One-Year Tenure "Makes Ramps," IAEA Head Warns

Our method of employment makes ramps out of our teachers, John I. Hillman, Boise, executive secretary of the Idaho Education association, told the fourth district convention yesterday at the Twin Falls high school auditorium.

Such a lack of tenure makes the teacher more mobile, Hillman said. He said that the only state having no tenure law for teachers is Idaho. Twenty-five states have minimum salary guarantees, but this state has none.

The district educators elected Mrs. Rose M. North, dean of Twin Falls high school girls, as vice-president, and Capt. George H. Hill, of Twin Falls, as executive committee member of the IAEA.

Reich, Japan Dislike U. S. Occupations

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Reports of reluctance to occupation authority in Germany are given by similar reports from Japan, although the situation there does not seem to have developed to the same danger level.

Whereas in Germany the outbursts have been described as approaching organized resistance, in Japan the movements are given as of a few individuals with small followings.

Authorities there express concern, however, lest trouble increase as Japanese soldiers in the Pacific mainland, undefeated in the field, are repatriated.

It is not so amazing that such troubles develop as that they have been delayed so long. MacArthur's safety precautions in the first days of occupation evidenced doubt that even Hirohito's command would result in as complete an end to wartime fanaticism as has been in evidence so far. Smiling Japanese, anxious to accept war blarney, to reveal the hideouts of their wealth and to discuss their military weaknesses, affable Germans stolidly, even happily carrying out the orders of their superiors, have surprised anomalies after the sort of war just ended. Such supreme acceptance creates its own problems and more is going on than meets the eye.

The new "leather pillow" situation may be partly responsible for the new troubles, especially in Germany. It was one reason for the "non-fertilization" ban in the kingdom. It caused the king's failure, and the internationalization in sending German hatred of the occupation forces in a manner which could hardly be accomplished in any other way. The reports serve to emphasize the importance of proper American conduct in occupied areas.

Dispatches from Germany have been full of references to American participation in black market operations, and especially to American "fertilization" with German women.

Now, it is obvious that no army can do a complete job of picking the morals of its members. But when a New York Times correspondent can write from Germany that he has hated hatreds from former German soldiers returning home to find their wives and sweethearts being with American officers as well as with exiled men, it would appear that there is indeed, a great deal of leechy.

Use of Drugs On Increase, Club Is Told

Buhl, Nov. 3.—Walter Stark, Los Angeles, who is on the narcotics squad of the Los Angeles police force, told the members of the Buhl club many of his experiences in the line of duty, at their regular meeting. He outlined the different kinds of narcotics—medicinal, opium, heroin, etc.—and their effects on the people who use them.

The use of narcotics is increasing over the country at an alarming rate, said Mr. Stark. "Possibly the nervous reaction of these war years has been a contributing factor. We have to be on the lookout for all kinds of dope-murders and peddlers, from baby-sitters to the Chinese opium handlers. Girls as young as in their middle-teens sometimes are go-between, and maintain smoking among teenagers is especially bad, as it not only injures them seriously physically, but it has a degrading moral effect on youth of either sex who indulge in it."

"We always try to get the key-peddler," he pointed out, "those at the top who give the little fellow to do their distributing for them. It has been offered bribes as high as $5,000 by the big boss if I would let them go, but when that happens, I just go harder with them."

Officers at the meeting were J. G. Jacobson, Teleschapi, Calif., Lawrence Van Rober, Jerome; Harry W. Berry and Dennis Gilpin, Twin Falls, and Lieut.-Col. Walter Senfner and C. G. Merrill, Buhl.

Grange, Club Opposition to CVA Voiced

RECONVERTED THINKING

The dominant congressional reaction to President Truman's recent universal military training indicates that capitol hill has quickly reconverted to its peacetime ways of thinking about this subject.

The majority of legislators who consented to comment on the proposal was against it. And their reasons were, for the most part, the same ones that were used to defeat similar proposals introduced in congress in the period between the two world wars.

They didn't seem inclined to argue the urgent reasons behind Mr. Truman's request. They simply stated that "never again can we count on the luxury of time in which to arm ourselves."

Significant declines are reported from Colorado and Idaho, while Maine, Minnesota, New Jersey, Long Island and Washington increased a little. Significant declines are reported from Colorado and Idaho, while Maine, Minnesota, New Jersey, Long Island and Washington increased a little. New Jersey movement is not particularly significant because about half were the government owned, probably consigned to the season. Long Island showed the largest increase in weight, evidently still added by Cuban demand. Cuban duty was restored November 1, however, and continues some market reaction when offerings move locally.

New Swooner Is 'Owned' by Four Maidens

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—Two years ago one of the handsomest bachelors in the city was "owned" by four maidens.

And they have him signed on the dotted line with an air-tight contract that says he's incorporated under the laws of the state of New York, as of last Monday. They own 98 percent of him.

Baritone Dick Bryson, who sings mostly on radio, said "Believe it I didn't know what I was getting mixed up with. These ladies are strictly out for the dough. I gotta stay in condition, they tell me. I can't smoke but three cigarettes a day. I can't drink, but a little. And next week I start the old road work."

Corporation President Ruth Carpenter said "Brother, you mean money to us—we hope—your getting too fat."

The girls are all Pat Allen models, and work at their regular jobs every day. They hope to dig enough gold out of Bryson's voice to pay good-bye to the tooth paste ads, and spend the rest of their lives just dividing his income.

The girls first got the idea of putting their cash into Bryson's career when they heard him sing at a recent hospital show at Mitchell field.

President Carpenter, the lone brunette, came up and asked, "Who is your manager?"

"Why, no one at present," Bryson said. "What's the pitch?"

And, before he knew it, they took him over and out him into shares, like a piece of pie.

They figure that the era of the emaciated crooner is just about over, and the hunky guys will have all the little girls swooning in this post-war world.

"But they'll have to keep their distance from this he-man," warned "Tramaine" Foggy. "That's, until we've declared a profit."

Kid Cobbler

Cobbling is serious business with 11-year-old Jerry Roger Nicholas, challenger for the title of the nation's youngest shoemaker. His dad has a shoe repair shop in Cleveland, O., and ever since the boy was a year old, according to the elder Nicholas, he has been a real hip, specializing in mending on lock, as pictured, above.

The railroad company and J. B. Driskell, operator of the gasoline-driven locomotive, were named as co-defendants in the suit.

1,500 Cattle Change Hands In Sale Here

One of the largest sales ever held by the Twin Falls Livestock Commission company was reported by Tom Callen, co-owner, Saturday, who said that 1,500 head of cattle were sold here Wednesday. He stated that there were more than 300 consignors at the weekly auction which lasted until 11 p.m. R. B. Randall, Twin Falls, sold two carloads of yearling steers for $15.00 and $12.00, per hundred, weight, Callen said. A carload of yearling steers owned by Oldrich Calka brought $15.20 to $15.60. High price on cows was received by the Paulsen brothers, Oakley, who sold a carload for $10.85. Arnie Eckert, Hill City, sold a load of feeder cows for $2.80.

Other prices listed by Callen include two-year-old steers, $11.20 to $12.50 per hundredweight; yearling steers, $11 to $12.50; good cows $10.20 to $11.30; fair cows, $9.50 to $10.80; feeders, $7 to $8.50; cullers $3.50 to $4; fat heifers, $11 to $12.80; feeder heifers $10.20 to $11; veal, $12 to $13.50; and bulls, $8.70 to $12.85.

Irrigations Begin by Law On April 1

BOISE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Attorney General Frank Langley advised state chairman engineer Mark Kulp today that Idaho law and court rulings fix the irrigation season from April 1 to Nov. 1.

Langley said it is the duty of the state department of reclamation to advise watermasters that no water advice will be distributed for irrigation after Nov. 1, although its distribution for other uses such as stock water would be legally possible.

The attorney general's opinion came on request of Kulp with regard to the Big Wood river.

"I do not believe that any water user from Big Wood river has any right to the use of any water for irrigation purposes from that river after the first day of November each year," Langley wrote.

The attorney general said also that Idaho law prohibits wasting of water, saying:

"That means that a person having a right to use water for a beneficial purpose could not insist that such water be delivered to him, and then refuse to use it for such purpose and permit the same to go to waste, thus depriving other users of the right to the use of such water."

Kessler Raps Governor for "Tax Laxity"

BOISER, Nov. 3 (AP)—Harry B. Kessler of the Idaho Alliance for Civic Forces wrote Governor Owsen to-day quoting state statutes which he said authorized the chief executive to supervise county prosecutions and sheriffs and to send state enforcement men on a campaign against slot machines.

The letter was a continuation of Kessler's efforts by corresponding secretary and attorney to halt through the courts and through state officials what he describes as lax enforcement of the state's slot machine licensing law.

The governor replied to Kessler's original request by saying that he could send direct inspectors and sheriffs to collect state slot machine licenses because those officials are under his jurisdiction.

The governor contended that the county officers are constitutional officials, and are not subject to the oversight of any sheriff or other state officers anywhere in the state.

Kessler added that he deems unconstitutional officers without the meaning of this statute.

He added that through the department of law enforcement the governor is empowered to "execute and aid all powers, duties and authority of any sheriff or other state officers anywhere in the state of Idaho."

The legislature this year passed a law authorizing the state to license slot machines. Kessler contends that 853 holders of federal permits have obtained licenses for 1,711 slot machines, but that of this total only 141 owners have obtained 106 permits under the new law.

Kessler said that enforcement of the slot machine law is being hampered only in Lewis and Clark counties.

Old-Timers of Gooding Recall Scotty's Name

GOODING, Nov. 3.—Old-timers of Gooding got together today at the funeral of a man known far and near only as "Scotty" and remembered enough of his past to recall a name for his grave.

The 85-year-old Scotty's name was Robert L. McDaniel, but others than that he early had the name of his grave.

The old-timers recalled that when he came to this section many years ago he was talked often of Scotty, and they decided that he had been born there. He also spoke of having a sister, but never mentioned her name. He had the idea of where to search for relatives, and he had located the graves of the Edinwood cemetery, the graveside services being conducted by the Rev. Irvin Foster, Methodist minister.

He died Thursday at the home of his wife's home here where he had been a patient for four or five years.

Congress, After Two Months Of Wrangling, Faces Big Job

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The postwar congress, after two months of wrangling, bickering and inquiring heavily into the strange problems of the world in the past few days, is today to face up with empty pages in the history books of the future. It must fill those pages.

Few American congresses have ever had so much work that would influence the writing of history.

This 79th congress, which runs until the end of next year, must:

1. Make far-reaching decisions on the economic, control and international handling of atomic energy.
2. Try to piece together a peace treaty from the events leading up to the Pearl Harbor attack. In that connection, a fierce fight within the Pearl Harbor investigating committee has just erupted into the open.
3. Decide the role of the federal government in creating jobs and fighting business depression.
4. Decide questions regarding the use of American troops by the world security council, and perhaps in 1946 decide even more important questions on changing or strengthening the United Nations organization for the atomic era.
5. Pre-empt Training
6. Decide whether to accept President Truman's recommendation that every American youth undergo a year's training abroad.
7. Decide whether to override many protests and establish a single department of national defense.
8. Decide the part the federal government shall play in the nation's scientific research.

Many other important matters must be handled by the 79th congress, but those listed are among the tasks that may affect not only the present generation but the next generation as well.

Pearl Harbor Squabble

In the Pearl Harbor squabble, a Republican member of the House, Republican member of the House, Owen Brewster of Maine, charged that an attempt has been made to "cover up" some information on the Pearl Harbor disaster.

He said changes in the testimony of several army officers over a period of years led him to believe this. Brewster and Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan have bitter grievances against the Democrats on the investigating committee, and they Menus will be planned daily and will be followed closely.

The cost of the lunches will be 25 cents per week which would go to pay part of the expenses of the lunch room. The program will be carried out until the spring.

Chest Drive Still $5,000 Slightly of Goal

The War Fund-Community Chest drive, in its final stages, wound-up the week still approximately $5,000 short of its $27,000 goal from the residential and business districts of Twin Falls. The official figures of the campaign Saturday afternoon were: $22,200. Horace L. Holmes, executive secretary, announced.

Although the drive was scheduled for the month of October, it will be continued until the quota is reached. Arnold Cross, campaign chairman, decided Saturday contributions to the funds may still be sent to the drive headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Holmes and Mrs. Charlotte Lehmann, accountants, who have been loaned by the Idaho Power company to devote their time during the past month to the drive, will return to their respective positions with the power company. However, Holmes will continue as executive secretary and will call at the chamber office every afternoon to collect contributions turned in during the day.

Britain Plan To Sell Wool Is Criticized

AP Special to Times-News

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Representative Barrett, R. Wis., said today that any attempt by Great Britain to sell 350,000,000 pounds of American stored wool on the open market will bring "vigorous protesting wool-growers' associations."

He asserted as the wool was brought to this country for "strategic purposes" by Barrett, that the distinct understanding that it would not be sold on the domestic market.

"It is especially regrettable," Barrett added in his statement, "that representatives of Great Britain have indicated a desire to sell the wool on the American market."

The wool is being sold by the American wool-growers' association, which advised the British representative that no action could be taken until formal application was made, and it is anticipated that such an application will be made shortly.

The British wool was brought here, he said, for the "sole purpose" of providing an adequate supply of Great Britain in the event shipment from Australia were stopped by a war in the Pacific.

Last week, Barrett said, the commodity credit corporation—which purchases wool for the wool production of wool—asked for bids on approximately 50,000,000 pounds of its wool. The bids were made but not desirable.

Simultaneously, he added, the British wool control announced reduction in the selling price of its wool ranging from five per cent to ten per cent to 12 per cent for less desirable grades.

"It was understood," Barrett said, "that this reduction would apply to orders previously made but not delivered."

It is obvious that reduction announced by Great Britain, would mean that the bids made in response to the CCC request would be lowered to that extent."

Rustlers Are Active Again In California

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 3 (AP)— Amateur cattle thieves in California are making old-time "cat-thrust" look like pikers, reports from the state department of agriculture indicated today.

Small-time criminals, knocking off only one or two animals at a time—perhaps only one or two a year—are mounting up a yearly total of rustling into hundreds of thousands of dollars, the department said.

Clyde Harris, chief of the bureau of livestock identification, admitted that "unquestionably" some organized groups are moving stolen cattle into black market channels.

However, he asserted, evidence shows the great majority of the "rustling" is the work of individuals or small groups unorganized in crime. He believed that most of the meat stolen is stored away for personal use or sold on a small scale to neighborhood operators.

The number of cattle stolen has climbed sharply during the war, he said, reaching a peak in the spring and summer of this year. The end of the war and the resulting loosening of meat supplies has brought no noticeable change in the problem, he declared.

In fact, the black market in choice cuts of beef is reported to be worse now than at any time during the war," Harris added.

While only slightly over 1,000 head have been reported to the bureau as missing so far this year, some authorities estimate the volume of cattle rustling is in the tens of thousands, Harris pointed out that one owner alone recently reported from 155 to 165 head missing in his fall roundup.

The modern day cattle thief's methods hold none of the glamor of the famed "wild west" rustling, Harris remarked. Evidence shows that thieves usually work after dark, hunting back country roads in small pick-up trucks. Cattle are laced by car headlights or flashlight and picked off with shotguns or rifles.

Caravans sometimes are hatched on the spot and less desirable portions left behind. In other cases animals are loaded intact to trucks or trailers.

Most mature animals are killed before taken, Harris said. It is believed, however, that unbranded calves are being "rustled" in the real sense of the word for feeding and future sale by renegade cattlemen.

Will Start New Life Together

"We've been through hell, but we still love each other," says Leta. Claude Chipman, war veteran acquitted on murder charge in Madras, Calif., court a month after he shot and killed Herman Bloor, Jr., lover of his wife during the lieutenant's absence. Couple are shown here upon reconciliation, with their son, Michael.

Presbyterian Church to Be Open Nov. 11

After a year of church services in the Twin Falls high school, the Presbyterian congregation will re-enter the reconstructed church building Sunday, Nov. 11. The building has been renovated from the ceiling to the pipe organ.

Reconstruction will be completed this week and the first service will be held next Sunday. Sunday school will be at 10 a. m. and Dr. G. L. Clark, First Presbyterian church pastor, will give the sermon at 11 a. m.

The entire church has been renovated and the inside has been done in one color with full accoustical treatment in the walls and ceiling. A new roof has replaced the one condemned 12 months ago. Holmes Lash was the architect for the work and A. D. Dohler was general contractor.

The pipe organ has been overhauled by Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hour.

Two Wardens' Bodies Found In Deep Snow

HAWLINS, Wyo., Nov. 3 (AP)— Snow three feet deep Sheriff Otton Lukanen and two deputies found the bodies of two game wardens who were shot after they left Hawlins Wednesday to check on the catch of a trapper in an isolated mountainous area.

The unmarried trapper's log cabin 55 miles southeast of Hawlins has been burned, and in the ashes the sheriff discovered bones which he said he would send to a University of Wyoming laboratory to determine whether they were those of a human.

The wardens were William Lakanen, 41, of Hawlins, and Don Bling, son of Saratoga.

No definite trace of the trapper was found. Nor was the origin of the fire determined. The sheriff said the trapper may have set his place afire and killed himself.

Penland said Lakanen two years ago arrested the trapper for illegal possession of a beaver pelts. The sheriff also related:

Lakanen, with a bullet wound behind his ear, fell out of the truck in which he and Simpson went to the cabin, and flames from the building burned part of Lakanen's body. Simpson's body, snow-covered and with bullet holes in the back and head, lay a short distance from the truck.

Penland said the trapper was 55 years old and had lived in the area for many years. After his arrest in 1943 he was sentenced to six months in the Carbon county jail in Basco and fined $100. The fine was paid and he was released before he completed the sentence, the sheriff said.

About 70 per cent of the earth never sees snow.

Hectic Journey Is Explained by Youthful Couple

BURLEY, Nov. 3—It's all over now and they're back home, but Mr. and Mrs. Howard Riseman, Detroit, Mich., would like to recover their household furnishings which were left by the wayside in their hectic trip from the west coast to their home.

The young couple, whose abandoned automobile (with household effects) was found near Burley and brought up victims of possible violence, wrote Sheriff Paul H. Clark that they were safe in Detroit now, thanks to the Red Cross, and would like their property.

They told the sheriff that they had purchased a 1937 model Buick in Los Angeles to make the trip home, but the Buick collapsed on them at Salt Lake City and they traded it in on a Chevrolet. The two rear tires of the Chevrolet collapsed simultaneously on the highway about 20 miles from Burley and they saw up the automobile idea then and there and took the hitch-hike.

Making their way to Idaho (the wrong direction), they obtained Red Cross aid and went the rest of the way by train.

Sheriff Clark had been holding the household effects at his office.

Five Arrested on Gambling Charge

RUPERT, Nov. 3—Five men, arrested on gambling charges about midnight last night when local and state police raided Bay's club here, entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned this morning and were released on bail.

The men, who will be brought up for trial Thursday at 10 a. m., are Sam Templeton, Bob Jardell, Griff Yamall, Otto Lindsey, and Andy Blah.

Bay's club is a pool room located on the north side of the square.

Suit Filed to Get Possession of Home

Ivan Winn filed suit in probate court here Saturday against Mrs. Harold Amsford for possession of property at 302 14th street, Blain.

He asserts that she was legally seised with notice to vacate the residence by Sept. 1, but failed to do so and Winn asks treble damages from that date based on a $25 per month rental plus costs of the court action.

Winn stated that he needed the property for his own family.

Grady W. Smith is attorney for the plaintiff.

Oddly "Favor" Tomado. The chance of being caught in the path of a tornado, as compared with being caught in the path of an automobile, is only 1 to 625,000.

N. Y. Openings Produce Two Major "Flops"

BY JACK O'BRIAN
Associated Press Staff Editor
NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—It pains to report that this week a pair of pretty bad shows opened and what's more made their appearance under the auspices of Max Gordon and Oscar Brown Jr.

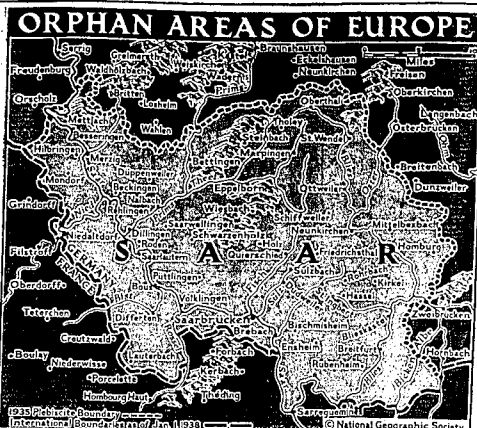

Gordon has presented to many good shows that he himself has named them all. He'll have a somewhat shorter producing history, but one show alone which he has presented, "Life With Father," has a perennial back-pat for his theatrical career.

Gordon's current bad judgment was in producing "The Next Half Hour." It was written by Mary Chase, who wrote the Pulitzer prize-winning "Honey," and Oscar Brown Jr., his companion piece, however, "The Next Half Hour" has no antic ordure with the better material, to king-size white rabbit, no amiable diplomancy; in fact, it is no play.

It is a sort of traditional, eerie, old-time haughty which leads to Chase's drama. These titles make wonderful easy meals for an evening, but the latter, which is a comedian brogue. But the spectacular mordantly constructed so effectively by such expert comedians, and so light to look in Mr. Chase's play, unfortunately, is not in his effect here.

"The Next Half Hour" is about a woman who can't get on with her husband and thereby can forestall the approach of death in her family. Her gloomy, melodramatic, which is a woman who is married to a trollop. Death strikes, twice, and with an unexpected twist, she dies in the final scene, a new low in sickening melodrama, this woman becomes a ghost.

George B. Kaufman directed, with unbecoming restraint, which is an accusation truly directing style. Nothing, however, could raise the curtain from the rise of the latter. It is. It most certainly is not the author's bid for the 1945-46 Pulitzer prize.

About half as large as Rhode Island, the Saar is situated on the prewar Franco-German border about 100 miles southeast of the place where Germany, France and Luxembourg meet. Densely populated and highly industrialized, it estimated nine billion ton coal reserves in a rich prize. This little territory nearly wrecked the 1919 peace conference, was the first addition to Hitler's rule.

Coal-Rich Saar, Highway of Historic Conquerors, Offers a Thorny Problem

This is the first of a series of 10 articles under the general title, "Orphan Areas of Europe." The article has been prepared by the National Geographic Society from government and economic relations with neighboring countries may be determined by reference to the article's text. An article was first in the Times-News, each Sunday.

THE SAAR TERRITORY

Which? The National Geographic Society—those were the labels which the world used just over 10 years ago to describe a small area in western Europe called the Saar territory. Little more than half the size of Rhode Island, this spot has been the scene of a long and thorny problem. The Saar proved to be a dud, for it quietly joined the German Reich according to the decision of a plebiscite.

Today, the end of the war with Germany and the coming peace conference again highlight the geographic and historic background of the Saar, that "shuttlecock of destiny," as a possible pawn in the game of European diplomacy.

The Saar is a natural coal basin. The productive core of the region centers about the coal veins which inclined strata underlie the southern section of this area of low-lying, undulating hills. The territory of some 750 square miles situated where the rolling Rhine and hills merge into the Lorraine plain—near the point where Germany, the duchy of Luxembourg and France meet.

The Saar abuts nearly half of the irregular border between Germany and the Rhine river—the half next to the hills. The Saar river, rising in Lorraine and flowing north, west close to the French frontier, then emptying into the Mosel river near Trier, carries the region its name.

Supporting a population of over 1,000 people to the square mile, the Saar is one of Europe's most densely populated and highly industrialized areas. Nature has folded rich veins of black coal under the Saarland hills, and nine-tenths of the people were supported before the war by their mines or in the highly specialized industries which depend upon them. In prewar days, all but two small Saar mines were government owned and operated.

This mining area is unique. Although the dust and tin of industry are evident, the Saar has great natural beauty and charm. There is no typical crowding of mills and tenements. Industry is compact, intimate, and theatrical in its setting. It is one of the few places in the world where forests of chimney stacks among forests of oaks and beeches. Saarlanders are hard-working people, homogeneous and stable, with an attachment for the soil unusual among industrial populations. Nearly all workers own their homes, with small plots of land, called Zweigschichten, or "dwarf holdings," but the soil is still a heavy importer of food.

Natural Highways

Since Roman days the Saar has been a natural highway through which flowed the course of much history. Through the region Caesar drove bold Germanic back across the Rhine, and ancient maps show military roads running along these winding valleys. Romans built a bridge across the Saar river, which was the first bridge between the city and capital, its name. In modern times the Saar has become a road line and five important highways follow this route.

Vets' Surplus Property Plan Draws Protest

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—William S. Bradley resigned as director of the office of surplus property in protest against the proposed plan to purchase surplus property in the form of a trust for the benefit of veterans.

Bradley's office quoted him as saying that the whole surplus property plan is "a farce and a mockery of sound business practice."

The office of surplus property is scheduled to enter into a contract with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on Monday.

Bradley's office said he gave two reasons for his resignation: (1) Under the revised regulations, veterans who formerly could buy goods on their own list, (2) priority of them below federal, state and municipal government priorities.

(3) The new regulations allow veterans to purchase single units—for example, a single monkey wrench. Because of the manpower shortage, Bradley continued, this system would prevent efficient service generally to the veterans.

Navy Student Is Visiting at Oakley

OAKLEY, Nov. 2.—William B. Robinson, who is attending the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps at Albuquerque, N. M., is spending 10-day leave here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loren J. Robinson, Jr.

Robinson graduated from V-12 training at Pocatello and was transferred to Albuquerque several months ago for additional training. He has three brothers in the service: Lt. Byron Robinson, with the 7th Air Force; Capt. George Robinson in Germany, and ARM 2c Loren B. Robinson, Buffalo, N. Y.

Three Men Fined By Jerome Judge

JEROME, Nov. 3.—Charged with running a stop sign on the highway and having no operator's license, Frank L. Bradley, Milwaukee resident, was fined $10 by Probate Judge William G. Conover.

Ivan E. Jensen, Jerome, was fined $25, plus $5.00 court on charges of battery.

A $100 fine and $5.00 court costs were assessed against Tom Gordon, Jerome, on charges of operating a motor car while under the influence of liquor. He appeared before Judge Conover and paid his fine. His license to operate a car was also revoked for one year.

Idaho to Get Fund Increase For Highways

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Increased funds will be made available next year for construction on the Lewis and Clark highway in Montana. It was stated today.

The announcement was by Rep. White, D. Id., following a meeting of the Idaho delegation and Gov. Charles Gossett with officials of the public roads administration and forest service.

White said $500,000 is available for projects on the highway in Idaho and Montana (the road runs from Missoula, Mont., to Lewiston, Ida.), and that the officials of the two agencies agreed to "continue the construction with a larger allocation of funds for the Idaho project next year."

Gossett and members of the delegation also urged completion of the survey of the uncompleted section of the Salmon river highway across central Idaho.

Beside conferring with the roads and forest officials, Governor Gossett today visited President Truman at the White House and also met with Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman.

He declined to state the nature of his talks with the President and Hannegan. He presented the President with a sack of prime Idaho potatoes.

Disposal of Idaho's surplus potatoes was not discussed with the

Three Buhl Men on Way to Korea Duty

DUBLIN, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Gerald Thompson received word from her husband, Pfc. Gerald Thompson, that he, Edmond Wood and Glen Eickens, and two boys from their whose names he did not give, are now on their way from Okinawa to Korea to serve as replacements.

There were some on their boat containing 2,000 soldiers who departed at Okinawa, but the rest of them went on to Korea.

Before leaving Camp Adair all three of these men wrote home that they had been issued heavy winter clothing and presumed they were going to some colder climate than Okinawa, which was given at the time of sailing as their destination. Wood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wood, and Eickens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Steima.

President, the governor stated. The governor said he would leave for Idaho Sunday night.

Marine Ends 3,000 Mile Taxicab Ride

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 3 (AP)—Capt. Eugene E. Kipp, who made an extraordinary trip, reportedly in a taxicab, with his bride led to a search by newspaper editors in the east, has reported in St. Camp Pendleton at Oceanside, Calif., unable to obtain visa restrictions for the 3,000-mile trip from Lafayette, La., home of his bride, and with his bride running out. Kipp hired a taxicab for $750 to take him from Lafayette to San Diego.

However, on arriving at Camp Pendleton, Kipp learned his orders had been changed and he was scheduled to report to the Marine base, and in marine base. He never received these orders and proceeded here with his bride, the former Miss Norma Clinton, Lafayette.

Camp Pendleton officers said Kipp will have temporary duty at the camp's boat basin, teaching advanced gunnery, until his bride returns from marine headquarters in Washington.

POW's Stomach Removed, Lives

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 3 (AP)—The Fort Francis W. Warren sentinel reported that a 46-year-old German prisoner of war is nearing recovery a little more than a month after his entire stomach was removed by surgery because of a malignant growth.

It is expected that soon the man will be able to eat some of the Wyoming Post, camp paper reported, adding this explanation by Maj. Sigmond Mage, chief of surgery at the Fort Warren regional hospital: "The small intestine quickly assumes the function of a stomach and patients without stomachs are able to eat well-balanced meals usually small amounts at frequent intervals."

The surgeon explained that the esophagus, normally terminating in the stomach, was fastened to the small intestine.

Radioactivity Discovered in Illinois Area

BOSTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Scientists in many parts of the country are trying to learn why cardboard made from straw cut in Illinois 23 days after the atomic bomb test at Alamogordo, N. Mex., is strongly radioactive, according to Dr. Holley D. Evans, Massachusetts Institute of Technology physicist.

Tests of the cardboard delivered to the Eastman Kodak company at Rochester, N. Y., Dr. Evans said in an interview, showed that it was as intensely radioactive that it would have ruined any film packed in it.

The mystery, Dr. Evans explained, is whence did the radioactive element come.

Dr. Evans, who is director of the MIT radioactive laboratory, said that he and other physicists had not reached a final solution but was considering the possibility that one is that the explosion of the atomic bomb at Alamogordo may have been responsible. Scientists are trying to determine whether active ingredients of the bomb, which were "sprayed" were carried to great altitude, caught in prevailing winds and then said to be deposited by rain on the fields of southern Illinois.

The second theory, Dr. Evans explained, is that the cardboard was contaminated with radioactive elements from some other source such as water of the Washburn river.

The research, he said, may not be completed for weeks, or months.

President's 21-Point Project Suffers Low Batting Average

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—President Truman's 21-point legislative program has a low batting average in its early innings with congress, but there was no "punch" attempt, even if the chief executive doesn't get all he wants.

President Roosevelt tried to beat some of his opponents within his party on this theme ground in 1938 but was largely unsuccessful. Legislators have it pretty straight now, Mr. Truman said, but nothing like that in mind.

The score-keepers are prospects on the program submitted by the President, on Sept. 8:

Unemployment compensation: Passed in modified form by the senate, bottlenecked in a house committee. Prospects poor.

"Full employment": Dislike. Increase in minimum wage standards: Still in house and senate committee. Likely to emerge soon.

Continuation of wartime home front controls: Still in committee, favorable action expected shortly.

Reorganization of executive agencies: Compromise in prospect.

Fair employment practices committee: Approved by house labor committee but shelved by rules committee. Prospects poor.

Labor disputes and wage stabilization: Continuation of labor board recommended by house labor committee, along with administrative reorganization.

Selective service: Nothing expected to be done about continuing the draft until early next year. Draft fight in prospect.

U. S. employment service: Both senate and house, in different bills, have rejected the President's recommendation for continued federal control.

The resolution: Approved by both senate and house.

Supplies property disposal: Passed in modified form by both branches.

Scientific research: Passed by house, pending in senate.

Rate of surplus ships: Passed by house awaiting senate action.

On eight points nothing has been done by either senate or house, but the outlook is that there will be action eventually when many controversial matters are out of the way. These eight are:

Agriculture: housing, small business, veterans, public works, repeal of the Johnson act prohibiting private loans to defunct foreign government, increase in congressional salaries, and accepting of strategic material.

Expert opinion: Congressional backers of universal military training are counting heavily on returning servicemen to change what they regard as an attitude of apathy or opposition on the part of congress.

"They believe most veterans will be aggressively for the plan."

New plans: Look for disclosure late month of a new all-Jet navy fighter plane, developed too late to get into the fighting.

Milking the milky way: Astronomers are hoping to train radar beams on the moon and the planets to learn more about their make-up.

"The character of a radar "echo"

Facilities of Relief Taxed By Transients

As a fifth in a series of summaries outlining the work of Community Chest agencies, Maj. Clara E. Nielsen, outlined by Sgt. Jessie L. Clarke, reported last night on the activities of the Salvation Army.

"In its service to mankind, the activities of the Salvation Army include religious services, youth instructional classes, social army, mother's classes and relief."

"The Salvation Army shares in the funds raised by Community Chest fund and was able to render the following service with funds received the past year:

—There were 28 meetings conducted in the interest of its religious program in which there were an attendance of 18300 in pastoral visitation, 153 confidential interviews were given. In relief 1200 persons were helped, in which 10 pairs of shoes and 1400 garments were distributed.

"In order that our giving may become a worthwhile investment instead of simply a deduction from the contents of our purse, it must be encouraged not by the yuletide of our own standards but by the command of Christ," Major Nielsen declared.
