The WPB has authorized the General Trailer company of Twin Falls to produce certain equipment for civilian use following a long period of production for various government agencies. The announcement was announced Monday night by William Gerber, owner of the concern.

At the same time Gerber made the announcement, official confirmation was received from the Washington through the Associated Press regional service.

Articles which the company can now make on a civilian basis include:

- Refrigerator cabinets, air conditioned coolers, pre-fabricated buildings, farm machinery equipment.

wood furniture and also mill work including manufacture of window frames, doors and storm windows.

The authorizations on manufacture of the articles are contingent on the availability of manpower and material; the official WPB word received here said. Self Manufacturing company had previously received an authorization.

MAYOR SPEAKS AT AIR MEETING

LEWISTON, Ida., Dec. 5 (AP)—The Idaho Aviation association studied today a recommendation that the legislature revise Idaho aviation laws to conform with codes of 37 other states.

The proposal was made by Col. Leverett Davis, Idaho aeronautical director. He said the revision would eliminate conflicts and duplications with existing civil aeronautics association regulations.

Leo Davaney, Portland, Ore., aeronautical director, suggested a model aviation law based on the national aviation association as a pattern for the Idaho code.

Ernest Day of Boise said the war has shown that transportation facilities must be coordinated. "We shall find that winning of prosperity in peace time also will mean cooperation between railroads

STETTINUS—President Roosevelt's appointment of Edward Stettinius as secretary of state, together with the request for resignation of Norman M. Thomas as assistant foreign general, has sparked the speculation that he will inaugurate a large-scale reorganization of his fourth term.

Cordell Hull's successor, a former Wall Street, while the lawyer from the state of Washington has been listed a rational, radical.

Indicators do not agree with this conclusion for reasons not generally understood. Mr. Stettinius was a legal choice for the state department post. As a high official in United States Steel, he won the confidence of liberal and labor groups. He exhibited unusual ability in managing difficult and delicate tasks during his diplomatic apprenticeship. He had Mr. Hull's O. K. And, like his predecessor, he is a southerner, claiming Virginia for his home state.

WONDERFUL TOMORROW

According to an advertisement we read the other day the world stands on the threshold of an astonishing age. A truly wonderful tomorrow. It isn't, it is about to shape up before our eyes.

Among tomorrow's wonders will be television. Television will carry new thoughts and hopes into millions of homes, the ad continued. It will stir men's hearts and minds in a matter of moments.

Then came a challenge sentence: "Television is ready—are you?" Well, that's a hard one to answer. Through the years the world has thought it was ready for so many things that would stir men's minds and hearts and bring new thoughts and hopes. And while television has the power within itself to open doors, hearts and minds, precedent doesn't offer much cause for sanguine hope.

Take the case of radio. Anybody who ever brought in Havana on a crystal set in the small hours of the morning can remember that feeling of wonder which came over him as he prophesied the dawn of world brotherhood. Here was a miracle that was going to do miracles for humankind.

The novelty wore off, and in time radio brought us not only globe-circling conversation but also Doc Goebbels, the propaganda specialist, and Doc Brinkley, the goat gland specialist. It brought us the roaring of the machine gun, the siren of the air raid, the siren of the machine gun, the siren of the air raid.

We should like to think that when television comes, the character of the machine might suddenly be ennobled. But we have a sneaking suspicion that with television we shall be seeing as well as hearing the singing commercial and the soap opera, and that girls will be able to sit on the edge of the living room floor in a dead faint instead of having to stand in line before a theater for the same privilege.

Really, though, there are many new devices that have stirred the minds and hearts of the world to any great and lasting good since the invention of printing. For the most part, the better things which have come to keep pace with the scientific discoveries of his mind.

And so, in spite of the telephone and telegraph and radio, in spite of electricity and motor cars and aviation, we still have wars, cruelty, ignorance, and poverty. Too often it seems that new inventions simply have a way of refining and intensifying man's innate evil.

Probably we shall buy a television set when everybody else does. But we shall do it in the conviction that the shape of things to come will be determined by the character and qualities of men's minds and hearts, whether those qualities are communicated by electronics, woodcuts, or tribal drums.

THE RETURN TO TOKYO

The second raid on Tokyo may have turned the thoughts of many of us back to the first attack on the Japanese capital, and to the momentous events of the intervening two years and seven months which set the two missions in such sharp contrast.

The day's outlook on April 18, 1942, was dark. Bataan had fallen. The Japanese navy and army were blasting incessantly at our last Philippine foothold on Corregidor, where a few survivors of Bataan had been held out for nearly a year.

Then suddenly there came the first bit of good news that the country had wanted so long and needed so desperately. Jimmy Doolittle, his squadron had shown the Japs that an airplane could land on a runway as short as 1,000 feet, and had begun to fight back.

The Doolittle mission was an audacious undertaking, boldly planned and brilliantly executed. It was a blow to the Japs, a blow which was felt in the Japs' home islands, and it was a blow which was felt in the Japs' home islands.

On Nov. 24, 1944, the outlook by comparison was bright. But it was bright only because the Japs had been defeated. The Japs had been defeated. The Japs had been defeated.

TOBACCO

TOBACCO—This scarcity philosophy prevailed until almost three years ago when the United States and almost four years after raising employment and wages was scarce has produced millions of new smokers.

Manufacturers, basing their request on studies of the effects of the war on the tobacco industry, have asked the government to lift the restrictions as far back as 1941. They presented those commanding figures in 1943 the output of cigarettes was 100 billion, but in 1943 it was 10 billion. In 1940 it was 10 billion, but in 1940 it was 10 billion.

But nothing was done to lift the restriction until the 1944 crop. The war food administration only after the war. Experience teaches that new controls should be established in order to raise prices during the depression, tobacco-like other crops—was placed under rigid control; the acreage was reduced and production limited drastically.

HISTORY OF TWIN FALLS

18 YEARS AGO, DEC. 4, 1926—The Twin Falls community was celebrating the 18th anniversary of the town's founding. The town was founded on December 4, 1908, by a group of pioneers who came to the area in search of a better life.

YOUR BIBLE

Here is the key verse in the selected Bible reading passage for today.

DEUT. 6—ROMANS 12

"Bless them that persecute you, bless and curse not... If it is possible, live peaceably with all men... Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good."

DE MILLE BALKS AT UNION RULE

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5 (AP)—Gail De Mille, movie and radio producer, said in a statement today that he will give up his weekly radio program "rather than pay one single dollar in political tribute which acknowledges that I am no longer a free man."

The American Federation of Radio Artists asserted its members $1 to oppose proposition 12 on the November California ballot. The proposition, which was drafted, was described on the ballot as being the "right of employment free from interference because an employee does or does not belong to a labor organization."

The director has another week—the deadline is one week before his coast-to-coast show goes on the air—to pay the assessment.

De Mille's statement said he believes no organization should have the right to "steal the radio air from American viewers and listeners make up his mind for him that he must support or oppose no proposition on the ballot. . . I might afford to lose one dollar, but I cannot afford to lose my rights as an American citizen, or my respect for myself as a man."

"Therefore, I cannot not pay the one dollar assessment to AFRA although I am a union man, and a supporter and believer in unionism. I am a union man because it denies an individual the right to work unless he contributes financially to the support of political views to which he may be opposed."

De Mille's statement said he will give up his weekly radio show for his work on the radio show.

U. S. TELLS ITALY TO RUN OWN SHOW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The United States has informed both Britain and Italy that it expects the Italian people to develop their government "without influence from outside."

The state department's unusual disclosure of policy in such a case today apparently placed the United States in an opposite position from that taken by Great Britain, which has officially opposed the Italian government's Italian administration.

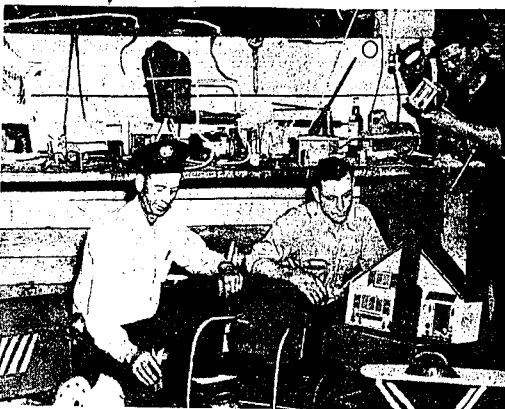

"This government has not in any way intended to the Italian government that there would be any opposition on its part to Count Ciano," the state department reported.

One purpose of the assertion evidently is to reassure the many of liberated allied countries who may have read into recent developments in Italy an indication that the great powers intend to meddle in their internal affairs.

Condemnation Suit Ready for 80 Acres Needed at Port Site

Suit against V. W. Nelson, Twin Falls, relative to the condemnation of his 80 acres of land included in the airport site, is ready for filing. City Attorney Joseph H. Blandford announced at last night's council session.

The only item lacking is a copy of the map of the site, drawn by city Engineer John E. Mayes, which had been sent to Blandford for reproduction, he added. However, copies are expected back shortly and the suit will be filed.

The 80 acres is the last parcel of land needed by the city to forward its plans for developing the area about five miles south of Twin Falls into an airport. All other land has been purchased or is under option to the city at present.

Nelson is also opposed to the condemnation by the highway district on petition of the city of a road which intersects his property.

During the session, Attorney Blandford also informed the council of a supreme court decision which held that the installation of water sewerage does not constitute plumbing. Last week the Twin Falls Service Company, Inc., of Twin Falls had requested permission to install without obtaining a plumber's license or hiring a professional plumber as the present city ordinance regarding such matters would require.

Decision Postponed
Councilmen again postponed decision on the matter until Attorney said. Complaints on 29 plumbing jobs and five electrical jobs were investigated, the report continued. Total of $50.00 was collected during the month, the weighmaster reported. At a motion from Councilman Truman V. Greenhalgh, the working-out of a $5.70 water bill was allowed as were the month bills for the water department.

Speed Beer Licenses
A motion to permit Clerk Charles E. Larsen to issue 1945 beer licenses before the new year was passed. Permission was also granted to the Elks lodge for the use of a police officer in the reception building for Dr. Robert B. Barrett, national grand exalted ruler of the organization, who will visit here Friday.

Building permits were issued as follows: To Clifford Thompson, to construct a frame garage at 167 Polk street at a cost of $200; to John Schneider, to construct a frame garage at 244 Adams street at a cost of $150; to Ray Persing, to erect an office building at 156 Second avenue north at a cost of $125; to S. B. Smith, to remodel a house at 249 Addition avenue west at a cost of $500; to P. L. Collins, to build an addition to a store at 221 Addition avenue west at a cost of $250; and to Mary S. Willis, to remodel a porch at 330 Third avenue west at a cost of $150.

SCHOLARSHIPS TO 4-H BOY WINNERS

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (AP)—Three boys between the ages of 17 and 20 today were awarded $200 college scholarships and trips to Chicago for the annual 4-H club congress, a highlight of the national meat animal contest.

The prizes were awarded by Thomas E. Wilson, meat packer and contest sponsor.

Wayne Bates, 20, Carlinville, Ill., central section winner, in 10 years handled 126 cattle and 270 swine, and raised 455 fowl. Jack Tyler, 17, Claude, Tex., southern winner, during six years handled 77 cattle, 75 swine and 58 sheep, and Dick Nesbitt, 17, Port Collins, Colo., western winner, in seven years handled 25 fat beefs, 113 sheep and 223 swine. Bates' total earnings from his livestock and from cash prizes were $2,555.18. Tyler's were $5,376.22, and Nesbitt's $11,244.66.

Five farm boys and girls won top honors in the 4-H rural electrification contest for their ability to adapt electrical energy to farm food production in wartime.

Winners included Frances McCallister, 17, Okla., who was awarded $200 scholarship and a trip to the congress by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Six girls won $200 scholarships as winners of the 4-H food preparation contest sponsored by Servel, Inc. They included Jacqueline Dolph, 16, Mo., and Charles Boyle, 16, Mo., who were awarded $200 scholarship for cutting achievement to Rae Ann Huglin, River City, Utah.

Boat and Decoys Of Hunters Taken

When one goes duck hunting, one should have a gun—and maybe a boat and decoys.

J. M. Anderson and Charles Boyle both own the right guns—and they did not the boat and decoys until the latter part of last month.

Both the boat and the decoys are gone. As Anderson reported to police, "Either high water carried the boat down the river, or someone wanting a good boat and decoys made off with them since Nov. 26."

The council discussed the loss as "a Watermaster row-boat, 10-feet long, painted red and green and containing oars."

Regulation of Motels Urged To Curb Juvenile 'Hideouts'

Motels and tourist parks as possible scenes of juvenile misconduct, should be included in ordinances which regulate hotels, clubs and lodging houses, Police Chief Howard Gillette told the city council at last night's meeting.

"Under existing state and local laws it is possible for teenage girls to rent rooms in motels and tourist parks and hide out in them after running away from home," said Chief Gillette.

"We have spent as long as a week hunting for young girls only to find them hiding out in some room on the edge of town. Such conditions exist throughout the country today."

Two Suggestions
Two suggestions were made during the discussion. That all juveniles (persons under 18 years of age) be required to show signed permission of their parents or guardians before being allowed to engage a room; 2. That the police be called by the rooming agents to investigate all juveniles renting rooms.

According to Chief Gillette, who several weeks ago returned two 13-year-old and one 10-year-old Boise girls to their parents after they had hidden in rooming houses here for several days, a regular patrol of all places renting rooms should be made by the police.

As far as legislation was concerned, an extension of the present ordinance requiring registration of all roomers to include motels and tourist parks and licensing of the two types was the only immediate possibility discussed.

Grounds for Arrest
City Attorney Joseph H. Blandford pointed out that misconduct in any rented room was grounds for arrest. The council will give the matter further attention at their meetings, it was decided.

Preceding the discussion, Chief Gillette remarked that Patrolman James Benham, whose resignation was accepted at the meeting, had been "one of the best patrolmen the city had ever had," and that he left the department with the best of feelings.

The resignation was accepted at the motion of W. W. Thomas, commissioner of public safety, who immediately nominated George Benham, brother of the outgoing patrolman, to succeed him. Approved by the council, the appointment was made effective yesterday at a salary of $10 a month.

Other resignations accepted at the meeting were those of G. A. Kimpf and J. J. Blandford.

"HELLCAT" is the name for it!

Maybe you've seen some of those GI's with Tank Destroyer emblems on their shoulders. They're a great bunch of guys — proud of their service — and for months they've been itching for the day when the hush-hush lid would be lifted so they could tell the world what it's all about.

We know how they've felt — for they've been training with Buick's baby — the M-18 Hellcat — dreamed up, developed and brought to production by Buick men, with the enthusiastic aid of Ordnance experts.

Then came the big day. The Hellcat went into action, with its 55-mile top speed and its hairy-plugging 76-mm. cannon.

Fresh from the fighting front, an official Army observer called it "the hottest thing in armored warfare," which was grand news to our ears.

But what really warmed our hearts was the flood of letters — thousands of them — which poured in from the men who've worked and trained and lived with this destroyer, once they learned that Buick builds the Hellcat.

Buick powers the Liberator, too. And our mail has been heavy with letters from flyers, telling us how much faith they've come to feel in those great-powered, Buick-built, valve-in-head aircraft engines.

So pardon us, please, if we feel a bit proud about the way these boys write us. Such cheers as theirs are the finest reward any one could ask or hope for.

YOU GOTTA THINK QUICK

XXXI
The three days that followed were about the happiest in my life even though I knew I was going to have to start my career from scratch. I continued practicing law it would be an entirely new field. I had heard that it was a tremendous thing. It had happened to me. I was no longer alone. From now on I'd be on my side and that made all the difference in the world.

The ledgers were ready when Perez appeared in a the appointed time. I think I liked him even less than the first time we met. He sat down on the edge of the desk, "gilt determined to back out."

"I would take time, but I was determined not to owe him anything."

"I was getting impatient."

"I had a few months to go on the lease of my office, so I couldn't cut down expenses there. But I also had about ten weeks left at the Towers for I'd paid half a year's rent in advance."

"I forgot to tell you," he said. Mr. Boglio mentioned these. He wanted me to bring them over."

"I didn't even have a chance to say goodbye before he'd hung up on me."

"There only remained the problem of Don to be solved, for the easy money was still proving a terrific temptation. Without going into details I'd told him what kind of a Don was playing with matches but his fingers hadn't been burned yet."

"On that third day I was in my office, winding up the work on looking for my books so that my successor, whoever he might be, would find everything in order. The phone rang."

"Kabatcky?"

"Yes, who is it?"

"Perez. I've flown in to take care of this new situation out here. I think you're being very foolish, Kabatcky."

"I'm not interested in what you think."

"Mr. Boglio seems to be quite upset."

"That's too bad. Maybe you'll be able to calm him down."

"You won't change your mind then?"

"No."

"That's final?"

"It's final."

"There was a short pause and then Perez spoke up again."

"How do the books stand?"

"I'm working on them now. I'll send them over to Boglio's first thing in the morning."

"That won't do. He wants to see them tonight."

"Look, Perez, you can understand that I don't feel like taking them over myself and I've let my secretary go."

"All right, I'll come for them. What time will you be through?"

"About 6:30."

"I'll be there."

CHINESE UNITY MOVE TOO LATE?

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Writer
China's 11th hour effort to compel her more intimate differences and present a united front to Japan likely would have succeeded if it had been undertaken earlier—and it may still succeed—but the question certainly arises whether it's too late.

This column for nearly two years, ever since my visit to Chungking, has been emphasizing that China was all but impotent and in grave danger of being knocked out of the war by the Japanese. The high-water mark of her peril by the Japanese conquests in the interior and the central theater, eliminating vital American air bases and giving the invaders invulnerable communications from Manchuria clear through to Canton on the south coast and over into Indo-China.

Difficulties through which China has arrived at this sorry pass are many, but chief among them is that the country has been divided against itself. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's one party (Nationalist) government has ruled these parts of central and southern China not overtaken by the Japanese. But in the north the Chinese communists, who have been in control.

The communists have insisted on participation in government, but Chiang Kai-shek has declined to recognize them. It's an old and bloody feud. While the two sides have been working under a truce since the Japanese invasion, there have been frequent clashes between them and they've been so distrustful that a large portion of their armies have been drawn up watching each other instead of fighting the common foe. Each side has been up something like half a million soldiers in this fruitless business.

This is the situation as Chiang, acting on advice of the United States, not only has lost a vicious boom on his cabinet but has resigned peace negotiations with the communists. One of the most promising developments appears to be the appointment of his brother-in-law, Dr. T. T. Seng, to the acting premier, thereby enabling the generalissimo to get rid of some burdens and concentrate on the grave military crisis.

The Harvard educated and westernized Seng not only is one of China's outstanding statesmen but is widely regarded as a liberal, and so the person most likely to achieve a settlement with the communists.

Russian Spouted at Some Surprised Japs

TWENTY-FIRST BOMBER COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Salinas, via Navy Radio, Dec. 4 (Delayed) 10p.—Out of today's Tokyo bombing news an amazing little story about the Russian-spouting airplane commander.

When Maj. D. M. Zukke of New Jersey crossed Tokyo he startled Gen. H. H. Henshaw, Salinas, Wash., by suddenly shouting "Russian instructions to the gunners. Zukke, who attended a Russian language school in the United States, explained: "I just want to surprise these Japs who are always cutting in and who used to play Russian records on our radio frequency."

$84,000 Purchase In War Bond Drive

The purchase of $84,000 in war bonds by the federal bank of Spokane brought Twin Falls county $84,000 nearer the sixth war bond goal. The total purchase by the bank was divided between this and other counties based on the number of land bank borrowers in each.

The allocation to this county was double the amount allocated by the bank in previous war bond campaigns, according to J. W. McDowell, secretary-treasurer of the Twin Falls group of the national farm loan association with headquarters at Twin Falls. Each of the four states served by the Spokane bank—Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington—has been credited with $1,000,000 as against $500,000, in previous drives.

GERMANY STILL FULL OF COMBAT

By VIRGIL FINKLEY
WITH ALLIED ARMIES IN GERMANY, Dec. 5.—Our principal factors keep the allied armies from smashing over the Rhine and Berlin. They are:

(1) Stiff, stubborn, capable German resistance.

(2) Lack of full quota of supplies along the front, particularly shells and gasoline.

(3) The weather which frequently denies the use of everything but the limited air superiority and makes employment of tanks difficult.

(4) Transportation difficulties, especially lack of parts plus long supply lines.

(5) The will of the German people, thus far, to resist, including standing up to the pulverizing Allied bombardments by jet and by aircraft.

These conclusions are reached as a result of covering the various fronts by foot, afoot, and by aircraft.

The greater one gets to the fighting front the more one hears that it undoubtedly will require months to crush Germany. The closer one comes under direct enemy fire the more one learns that the Germans are not a broken force but still capable of rugged fighting.

But Germany has war materials. The Nazi oil and fuel situation daily becomes more precarious. The industrial and economic structure is sagging without any hope of recovery. The morale of the German people is falling. Germany's means of waging war, mounting allied pressure, are being worn down from all sides cannot be denied.
