

Solons Wary Of Training Bill Action

(From Page One)
Heard before the House post-war military committee, Gen. George Marshall, army chief of staff, told the committee that adoption of a general military training bill was an immediate matter of "urgent necessity." Marshall shows his doubts are not unfounded. He says that the bill is so broad that it is immediate and urgent he means it requires attention right now. That was four years ago. Marshall frankly told the committee that a general military training bill would make us diplomatically ineffective abroad. He is thinking particularly of our terms.

United States' discomfiture in the post-war course on foreign affairs is a matter of record. The failure of the London conference of foreign ministers was the outside first big post-war disappointment. Administration leaders in congress are well aware that Mr. Truman's proposals face tough opposition. House Speaker Sam Rayburn went into a hostile lobby with Democratic floor leader W. R. Hearnes, Democratic floor leader W. R. Hearnes, and Chairman Andrew J. May, Jr. of the military affairs committee, to plan a course of action.

May declared he would like to see the committee hold a hearing on the subject.

Farm Adviser Praises CVA; Has Warning

POCATELLO, Oct. 24 (AP)—A Columbia valley authority could "bring vast riches" to the Pacific northwest, but its board of directors definitely should be kept out of politics, Alfred C. Gordon, Pocatello, legal adviser to Idaho Farm Bureau, said today in a letter to Rep. Henry Dworkin, R. Idaho.

Gordon said that "it proposes to establish a five-man board of directors ... power in comparison to the U. S. reclamation bureau as a D-20 compared to a 'job zero'."

"But a board with such vast powers might easily become a political football," said Gordon. "I think the board should be kept out of politics. Its directors should be appointed only upon recommendation of such groups as agriculture, labor, mining and business and industry."

"CVA could bring vast riches to Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Montana. This could be done by furnishing an abundance of cheap electrical power. Cheap power would attract new industries here."

Reds Taking Nazi Sphere Of Influence

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst.

This is to be said of Russia, and we shall be smart to note it well. When the Moscow news is determined on a major objective, it does not let it go.

That characteristic is illustrated in the Soviet action in proposing to conclude unilateral trade pacts with the Axis satellites Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria—a move which shocked and the United States have protested as violating the spirit of the Yalta agreement for concerted action among the big three.

The significance of this development seems clear enough, and it supports the thesis advanced in this column long ago.

Moscow has laid out for its sphere of influence virtually the whole of eastern and central Europe up to the line running from the great German port of Scythia on the Baltic right down to the Adriatic and takes a look at your maps. Within this zone is the New Poland, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Hungary, Finland and the Balkans, with the possible exception of Greece and Turkey, whose status is in doubt.

The Soviet is determinedly consolidating this zone, and it is doing so. Now this is a new phenomenon. As this writer has mentioned in previous articles, Russia is taking over the Hittlerian sphere of influence. Germany's strength was politico-economic, backed by military power, Moscow's strength lies in other factors.

Much of the reich's pre-war domination was due to the economic hold which it exercised over the whole area. The smaller countries were economically dependent on the reich.

So Russian trade is rushing into the zone caused by vacuum which disappeared. Time alone will tell whether this new economic set-up will be as effective as the old one. Germany could make it work because of the fact that she was a great industrial power and could meet the needs of the smaller countries for manufactured goods, while at the same time absorbing their agricultural products. It would seem that Russia will have to balance the economic situation in similar fashion.

Rheumatic Fever Higher in Region

The rate of rheumatic fever is higher in the intermountain states than elsewhere in the country, Dr. John Anderson, Salt Lake City, told members of the Southside Medical society at a dinner meeting held Tuesday night in the Regency hotel.

Dr. Anderson who is head of the pediatric department at the University of Utah, spoke on the predisposing factors in the development of the disease in children. The fever runs in families and some families are more susceptible to it than others, the pediatricist said.

The medical society is composed of physicians throughout Magie Valley.

Epizootic women, particularly those of upper Egypt, frequently occur near there.

DDT "Deadly As Atom Bomb" if Used Wrong

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Indiscriminate use of DDT can be just as dangerous as the atomic bomb, according to Dr. C. H. Curran of the American Museum of Natural History.

Dr. Curran was one of more than a dozen experts who spoke in New York during a forum on the powerful new insecticide at the opening of the 14th annual convention of the national Audubon society.

"Eventually," Dr. Curran said, "we will find that we have in DDT just about the perfect insecticide. But meanwhile its indiscriminate use without proper knowledge can be just as dangerous as the atomic bomb."

Dr. Clarence Cottam of the fish and wild life service of the U. S. department of the interior, said that he regarded the pollution problem as one of the most serious to be considered in connection with the use of DDT.

"DDT should be used only in areas where the importance of destroying certain insects will outweigh the loss of those insects which are beneficial to man," Dr. Cottam said. "Its dosage should be kept to a minimum."

As far as household pests are concerned, the experts point out that DDT is highly effective, but slow-acting. Don't expect quick death, they say.
