Dangerous Swarming
"I'd hate to watch where you are swimming, or swim inside a net, in that country. Centipedes and scorpions love to crawl into your clothes or shoes in the night, leeches get bothered on you and have to bleed up on you, and the whole south Pacific is a paradise for wugs, cockroaches, sand-flies, mosquitoes, ants and flies. And if there are any 'beautiful natives' in that part of the world, I certainly mis-led them. In fact, campaigning in the south Pacific is anything but pleasant, or even safe from nature alone, all the more to the contrary."

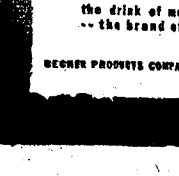

Coporal Harvey entered the service in June, 1942, and went overseas in October the same year. He took part in the D-day invasions of Etchoven and Hollandia, and late in 1944 was in on the D-day invasion of Leyte. ## TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

MOVIES—General Charles De Gaulle's astuteness may lead to a serious slump in the quality of the picture production for a number of months of American theater-goers.

So far the state department has not been able to make any deal with the Paris government in its insistence on a partial blockade of foreign motion picture production in France.

Under present treaty arrangements American producers are permitted to ship 108 films annually to France. Now the French have reduced that quota to only 50. Allocating the same number to the British means that the United States will receive about 59 for the same period, the same number that the world's largest picture producer is now being denied.

It is estimated that the British and Russians helped to engineer the deal for superior films, portraying the wealth and might of America, counter to France's "victor" films.

HARRY-De Gaulle, naturally, wants to develop the motion picture industry at home. He also fears that our extravaganzas, which depict a scale of living that is not to be equaled anywhere else in the eyes of his countrymen. Therefore, he insists that 55 per cent of the screen time be devoted to the production of American films.

The French imposes severe restrictions on Hollywood producers. They must take out of France the profits which they make there. In fact, they are required to spend the cash surplus on the purchase of French picture rights. They are not permitted to restrict the number of their films to 108 as against the treaty total of 108. If De Gaulle will compromise on this matter, the American industry will be greatly benefited.

A picture may be a "bad" in this country, but receipts from abroad exceed the producer to break even with. But if he loses his foreign income, he may have to trim on future production, and turn out only of second-rate stuff for the home market.

A picture may be a "bad" in this country, but receipts from abroad exceed the producer to break even with. But if he loses his foreign income, he may have to trim on future production, and turn out only of second-rate stuff for the home market.

WEAPON—The eventual peacetime commercialization and use of the atomic energy released in hideous and primitive form on Japanese cities may force the world to adopt some sort of "state socialism" for its own protection.

The discovery of new development has not been regarded generally by the public. But it has been pointed out by Dr. Vannevar Bush, head of the office of scientific research and development, who has been named as the director of the War Relocation Authority of St. James P. Byrne, Chief of Staff George C. Marshall and other key actors in the war effort.

ANALYZING NEWS IN NEW YORK

PEACE—We are now entering the period in which excited prophets will be in the limelight. It was inevitable.

At the end of the war, cause everyone to speculate on what will happen to his job and how soon he will be able to return to his old profession. "Professional" views will have a field day, because there is no doubt that the war has brought about a first sharp labor dislocation. Let us take account of stock.

Let us take account of stock. Let us take account of stock. Let us take account of stock. Let us take account of stock.

ALBERT LAMAR

"We have built up a war industrial capacity so gigantic that we have created the seeds and the germ of a post-war depression. The war has created a nation, still this unfinished job in a few brief years."

There is no doubt that the war has brought about a first sharp labor dislocation. Let us take account of stock.

NYLON—It is too early to forecast accurately the immediate future of various enterprises because each industry has its own machinery and supply situation. It is, however, probable that the war will appear in prominent releases in three months, sooner if the government releases some of its stock.

Allowing for a shift-over by mills after freeze orders are lifted, it is probable that wool and fabrics will reach consumers by Thanksgiving.

STEEL—Some commentators think that the end of the war will eliminate the fuel bottleneck because of contract cancellations in victory plants. Blumington experts, however, are of the opinion that the steel production should slump badly. This is not likely; steel is also the backbone of civilian goods.

There is no doubt that the war has brought about a first sharp labor dislocation. Let us take account of stock.

WORKERS—Labor will be the most headache. Large numbers of hands will be displaced from work in the defense industry, and many will be displaced from work in the defense industry, and many will be displaced from work in the defense industry.

Into Whose Hands?

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—Once before, 27 years ago, President Truman unveiled another armament. That was the atomic bomb. As with that weapon, it is being developed in the most secret of modern wars.

But President Truman has developed a hatred of the whole business. In France in 1945, he was the first to see the danger of this new weapon. He is now the first to see the danger of this new weapon.

BOB HOPE

NOBERG—This town is really music-bound. Soldiers and sailors from all over the world are here. They are here for the war effort.

WHOOPEE, BETTY!

Truman Says "Politics Now Free, Open"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—President Truman kicked the lid off political activity the whole way with a news conference declaration that politics now is free and open.

His remark, possibly indicating his intent to run for president in 1948, was immediately interpreted as meaning he plans to assume an active role in the meantime as head of his party.

After Pearl Harbor, political controversy was confined to this center, however, was not always obscured by congress and it was interrupted also last year by the presidential campaign.

The early months of the Truman administration have been largely peaceful as to political warfare but now, to all intents and purposes, the lid is off. And both sides seemed to be in the lead.

Of a group of governors who saw the President today, two Republicans and a Democrat told reporters they welcomed a full-fledged return of politics.

Gov. Edward Martin, Pennsylvania Republican, said that the way things ought to be in proceeding. This is two-party country.

Gov. Harry Kelly, Michigan Republican, welcomed politics back, but he noted there is plenty of room left for cooperation between the two parties on such major problems as conserving industry to a peace-time basis.

Quest to Be Resumed for Missing Man

BOISE, Aug. 17 (AP)—Search for a Utah man missing since 1943 will be resumed by John Black and his two Border shepherd dogs as soon as cooler weather comes to that state.

"Eliza returned here after a preliminary search in Weber canyon for R. M. Bertagnole, who has been missing since a hunting trip in October, 1943.

Black said his dogs picked up the scent, but didn't have the stamina to withstand the exceptionally hot weather. They will return to the trail as soon as the hot weather breaks, he said.

He predicted that "we will determine Mr. Bertagnole's fate within 24 hours after he resume the search and about two weeks."

Black and his two dogs were credited with locating a private airplane which carried two Oregon men to their deaths in the wilderness near McGill three months ago. The plane had been missing for two months and defied efforts of extensive ground and air searching parties to find it when Black and his dogs took up the search.

Camels in Germany—It's No Wonder Lieut. Egbert Blinked

WITH THE 84TH INFANTRY DIVISION, AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY—The camels (not Camembelle) are coming, it is said.

Lieut. Glenn R. Egbert, Twin Falls, Ida., and the Third Battalion, 334th Infantry special service officer, heard they were coming in the CP at Eberbach. He asked for a hearing.

Two 33th road guards who have seen about every kind of transportation go by took one look at the creatures and asked for a medical discharge on the grounds of misformed eyesight.

A Company M road patrol went on his way to the road to find out how far into Africa the last driver, they had been magnified so many times that he imagined himself on a safari hunting a herd of wild camels.

About five miles past Eberbach the two men, bent looking camels, with empty humps, were plodding up the road plugging a wagon.

The lieutenant, who hadn't seen a camel close up since the Xavier Brothers traveling zoo and circus made a watering stop at Twin Falls 10 years ago, peered up into the face of the biggest camel.

"It's a camel all right," he said, "but a long way from home."

Having welcomed them officially into the 24th area, Lieutenant Egbert promptly tacked the regimental colors on the wagon and proclaimed that the camels were traveling through "by Courtesy of Third Battalion, 334th Infantry."

With the camels were four displaced persons who were on a slow motion trip back to their homes in Amsterdam, Holland.

They had been liberated east of Bavaria by the Russians and had required the two camels as transportation for the 100 miles they had been on route 16 days, when they passed into the 8th division zone and expected to reach home with their camels by October if the humps don't break down.

Plan for County Fair Unchanged

Twin Falls county will go ahead with its plans for a 4-21 fair, carnival and rodeo, Worthy Olds, fair board chairman, stated Thursday afternoon.

He said that the ODT rally which removed the ban from holding state and regional fairs came too late to permit Twin Falls county to hold a full scale fair this fall.

200 Idahoans Held by Japs Will Return

DOISEY Aug. 17 (AP)—Of 221 Idahoans taken prisoners by the Japanese in the dark days following Pearl Harbor, at least 200 of them will soon be coming home, the Federal Employment Foundation, Inc. reported here.

Tom Hanks, Boise, secretary-treasurer of the non-profit corporation formed in 1942 to aid families of Idahoans confined in Japanese camps, said his constituents were killed on Wake Island and that six others are known to have died in prison camps.

Several others on Wake have not been heard from. Families of many of the men received first communications from them only last April.

The Idaho civilians were employed by Contractors Pacific Alaska and Alaska, Inc. of which Hanks is president. The latter is one of eight contracting firms.

The civilian prisoners must be safely released under unconditional surrender terms accepted by Japan.

Places Where Destitute Are Aided Listed

With the nation's social security program in its second decade, Mrs. Loretta Kincaid, manager of the board's office at Twin Falls, today announced that the act provides a five-program attack on destitution, and listed the offices at which information and assistance related to each of the programs can be obtained.

"The social security board," Mrs. Kincaid pointed out, has full responsibility for only one program—old-age and survivors insurance.

"At our office," she said, "we advise social security account holders help to straighten out any mistakes that may be made in the wage records of workers as reported to the board, give full information about the claims and survivors' insurance and handle claims for benefits.

"Through our office we pay some types of monthly insurance benefits on account of insured retired workers or those who have died.

"On the retirement side, monthly benefits are paid to insured workers at 65, their wives at 65, and to any unmarried dependent children under 18.

"On the survivor side, we pay monthly benefits to widows of insured workers when they are 65, whether or not they have children; to widows, regardless of age, who have unmarried dependent children under 18 in their care; to the dependent children, and, in cases where no wife or child under 18 survives a worker, to aged dependent parents.

"Each month, also, we make many lump-sum benefit payments to the survivors of workers who die without a wife or child under 18.

"If a worker dies and his family is not eligible for monthly payments, they may be entitled to a lump-sum benefit, which may be paid to the surviving spouse, or to a child under 18.

"When she files a claim, we pay her a lump-sum amounting to six times her husband's monthly benefit. Then, when she is 65, she is eligible for monthly benefits. Or, if she is a young worker dies and leaves a widow who has no children but is expecting a baby, when the claim is filed, we pay the widow a lump sum, and then when the baby is born both she and the baby are eligible for monthly benefits until the child is 18. But these payments are not automatic. A claim must be filed in every instance.

"To give information and help on old-age assistance, and dependent children, or help on aid to the blind, the Twin Falls county department of public assistance has an office at 200 Second street, Twin Falls. Information and services at all of these offices are free, and inquiries are welcomed. Mrs. Kincaid said.

Springlead Lad Captured Nazis Who Seized Him

SPRINGLEAD, Aug. 17 (AP)—Being captured by German officers wreathing their arms and marching, his former captors across many feet to American lines were part of the overseas service of Pfc. David W. Dahl, brother of Mrs. Ruth Griffin, who has received word that he is now home after 15 months in the European theater.

The citation accompanying the bronze star which Private Dahl was awarded for his service states in part: "In the vicinity of Meuncourt, France, on Oct. 8, 1944, when the sergeant in charge of his outfit was killed and telephone communications severed by enemy artillery. Private Dahl, a member of a rocket launched team, ran back through heavy fire to the mortars to cause them to fire flares.

"While tracing the line to the rear, he was captured by enemy officers and three enlisted men, but while being marched to the rear succeeded in dropping a weapon from one of the Nazis. He then captured them and returned through heavy enemy and friendly fire to his own lines with his prisoners and former captives.

"Private Dahl wears the purple heart with two oak leaves and the good conduct medal. His most recent wound was received after V-E day. An American officer assigned Private Dahl to go into a clearing and shoot some deer for meat.

"While returning after successfully bagging six deer, a whole group of German soldiers fired at him. He returned the fire, causing 11 casualties. The captured Nazis were subsequently rounded up by American occupational troops.

Weather Aids Crop Growth; Yields Good

BOISE, Aug. 17 (AP)—Idaho weather, the best yet, was responsible with grain crop matured and in process of harvesting and other crops showing growth. Delay Meteorologist E. H. Jones said today in his weekly weather summary.

Widely scattered light showers were reported in the north and southwest, but conditions mainly sunny in the southeast. Early yields of winter grains and early seeded spring grains are generally reported as very good to excellent. Jones said in his report.

"The harvest of dry peas continues in northern districts with only a fair to poor crop reported. Beans and potatoes look very good in most districts and corn, truck crops and gardens have made good advance. Good crop of peaches, pears, apples and prunes is in prospect with some early peaches and apples on the market. Livestock continues in good condition."

Alaska Road Abandonment Move Fought

EDMONTON, Alb., Aug. 17 (Canadian Press)—J. W. Robinson, Utah chairman of the roads committee, U. S. house of representatives said today any move to abandon the Alaska highway would meet with strong opposition.

"I have been over the highway as far as I am concerned, and I believe that view is shared by other members of the party. I would be strongly opposed to any abandonment of the highway, Robinson said. Members of the roads committee and territories committee recently went to Alaska to look over the territory and road matters. One of the purposes of the trip was to look into construction of the Alaska highway in view of criticism in some U. S. quarters that it was a needless venture and should be abandoned.

Robinson was accompanied on the trip by T. H. McDonald, Washington, commissioner for the public roads administration, J. S. Briggs, for the PRA in charge of construction; Dan W. Eastwood, special investigator for the roads committee, and Col. E. J. Heffner, representing the office of the U. S. chief engineer.

Mr. Robinson said that in six months the highway would be turned over to Canada, under the agreement between Canada and the U. S. government. "We are turning over a $100,000,000 asset and we hope that Alaska will make use of it. A good deal depends on the attitude of Canada."

Mr. Robinson said he considered it necessary for Alaska and British Columbia to have built good accessible roads to connect with the Alaska highway. "This should be done as rapidly as possible and the roads should be as good as possible."

Raising Curtain on Radar — "Silent Weapon of World War II"

On this navy Martin "Mariner," the radar is housed in the hump atop the fuselage, called a "radome."

Radar's antennas, which serve both for transmitting and receiving, take various forms. Above is the basic trough-type on an aircraft carrier. First installation was a comparatively crude affair on a five-inch gun of the old USS Leary in 1937.

Anti-aircraft guns are operated by these vertical and horizontal antennae, which automatically hold the guns on their target.

Radar picture, in scope, looks like this in some cases. Here, a plane's radar has picked up a bomber flying close by. Enemy plane rarely would be next enough to show like this.

Direction, range and position of enemy ships and planes are plotted on large duplicate of radar screen of allied ship preparing for combat in Chinese sea operations, December, 1944.

By ARNOLD A. GRAVES
(Writer for NEA Service)

BOCA RATON, Fla., Aug. 17. Two atomic bombs which earned a couple of Japanese cities last week are conceded to have been the payoff arguments which convinced the Japs the Japs was up. But another secret weapon, radar, deserves tremendous credit for the defeat of the axis powers.

The heavy curtain of secrecy which has been drawn around this incredible seeing-eye device was pulled aside by the war department, and for two days seminars were conducted over and through this 5,000-sers army air force base, hidden in this isolated and well-guarded portion of eastern Florida. This installation has been devoted exclusively to the use of radar as a military weapon, and the training of men to operate it.

Armed guards and barred wire still guard developments here, which war department is not willing to have made known to the public.

With this respect to the atomic bomb, army air forces, largest users of radar, believe that the "seeing-eye" probably the major single reason for the axis defeat. Base officers here point out that early "warning radar" built under direction of the British scientist-soldierman, Sir Watson-Watt, thwarted the German air force day bombers in 1940; that airborne "interception" radar (AI) took the measure of the Nazi night bombers in 1941; and that the more recently developed microwave radar hunted out the U-boats so effectively in the spring of 1943 that Hitler's huge underwater fleet, his main hope for victory, lay out just when it seemed about to cut allied supply lines.

In the AAF offensive against strategic targets in Germany during late 1943 and 1944, radar enabled the Postoffice and Telegraphers of the eighth and 15th air forces to strike without letup at the petroleum industry, ball-bearing factories and aircraft plants. When the major offensive began, Germany was fighting for time to develop V-2 bombs, to build jet aircraft, and to make improvements in its war machine.

Radar enabled the allies to knock out the experimental laboratories where the Germans thrived more about to perfect the atomic bomb. And in the Pacific, radar was used for navigation by the planes which carried the two fateful atomic bombs which punctuated Hirohito's ill-conceived war.

Uses Radio Energy

Failure of the axis powers to keep up with the allies in the development of radar is considered here one of the enemy's prime mistakes.

Radar's action is dependent on radio energy. A short burst of energy, called a pulse, is beamed a certain way. When it hits something in its path, whether land, water, ship or aircraft, the radar pulse is reflected back. The echo is picked up by a radar receiver, and makes an indication on an exhaust ray screen. The radio impulses follow each other in rapid succession, each coming back before the next is on its way. Since the pulses travel at the known speed of light (186,000 miles per second) range and bearing on any object is determinable.

Cathode ray tubes, similar to television screens, which picture the "pulses" (returning impulses) are varied in size and widely used in the PPI (plan position indicator) which gives on a round glass disc a maplike presentation of whatever the radar is scanning.

Intensive Training

Intensive training is required to give a radar operator ready familiarity with this light-and-shadow language. But it is an elegant, exact and universal language, once it is mastered. Radar operator is trained in size and range of objects from little blips fitted into a fighter plane to large sprawling ground installations including many towns.

"Mickey" is the nickname for BTO (bombing through overcast radar). Through high frequency microwaves a target can be delineated through any degree of visibility.

Before heavy B-29 bombing by radar began in the Pacific, an adaptation of the basic bombing radar, called LAB—"low altitude bombing"—was used with high effectiveness in forces against Jap shipping.

8-Battle Veteran Visits at Hansen

HANSEN, Aug. 17.—Pfc. Vaughn C. Rathbun is now home on a 30-day furlough visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Rathbun, Hansen, after 33 months overseas.

Private Rathbun enlisted in 1940 and after landing in Africa in 1942 took part in major battles in Africa, Italy, Italy, France and Germany.

For his services he has received eight bronze battle stars, a silver arrowhead for amphibious operations and the presidential unit citation. He will go to Ft. Douglas for his discharge at the end of his furlough.

He has two brothers serving overseas. They are Pfc. Leroy G. Rathbun with the 10th division in Germany, and Pfc. Dow E. Rathbun with the 25th division in the Philippines. Leroy recently received the purple heart for wounds received in March.

During the business session, conducted by Master C. V. Jones, Wayne Butler was granted membership. Those present assented the roll call by reciting favorite poems. Mrs. Boyd Coles and Mrs. Pacific Bellville served refreshments at the end of the meeting.

Husband Receives Kimberly Estate

A decree granting the estate of the late Louise M. Denton to her husband, Robert H. Denton, Kimberly, was filed in Probate court Friday and placed on record with the county recorder. Mrs. Denton died Feb. 20.

The property included six and one quarter acres adjoining the southeast corner of Kimberly; in Kimberly, part of lots one and two, block four, Albert tract, and lots two through six and eight and nine, block 12; and lot 5, block 13, Keelheim.

Denton received also the R. H. Denton company warehouse and its equipment, two shares of stock in the Twin Falls Bank & Trust company, stock in the First Federal Savings and Loan association of Twin Falls, way bonds, household furniture, Mrs. Denton's jewelry and personal effects, and $1,038.55 cash.

Other suitors were two sons, Robert W. Denton and Louis B. Denton, Kimberly.

An air route in Alaska schedules the trip from Juneau to Nome in seven hours. It formerly took 24 days by dog sled and river boat to cover this distance.

Posters to Assist C. of C. Drive Here

The Chamber of Commerce membership drive, which opened by mail Aug. 11, is being carried on by means of posters posted on the windows of Twin Falls business houses.

The posters come in a variety of colors and bear 20 different slogans such as "It's De Heady When The Boys Come Home" and "Happy Days Are Here Again—Till the World About Twin Falls—Don't Put It Off." Five thousand of them were mailed and were mailed up Thursday night by 15 workers.

Invitations to join the chamber were sent out to 600 residents. Included in the envelopes were letters, pledge cards and leaflets. The present poster campaign is to remind pledge cards recipients to turn in their cards before the 30-day drive ends.

The Chamber of Commerce budget committee has set up a $10,000 budget for the year, and $4,500 of this will go toward the publication of the Magic Valley brochure.

Grange Again to Have Fair Booth

A Grange refreshment stand will be set up at the 4-H county fair and rodeo in September and T. Creed, master of Twin Falls Grange, told the Mount-in-Rock Grange Wednesday night in the Grange hall.

Creed discussed plans for the stand. The group gave suggestions for subsidizing the enterprise. Minerva Craline reported that a load of coal had already been delivered to members, and that the organization was contracting for a similar amount. Members can still order the fuel from Grange officials.

During the business session, conducted by Master C. V. Jones, Wayne Butler was granted membership. Those present assented the roll call by reciting favorite poems. Mrs. Boyd Coles and Mrs. Pacific Bellville served refreshments at the end of the meeting.

Archers and Pringle

By F. HUGH HERRINGTON
An Actual Movie Shooting Script

EXT. ARCHER PORCH REVERSE ANGLE
Mrs. Archer, the Franklins and Corlies sit on the porch. Mrs. Archer practically bumps into Mrs. Pringle who starts to babble incoherently. Meanwhile, Mrs. Pringle collapses in the b. g. slides into the mail and the two girls go into a frenzied huddle.

MRS. ARCHER: (to Mrs. Pringle) You're all right, aren't you?
MRS. PRINGLE: But, Aunt, don't you realize that—
MILDRD: (simultaneously) —in the b.g. I got a cable from Lenny and they all love every thing!

COLLIS: (excitedly) Oh golly—how wonderful!
MRS. ARCHER: (to Mrs. Pringle) Don't you see, Lenny's coming home! Lenny's coming home! Lenny's coming home! Lenny's coming home!

MRS. PRINGLE: (yelling) If you'll stop acting like a maniac, Henry, I'll show you this cable and—
At this moment, cautiously sneering the tree, Pringle trips over a coil of garden hose and sprawls clumsily on the ground.

EXT. GARDEN REVERSE SHOT
The garden hose is in the foreground. The dilemma is concealed by the tree from Mrs. Pringle who in the background is looking at the cable with Mrs. Archer.

MRS. ARCHER: Raymond, get me that telegram.
Raymond grabs the telegram from Mrs. Archer's hand and reads over to the porch with him.

CLOTH SHOT—FRINGE AND ARCHER
Archer stands pausing over his protractor. Pringle makes himself on his elbows. In the excitement he doesn't realize that he no longer has his telegraph in his hand and starts over to the front of Archer.

MRS. PRINGLE: (yelling) Raymond! Raymond! Raymond!
Corlies, Mildred, and the two mothers are in a semi-hysterical mob—the girls having obviously been divulged to everyone.

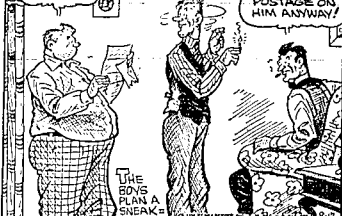

FRANKIE AD LIES: Why didn't you tell me the screen door was closed?
MRS. ARCHER: What! What cable?

MRS. PRINGLE: (s.o.—boiling) Raymond—where's that cable?
Archer and Pringle are teasing back the cable. Pringle Archer grabs the cable from Raymond, who starts toward them gracefully. While Archer reads his breathlessly, Raymond watches him, blushing.

MR. ARCHER: (proudly) That boy! Brings down three and hasn't got the nerve to tell us he's married!
RAYMOND: (indulgently) Mya Grandpa!
