

Death Is Decried For Pierre Laval

PARIS, Oct. 9 (AP)—Pierre Laval, France's arch-collaborator with the Nazis in World War II, was convicted of treason in the high court of justice today and sentenced to death.

The jury which heard Laval's five-year trial received the case at 4:05 p. m. (10:45 a. m. EST) and deliberated exactly an hour before returning its verdict.

Laval took the news stoically in his jail cell and announced that he would not ask Gen. Charles De Gaulle for clemency.

Laval, who refused to attend the last two sessions of his trial, was found guilty on both counts of the indictment—plotting against the security of the state and intelligence with the enemy.

The former chief of government at Vichy was not in the courtroom when his fate was announced. He rebelled against the tumultuous court proceedings and sat in his cell with his hands cuffed to his wrists.

The conviction had not been felt in doubt since the early sessions of his trial in the paneled courtroom of the Palace of Justice.

Harvest Holiday For Schools Set For Oct. 13 to 28

A two-week harvest vacation for some 3,278 students in Twin Falls schools will begin at 4 p. m. Friday, A. W. Morgan, superintendent of public schools, said Tuesday.

This holiday, which will include the county's light supply of farm labor, was announced shortly after Morgan had met in his office with County Agent Albert Myrland and County Labor Supervisor C. J. Delwood.

Teachers should begin studying Saturday instead of Monday, Morgan said. "The school year should not be a waste time," he said.

Employment headquarters, High School Principals J. D. Brown and Vice-Principal Kenneth Kall will advise the USB's in plotting the boys and girls. These two did the same work last year.

The remaining students that school begins again Monday, Oct. 20.

President Truman Says Secret of Atom Bomb Will Remain in U.S.; Raps Attitude Toward Russians

Five Killed in Bus-Army Truck Crash

Remains of Mars Island bus-army truck wreck, in which five persons were killed and 20 injured (in critically) two miles south of Petaluma, Calif. The bus was crowded with commuters from Vallejo and the truck loaded with soldiers.

RITONVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 9 (AP)—The world had not heard from President Truman that the secret of the atomic bomb will not be shared with other nations.

The President set the record straight at an unprecedented press conference in the heart of the Redfoot lake hunting and fishing preserve in which he also:

Made it clear that neither Russia nor any other ally had asked for the engineering know-how that led to the perfection of the bomb.

Designated James P. Byrnes, secretary of state, to initiate discussions with Great Britain and Canada, and to give a full report on the outcome of the talks.

Declared that there never has been a clash of American and Russian interests in the Far East, and that there never would be.

Expressed concern that Russia has been badly misreported in this country as we have been in the United States.

Stated that the President is not a student of differences in language and difficulties in translation.

Expressed confidence that management and labor will adjust differences without the aid of government restraining strikes—difficulties that he said in large measure to a natural tendency among nations that have followed every path in history.

Unexpected Conference

These momentous pronouncements came unexpectedly from a wholly unprepared news conference that night at Mrs. T. D. Morris' private home at Ritonville. The press had been invited by the President's press secretary, who has been an off-the-record confidant.

The President's statements were so unexpected that he had said anything that would cause much of a commotion. He had not expected to be asked a question that would lead to a war with a world he looked a bit hurt when Churchill's headquarters in London were in the secreted power of his lodge with little ceremony.

He hoped into waiting automobiles and called 20 miles to University City, Mo., to be a "big story."

He said he had no intention of revealing the secret of the atom bomb to any ally.

Sticks to Secrecy

He emphasized this repeatedly when asked whether he would reveal that no ally had asked for this knowledge.

Britain and Canada, he said, share the knowledge, and he has not discussed his decision with them with reference to the secret, he felt sure they would agree with him.

All nations, the President said, have access to the scientific knowledge that led to the development of the atomic bomb, but only the United States, with its scientific, industrial know-how, the only real secret, is in a position to develop it.

Atom Secret Dangers Told By Patterson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—Secretary of War Patterson told Congress today that by misapprehension of the knowledge of the atom bomb danger to the world is a matter of degree.

"No single technical matter in government should be charged with a responsibility that affects the whole future of mankind so directly and immediately. Even the winning of a war should be a matter of degree in comparison with the importance of keeping fully and controlling wisely the power of the atom."

"If we misapprehend the knowledge of the atom, we are in danger of a world war that is far more deadly than any war we have ever known. It is our duty to keep the secret of the atom bomb as long as we can, and to use it only when we are sure that it will bring about a better world for our own people and the world of the future."

He delivered this warning to the people of this country the day after the atomic bomb was dropped on Nagasaki, Japan.

"The delivery of this warning to the people of this country is a matter of degree. It is our duty to keep the secret of the atom bomb as long as we can, and to use it only when we are sure that it will bring about a better world for our own people and the world of the future."

Yanks Seize 250-Million In Nap Loot

TOKYO, Oct. 9 (AP)—American occupation forces have seized $251,000,000 worth of Japanese gold, silver and platinum—most probably looted from other lands—in the past 38 hours, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

More than $120,000,000 in gold and silver reserves alone were confiscated by the sixth and eighth armies in one hour today at Japanese army headquarters and navy headquarters.

Other rich hoards were found in Osaka, the precious metal companies and in the city of Kobe.

Altogether, the seized treasure totaled $300,000,000 of gold and silver bullion and coin worth a quarter of a billion dollars, plus 33,400,000 ounces of gold and silver coins worth more than $30,000,000.

Financial experts already were speculating that the failure of the Japanese to protect their gold and silver reserves alone were confiscated by the sixth and eighth armies in one hour today at Japanese army headquarters and navy headquarters.

Bevin Joins Byrnes in Blaming Russians for Failure of Big 5

LONDON, Oct. 9 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin joined American spokesmen today in blaming the Russians for the failure of the foreign ministers council and revealed that the conference was called off by a vote to reach agreement through the big five government heads.

Bevin told a packed house of congressmen that the Russians stand against French and Chinese participation in the Balkan treaties was the main reason for the failure of the conference.

When Molotov refused to accept a compromise on that position, Bevin said, the foreign ministers returned to the big five.

The dynamic lobbyist inquirer, Bevin reported, had had several sharp verbal clashes over Molotov's position during the conference, expressed regret at the wide divergence of views between the big five and the Russians.

Sub Survivor On Way Back To U. S. Now

THOUGHT US OZARK AT SEA (Dayton) was the name of the deplorable second class, USN, vessel which is returning to the States aboard this submarine. The States aboard this submarine landing along with 192 others who were former prisoners of the Japs.

The submarine survivors, victims of Jap brutality 16 months, were taken first to Truk, where they were housed in the open air. They were then taken aboard the Japanese transporters on the way to Japan. One of the men, a 20-year-old American submariner, only one Sculpin man survived this.

The men from the other carrier and the one survivor of the Jap carrier were taken to the secret Jap Internment Camp of Okinawa, outside Tokyo. In the months that followed the shipboard survivors underwent the same brutality that they went through in the open air. One of the worst forms of mental torture was the "sand bag" treatment. It was three months before the men were given their personal effects. Food consisted of weak soup, barley and rice. The barracks were cold, and each man had to sleep on a straw mat.

After the Jap surrender the prisoners took over the camp until the time they boarded the Ozark.

PATENTS—The difficulties and possible misunderstandings involved in unscrambling our war-time inventions with one another, were vividly illustrated when a house Judiciary subcommittee recently held an executive session with one of the inventors. The incident also revealed that internal differences have been the cause of several officials themselves are unimpressed about complex problems assigned to them.

H. R. 3750 assigns the first war-time patent to give alien property rights to the inventor. The committee authority to return seized assets to the inventor. The inventor in question was occupied by German forces when the Nazis invaded France, Belgium, Holland and Norway. The inventor's holdings are present under claim of the property.

The property consisted of many patents. When we entered the conflict, we utilized some of them to make arms and shipped the weapons to our allies for their defense. It is also proposed in the measure that returning the original owners for the use of their patents.

FLAHEUP—Democratic and Republican members shared up when Maj. Ray M. Harris, patent lawyer for the legal branch of the army service, explained the bill.

"Let me get this straight," interrupted Representative Charles Celler of Brooklyn, subcommittee chairman and ordinarily a loyal Republican. "We are now engaged in cancelling our advance under patents which were used to pay claims on transactions and which are owned by friendly aliens. Is that correct?"

"Yes," replied Major Harris.

NOT—Representative C. E. McHenry is a good Michigan Republican, but he is not a particularly zealous member of the opposition. Indeed, there are times when his former party would be proud to call him a partisan leader. But even he leaped into the arena when the House Judiciary subcommittee was sold down the international river.

"Is this the situation?" he asked. "We used these patents to make arms and shipped them to our allies under lend-lease, and got no return for it?"

"And now we pay royalties for the privilege of making them?" he asked.

"Yes," answered the lawyer.

"You, sir, have the bill?"

"The subcommittee regarded these admissions as so important and so important that it referred the measure to the full Judiciary committee for consideration and report.

"It was too hot a world point for them to handle," said the lawyer. "The House Judiciary subcommittee has been debating on this for some time. It is a very important matter and the House will have to act on it soon."

FACTS—Unfortunately for Major Harris and the critical engineers, the facts in the files of the subcommittee office tell their own story. It is a story of a day in the year, little by little, the patents were sold down the international river. The patents were sold down the international river. The patents were sold down the international river.

"It is a story of a day in the year, little by little, the patents were sold down the international river. The patents were sold down the international river. The patents were sold down the international river."

CLAMOR—No British patents are concerned in the settlement proposed in H. R. 3750. In fact, London would win many dollars if the victory would change the present Russian government's attitude toward a wide open political field.

The Generalissimo Chiang and Mr. Mao have decided to reshape China's government according to the popular will, it is a great and historic decision. A free election there would do much to give new meaning to the word "democracy" and to the variety of amazing shapes it fits in a variety of purposes during the years of military alliance against the axis.

PREPAR DOLLARS

It may be that what this country needs is not so much an industrial wage scale of 52 hours per 40 hours work as a 40-hour week with a 10-hour day. This would mean that in 1939 dollars, those dollars' gross purchasing power would just about make the 30 per cent straight-time increase that is being demanded.

Naturally, a return to the prewar cost of living would mean abundant, competitive mass production of necessary goods, which in turn would mean abundant jobs. That isn't a goal to be achieved overnight. But at least it seems like a goal worth shooting for. And it's at least worth considering against a program of continuing pay boosts which in time would certainly lift prices with it, and which would ultimately result in a wage-price spiral which might pay home in a wheelchair.

THE "second industrial revolution" now beginning, decentralization is an important element.

The first industrial revolution, borne in with lightning speed and carried on with lightning speed, set off the great migrations to the big cities. The second industrial revolution, with its electronics and atomic, promises to reverse this trend of population. The airplane brought a preview of the trend. Airports had to be sited in crowded cities. Moving plants to the countryside, away from the cities, was a logical step. The third industrial revolution, with its electronics and atomic, promises to reverse this trend of population. The airplane brought a preview of the trend. Airports had to be sited in crowded cities. Moving plants to the countryside, away from the cities, was a logical step. The third industrial revolution, with its electronics and atomic, promises to reverse this trend of population. The airplane brought a preview of the trend. Airports had to be sited in crowded cities. Moving plants to the countryside, away from the cities, was a logical step.

STRIKES AND POLITICS

Without doubt the administration in power locks on the troubled labor situation with anxious hearts. It is sincerely hoping for a settlement that will quickly in the interest of the workers themselves, and in the interest of the country as a whole. They also know that turbulent conditions in the labor situation might very well grow great enough to overthrow the party in power. The political practicality of the situation is obvious. It is a situation that may do very much about it. Political ties, like those of the ocean, are hard to control. —(Greg) Glatman.

SMALL-TOWN FEAT

Even before the atomic bomb, the dangers of crowding population and industry into a few great cities were recognized, and the small town movement was being started. Today a number of organizations are urging decentralization as the best means of solving the housing and transportation problems of the big cities.

When it is remembered that more than one million people are crowded into a few great cities, it is not surprising that the small town movement is gaining momentum. The small town movement is gaining momentum. The small town movement is gaining momentum.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS POT SHOTS

WASHINGTON—The view of the political situation from Washington is a gloomy one. It seems certain that the country is in for a worse time before it gets better.

Members were to send Christmas boxes to boys in the service. Mrs. Parry received reports of the next meeting will be held Oct. 17 with Mrs. Myrtle Brady.

Care of Your Children

Children have not been the happy little we like to think it is. Some children are very unhappy in spite of all that is done to make them feel loved, approved and wanted.

Often they bite their nails or tug at their hair. They may refuse to take part in the play of the active carefree youngsters about them.

Don't show him who is worried about him. Move a bit more deliberately. Speak more slowly, let little things break the conversation, play soft music.

Waste of Fish Alleged by Ada League's Head

BOISE, Oct. 9 (AP)—Clayton Davidson, head of the Ada Fish and Game League, today stated that the commission on fish and game which is studying the problem of overfishing in Idaho should take into account the waste of fish in the state's recreational resorts.

Davidson carried his campaign for construction of fish seines in irrigation canals to the commission, asserting that "more fish are killed annually when the water is turned out of the canals than are caught out of Wood River.

Department Director James O. Heck asked Davidson if he knew of any places which had used seines successfully to keep fish out of irrigation canals, and Davidson replied, "No."

Heck said that he had seen a successful fish seine in California and that he had never seen a successful fish seine in Idaho.

Lack of Cooperation Charged Davidson asserted that federal fish and game service has withdrawn all technical fish development men from Idaho "because of lack of cooperation by the state."

Heck said that he had seen a successful fish seine in California and that he had never seen a successful fish seine in Idaho.

Tigers and Cubs Set 9 New Records in Sixth Game

WHOLEY FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 9 (AP)—In addition to the more profitable financial "records," the world's greatest game produced a long list of "records."

Most players participating for one club, one series—25 by Tigers, Oct. 22, Cincinnati, 1940. (Cubs, 24 this series, also broke old mark).

Most pitchers used by both clubs, one series—23 Old Jack, 23 Browns and Cardinals last year.

By several others, last set by Bill Diegel, Yankees, 1938. Most at bats, one player, one game—6, by Eddie Mayo, and Andy Patto, Cubs.

HACK'S HIT DEFEATS TIGERS Weird Contest Comes to End In 12th Inning

By GAYLE TALBOT CHICAGO, Oct. 9 (AP)—Slam Hank drove a blazing line into left field in the 12th inning of Monday's classic world series game, and when the ball bounced over Hank Greenberg's shoulder a 4-0 victory was assured.

Greenberg, who only five innings before had powered a home run with a two-out, first-inning homer, was pitched right in front of the ball and was unable to head it.

Car Fees Now Top All 1944

Twin Falls county revenue from motor vehicle license fees was $2,301 higher for the first nine months of 1945 than the entire 1944 amount, announced Tuesday.

From January through September, 1945, $107,650 was collected, against $105,150 for the entire year of 1944, he said.

"Motor vehicle license revenue, with three months remaining to the close of the fiscal year since I became county treasurer," he said, "the reason for this I believe, is probably the fact that many out of state cars are being brought here and sold."

Childs announced, too, that his supply of commercial and private truck plates had been temporarily exhausted. But more are on order.

Solicitors Named In Buhl's Drive

BUHL, Oct. 9—The west end drive for the Idaho War fund got underway this week, with Ed Manning as general chairman, and C. M. Smith as co-chairman. The west end quota is $40,000, same as last year.

Major Bill Blake, Wife Visit Home

MAJ. and Mrs. Howard (BUHL) Blake have recently arrived from Washington, D. C. where Major Blake was assigned to the staff of the army-navy petroleum board.

This agency during the war was responsible for the coordination of the procurement, allocation and shipment of petroleum products overseas for use in the army ground and air forces, navy, sea, land and air forces and the armed forces of all allied nations.

Major Blake's particular assignment was chief of the storage section, where facilities were utilized in the storage and distribution of bulk stocks of petroleum products for the armed forces in the combat area.

Mrs. Blake, formerly Patricia Wynn, has been engaged in war work involving shipment of materials of war to Australia.

Major Blake was superintendent for Standard Stations, Inc. with headquarters in Twin Falls prior to entering the army in June 1942.

During their visit in Twin Falls the Blakes are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Seaman, sister of Mrs. Blake, 103 Seventh street north.

What do I think of the servant situation?

Why, I haven't any servant!

That's what you think, lady.

Are you sure you've got the right house? We're the I. Budget Smiths. You've probably looking for the J. Tycoon Smiths, over on Golf Terrace.

No, Mrs. Smith, I mean YOU—

Well, something's wrong somewhere. I do all my own housework.

Not quite all, Mrs. Smith. You have some household appliances, haven't you?

Of course, but—

OF COURSE!—that's the answer, Mrs. Smith. You DO have a servant, but you take that servant for granted. You've got a combination laundry, coat, cleaning woman, lamp lighter, seamstress and entertainer—one who doesn't mind a few old jobs like heating the bath water, guarding your food, fanning your fevered brow—

Oh, you mean ELECTRICITY—

Yes, Mrs. Smith, electricity! the universal servant who works 24 hours a day at low per wage—and never asks for time off. Why, Mrs. Smith, your "servant situation" here in America is better than anywhere else in the world.

Home Food "Lovely, Lovely" Says Ex-Prisoner of Japs

"Describing his wife's cooking as "lovely, lovely," W. Adamson, who was captured by the Japanese in Wake Island in August 1942 and spent 10 months in a prisoner-of-war camp, said today that he had found the food in the Japanese prison camp to be "lovely, lovely" and "nothing but the average diet."

"I didn't believe the human body could survive on the food we got," Adamson stated, "and the food that kept us alive was the hope that any day the American war rescue us. If that hope had been taken away I don't believe I would be here today." His story was determined citizen declared.

Tells of Son's Death
Not a word came out from him but the memory of his son, Robert, who died the second day of the Japanese attack on Wake Island, to add to his torture. Louis Adamson, as a doctor, took it upon himself to attempt to save his son. He was with him until the last moments of his life.

When the Japs attacked he was in his bed. He was hit by a bullet during the raiding by enemy planes. He was taken to the island hospital and treated for several days. He died when the market hospital bombed unmercifully. He was shot in the chest and died the same evening after being moved to another shelter.

Discussions will be led by Richard A. Tomney, old-age and survivors insurance representative, and Clifford C. Schaefer, commercial representative of the Denver regional office of the Federal Reserve Bank. The meeting will be held at the Denver Civic Center.

Following the conference, Lutzburger will be in the Twin Falls office Oct. 10 and 11 to discuss local problems and to complete the regular quarterly audit of food offices.

Markets at a Glance

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The market for stocks was mixed today. The Dow Jones industrial average ended the session at 114.86, up from 114.24 last Friday. The volume of trading was 1,877,300 shares.

The market was led by a decline in the price of steel, which fell 2 1/2 cents to 26.62 1/2 cents per pound. This decline was the result of reports that the Federal Reserve board had decided to increase the price of steel.

Other notable declines were seen in the price of copper, which fell 3 cents to 11.75 cents per pound, and the price of tin, which fell 1/2 cent to 52.00 cents per pound.

LOVE BRAVES ANATOM BOMB

WHEN X-993 EXPLODES— Knowledge of her power at this moment, and of the vengeance she was about to wreak on the Tyrer girl, gave Leana Gormli face a wild look of exhilaration. She threw her transmitter switch as if the act were a definite final finale.

And finale it would not even be a remote possibility. Scientist had known the extreme potency of X-990011 simultaneously with her touch of that switch, all of hellfire itself boiled over the universe.

The earth shook in a staccato of doom. Tonto Mountain, it appeared, was about to erupt. A great spreading bulk blackened out the light of day, extended outward over a full five miles, then came rolling—crashing down in an all-consuming bonfire of doom.

The top half of Mummy Gille itself was blown square off and a minute later it had all the way there to the east were buried under countless tons of debris. The very topography of a mountain range was being altered. And nobody—no living man—heard Leana Gormli give her long, hysterical scream.

From other points of view as told countless times in the months and even years to follow the explosion of Tonto Mountain, it was the volcano, no less. Except that this particular volcano spread fire from only one side of its mouth, after first burning out an opening.

The actual eruption was not straight up, but angled. The great force of the explosion naturally took the path of least resistance. The west half of Tonto mountain was a bulky, thick, solid rock a mile thick at its base. The rest white face of that granite had showed at the peak from a hand mark for centuries. But in nature's own capriciousness, and in nature's own capriciousness, also she had located and stirred the eastern half of Tonto, upending its strata and piling there loose boulders, smaller rocks and soils. It was this loose deposit which gave way under the force of X-990011.

The granite had stood firm, merely shaken by the recoil.

The circumstance proved to be extremely fortunate for many human beings who had dared encroach themselves in nature's domain here. It was as if nature had kept a hidden hand over them and their little huts. Not that the huts escaped damage—every window in the scientific village was broken, and every china dish, every bit of glass equipment in the laboratory, shattered. The rickety, flimsy structures at best were flattened and three of the homes killed. A dozen major or minor avalanches were started on neighboring mountains.

When Carolyn and Leana left him at the stable shortly after 6 o'clock, Bob Hale lingered to rub down his black gelding rather than give the lead to a stable boy. About 15 minutes later he was called to the stable telephone. It was Leana.

"Robert, dear," she began, "is it too much to ask that you drive to Blair for me, at once? There is some equipment—a microscope part—which I must have in the laboratory early tomorrow morning, and I really want to tonight. It was due on the mail stage today and the Blair postoffice closes at 6." "You'd better not let me drive tonight over now. Our group doesn't eat until 7. Be a pleasure."

Bob's muscles froze.

The postmaster looked quickly at the communication. The latter spoke at first. Then both looked out.

The late sun-yellowed sky back toward Tonto was blotting in a magnificent mass of black earth and rocks and shooting flames.

They saw a noise—explosion—billowing, spreading, roaring and echoing furiously. It was as if anything in the vicinity. It was reaching out over half the horizon, as if it meant to engulf all the universe.

"I know!" Bob rasped, from the lower front row within him. "It—Carolyn's throat! Carolyn's still here! . . . Come out . . . Oh, my God! . . . Carolyn!"

The two men were running to Bob's car.

School Children Hear Fire Talks

Children at Bickel and Washington schools were urged to turn in fire alarms promptly during the National Fire Prevention week and to observe safety rules by Fire Chief I. Z. Bartlett Monday morning.

He distributed many questionnaires which the students are to fill out and return. If pupils report fire hazards in their homes, the chief said he would have the department investigate and make suggestions for their elimination. The local safety program is sponsored by the district.

Chief Bartlett and Bill Crippien, Jaycees fire prevention chairman, discussed how best to avoid fire last night in a broadcast over station KTFP.

The extinguishers should be recharged once a year, the fire chief said. "The fluid deteriorates," he stated. "The extinguishers should also be refilled after they've been used."
