YOKOHAMA, Sept. 11 (UP)—Former Premier Hideki Tojo arrived in an ambulance at the 98th evacuation hospital at 10:20 p. m. His condition was unchanged.

TOKYO, Sept. 11 (UP)—Gen. Hideki Tojo, former premier who launched Japan into war against the United States with the Pearl Harbor sneak attack, blasted a gaping wound below his heart in a suicide attempt today, but hours later an American doctor said he had a good chance to live.

With blood spurting from a revolver bullet wound clear through his body, Tojo assumed responsibility for the Pacific war in what he obviously regarded as his dying statement.

The Japanese Dornier news agency said Tojo was expected to die at any time. But Capt. James Johnson, a first-aid doctor who attended him, said he saw no more than two hours after the shooting.

Johnson said a pretty good chance of being saved.

Road to Buell, Bliss Cut-Off On 1946 List

BOISE, Sept. 11 (UP)—The Idaho bureau of highways will be ready to start work on the new highway program, Highway Director T. M. Hally said today.

L. M. Higgins, Boise, district engineer with the federal public road administration, said the work order board had revoked its order making WPA approval necessary for federal aid road construction.

Hally said that though the re-arrangement of the severance bill was without manpower and materials to get ahead on projects of this kind.

The first year's work under the federal-state highway program will cost an estimated expenditure of $6,000,000.

The list of projects includes: Twin Falls-Hell, $200,000; Baker-Frontier, $100,000; Challis-Vale, $50,000; Hill City-Corral, $50,000.

Through Hammett, $512,000; Hammett-Coeville, $100,000; Horseshoe Bend Summit, $121,200; Tamarack-New Cassia, $235,500; Mt. Home-Totter, $225,000.

Test Case to Decide Vets' Right to Job

BOISE, Sept. 11 (UP)—Idaho Federal Judge Chase A. Clark will hear arguments in a case questioning the right of an employer to refuse employment to a serviceman employed on grounds of discrimination and altered circumstances in their relationship.

The points at hand in the suit brought by Virgil M. Anderson, 2800 S. Veterans, and Lloyd Schwaner, doing business as the Reeves Wholesale company, also of Boise, are whether the selective service law permits employers to raise other than physical and mental disqualification of the returned servicemen and what constitutes a change in "the employment circumstances."

The act itself has been held to be unconstitutional.

Anderson said Schwaner had to be discharged from the armed services.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL BULLDOG

DOMB—Government officials privately concede that they have not been able to find any way to withhold the secret of the atomic bomb from private industry or foreign nations, despite President Truman's demand that the means that will insure its use be kept secret for only peaceful and humanitarian purposes.

Legal restrictions, as usual, have been placed on the "law" of the atomic bomb. Legal experts, however, do not believe that the restrictions will be sufficient to prevent the disclosure of the secret of the atomic bomb to the enemy.

It is estimated that almost 6,000 men and technicians were required for the research, experimentation, development and manufacture of the weapon. The key scientists numbered perhaps 300; they were assembled from industrial laboratories and university centers. They were approximately a hundred staff engineers, and possibly 200 technicians.

Employees in the mines and plants essential to the operation of the atomic bomb were also recruited from the discussion of postwar possibilities because none of them was permitted to know the true nature of the work.

FREE—The 400-odd men on the three top levels labored under the auspices of the office of scientific research and development in the V-2 jet engine in the capital, headed by a mild and kindly Yankee from up Hoston way, Dr. Vannevar Bush, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The organization is now being liquidated, although there is a possibility of its being reorganized to continue its work.

While serving this agency, the scientists, staff men and technicians were sworn to keep an atomic secret. They were subject to the same disciplines that applies to members of the armed services. They could not mention the subject to their families, press, at the request of General Byron Price, cooperated in this conspiracy of silence.

Now, with the great threat, those inventors and producers of the history-making bomb are re-appearing in the public eye. They are free to seek employment where they please. There is nothing to prevent the diplomats or any other men from mentioning the work they did or even all 450, provided that they wanted to continue in the atomic field.

It is unlikely that the supreme court would uphold any measure designed to keep them from clearing their knowledge of the mystery, for it would mean that the restriction on the "law" of the atomic bomb is not being enforced. It is likely that the patent statutes can be utilized to prevent disclosure in the exclusive control of the government.

One possible scheme has been advanced. It proposes the purchase by the United States and Canada of the mines which produce the uranium essential to the manufacture of the bomb. But there is no doubt that the United States and Canada will be able to control the supply of uranium. The mines which produce the uranium essential to the manufacture of the bomb are scattered in various parts of the world. The United States and Canada will be able to control the supply of uranium.

INTERNATIONAL—The supervising scientists in Washington admit frankly that other nations will be able to develop the atomic bomb. They are, however, confident that the United States will be able to develop it first. They are confident that the United States will be able to develop it first.

The "mistake that wiped out Hiroshima and Nagasaki was the product of error, British, French, Canadian and American brains.

It was the end result of forgotten and fragmentary data. It was the result of a lack of communication and laboratory exchanges around the world and back home. It was the result of a lack of communication and laboratory exchanges around the world and back home.

Incidentally, Secretary of State James V. Byrnes has been quick to seize the international scope and significance of the atomic bomb. He has been quick to seize the international scope and significance of the atomic bomb.

CONSEQUENCES—The universality of atomic knowledge has its optimistic aspect, however. As the method of harnessing solar energy cannot be withheld from any nation, so the method of harnessing atomic energy cannot be withheld from any nation. As the method of harnessing atomic energy cannot be withheld from any nation, so the method of harnessing atomic energy cannot be withheld from any nation.

It is true that the birth of war, the plane, the submarine and liquid fire have impelled to the development of atomic energy. It is true that the birth of war, the plane, the submarine and liquid fire have impelled to the development of atomic energy.

CHAIRS—A high-ranking officer at the Pentagon building tossed his newspaper on the floor and exclaimed: "Look look at the chairs!"

"It'll be damned! I thought MacArthur and Wallace would be treated as the Japanese babies. Now look at the chairs!"

A colleague expressed the opinion that "Mac" and "Wallace" were treated as the Japanese babies. Now look at the chairs!

POOR BUTTERFLY—If any doubt lingers about the war being one of the most successful in the history of the world, "Madame Butterfly," which went under ground Dec. 7, 1941, has re-established a beachhead in the repertoire of American opera companies.

We reiterate that the San Carlo Opera already has mobilized a cast and redepicted it to the theater. Further landings may be expected at New York's Metropolitan and elsewhere in our land where opera has a foothold.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM MISSISSIPPI

The political situation in Mississippi is a complex one. It is a state which has a long history of political corruption and mismanagement. The political situation in Mississippi is a complex one.

Scribe Says Second Atom Bomb Worse

By VERN HAUGLAND NAGASAKI, Japan, Sept. 10.—The second and last atomic bomb dropped by the Americans turned this city of 250,000 population into a desert of rubble.

I am one of a party of Americans on a first visit to the former manufacturing center. Of this city, comparable in size to San Antonio, Tex., or Providence, R. I., nothing remains in the three-mile-long and two-mile-wide bomb crater except debris.

The havoc caused by the atomic dropped on this city was much greater than the first dropped on Hiroshima three days earlier, and it is now clear that the war department meant when it announced that the first atomic bomb was already obsolete.

Not even the canyons and hills peering sections of this city were able to save buildings and people from the devastating blast.

The small of death still is heavy over the city and much more from fires started a month ago by the atomic bomb.

Anthropologists in Nagasaki now estimate that 25,000 persons have died, 40,000 were wounded and that 100,000 are victims of the disease.

Wheat production was forecast at 483,600,000 bushels, compared with the crop last year total 1,078,641,000 bushels, and the ten-year average is 393,000,000 bushels.

Caves Expert Describes U.S. Wonderlands

By BETTY ALAUZET Describing many caves of the United States, Richard W. Neville, scientist, explorer, and photographer, told the Twin Falls high school student body Tuesday about his many interesting adventures. He spoke at an assembly session.

Neville has been exploring caves for the past 27 years. He has spent most of his time in caves such as the famous Mammoth Cave in Kentucky, and the Crystal Cave in New Mexico, and the Crystal Cave in New Mexico, and the Crystal Cave in New Mexico.

Here in Idaho Mr. Neville said that he had visited 144 caves including those which are located in the Craters of the Moon national monument.

In his talk he spoke mostly of limestone caves which are "caveable wonderlands." Mentioning Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico, he pointed out many unique features such as the position inside the cave, the dining room which accommodates about 1,000 people a day, and the large number of bats which emerge from the caverns at night and return before daylight, but he could not find the caves. Where they hide is a mystery, he said.

Stalactite formations are formed through the settling and forming of lime structures. Stalagmite formations are made from the water that drips off the upper structures, stalactites; they form upward from the floor of the cave, Mr. Neville explained.

Most of these mineral structures are only and are translucent. Other more rare formations, he said, are the spongy, snow white structures, and the helictic, twisted out formations.

Was inhabited Talking about Salt's cave in Kentucky he said that this was probably the largest cave he had been in and that he had found definite evidence that people had inhabited this cave many years ago. From his calculations Neville said that his party traveled 10 miles from the entrance of the cave.

A new species of salamander was found on one of his trips and it has been given Neville's name by scientists. Many colorful slides were shown to the audience as Mr. Neville talked.

Deserted Calves Bring Calls for Local Officers

Two "deserted" calves, left to a truck parked in the 100 block of Shoshone street east about 3 p. m. yesterday, brought nearly a half-dozen calls to the complaint desk at the police station, Desk Sgt. Tom S. Smith, reported.

Following last night's council meeting, Commissioner Thomas "Buck" Calumet to Sergeant Smith that "should the calves be brought to the station, you'd better have them placed in the bull pen."

The owner returned to his truck late last night and drove away.

Hearts Bleed Longest

"It seems to me," Hildreth said, her voice calm but her eyes kind, "that the mistake you all make is in admiring the subject of Brock's brain. You're admiring it as if all Brock's future must be lived face to face with the fact that he'll never have another natural leg."

"I heard her catch her breath. Did you think I needed one, Brock?" "Oh, forget it, I didn't mean it," Brock said. "They asked me to 'don't turn away from facing things. Not with me. What has happened doesn't change you, the rest you, Brock, can't you see that?"

"Taken off guard she fumbled to put into words things she had been too shy to bring into the open. 'Why—why—' "But it had two legs," Oh, he felt struck by the chair arms. "Oh, heh, what's the use?"

"It was a whizzer. The things he wanted to say and could not come hotly into his throat, as if he might cry but there were no tears. Never had he seen her more beautiful than kneeling there in the hall light. Momentarily, despite everything, he forgot, completely forgot. He moved to rise, and found himself imprisoned in his chair. Stunned he sat there looking up at her. As if his mind were just believing, he tried again, then sat transfixed. Brock's white hair snaked in their curls up the chair arms. The night wind had blown the outline of her young body, giving to her the attitude of someone poised for flight. A lick of the wind, yet his reaction as if someone had suddenly reached the saddle from him in a sort of fury. 'Don't stand there as if you were ready to run,' he murmured.

"For a moment she just stared at him; he felt rather than saw the anger gathering in her dark eyes. 'No,' she said in a low terse voice, 'you're not harmless, just've art amazing capacity for hurting people.' Before he could answer she turned swiftly and went through the screen door into the house.

Religion Vs. Atheism Gets New Hearing

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 11 (AP)—Three circuit court judges heard a new chapter today in the age-old clash between religion and atheism. The occasion is a suit by Mrs. Vaughn McCollum, wife of a University of Illinois professor who describes herself as an atheist, to put a stop to non-sectarian, voluntary religious education classes in the public schools. The Champaign school board is the defendant. The classes, which have been conducted for five years, are sponsored and financed by an association representing Protestant, Jewish and Catholic faiths, the board defendants. Mrs. McCollum's petition asserts her 10-year-old son was embarrassed because he was the only student in sixth grade not attending the classes, which require parental permission.
