FEDERAL SAVINGS REFLECTS HEADS

All officers of the local First Federal Savings and Loan association were re-elected at the annual stockholders meeting Wednesday afternoon. The executive officers' annual report for 1944 was presented by general manager, H. H. Grant.

Those re-elected are Stuart H. Taylor, president; Alvin C. Case, vice-president; Reese M. Williams, treasurer; E. A. Landon, secretary; Leo Anderson, assistant secretary; H. R. Grant, manager; Parry and Thomas, counsel.

Reporting on the year's activities, Manager Grant announced the purchase of an additional $300,000 in war bonds, making the total $250,000, and the sale of $57,576 in bonds of an additional $100,000.

Two hundred and five loans totaling $430,000 were made during the year, Grant stated. Because of the larger payments now being made, many loans have been paid in full, he said.

Of 457,825 dollars have been paid members with a yearly rate of two and three quarters per cent.

"On Dec. 1," he asserted, "we inaugurated a new loan plan which will enable borrowers to procure a loan free of any costs, with the attractive feature of being permitted to pay any amount of the loan in retiring or in full at any time without penalty."

It was also pointed out that Leo Anderson, assistant secretary, completed his year's term as president of the Idaho State Savings and Loan league. Manager Grant has completed a two-year term as vice-chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and at the annual national meeting of the organization was appointed to serve as member of the executive committee, which has 25th year of service with the association.

Directors re-elected include R. P. Parry, E. A. Moon, Floyd Norman, Harry W. Barry, R. D. Keeler, Casey Landon, and Williams. Landon was appointed to serve as member of the executive committee, which has 25th year of service with the association.

Grange Magazine Topics Discussed

CASTLEFORD, Jan. 18 — Castleford Grange met at the home economic room for its first business meeting. Following a short business meeting the lecturer, Mrs. Harry Brown, presented a program from an outline of the Grange magazine. Report on the National Grange was given by the delegates. The program also included: "Great Occasions of Winston-Salem," Mrs. Irma Baxter; "Grange Program of Agricultural Policies for 1945," Mrs. Fern Brown; "Work of Another Grange Year," written by the National Grange master, Albert F. Cox, Mrs. Zola Wassover; "Many Pasture Problems," Johnnie Bingham; "Changes in Grange Procedure," Mrs. Davis Hatch; and "Accomplishments of Grange Homemakers," Mrs. Edna Cox.

Hostesses were Julia Binbakh, Irma Baxter and Hazel Brubb.

The next meeting, Jan. 19, in the high school auditorium, will include a picnic social.

Tour of Hospital Here Shows Handicaps—And You Can Aid

By JEAN DINKELACKER

To help relieve the situation at the local hospital is a real war work that can be done by all members of this community. But the situation calls for thorough, sympathetic understanding and cooperation.

That fact was called to the attention of the Twin Falls Red Cross chapter following a conference of some of its members with Twin Falls county general hospital officials.

"People often think that in our little town, with no removed from war centers, there is nothing we can do for the war effort except buy bonds, make surgical dressings and so forth," said Mrs. William Scott, spokesman for the nurse recruitment committee.

Immediate Need

"However, there is an immediate need for more nurses in the armed services. Every nurse who is eligible must go. This means that more nurses from the local hospital area must join the military forces chapters. This will increase the load on the hospital, which is already overcrowded and overworked," she continued.

Several ways in which the community can help in the situation were presented by Mrs. Scott, superintendent of the hospital, and Laura Davis, superintendent of nurses.

"We can't give too much praise to the Red Cross nurses' aides. They are wonderful," Jeppesen told committee members during a tour of the hospital following the informal conference.

There is a patriotic, unselfish service. They work without pay. Even the patients, sometimes, are on the pay roll," he continued.

One of the patients the other day was a volunteer nurse. She was a nurse-captain with the American Red Cross. She was in the hospital to receive medical attention.

"Do you mean to tell me that the doctor makes more money than you have to work?" was the incredulous rejoinder of the patient, who understood that the nurse's aide was gladly giving her services without pay.

After relating that incident, Mrs. Scott remarked, "We can't all become volunteer nurses. We can't all go to do something about the situation."

Emergency Beds

"We read in the hospital notes that 'emergency beds only are available.' There has been some misunderstanding about what 'emergency beds' means. The situation should be clarified."

She explained that the hospital tries at all times to keep at least two in each ward and a private bed empty for emergency use. "Emergency" is not a bed in the hall. However, on the day the committee visited the hospital, there was one ward bed empty in the hospital.

On the first floor every bed was filled and there were two beds in the hall. On the second floor there were also two beds in the hall.

It was lunch time and Mrs. Scott describes the scene. Everyone seemed cheerful, the sun was streaming in through the windows, but one little boy and an old man looked too sick to be subjected to the continual traffic back and forth through the halls, Mrs. Scott observed.

Porches in Use

In the original plan of the hospital, the porches at the west end of each floor were to be for recreation and convalescent use. However, for as long as anyone can remember, there have been five or six patients on each porch.

There is no reception room except the front hall, which is almost always congested with people who are able to gaze down the first floor corridors at the sick people in the beds in the hall.

Occasionally when the hospital is very crowded, two children are put into a ward as well as the five patients already there. In less crowded days there was a small ward for children. The children's ward is now in the hall on the second floor.

On the third floor of the hospital, the X-ray, the laboratory, the X-ray rooms and so forth. Occasionally when there is pressure for rooms, the physiotherapy room contains two beds, used for toniotherapy patients.

Floor Arrangement

Jeppesen, in explaining this to the committee, said that it is not a good arrangement. However, because there is no means of communication between the third floor and the rest of the hospital, it means that a member of the patients' family must stay with the patient constantly because there is no nurse to spare to the third floor.

Mrs. Davis said that the chief problem is to keep rooms ahead. "Even when we know that a room will be needed three weeks in advance, it is hard to be sure it will be available, due to emergencies," she explained.

Proper segregation of patients is also a major problem to be considered by the hospital staff, which is always confronted with lack of space.

For example, a surgical case must not be confined in the same ward with a medical patient. No "clean" cases should be near a surgical case requiring drainage.

"Despite the crowding and shortage of nurses, the patients are receiving good hospital care," Mrs. Scott pointed out.

"In some large and famous hospitals, the patients have baths and change of linens only every third day. This is not so at our local hospital. Everything is clean, and the nurses are cheerful and smiling."

Here are some "points" for the community to remember:

1. Due to conditions, nursing care has been spread thin to reach as many patients as possible. Luxury nursing is out for the duration. No longer may a patient have a private nurse and a private room for the asking or for money.
2. No Special Privileges. These cases that require private rooms and private nurses receive them, but neither social prestige nor financial relief have any bearing on special nursing cases. The community can help by remembering this and not insisting on special privileges when the case does not warrant them.
3. People should ask themselves, "is my hospitalization necessary?" Most hospital conditions need to be taken care of until after the war. If your doctor says an immediate hospital stay is necessary, don't hesitate to go.
4. Don't use your doctor unless it will come right away. Remain calm, and let him stop on his way home or at a time when he can do it more conveniently. Remember that even with the best medical services in the armed forces, the boys sometimes have to wait for a day if they are out of town to help every day. Guard Your Health.
5. To give some positive aid to the war effort, guard your own health; call the doctor only when necessary; understand that the doctor is for the patient and for the hospital.

In these ways, more nurses can be released for service and Twin Falls community can still maintain the adequate medical care that the doctor affords.

Accompanying Mrs. Scott on the hospital tour was Mrs. Charles B. Byrnes, another member of the nurse recruitment committee of the Red Cross. Other members of the committee are Bertha Wilson, chairman; Dorothy Colvard and Katherine McFarland.

In peacetime, city dwellers in central Idaho often get light burnings until after 10 o'clock in the morning, and it recently turned them on again as early as 4 p. m. because of the long dark winter nights.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

CHICAGO—The revolution against the terms "GI" and "PO" seems to be proceeding nicely but I am sure that it can be made for the contention that they were not supposed to be used by the soldiers by inventing new words for themselves. Early in the war the new men were just learning army and air force terms and were impressed by the term "GI" meaning a soldier's stomach. "PO" meant a postman. "Ole" meant that could not have come from the civilians because only a messenger could possibly be called "Ole".

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

DIPLOMATIC—If President Roosevelt really means to exert America's "power and influence" at his forthcoming conference with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier de Gaulle, he will have a mighty diplomatic weapon. The "power and influence" of the United States is not in the hands of the President. It is in the hands of the American people. The American people are the only power in the world to impress Japan with the presence without victory on the Tokyo radio. A PEEVISH COMPLAINT

The London Daily Mail, in an editorial titled "A Sir on Monty," complains of the use of credit and authority by Field Marshal Montgomery for his part in stopping the German breakthrough in Belgium. It implies that Marshal Montgomery was chiefly responsible for stopping Rundstedt's drive, and that his talents are being wasted. It terms as "unnecessarily offensive" the explanation by General Bradley that the marshal's new command is temporary.

Of course, one editorial does not necessarily reflect a nation's state of mind. And it should be remembered that criticism makes more arresting reading than praise, with the consequent possibility that mountain correspondents may have been cabling back a larger share of British writers' disparaging observations.

Nevertheless, even one such editorial does a considerable disservice to Anglo-American unity and to the military leaders in question. Its tone is in sad contrast to the generous statements made by Marshal Montgomery and General Bradley.

And it contradicts all published reports from General Eisenhower's headquarters which contain nothing to indicate that the quick and decisive actions against the German attack were not made in an atmosphere of harmony and equipment.

The war records of Generals Eisenhower and Bradley and of Marshal Montgomery are of a sort to inspire confidence, and there is nothing in the last month's events in western Europe to shake the confidence of those who read the records. It is nothing short of insulting to suggest that Marshal Montgomery is being kept down for personal or political reasons.

The extent of Marshal Montgomery's command is based on the estimate of British participation in the western European campaign. An American is supreme commander for the same reason that a Frenchman was in the last, because his country is providing the main force of men and equipment.

So the Daily Mail's editorial seems to lack good judgment as well as good taste. Perhaps its author, being human though anonymous, was simply feeling peevish and peevish is a bad thing. Little of it is going through his sixth winter of war, with its attendant danger and anxiety and privation. He probably had good reason for being out of bed and we hope the editorial relieved his feelings.

But allied unity cannot stand too many such pieces. For one thing, they play squarely into the enemy propagandists' hands. And for another, they do nothing to remove the false and dangerous impression that our allied commanders are playing petty politics when lives and victory are at stake.

MR. VANDENBERG'S SPEECH

Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, Republican and pro-war isolationist, helped launch the senate's foreign policy debate with a speech that merits the attention and admiration of all friends of international postwar peace. In it, he was specific in demanding an immediate treaty among the leading powers to demilitarize Germany and Japan permanently. This, he suggested, would remove the fear of axis militarism and the doubt of eventual American cooperation with the apparent driving Britain and Russia toward a course of unilateral and bilateral agreements, and power politics.

He was practical. He proposed to allow the President prompt authorization of force to carry out the treaty. He also proposed eventual functions of the Dumbarton Oaks plan, and to cancel some foreseeable objections by "perfectionists" colleagues in the senate.

And, as an influential Republican, he charted a course of unity and action for his party. His program is one of positive accomplishment, not negative opposition. It promises a willing, constructive partnership by the senate minority in the great and fateful work ahead.

Mr. Vandenberg probably did a lot to shorten a lot of warring faith in the congress of the United States.

THE READING PUBLIC

In one of her "Daily Column," Mrs. Roosevelt notes that "the reading habit of people really reads their newspapers and whether, when they listen on the radio they take in much of what they hear."

We suspect that this question might have occurred to those who are reading a good many papers and listening to a good many commentators during the last four presidential campaigns, and then adding up the popular vote on the second Wednesday after the first Monday in November.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—Educators meeting in Atlantic City have expressed strong opposition to the proposed universal military training. We could make the same mistake when this war ends. We will be so busy trying to get our feet under us that we will not have time to think of the children of the future.

HANG OR SHOOT HITLER DEBATED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—The United States and Britain are engaged today in discussions on whether Hitler and other top Nazis should be tried as criminals, hanged or shot, or treated as political prisoners and sent to the Solovki Islands.

The United Nations war crimes commission, on suggestion of the American delegate, has recommended that Hitler be tried and the government is reported more inclined to punishment by confinement.

The American delegate, Herbert Pell, is in Washington and may resign if the commission fails to bring British closer to the commission's recommendation. Pell is ready to speak critically, Dean, if the British in their attitude does not change.

Russia is not a member of the commission and has indicated she will handle war criminals in her own way. Most other United Nations governments, however, have not committed themselves to extradition for trials of axis leaders as war criminals.

The official British position has not been announced but reports that the British are leaning toward such Nazis as Hitler have not been willing to approve trial for arch-war criminals only in a case in which someone from that class can be sentenced on an unlikely possibility, according to some experts. If international law precedents followed.

Ground Crew Battles Way to Plane Wreck on Rugged Peak

BURLEY, Jan. 18.—Ground posmen had to battle rugged terrain and snow to remove the bodies of the three victims who died in the Annapolis staff company's airplane crash, Sheriff said in report today.

The bodies, removed from the utter wreckage of their plane on the east side of Pine Peak, were taken to the Pine Peak, general superintendent, C. Leland Eddy, public relations chief, and Pilot Ben Woodruff.

"The plane was picked up after recognition," Sheriff Clark stated, "and the bodies were taken to the wreckage of the burned wreckage. The body of Woodruff was less severely injured than his companions. Sheriff Clark, Elosck and McCleary drove by car to the village of Snowville, and then continued north by car, as far as they could go."

McCleary went with the group in the car and directed the searching party toward the ridge, where they again took his plane up after the plane reached the general vicinity, who again took his plane up after the plane reached the general vicinity, who again took his plane up after the plane reached the general vicinity.

SKIPPER RELATES STORM DISASTER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Pacific typhoon which recently swept through the Philippines and the vessels in winds of up to 110 knots and scattered survivors of one of 20 square miles.

Lieut. Comdr. James A. Marks, skipper of the ill-fated hull, described the storm as a fierce conerone today. He said he would rather make a torpedo attack on a Japanese battleship than go through that.

The typhoon sank in addition to the Hull, the Spence and the Monaghan and damaged a number of other vessels. There were 42 survivors of the Hull, 24 of the Spence and six of the Monaghan.

Marks said seven officers and 55 men in the Hull crew were picked up by a destroyer escort and two other ships. The crew members of the Hull had a 75-degree tilt. He said he told his men to hang on to the sides of the vessel as the ship went over. He recalled, he and other officers stepped out of the pilot house.

"Waves were mountainous and pounding and I feared many of the crew would be beaten to death," Marks said. He estimated, however, that 90 percent of the crew got clear of the vessel before it went down.

Grapefruit Back On Ratton Lists
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—The war food administration today announced grapefruit juice and blended orange and grapefruit juice back on the ration list at 12½ a m Thursday.

The war food administration simultaneously directed canners to withhold their entire output of these juices for the armed forces "until further requirements have been met."

Canned orange juice continues rationed at 20 a m Thursday.

These joint values were set for grapefruit juice and blended juice: No. 2 cans, 10 points; 40 ounce cans, 20 points; No. 10 cans, 40 points.

Wreckage Chared
"When I did pick the plane, it looked like someone had piled things together and touched a match to it," he stated. "The entire plane was charred but the engine compartment was not. There was no indication of bodies anywhere."

The ridge lies at an altitude of about 7,000 feet, is approximately one and a half miles long and about 50 feet wide. From Juniper, the closest village, there is a road leading up through a gully.

Positive identification of the lost plane was made by Dean and Koepnick, according to Koepnick, the stabilizer, wings and tail.

Fifteen other planes left in the search yesterday. So rugged is the terrain that six of the planes, after being told the exact location of the wreckage, failed to detect its scattered parts even when flying at altitudes as low as 30 feet.

Woodruff, pilot of the lost plane.

WALLACE HEADED FOR JONES' JOB

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Some of Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones' best congressional friends are awaiting reluctantly today to the belief that President Roosevelt intends to retire him from the cabinet next week to make a place for Henry A. Wallace.

Wallace's term as vice-president ends at noon Saturday. Roosevelt waived on Wallace's further service as vice-president at the Democratic national convention in order to place conservative elements of the party with Sen. Henry D. Truman, D., Mo.

There is no confirmation from the White House or elsewhere that Jones is to make way for Wallace. If the move is made, however, it would be with instructions from Mr. Roosevelt to his new cabinet member to

Her overseas duty was made possible by congressional action removing the ban against WAVES serving outside the U. S. Some persons here would regard nomination of Wallace to be secretary of commerce as a move to give him the opportunity to build toward the Democratic presidential nomination in 1948. The commerce department was not inert in furthering the presidential ambitions of Hoover when he held that cabinet post. Wallace is understood to have put in a bid for the commerce department. It would get considerable revenge along with cabinet rank from the opportunity to build toward the presidential campaign through the job in July, 1945, that a simmering dispute between Jones and Wallace finally attained extraordinary pro-

FIVE HERE GIVEN SERVICE AWARDS

Jaycees of Twin Falls paid tribute to five community leaders at their fifth annual civic awards banquet, held Wednesday night in the streamer-draped ball of the KOOP lodge here.

The winners were: Mrs. F. F. Bracken, Mrs. O. G. Merrill, Mrs. Betty McElbert, J. M. Merrill, Hutton Schwendman.

The awards were made by Robert H. Warner, former resident of this city who is now associated with radio station KLO, Ogden.

5000 Hour of Knitting In presenting the first award to Mrs. Bracken, he told of her service in Red Cross work both during this war and in the last. He pointed out that she had knitted over 3,000 hours on work being done for the men of this conflict.

She arose to take the award, said she was astonished and then remarked: "I'm just an old woman who started home and believed myself to be the best of my ability."

Mrs. Merrill was pointed out as a former active PTA worker whose most recent work had been in the sale of war bonds. She is county women's chairman of the fifth and sixth drives.

Presenting the award, she said that the help of other ladies on her committee had helped her project successful and disclaimed any personal credit, saying, "we did it for our country."

The third award winner, Mrs. McElbert, was praised for her leadership of the Jaycee Bandstand. She has sold more than $750,000 worth of bonds, many of them at public gatherings. She too, offered praise to her co-workers for their cooperation without which, she said, the various campaigns could not have succeeded.

Merrill, 1947 president of the Chamber of Commerce, was lauded for his many civic activities of the past year including his work with the Idaho volunteer reserves, leadership in the 1947 Red Cross drive and the chairmanship of the boys on the post-war planning committee.

He thanked Warner for the award, then introduced his wife, who he said, stayed home with the family and thus gave him time for the civic activities that had been mentioned.

The final award went to Hutton Schwendman, who served as chairman of the fifth and sixth war bond drives here. He could not be present at the banquet-meeting, but the award will be presented to him by a Jaycee committee.

Presiding over the meeting was Tom Almonth, local attorney and farmer. He introduced the Rev. L. Clark, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, who delivered the invocation.

Service Workers Welcomed Verle Moore, president of the Jaycees, then welcomed "you service workers of the community" and urged them to continue their assistance in helping the Junior Chamber of Commerce car, out of their homes.

The musical program for the occasion was presented by a choir of 45 voices from the high school under direction of Miss Frances Peterson.

John A. principal of Twin Falls high school, then addressed the gathering on "What Does School Service Mean?"

He declared that the school should do whatever it could to develop the boys and girls of the community physically, socially and mentally. He reviewed the program of extra activities in the school and pointed out that of the 430 ex-students of Twin Falls high school, 200 of them were officers, thus demonstrating their leadership.

The school program today is one in which we try to develop the student into becoming a good citizen—one who will have faith in America," he asserted.

Charles Sieber, Twin Falls, state president of the Jaycees, told the gathering that Jaycees are active throughout the United States this week were celebrating the 25th anniversary of the founding of the organization.

Points on Future Plans He outlined the continuing force on the United States home front and pointed out its importance for the hope of tomorrow's future.

Sieber explained how the Jaycee organization had given their help in civic affairs in every state in the union. He praised the far-sighted employers of the nation who have allowed members of their respective firms time in which to carry out the civic projects sponsored by the Jaycees and called for their continued cooperation.

Earl J. Glade, mayor of Salt Lake City and vice-president of KSL, was then presented and from his podium made the principal address of the evening, "Building America."

He praised the coordinated cooperation of residents in the Magic Valley between the Chamber of Commerce organization.

"We are now working in and toward 1948, but it is necessary first to know what we want," he declared.

"Naturally the first thing that we want is the unconditional surrender of our enemies. Then we must be able to set up machinery that will keep agreements after the war is over. We want a plan of economy that will provide jobs and we want competitive enterprise in the nation. Need to Think of Other Things "To be a good American it is not necessary to be a genius. Glad as

CASTLEFORD

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Feurer have announced the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Charlene M. Regan, to Oscar E. Blum. The ceremony took place Dec. 8, 1947, at the Christian church parsonage with Rev. H. M. Jones officiating. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glander.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hudson entertained at a potluck picnic party with five tables at play. Prizes went to Mrs. Bob Becker and Roger Erb, high; Mrs. Wilford Dunn and Chet McClain, low; and Johnnie Bilk, traveling.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Conrad entertained at a dinner in honor of their daughter, Mrs. Marshall Johnson, and her husband, who are here from Virginia, and also for Mr. Everett Conrad, who arrived recently from the Pacific area.

Seaman Cook, Joe Marshall Johnson and wife have arrived from Norfolk, Va., to visit at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Conrad and W. L. Johnson in Filer, near Conrad.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Grice, are the parents of a son, born at Twin Falls yesterday home.

Alfred Kramer has returned from Schuyler, Neb., where he visited at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kramer. He made the trip by airplane. It was the first time he had seen his parents in six years.

Dag Tompkins, who has been in California attending to business, has returned and resumed his restaurant.

Mrs. Elsie Harner has resumed as a teacher in the Castleford high school, and has left to join her husband in Madison, Wis. Mrs. Ruth Kempton will teach in her place for the remainder of the year.

Rev. Isaac Todd has returned from the preacher's convention in Boise.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Simpson and family have moved into the tenant house on the B. J. Conrad farm. Mr. Simpson will farm there this year.

Peru plans to build a plant to produce its own penicillin.

Leadership should be placed before boomism because the result will be more readers and fewer bores and that is what our land needs today and will need in the post-war future," he added.

In his closing remarks, the Salt Lake City mayor paid tribute again to the successful projects carried out by the Twin Falls Jaycees, he praised the Magic Valley generally and complimented Miss Peterson and her high school choir.

From Treasurer: Although each table for Chic Crabtree and Bill Gannett, co-chairmen of the committee on arrangements for the awards banquet, and to the ladies and the husbands who helped them, and to the Twin Falls Grange for preparing the turkey dinner that was received.

Reception Held For New Pastor

Two hundred members of the Transval Lutheran church attended the reception Tuesday night in the church basement in honor of the Rev. and Mrs. R. G. Mundy, new pastor of the church.

The reception was under the direction of the Ladies Aid society, with refreshments served and provided. Mrs. Mundy presented the Rev. Mr. Mundy with his wife and three children, Mary, Carol and Walter, arrived Jan. 10 from Shelton, Wash., where they have lived for the past 18 years. They will make their home at 233 Fifth street east.

Former pastor of the church, the Rev. M. H. Zaehl, and family have moved to Portland, Ore. He will be affiliated with the Calvary Lutheran church.

Ivan L. Baggett Finishes Training

After spending the past six months at the naval air technical training center, Norman, Okla., 3 1/2 Ivan

L. Baggett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Baggett, 414 Fourth street east, has graduated and is now eligible for assignment to a ship or for further training.

Seaman Baggett attended school in Los Angeles and prior to entering the navy was employed by the Douglas Aircraft corporation as an inspector. He entered the service May 23, 1946, in Los Angeles.

When the Roman Empire began to crumble in the fifth century A. D., the Emperors abandoned Rome, and made Ravenna their capital.

ON THE SPORT FRONT

What Ye Olde Sport Scriberner believes is the biggest comedy now being played on the world stage is the attempt to keep major league baseball alive. Why it's so tragic that it's laughable.

President Oliver Beachell "Green Light," you read in the daily press. And thereon the sport scriberner writes his story concerning the President didn't do.

The major league baseball that can't be played without interfering with the war effort, and right now interfering with the war effort that interferes with the war effort.

Major league baseball is a war plant. It is a war plant in a war plant. It is a war plant in a war plant.

Why all the fuss about it? What if the major leagues do have to fold up for a year or two, what of the club owners and several hundred players with fabulous salaries, is going to be hurt?

The Way Our People Lived

By W. E. Woodward Copyright E. P. Dutton & Co. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

A GEORGIA TOWN IN 1867

At 8 o'clock every morning except Sunday Major Harvey Earle left his house on Centre Street in Augusta, Ga., and walked to his office on Reynolds Street, facing St. Paul's Church.

Everyone in Augusta, both white and black, knew the Major by sight and they were not personally acquainted with him. He was a tall, thin, clean-shaven man of about 40, in knee breeches of broadcloth, a white linen shirt with ruffles on the collar, a long blue coat which came to his knees and stiffened below the waist, so his skirts spread far to his feet. He wore a small hat with the corners turned up, and on his feet were a pair of new metal buckles. His stockings were of white wool.

These garments were, more or less, out of style. They were the fashions of a past generation. Revolutionaries still wore knee breeches, lace cuffs and the rest of it in the evening, but in the daytime most of them wore long pantaloons, double-breasted coats without decoration, and tall hats of beaver.

Major Earle was a private banker. He made loans on personal notes; he financed small farmers on a share-cropper basis; he arranged mortgages on real estate, livestock or slaves and he tackled the banks to meet their obligations by lending them money and making loans on their assets.

It is interesting to note that the functions of banking in commercial life were almost entirely in the hands of a few men in the early days. There were no laws concerning banks; no regulation of interest rates, nor definition of the rights of depositors. The little banking that was done was carried on by individuals. Some of the money lenders were loan sharks, but Major Earle was not one of them. He was a reasonable creditor, so intent indeed that his bank made only a fraction of the profits it should have earned. He owned a cotton plantation called "Fairview" on the Waynesboro road about 15 miles from Augusta, and he used to say that he made twice as much from "Fairview" as he did from his money lending.

Cotton was the lifeblood of the mainstay, the universal provider for the whole population of Augusta at this period. In 1807 that Savannah river town was the first of the inland cotton markets.

There were no cotton mills in the South at that time, though there were many spinning wheels and hand looms in the farmhouses. This primitive, backwoods manufacturing was used for a trifling proportion of the cotton crop. The rest was sent down the river to Savannah and then by sailing ships, most of it was forwarded to England, which was then the center of the world textile industry.

All this involved a string of transactions. The farmer brought his cotton to Augusta in the first place. It was sold there to a merchant known as a cotton factor. The factor put the bales in his warehouse and reloaded them, later on, to another factor in Savannah or Charleston, who sent them abroad or to New England. In Lanesboro, or Massachusetts, the cotton reached a textile mill and was made into cloth and yarn.

This indirect method was wasteful in that several middle-men made profits on the cotton before it reached the English mills. A group of British and American financiers, after much consideration and, slow progress, decided, at last, to invest money to buy their cotton direct—not from the farmers, but from the Augusta cotton merchants, thus eliminating a number of go-betweens. In carrying out this purpose they sent over to Augusta a representative with authority to purchase cotton; pay for it, and ship it to England.

When the English gentleman alighted from the stage he wore a coarse checked shirt, a red necktie, high-top boots, a brown coat with numerous pockets and a low-crowned felt hat pulled down over his eyes. He carried a pistol in a holster attached to a leather belt. His hat protruded, ready to be drawn in. Usually it came out next day that the English cotton buyer had thought that Augusta was a wild and runcy frontier town, where murder was of daily occurrence, and where every man was supposed to protect himself.

Mr. Lowther did not know a soul in the place, and he intended to stay at the inn until he could find bachelor's quarters for himself. But he did not go to the inn for Robert Harrison invited him to his home as a guest.

The major was greatly interested in Mr. Lowther, and took every opportunity to impress himself upon that gentleman's attention. It was he who explained humbly the reason for Lowther's unaccustomed appearance on the day of his arrival. He invented also, in his genial, off-hand way, the myth of Cecil Lowther's noble connections, making excuses he told to keep it confidential.

The reason for these maneuvers was that Mr. Lowther would possess and keep somewhere a very large sum of money. The major had a bank and could keep the money safely.

As he walked in his office on a November morning in 1867 he was glad that Mrs. Earle had thought of having Mr. Lowther to dinner, at the dinner was to be that very evening.

OUT OF WAY

By WILLIAMS

IF YOU DON'T WANT THESE THINGS OUTSIDE YOU'LL HAVE ME IN A HOSPITAL.

WELL, BE CAREFUL! THAT'S MY BEST DOG! YOU DON'T FALL OVER EVERY DOG YOU SEE ON THE STREET? I THINK YOU DO THAT ON PURPOSE, SO I'LL KEEP HIM OUT!

It was he who explained humbly the reason for Lowther's unaccustomed appearance on the day of his arrival. He invented also, in his genial, off-hand way, the myth of Cecil Lowther's noble connections, making excuses he told to keep it confidential.

The reason for these maneuvers was that Mr. Lowther would possess and keep somewhere a very large sum of money. The major had a bank and could keep the money safely.

As he walked in his office on a November morning in 1867 he was glad that Mrs. Earle had thought of having Mr. Lowther to dinner, at the dinner was to be that very evening.

SOLONS START ON BUDGET PRUNING

BOISE, Jan. 18 (AP)—Track of reconciling a budget of $77,542,532 for the two-year period beginning July 1, 1945, was before the legislative committee today.

Gov. Charles C. Condit sent his budget message to the legislature this yesterday, recommending increases totaling $2,252,821 over the 1944 budget for the current biennium.

If granted, he noted that the budget would result in a probable general fund deficit on June 30, 1947, of $16,947,520 unless additional revenue is obtained.

The legislators went to work on the proposals immediately. Sen. James H. Young, R., Fayette, chairman of the senate finance committee, and Rep. C. Woodhouse, R., Butte, chairman of the house appropriations committee, discussed the budget and discussed money problems with Alvin H. Fanning, state budget director.

The governor said his budget is $254.1 less than the previous requests submitted by state department heads and listed these items as compared with 1944-45 appropriations:

Conservation and recreation—$1,030,110, up $176,307.78.

Education—$5,037,744.45, up $354,297.71.

Public school equalization—$4,233,228.28, up $523,228.28.

Welfare and assistance—$11,452,424.24, up $844,021.31.

Protections services—$339,130, up $109,330.

Tax administration—$856,657, up $327,077.

Liquor control (state liquor district)—$678,424.92, up $180,677.45.

Speakers Named For Convention

Principal speakers at the Idaho Valley convention of the Idaho Natateen church to be held Friday and Saturday in Kimberly will be the Rev. T. P. Dunn, Hastings, Neb., district superintendent, and the Rev. Glenn Griffith, district superintendent, and the Rev. Harold Daniels, young people's district president, both of Idaho. The announcement was made Wednesday by the Rev. Vern Martin, local pastor.

Local church officials participating in the convention will be the Rev. L. S. Oliver, zone chairman for the young people; Mrs. Robert Fleming, district superintendent, and the Rev. Martin.

Delegates from eight southern Idaho Natateen churches will attend the business session to be held at 10:30 a. m., 2 p. m., and 8 p. m. Friday with the closing meeting planned for 10:30 a. m. Saturday. It was reported by Rev. Mr. Martin.

Appointment to Schools Reported

BOISE, Jan. 18 (AP)—First quarter county appointments from the Idaho public school income fund were made by the state department of education today in the amount of $235,529.24.

The first appointment of 1945 is 47 per cent of the $1,788,029.71 in the fund for the current school year. Forty per cent of the fund was distributed to counties last October. County appointments include:

Twin Falls $41,594.45; Blaine, $4,191.70; Camas, $950.20; Cassia, $24,182.29; Emmet, $252.00; Elmore, $15,812.28; Jerome, $15,456.23; Lincoln, $2,710.65; and Minidoka, $19,115.13.

Bachelor's Burden

Material-minded native gas on Beaverville Island, in the Solomons, know they have a prospect when they see this native boy. The massive red and blue headgear he wears indicates he's a bachelor. He must wear it until he is married and it is taboo for any woman to see him without it.

Pistol Shot Kills Former Dept. Boy

DELO, Jan. 18—Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Norton and Mrs. Nina Wardweaver were in Portville to attend the funeral service of Keith Brown, six, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer W. Brown, who died in the Portville general hospital as a result of an accidental wound.

Officer Glen Harley reported Keith was playing in the kitchen of the Brown residence with an old .22 caliber pistol. It discharged, with the bullet striking his right temple. He and his older brother, William Hill, 10, had found the pistol while Mr. Brown had gone briefly to a neighbor's house.

Besides his parents and his brother, William Hill, he is survived by brother, Rhony Dean, and three grandmothers, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Norton, DeLo, and George Brown, Portville. The Browns are former residents of DeLo.

THEATERS BOOST POLIO CAMPAIGN

Idaho motion picture theaters will assist in the current fund raising appeal in the fight against infantile paralysis, during the week of Jan. 23-31. H. H. Harris, state theater chairman for the campaign, announced here Wednesday.

"From all reports, we are expecting the cooperation of all theaters in Idaho," Harris said, "in the showing of the movie trailer, based on the work of the national foundation's work in last summer's epidemic area, and which features Miss Greer Garson."

Many counties have for the first time set up theater committees to assist with the motion picture benefit. Harris announced Mrs. R. L. Brainerd, chairman of the Idaho Women's Division.

Col. Leo J. Leeborn, former commanding officer at Gowen field, has accepted the job of chairman of the county's polio campaign.

In a release to the press, Sen. John Thomas, Idaho, said: "In the annual campaign for funds with which is the responsibility of all of us to support the current drive."

Magic Valley Men Going to Meeting

Magic Valley men will attend the Idaho State Horticulture convention scheduled for Feb. 8 and 9, at Boise, to observe the 50th anniversary of the association. Special program has been planned for the two-day session, including a banquet and dance Thursday night, Feb. 8.

In charge of the meetings will be Ted Hines, state president, and Gordon Saxton, Caldwell, vice-president.

All fruit growers have been urged by A. Harold Davidson, secretary-treasurer, to attend the anniversary meeting.

Local Students to Complete Center

Plans were made at the Tuesday night meeting of members of the Twin Falls Youth center to refinish the basement of the building and equip it with pool and pinping tables. It was also announced that beginning Sunday afternoon, the center will be closed for one week while volunteer students are sending and refilling the floor in preparation of the Valentine dance to be held Feb. 10 under the sponsorship of the Junior high school student body. Blaine Petersen, Bob Hughes and Shirley Weston will supervise the refitting project.

Phyllis Skordahl approved plans to keep the center open during lunch hours for the benefit of students who bring lunches. This will begin as soon as they are able to obtain fountain equipment for the serving of milked milk, milk shakes and other fountain drinks.
