

DOUGHBOY PLAYS DEAD FOR JAPS

BY JAMES HUTCHESON WITH EIGHTH ARMY, Philippines

The Japanese played dead more realistically than he imagined in the hours after the Japs advanced after an enemy ambush killed his comrades.

The patrol was investigating the apparently abandoned bivouac site when a Jap opened fire with an automatic.

"The Japs had split our patrol and ambushed us in front," said the doughboy from Los Angeles. "I was the only one left."

"I could see where the automatic was from," he continued, "but it was too far away for my grenade. A machine gun had opened up in front, but I couldn't see it."

"After I laid there about two hours, a couple of Japs came out of the bushes and examined the bodies of others who were on my side and could watch them with my eyes half open. I decided to keep the grenade ready in case they came back if they tried to turn me over."

"But for some reason they didn't."

Throughout the seemingly endless afternoon, the Japs on the Japs' mettleless while groups of four or five, going to a nearby spring, "peep" near enough to his side.

Tomero took his first drink of water from his canteen after dark and decided to make a break at 11 p. m. It was dawn when he reached his own lines.

Russ Devastation More Than Sounded Earth, Says Veteran

By JEAN DINCKELAEKE From Russia

"Sounded earth" doesn't begin to describe the destruction and devastation which the Russian people have seen and burned in self-protection.

Ploeger only recently changed his title from "captain" to "lieutenant" in the eastern command in Russia, to the Russian command in the Pacific, Twin Falls, Ida., following his honorable discharge from the army unit in 1941.

Ploeger served from May 10, 1941, to Oct. 1, 1941, in Russia as a sergeant. He held a rank of sergeant and a lieutenant's rank on the tenure of heavy bombers on the Russian fronts during non-occupied Europe.

Base Is Bombed

He was stationed on the American base which was heavily bombed one midnight by the Nazis. The war department later announced the bombing, but not the details.

Ploeger will admit that "all hell seemed to break loose" because of all this screaming and shrieking which was heard through darkness; the earth was shaking and the burning powder smelted like a thick fog. He said that the damage is still military secret.

This great air-bomb was set up on the site of a city which had been one of the most of 200,000 Russians. Not a school, a house, a building was left standing.

Asked "Where were all the redcoats who were supposed to be there?" Ploeger answered thoughtfully:

"I'm million killed."

"When you learn that an estimated 2,000,000 people have been killed to break down the war, you figure that a lot of them don't need houses, schools, etc."

Americans are regarded as gods by the people of Russia, Ploeger said, who was captured from the United States that "saved the day" for the Soviet.

"As far as women as men seem to be in the Russian army. There were hundreds of Russian military personnel, men and women, attached to the American airbase where he was captured. Ploeger said that it was women who laid down the steel runways for the base. They were the only ones who were left as guards at the camp.

"In the last few days of the war in Russia—practically all the stock has been killed or slaughtered—the Russian military is being reduced to a skeleton. In fact, they look like they were never missed a mark."

"The military is doing that it is surprising how little they seem to require in food."

"There is no meat for the population. What little there is, goes to the military. The Russian consumes quantities of vodka, champagne and cognac, he added.

"No one can leave there. There are Russian close-at-hand can comprehend the control the government has on the people."

Everybody Frozen

Everyone is "frozen" in that country, no one can leave. There are no personally-owned radios. Houses have loud speakers which are connected with a central radio set-up and all of the programs are government-controlled.

Censorship is maintained to the hilt. Foreigners are not permitted to read Russian newspapers or magazines printed in other countries. Everything is kept through government "managers" the Russian slant term for commissars.

In exchange for work, the people are given "credits" or scrips, authorizing them to purchase food, such as black bread and vegetables, and other meager supplies and commodities from the magazines. There are no cafes or restaurants in Russia, and individuals do not own automobiles.

Ploeger entered the service from the reserve corps in February, 1941. In September, 1943 he was sent to England where he served as an engineer-pilot with the famed eighth air force, and was a member of the clay pigeon squadron.

Awarded Air Medal

After completing a number of bombing missions as a combat gunner he was assigned to duty in Russia. He was awarded the air medal, two presidential citations, the American defense ribbon, the Pacific theater ribbon and two

LUMBER SCARCITY RETARDS BUILDING

Scarcity of lumber and certain other building materials will continue to delay the resumption of new construction activity otherwise permitted by the loosening of the war production board controls, Twin Falls lumber dealers agreed Tuesday.

"The relating order became effective May 22, W. C. Bell, managing director of the Western Retail Lumbermen's association, advised the Times-News.

"It is not to say that 'lumber is still a vital war material.'"

"The armed forces need it in vast quantities, not only for the war against Japan, but also to box and crate the tremendous amount of supplies here and Europe for fast action in the Pacific.

Production Down

"Add to this the fact that production is down because of manpower shortage and shortage of equipment, and it is easy to see that while the war is on, the controls on civilian construction as quickly as possible to help the public to get the most out of the lumber which is in a position to help the industry will be within these limits," Bell continued.

"The industry is prepared to do everything in its power to meet the consumers' needs, including repair and maintenance work."

"The restriction on construction control order L-41 increases the amount of person capacity on home construction, including repair, maintenance, or remodeling, from $200 to $1,000 both for farm houses, as well as in town and city dwellings."

"It steps up the amount from $1,000 to $2,000 in commercial buildings, shops and certain service buildings, and from $5,000 to $25,000 for industrial buildings."

Tight Control

"At the same time," Bell pointed out, "the WPB has found it necessary to continue the control of lumber distribution through its control order L-33b, which permits only a small amount of lumber to be sold in dealers' inventories to be sold to home owners for maintenance, repair and remodeling."

"Other lumber in the dealers' inventories must continue to be sold to those whose war activities entitle them to a high priority rating."

"It is not until after the war that the time when relaxation from this 'tight' lumber control will permit a more liberal application for the newly revised construction order L-41, so that home owners and prospective builders may purchase their long-delayed plans for home improvement."

Here's How Twin Falls 1-Man Army Knocked off 20 Japs

WITH THE 60TH INFANTRY DIVISION ON OKINAWA—Sgt. Olsen Bauer, a 1-man army leader in a 2nd Infantry rifle company, can't complain of boredom as he fights with the 6th division, and it is only now that the full details of how he killed 20 Japs are coming to light.

Things like bayonets hurled like javelins whizzing past his head, and Japs with their rifles.

The sergeant led a six-man patrol at night to the top of a small knoll just behind the main line. The men on patrol were to investigate the reverse slope.

Just over the summit he saw two Japs peering out of a hole only a few yards away. He killed them both with his rifle, but a Jap leaped from another hole nearby and lunged a bayonet at him. Bauer ducked and with his last bullet, he killed the nip.

Below him he heard Japs moving, and in the darkness could see dim outlines. One after another he built 12 hand grenades before withdrawing to his camp.

"The sergeant is officially credited with killing 20 Japs in the Okinawa campaign with his rifle. This figure does not include those disposed of by hand grenades, which probably brought his total far above 20. The 20th Jap was killed May 20 at a distance of 400 yards.

LIEN ASKED FOR FEEDING CATTLE

William Lansting, through his attorney, Marshall Chapman and Lawrence H. Quinn, Twin Falls, filed suit yesterday in district court against Earl D. Hutchinson for $422 damages attorney fees of $25 and $220 per day from June 3 for feeding 73 head of cattle that allegedly overran his farm lands near Berger.

Lansting states in his complaint that from April 16, 1945, the defendant allowed a large number of cattle and horses to run in large, damaged grain; hay and pasture. The sum of $432. The area in which Hutchinson's cattle and horses were measured was described in the complaint as being "near district No. 3."

Because of the damage allegedly done by the defendant's stock, Lansting claims that "on June 9, 1945, the head of cattle was taken into the season." The plaintiff states that he intended to keep the cattle until the defendant paid for the damage done his crops and land, and notified the defendant of the action.

The "board bill" of the cattle amounted to $2320 per day. The Little River Mill & Lumber Co. was directed, Get them at any disposition. Only $14.

RESTRICTIONS ON SUGAR ATTACKED

GOODING, June 13—States Grange No. 28 went on record as opposing the management of sugar rationing with the following resolution:

"We strongly protest the allocation of our limited sugar supplies for making alcoholic beverages and at the same time reduce the quota for canning purposes. The proposed arrangement will result in enormous fruit wastage and food shortage in many homes, as well as increasing the juvenile delinquency and absenteeism."

Copies of the resolution were sent to congressmen and congresswomen as well as all Gooding county Granges as well as the National Grange master in state headquarters.

At the meeting conducted by Master Roy Stephens, the members voted to purchase a sign for East Main street.

Accepted as new members by deputy master were: Mrs. G. W. Hargreaves, Mrs. Alice Parks and Melvin Park. The group then accepted an invitation to attend the morning services at the Christian church in Gooding.

Mrs. Ruth Novis was in charge of the program.

Freed Wendell Soldier Enjoys Home and Belated 'Christmas'

BY MRS. CLAIR KING
WENDELL, June 13—Pfc. Wayne Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Price has arrived home to spend his 40th birthday with his parents. Private Price has been a prisoner of the German army since December 17, 1944.

At home Private Price is enjoying his Christmas packages that had been returned to his parents. "I wouldn't have had time to read the magazines over there, but of course I would have been something from home," he said.

Now and then the questions would be answered by his saying "that's a military secret," and he would smile and say, "You see there is a war in the Pacific that yet has to be won."

JEROME TO STEP UP RACE MEETS

More Horses Being Bought

JEROME, June 13.—An extension in the race meet at the Jerome Fairgrounds race track is being planned by the Jerome Riding club under whose auspices the meet has been conducted. The racing events were held there last Sunday.

The scheduled race program for this coming Sunday has been compiled, but Paul Callen, one of the sponsors, said that this does not mean that future events would not be held.

The program last Sunday carried so much interest that the riding club would not be permitted to cancel them if its members desired. Callen indicated. Because of the number of events scheduled for the remainder of this month and the early part of next the club decided that it would be better to wait until the middle of July to resume the meet and then hold every Sunday for the remainder of the season.

However, it is reported that another reason for the postponement would be the number of horsemen who have purchased horses especially for the races and the events must await their conditioning.

The races will open at all Magic Valley horse owners, Callen stated.

Trainer Says Preakness Race Between His Pavot and Ivan Parke's Derby Winner After Sensational Trial

BALTIMORE, June 13.—The Preakness stock of Pavot, the 1944 juvenile champion, skyrocketed after his sensational victory in the national 130 1/2 mile and three-mile distance of a mile and three-quarters in his last race at the track before the Maryland classic last Saturday at Pimlico.

Obviously, trainer Oscar White declared after the trial: "The race will be between this horse and Hoop, Jr., winner of last Saturday's Kentucky derby. I'm not blistering your ear, Walter M. Jeffers' star, together with the announcement that George (The Duke) and that Eddie Arcaro will be on the race, but Hoop, Jr. to try and duplicate his derby triumph, really scrambled things. Arcaro must keep an engagement to ride Devil Dier in the opening Suburban at Belmont. Pavot, with his terrific body, last Sunday, carried 100 pounds as compared with the 120 he will carry in the Preakness. He jogged around the oval one, then cut loose on a soft track, estimated to be a full second or more over than normal. He turned the mile in 1:38 3/4 seconds and the mile in 1:38 2/4 seconds.

time for the mile and three-quarters—the Preakness distance—compared with Ablett's 1:37 for the stake in 1943 and Riverbend's track record of 1:36 3/4 in 1943.

Dr. W. Hooper Hoop, Jr., which is trained by Ivan Parke, Dexto, Pa., took it easy in his barn as his other Kentucky derby contestants, already here.

CHAPTER II

Next: Happiness is Within Your Reach.

Matchmaking Ledger

Men complain of lack of personal freedom, women of domestic slavery and economic dependence. They are happily adjusted in other ways, neither personal freedom nor domestic slavery is sought heavily in the balance. These are results, not causes. The economic problem seems greater to the women than to those of men, in contradiction to the situation in the past. This and again, we have seen that a man's financial dependency was sought about in a desperate effort to satisfy a woman's demands for comforts and luxuries or social position. This and again, a man has stolen money or forged funds dishonestly because he had never told his wife frankly what his financial position really was. If he had told his wife into his hands, she would willingly and gladly have gone without things which she demanded because she knew them to be obtainable.

The demand for more personal freedom is usually the result of a lack of tact. It comes in part from a woman's conceit. In fact, her husband must not look at another woman. He must not spend any time with his own friends or with other men or devote his leisure time to any personal hobby. "I have never any day. Why do you talk to me?" his wife continues to have a duty to say to her friends, I notice, but I never open your mouth in the house."

Man is the majority of men work for a living. The only leisure that he has is with his own friends and with other men. He does not require privacy and quiet and a few hours for his own interests. There is no time for it. If not at home, home is a place of community living, but it must also be a place where the individual can find privacy for his body and privacy for his mind.

The married partner who fails to respect that privacy, who attempts to invade it, is doing a real injury to the other. Most of the complaints of lack of freedom are really complaints of lack of mental and spiritual privacy.

When you sit down to balance your matrimonial books on your wedding anniversary, what are you going to find there will be many items on the credit side, many on the debit side. Before you add all these debts, items and look at the following total, ask yourself: What is there in my marriage which has been most disappointing to it is an insufficient amount of love or companionship?

Is a material lack of money or possessions, or of social position and influence? That answer will reveal exactly what is wrong with your marriage but what is wrong with you, is it happiness you want or suffering?

Before you add up the list of your husband's bad habits, make a list of your own habits which are annoying to him. Do you make the same excuses for his shortcomings that you make for your own? Have you been tried to correct the things he dislikes?

Are you friends? If not, why not? Have you made a genuine effort to find common interests and to share your husband's enthusiasms? Do you let him talk to you without ceasing his eye of nagging or saying things designed to hurt his self-respect?

When you have added up both sides of your matrimonial ledger, do not ring the record away, crying that the situation is hopeless. Do not be discouraged until you have done everything possible to wipe out those items on the red side of the ledger.

NAZI SPIRIT NOT ALL BEATEN OUT

BY EDDY GILMORE
TWIN FALLS, June 18.—The spirit of Nazism still lives in Berlin, Vienna and Bremen and with tenacity continues to come out on the street and spread propaganda aimed at playing one of the allies against another.

Houses have been and are being set afire by Hitler youths and at least two Russian officers have been shot and killed by youths.

Without question the followers of Hitler are performing just as the Russians predicted they would—carrying propaganda aimed at backs of the allies and seeking to spread the seed of distrust and commotion wherever they go.

"I was walking alone near what is now being called as the town hall at least two Russian officers have been shot and killed by youths."

"I had just arrived here from Moscow, but he apparently thought I had come from France. I had just come from the United States, so I did not recognize him."
