Chaplin in Fidgets on His Riches

LOS ANGELES, July 17 (AP)—Nervous and fidgety under a lawyer's examination, Charlie Chaplin admitted in court his wealth is "somewhere around $3,000,000."

The actor was an unwilling witness, summoned to produce records so the court could determine the amount of support he should pay 21-year-old Carol Ann Berry. A jury decided last April that he was the father of the child by retracted actress Berry, his former movie protegee.

Chaplin didn't bring any of his records. He said his bookkeeper had them and she is on vacation. But Joseph Scott, Chaplin's lawyer, wasn't to be stopped.

After Chaplin's lawyer had said he would stipulate that Chaplin was worth $1,000,000, and that this figure would be sufficient for the court in deciding the support, Scott asked:

"Mr. Chaplin, are you worth a million dollars?"

"Yes, and more," the comedian answered.

"How much more than two million are you worth?" asked Scott.

"Very little."

"Would you say around three million?"

"Somewhere in that vicinity," answered Chaplin.

Scott hasn't received any financial assistance from Chaplin since July 10 and the court case should not be without funds while he is appealing the verdict that he is the child's father.

Chaplin had been paying $75 a week to the child's mother, since Joan filed the paternity suit.

'It's Not Ooh-La-La, But It's 'Oh Boy, Are Home Gals Pretty!'

By JEAN DINKELACKE

Girls, you're wo-n-d-er-ful! The British, the French and the Elociera gals simply don't rate with our G. I. as, as far as you're concerned.

Lead an ear to what a returned member of the eighth air force has to say as spokesman for a group who landed only recently in this country. He's First Lieut. Preston G. Henman.

The best-looking things we've seen since coming to this country are the American girls. So well-groomed, so well-dressed, so well-kept, so... why try to put it into words?

"We got our first look at American girls, after overseas service, in Maine, and we just gaped. We couldn't get into the British and French girls, but in admiration of the 'lucky' Americans."

"I don't believe they know how lucky they are to have the privilege of being the best-dressed and best-groomed women in the world," Lieutenant Henman declared Saturday.

British girls told him they had to be careful of wearing bright, yellow-colored nail polish, gaily-hued frocks, even if they could get them in way-back England. If they did, they were designated "lover boys," they explained to the Americans.

Not only is clothing strictly regulated, but they develop a sense of England-Evan soap and the other requisites of good grooming are hard to get. In France, the women make up for it with chic hairdresses, costly perfumes, and the French women of today are invariably neat, the lieutenant said.

Only a small percentage of American servicemen are marrying in Europe—at least up to now, they're remembering the American girls they left behind, or the ones they hope to find when they come home.

"And they're finding them even better than they remembered them," Lieutenant Henman said, adding quickly, "Please understand that I'm not making remarks, and this is not an objective remark, and the quote of dozens of servicemen."

Lieutenant Henman has been overseas since his final nine months, serving as a bombardier on 12 missions, and as pilotage navigator on the lead ship on his final nine missions. His ship led the 8th air force on the Schweinfurt raid.

He was based in England during the entire time he went on raiding expeditions over Germany. Plak and weather forces landing at Verdun at one time. His crew stayed the night there, and there was taken to the outfit remained in France only briefly.

Lieutenant Henman, following a 30-day leave, will report to the distribution center at Sioux Falls, S. D. He's visiting his father, O. E. Henman, and other relatives here. His brother, Dale Henman, is a merchant seaman in the south Pacific.

He wears the ETO ribbon with three battle stars representing Arzo, Denmark, the Rhine crossing and central Germany; the air medal with two oak leaf clusters and a presidential unit citation awarded for "exceptional bombing results."

Lieutenant Henman has been in the service two and one-half years. He is married to Mrs. Arlene Dinkelsch, who is employed at the C. O. Anderson company before entering the service.

Power Shift Creates New World Puzzle

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

We keep hearing these assertions with sound reason the truth that world peace depends on unity of the big three, but when we are asked any question of just what might cause a rupture of confessional relations we are inclined to take over in order to evade a delicate subject.

We come naturally by this caution. It's a heritage from the European war—the idea of avoiding the disquieting of confessional matters which might make bad feelings among the allies in the midst of a life or death struggle. However, the Hitlerian war is finished (we hope) and we have arrived at a time when frank exchange of views is all to the good, especially since each of the big three is anxious to preserve unity. So what are the tender spots?

There's a completely new and bewildering alignment of power on the continent of Europe. Russia has emerged as the dominant force. Her dominance is due partly to her vast strength and partly to the fact that Germany and Italy have been rendered impotent. This means the European spheres of influence have shifted, for the world is divided into zones of influence—like it or not.

This shift has brought an interlocking of the British and Russian spheres of influence in some places, and might easily affect others. Here is one of the danger spots, for it's easy to see that deliberate pushing by either nation might give rise to serious difficulties between them.

Announcement and execution of the novel scheme simply await the final word from the high school and college students in France, Germany and Italy will be suitable for happy demerol.

General Eisenhower wanted to have the wives of his soldiers go with him, but he explained that Europe is no place for a woman to live, especially if she is not another characteristically human reason for leaving her Washington home.

Undertaker Runs Prison Camp Well

INDOLESTADT, Germany, July 17.—The people could run a German prisoner of war camp with more efficiency than this undertaker from Sioux City, Ia., Lewis C. W. Doty.

It was obvious the minute a person walked inside the fenced area and heard the wail of "achutuungas" streaming ahead of the tall, blue-eyed officer who speaks with a racy twang that makes a midwesterner blush.

"How do you like that discipline?" asked Capt. Landray Nelson, Columbia, Mo., from beyond the fence with difficulty. Every German in camp was snapped to attention and a rattling bobbed chest which ended as evenly as it began.

The "achutuungas" were coming from the German themselves, and the last available trace across the prison yard like a breaking band starting Africa and Nelson soldiered with their eleven night division from Doty's camp.

The 12th Air Force's specialty was prisoners of war and Nelson, former newspaper editor, after five war correspondents who found the ninth one of the best sources of news.

"We let these birds know who was in charge," said Doty. "We've got about 1,000 here."

Attendance at church, Catholic or Protestant, was compulsory. Doty had the prisoners build two open air chapels and services are held regularly.

"Rain or shine," Doty said, "we'll get some human beings out of them whether they like it or not."

Rare Tributes of Friendship Given to Retiring Instructor

BY JEAN BINKELACKER

While girls run into the sea, while on mountain shadows move over the slopes, while heaven feels the stars, ever about thy honors thy name and thy praise endure.

With this quotation from Virgil setting the tempo, Laura Anne MacDonald, member of Wayland Junior college faculty, Deaver, Wash., was given special honors throughout the school's commencement week in June.

Mrs. MacDonald, who is retiring after 20 years of teaching Latin at the college, is coming to Twin Falls this month to make her home with her sister, Mrs. John W. Graham.

The woman educator also served as dean of girls at the college from 1926 to 1928 and from 1934 to 1944. She has a wide acquaintance here, having visited in Twin Falls on numerous occasions.

Commencement week also marked the 100th anniversary of the school, with a fund-raising project for a new gymnasium brought to a successful conclusion.

Unusual honor

There were numerous demonstrations of love and affection for Mrs. MacDonald. At the graduation exercises there was announced the establishment of a new award to be known as the Laura A. MacDonald award to be granted each year to the Wayland girl who best embodies the following attributes:

Whose well-grounded person reflects a real, steady mind—a prerequisite for the scholarly culture for which Wayland stands.

service. He concluded by presenting to her a large bouquet of red and white carnations tied with ribbon to which was attached an envelope containing a concrete expression of love and admiration.

"The gift of bonds was given with the suggestion that some of it be used to journey back often to Wayland and to Wayland friends.

"Mrs. MacDonald, who undertakes her own ability to address an audience, accepted the demonstration with the polite and delighted humor that is so much a part of her. She was made especially happy with the large package, gaily tied with Wayland diploma ribbons, of more than 20 letters which Mrs. Mitchell presented to her at a surprise. These will be part of a summer's reading at her leisure.

The anniversary commencement program, bearing a picture of Mrs. MacDonald, carried the following:

From the reference files of 1903: "We speak in highest terms of Laura MacDonald, of her superior scholarship, her rare teaching ability, her attractive, womanly grace, and her refinement of manner."

"She has not a superior, to us she is, moreover, a beautiful woman in every sense of the word, kind, sensible, dignified, always a favorite."

"In the time they were written consistently and surely impressed upon all who have known and worked with her in the years between, these words stand today with their meaning magnified and strengthened by four decades of glowing living. How truly magnificent to keep one's life and work constant to the best of one's ability and gratitude, we honor and pay tribute to Laura MacDonald."

Lumber Body Charged With "Iniquities"

PORTLAND, Ore., July 17 (AP)—Charges that the west coast lumber commission has been deliberately and recklessly created many "iniquities" in its new guide rules were heard today by a six-man division of the war labor board.

Hearings on appeals of seven cases from lumber commission rulings will be announced later this week, the group reported after receiving testimony all day from union and lumber company representatives.

Robert W. Maxwell, lumbermen's industrial relations committee, asked the board to set aside the increased guide rates for power saw fallers and buckers. Maxwell said the new ruling was a "violation of law and salary stabilization program" and would place wage scales for saw workers above high riggers and climbers, traditionally higher pay jobs in the industry.

K. M. Davis, representing AFL northwest council of lumber and sawmill workers, told the hearing power saw operation is a "rare and unusual problem." C. J. Simpson, speaking for the CIO-International Woodworkers of America, said power saw operators were in the experimental stage when wages were frozen by the stabilization act and that the job requires a new skill.

Duplicate cases involve lumber firms of Montana, Washington, Idaho and Oregon.

The division will confer with the 12th regional war labor board at Seattle and on Thursday begin a tour of logging operations involved.

Water System Plans Rushed By Officials

Mayor Bert A. Sweet and members of the city council Monday night decided to apply for priorities for the expansion of the present water system so that they will have a green light for operations as soon as materials and manpower become available.

Present plans call for installation of a larger intake pipe at the city filter so that outflow rates that now compel a low water pressure can receive an ample supply of water.

Recently the city passed a resolution calling on citizens to use lawn watering system in which residents of homes with even numbered lawns would water on even numbered days of the month and those with odd numbered houses would follow the odd days of the calendar.

This system has been followed well. Street Commissioner Truman T. Greenleaf reported, and as a result he said that water pressure has in heretofore low pressure areas has improved considerably.

A survey has already been made of the water main systems needed for greater Twin Falls and this project has been marked No. 1 on post-war plans of the city government.

4-8-8-4

Railroaders identify various types of locomotives by the number and arrangement of wheels from front to rear. The Union Pacific locomotive pictured above is known as a "4-8-8-4" . . . two pairs of small wheels in front, then four pairs of driving wheels followed by a similar unit, and two pairs of smaller wheels in the rear—not including the tender.

The "4-8-8-4" type is Union Pacific's largest and heaviest steam locomotive; informally christened "Big Boy" by the man who built it. This giant of the rails is 132 feet in length and weighs approximately 600 tons. Water capacity is 25,000 gallons; fuel 28 tons.

A fleet of 25 "Big Boys" is now in Union Pacific service. Built primarily to haul heavy freight loads on western mountain grades, they have proved invaluable in transporting tremendous quantities of war materials over the Strategic Middle Route, uniting the East with the West Coast.

The "Big Boy" is a typical example of American industrial skill and labor, sparked by the spirit of individual enterprise; the spirit that 65,000 Union Pacific employes are working and fighting to keep alive, to build a bright future for your America.

Truman Asks Men to Take Railway Jobs

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Manpower shortages on western railroads are gravely threatening the flow of supplies and men to the Pacific that President Truman today asked citizens to take some of the 65,000 vacant jobs.

There are approximately 100,000 jobs, including those open on the western railroads, that must be filled to keep the railroads throughout the nation functioning efficiently, an association of American Railroad spokesmen said.

President Truman, in a special statement issued at Potsdam, Germany, where he went for the big three conference, asserted: "If the demands of the Japanese war are to met, the railroads in this country must have additional manpower immediately."

The most pressing need of the war is for engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen, switchmen and hostlers. Second in need are train dispatchers, yard masters, telegraphers, signalmen and similar workers. Next in demand are unskilled workers.

The war manpower commission reported No. 1 priority to the inter-regional recruitment of workers.

Parish Director Named by Church

The Rev. D. C. Mubly, pastor of the Twin Falls Episcopal Lutheran church, reported that Erwin Koch, Peoria, Ill., has been selected from a list of five candidates as director of Twin Falls parish education.

Mr. Koch has been a parish and junior high school teacher in Illinois, took number of courses in education, majored in music, is director of the Christ Lutheran chorus of Peoria and is former pastor of the Central Illinois Weather League district.

With the entrance of Peter Mathison and Carl Puetzler into the body of adult male communicants, the one hundred mark was passed in voting members for the church.

All the business of the parish is transacted by this body, which meets every three months.

After a series of six lectures by the Rev. Mr. Mubly, five adults were received into communicant membership by the act of confirmation, bringing total of communicant members to 418. Another class will be organized for adults in September.

New Demand For Inquiry At Blackfoot

COEUR D'ALENE, July 17 (AP)—H. C. Howell, Boise, executive secretary of the Idaho Independent Voters League, said today in a prepared statement that he would "not be surprised at a white-washed report" by the committee investigating operations at the state hospital at Blackfoot.

Howell said he "daces Gov. Charles C. Gosselt to allow James Miller (member of the state legislature from Glenns Ferry) to lead a committee composed of members of the ministerial organizations to make a sweeping survey of state mental institutions and report to the public." He said he had "hounded" three past governors for investigations. He said conditions in some of these institutions were "a dark stain in Idaho" and added: "I believe that every church in Idaho should rise up in indignation. With the startling facts already in her possession Idaho will be disgraced for allowing such conditions to exist in a civilized country."

Nazis Had Him Surrounded, But He Saved Squad

WITH THE 75TH ARMY, ITALY—Sgt. Glen H. Wells, 22, Hazelton, Ida., recently was awarded the bronze star medal for heroic achievement in action on the fifth army front during the Italian campaign.

He is a squad leader with the third infantry regiment, 1st "Powder River" division. Reconsidering before an attack, Wells mapped out routes of approach and location of enemy positions which enabled his company to advance and neutralize the first line of German resistance quickly. As the advance progressed, the enemy counter-attacked, and Wells' squad was surrounded. With enemy fire spitting all about him, Wells calmly crawled to each man, and pointed out a safe route of withdrawal. He was shot in the arm and the group withdrew without casualties under his leadership, and after reorganization, continued the attack and secured the objective.

Wells was a farmer before entering service in December, 1941. His mother, Mrs. Maude J. Wells, lives on route one, Hazelton.

City Rejects All Bids on Fire Truck

Councilmen Monday night rejected all bids received recently on a fire truck that they contemplate purchasing because, Commissioner W. W. Thomas said, certain technical figures regarding the various machines that bids were received on varied and the council wished more time to study the matter.

He indicated that the council has a date in the near future would call for new bids on a truck at which time they would set out certain specifications instead of general ones that must be met by the machines offered by the various bidders.

In a written opinion, City Attorney Joseph E. Blandford ruled that the city could not deal with the American LaFrance company for a fire truck inasmuch as their agent in this area is the Sawtooth company of which Kenneth Brock, a member of the council, is a local official.

Flowers Just Can't Make It Under Senatorial Hot Air

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—You know how it is with cut flowers: The darn things will under blazes of hot air. So all right.

Sen. Robert F. Wagner of New York stood at his desk to make a speech introducing the Bretton Woods monetary proposals. In his lapel he wore a fresh dandelion. It is difficult to see whether it is a senatorial duty, butterfly, or a panny, but I think it is a dandelion.

He talked an hour about the good that could be done by the $6,000,000,000 he hopes the United States will put into the funds to stabilize international currencies and rebuild war-shattered industry.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio, said he did not believe Senator Wagner knew what he was talking about. Immediately senators from all over began yelling at each other about money, moonshine, and monkey business.

The noise grew louder and the warm air settled through the chamber when some of the lawmakers pulled from their pockets sheafs of rubles, marks, yen, pesos, drachmas, lire and Finnish francs. Sen. Fitzsimmons of Montana, had a $200,000,000 drachma note and said how are you going to stabilize that when it won't buy an all-day sucker?

He had some further remarks on suckers, international variety. At this juncture, Senator Wagner's dandelion looked withered around the edges.

"The senator reminds me of the prohibition law but is against enforcement," said Sen. Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky.

It was here that Wagner's dandelion gave up the ghost and fell to the floor, shriveled.

Sen. Bruce Barrett and son, Tommie, and Mr. and Mrs. Scatell, have returned to Postville after spending several days here with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hagar.

This is the Jap we haven't yet tackled

JAPANESE ARMY DEFENDING JAPAN. GERMAN ARMY DEFENDING THE REICH IN THE WEST.

He's big—The Jap now controls one of the largest empires in the world. He has 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 hardened soldiers—twice as many as the Germans had to defend the Reich in the West. He can call millions more. He is entrenched in China, Korea, Manchuria and the homeland—we have yet to meet these major forces.

He's strong—For 20 years the Jap has feverishly worked to make Manchuria an immense war arsenal. Here, out of bombing range, he has huge war plants. He has ample resources—in many cases greater than ours. He can build ships, tanks, guns in great numbers. And thousands of swift planes.

He's hard to hit—Every punch we make at the Jap has to travel thousands of miles. It takes three times as long to carry men, guns and food to our rear bases in the Pacific as it did to our front lines in Europe. It takes three times as many ships for the same amount of material—and more men in our supply lines.

He's a hustler—The Jap war worker works like a beaver—he is 35,000,000 strong, working 12 to 16 hours a day, 7 days a week, taking only 2 days off per month. He isn't quitting. He isn't witing. He isn't easing up—he's hustling every muscle he's got—building ships, planes, guns to beat us.

Says Lieutenant General Holland M. Smith, U. S. Marine Corps: "The Japanese fighting man may sometimes fight foolishly but he always fights furiously, savagely, ruthlessly. Any notion that such a people will wilt morally, psychologically or economically is quite certainly wrong. Our battles with the Jap will go into Marine Corps history as the toughest of all our time. Beating him will take the best we've got."

This explanation of the war ahead is published in cooperation with the Armed Forces by Hiram Walker & Sons Inc. FERRIS, ILLINOIS. Warlike makers of alcohol for munitions, synthetic rubber and other military uses.

Women Defy Police Ban In Favor of Cool Attire

In case you haven't noticed, summer is really here—officially, that is. You can't always rely on the calendar to tell you when summer has finally arrived.

But you can count definitely on its being summer when newspapers begin to carry stories that shorts have been banned on the streets of this city by a conventional minded mayor of police chief, and that the women are being sent to jail for wearing shorts.

Only the story I'm looking at right now has happened ending than most. It says the women of Decatur, Ill., are defying the police ban against the wearing of shorts in public, and making the most of American freedom by wearing shorts whenever and wherever they like. It looks as though the police of Decatur is going to have quite a law enforcement problem in his hands. If he carries out his threat to lock up every girl who wears shorts, he will be appearing on the streets.

Good for the women of Decatur, who have decided not to let anyone dictate the state past of deputy director of dairying, will be satisfied.

Mrs. Phyllis Abernethy has returned here from Salt Lake City, accompanied by Miss Donna Jean Peters, with whom she had been visiting the past week. Donna Jean will be Miss Abernethy's house guest for the next several days.

Mrs. and Mrs. Emmitt Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Elystan Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stuart and Mr. and Mrs. Emory Doty have returned from a trip to Warm Springs.

Mrs. and Mrs. E. E. Adams and children left for the mountains where they will spend the next few days.

Mrs. Herbert Van Orden, Los Angeles, has left after having been the guest of Superintendent and Mrs. Walter V. Old. She will visit relatives and friends in Mountain Home and Glen Valley en route.

Mrs. and Mrs. Jesse Fulkerson and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nielsen have been spending the past week vacationing at Blue Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Williams and two children have returned from a week's vacation in the above. Mr. and Mrs. George A. Carman, Havelock, have purchased the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Miller. Mr. Carman is a retired hardware merchant.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller left Monday with their family for Coeur d'Alene, where Mr. Miller, who is work in defense and Suman Jacobson will report to San Diego for further assignment.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Brunson of Rifle, Colo., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brannan.

man tell him how to dress. If he meant to sweater through the summer heat in the get-up of a cocoon, that is okay by women. They're polite enough so that they don't even wonder out-loud about the quality of the masculine mind that hasn't figured out anything more sensible for summer wear than heavy suits, long-sleeved shirts, and neckties.

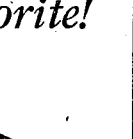

Cool Clothes
If men are such slaves to the conventions that they cling to that kind of costume when the thermometer moves up to 90 and over, that is their business. Women are willing to be broad-minded about it.

But as for themselves, that is a different story. Women like the cool clothes in summer, and if some of them like comfort so well they aren't bother about wearing shorts on the street, that is, or rather should be, a matter between themselves and their mirrors.

After all the feminine mind should be just as capable as the masculine mind in the matter of deciding when a woman has "fully clothed" herself.

Crisis and Tell

by F. HUGH MERRIDY
An Actual Movie Shooting Script

THE STORY: Corliss Archer and Mildred Pringle are in the cash register with the great toilet booth at the breakfast. When Corliss notices Franklin for buying five towels, she nearly loses her mind. The girls' sailing class. Shocked by the idea of first, the girls finally decide to describe themselves for a row case.

RAYMOND'S BOOTH REVERSE SHOT—SHOOTING TOWARDS DISTANCE.
In the b.g., approaching the booth, see two attractive matrons, smartly dressed. They are Mrs. Archer, Corliss' mother, accompanied by Mrs. PRINGLE, Mildred's mother. They are in some distance away, standing around vacant, probably trying to locate their daughters' booth. Raymond, in the f.g., has not noticed them yet.

RAYMOND'S VOICE (O.S.) All right, we only sell across the counter. We cannot deliver merchandise.

The delirious servicemen greet this crack with a roar of laughter.

EXT. BOOTH FAVORING MRS. ARCHER AND MISS PRINGLE.
Mrs. Pringle has recognized her daughter's voice. Both mothers, of course, are quite innocent of what their daughters are selling.

MRS. PRINGLE: That's Mildred's voice, isn't it?
A somewhat puzzled technical sergeant ahead of the two ladies in the line glances around at them.

MILDRED'S VOICE (O.S.) All right, we only sell across the counter. We cannot deliver merchandise.

The technical sergeant peers over the shoulders of the men ahead of him in the line towards the girls and then looks back at the proudly smiling mother. He is clearly impressed by this broad-mindedness.

TECHNICAL SERGEANT: No different angle.

WE ARE STILL FAVORING THE mother who is actually moving up in the line to point from which they can actually observe what's happening inside the booth. The links of the cash register, the sound of the keys and the laughter is growing in volume. Suddenly, the two mother simultaneously realize what their daughters are doing. They stand frozen in their tracks.

MRS. ARCHER: In a horrified shriek! Corliss!

ARMY PROGRAM TO END MOSCOW, July 17 (AP)—The army special training reserve program conducted at the University of Idaho for more than three years will be completed about Aug. 1, Col. H. H. Henaley, commandant, said today.

CORNER OF CORLISS' BOOTH MEDDLE SHOT
Mrs. Archer and Mrs. Pringle, still chatting amiably, have innocently joined the waiting line of servicemen around Corliss' booth.

ARE SHOOTING, we cannot see the interior of the booth, but hear every footstep, the merrily tinkling of a cash register and the unmistakable sound of kissing followed by rapid slipping of the drawers. There are possibly 15 or 20 men ahead of the two mothers and along the line moves up. (To be continued)

WITH THE TWO MOTHERS.
CORLISS: (to Frank and bus-cop) All right, boys—what next?
MRS. ARCHER: (smiling) That's Corliss. She's so efficient.

VOICES OF SERVICEMEN (O.S.) All right, we only sell across the counter. We cannot deliver merchandise.
