for comfort and consolation. Sometimes the results get pretty emotional.

The Red Cross uses a monthly prisoners of war bulletin for relatives of American prisoners of war and civilian interests. It tries to give the news in the quietest way they arise, gives late news from the camps, tells about movement of troops and serves as a newspaper for relatives and friends who wait and wonder and hope.

Next of Kin

The purpose was so big that it filled the auditorium filled for the occasion and an overflow meeting had to be held in the gymnasium to be held for sound to take care of all the people. As they came in with their cards of admission stamped for in advance they were referred to sections in which were seated other next of kin with soldier-relatives in the same camp.

This gave each section a common interest and the basis for forming a smaller-sub-unit could remain together for later and meet meetings continuing from month to month.

The things that drew these people together in Next of Kin clubs are the common life of sympathy and home-coming over the conditions in which their men-folk are held prisoner.

Communications from the men in the prison camps are limited, particularly from Japan. What is the life in these places? It's hard to reconstruct the picture accurately or to know how the men put up in the time. Every relative at home who reads a letter from his man gets some capsule picture a detail that fits the pattern of life for another relative at a Next of Kin club meeting.

At the initial meeting of a Next of Kin club in any community the idea is to have someone from the FOREIGN POLICY. President Roosevelt sensed the approach of the war and prepared the U. S. for it in spite of Republican opposition in Congress. This war is the most successfully conducted and the best provisioned one in all our history. The President is also laying the groundwork for peace in the same efficient manner.

TERM FOUR. President Roosevelt's reelection will mean a speedier winning of the war and a more secure building of the peace. The overthrow of the Executive Department and the Cabinet in this time of war, when everything is moving so successfully, must necessarily result in serious disorganization and disruption in carrying on the War Effort with consequent delay in its prosecution.

UNIONISM. The unions certainly have as much right to engage in politics as the big corporations and the money barons who are now furnishing the financial success in a huge deluge in a desperate attempt to bring about a Republican victory.

DEMILITARIZATION. The President, together with the Army and the Navy, are committed and pledged to a speedy demilitarization of the armed forces at the end of hostilities despite the inhuman and false charges made by demagogues.

DOMESTIC POLICY. Government and Industry must cooperate in executing jobs when peace comes. Industry must take the lead and Government must be ready to take up the slack, if and when any occurs.

IDAHO

... is as big as NEW YORK

In the United States Senate, Idaho has two representatives; the same as New York and California and every other state. Consequently, as far as the Senate is concerned, Idaho is as important as New York or any other state. Thus, it seems extremely important that we send to the Senate a man with experience in governmental affairs.

Bottolfsen, through his experience as governor of Idaho; through his leadership in creating the Northwest States Development Association (the five-governor committee), and through the good government he has given Idaho, has demonstrated his ability to serve Idaho effectively.

W. H. DETWEILER
Republican Candidate for Governor

What a REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION Will Do for Idaho...

"Give me an administration in sympathy with the program which the Republican party is committed to carry out, and many of those things which the people have found objectionable in Idaho government will be changed," says W. H. Detweiler, Republican candidate for governor.

"There is no mystery as to where we on the Republican ticket stand. There are no political generalities or veiled promises to confuse the voters. Every issue of our constructive program is clearly defined.

"If elected, we will do everything within our power to put an end to inefficient prison management and the political abuses that have characterized our present system of paroles and pardons.

"We stand ready to place our state police and highway departments on the merit system, thus freeing these departments from the influence of political patronage which has made for waste and inefficiency at the taxpayers' expense.

"We have pledged ourselves to a reduction in the state income tax, knowing that such relief is necessary in view of the tremendous tax burden we are facing nationally.

"We will do our utmost to secure a thorough and impartial survey of Idaho's school system, the findings of which will be submitted to the state legislature for necessary action.

"We pledge the continuance of adequate assistance for the aged, infirm, blind and dependent children.

"Our fight will be continued for states' rights and the preservation of private enterprise.

"We will keep foremost in mind the state's responsibilities to men and women returning from the armed forces when the war is won.

"We have no intention of resorting to gestures or subterfuges of any kind to make it appear that we have tried to carry out this entire program.

"Our actions will be of such nature as to demonstrate our sincerity in seeking these reforms for the general good of the state.

"That's what a Republican administration will do for Idaho."
