Bluntly urging a big stick policy toward Russia, H. Dudley Swim of Twin Falls, Idaho American Legion department commander, said in a Pocatello Armistice day address Monday that the United States should maintain friendship toward the Russian people...

'Get Tough'

'American and British soldiers have been killed—our naval craft fired upon—airplanes forced down—all as part of this red gangster,' he said. 'This is not mere news. Our own press has been unable to tell us much. Russia herself continues the greatest hate state in history.'

In the occupied areas of Central Europe and the Balkans, and in Asia, it evidently has been a reign of red terror—with pillaging, looting, rape, and hundreds of crime atrocities rampant.

Robot Atomic Warfare Seen By Air Chief

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Gen. Hap Arnold, chief of the Army Air Corps, today said that atomic warfare would be waged "within the foreseeable future."

The white-haired chief of army air forces gave in his third annual report today an eerie picture of conflict for which the United States should be prepared.

"War may descend upon us by thousands of robots passing unannounced across our borders unless we act to prevent them."

And the way to do that is to be ready to strike at the very heart of attack with a strategic air force designed to destroy "one or two atomic bombs," which should suffice for the job.

"That method of bomb delivery is for today's state of war," tomorrow, he said, will be like this:

"Should be Ready"

"We should be ready with a weapon of the German V-2 rocket, having greatly improved range and precision, and launched from great distances. V-2 is ideally suited to deliver atomic explosives, because effective defense against it would prove extremely difficult.

"If defense which would even with such a 3,000-mile-per-hour projectile are developed, we must be ready to launch such rockets ourselves rather than to give them a shorter time of flight and make them harder to detect and destroy. We must be ready to launch them from unexpected directions.

"This can be done from true space ships, capable of operating outside the earth's atmosphere. The design of such a ship is all but unpracticable today; research will unquestionably bring it to a state within the foreseeable future."

Arnold said three types of resistance against the atom bomb are possible: Make certain that nowhere in the world are atomic bombs being made secretly; disperse cities and move vital industries underground, which would be "overwhelmingly expensive."

Increasing patrol of the world, possibly under guidance of the United Nations organization, would do much to put a check on the manufacture of atomic bombs in their present form," Arnold said.

Among the requirements for the immediate future of the air force, Arnold included the maintenance of "a well equipped overseas base," because bombs can now range the world.

The general placed emphasis on the need for research and an intelligence system.

Noted French Figure Talks Here Tuesday

Pierre Clemenceau, grandson of the famous "Tiger of France," Georges Clemenceau, will address the third Town Hall audience of the season at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the high school auditorium.

"France Today and Tomorrow" will be his topic, Clemenceau, whose grandfather helped write the League of Nations charter, has a rich background in the political affairs of his country. He traveled all over Europe and spent two years in India and Afghanistan fighting with the French army. World War II, until the fall of France, he escaped to Africa where he helped the American forces against the axis powers. During 1943 and 1944 he was a member of the French supply committee in Washington.

Clemenceau speaks excellent English and is considered the most capable speaker on the political and economic conditions of his country and her future role in international affairs.

He is married to an American girl, the former Jane Ormswold of New Orleans, and his grandmother was also an American. He will be introduced by Dr. J. W. Marshall, physician and surgeon of Twin Falls.

Sailor, Twice Sunk, Took Part in 4 Major Invasions

JEROME, Nov. 12—Jerome N. Blisco, gunner's mate second class, U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Blisco, Jerome, has arrived home on 60-day leave after having served the last 18 months of his tour of duty on the Pacific on an LST, participating in four major invasions on Leyte, Mindoro and Luzon in the Philippines and Okinawa in the Ryukyus.

Blisco sank an hour after the collision but the British vessel was able to cripple back to Capetown. Twelve hours later the men were picked up by the American ship's sister ship, which was sailing behind them. The sinking took place Sept. 23, 1943.

Another ship from Capetown returned the men to New York and Blisco is home on 30 days' reassignment leave. He will report to Salt Lake City for reassignment.

Blisco wears four campaign ribbons and five bronze battle stars for action in the Pacific. He also wears the American area ribbon, the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon, the Philippines liberation ribbon and the European ribbon.

After having served in the navy three years and 11 months Blisco says he likes the navy and might stay in service for quite some time.

Venue Change Given Suit Over Oil Show

Justice of the Peace James O. Pumphrey Saturday granted Roy Nicewonger a chance to sue for hearing of a civil action in which the latter is defendant in a suit brought by Grville Brooks, official of United Oil company, for $320.00 plus court costs.

People Make Fun of Mrs. Beulah Hankins

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Mrs. Beulah Hankins, who lives at 634 E. Collier, wrote an amusing letter to Pauline Starch company recently. She said:

"I want to tell you about your wonderful starch. I sure think it's grand. Several people make fun of me for not boiling my starch. They say this starch is for lazy people. I have a boy four years old and I iron ten to fifteen suits of clothes a week for my boys to iron them as Pauline Starch makes easy ironing. I also have twice, eight months old, and to they have a laundry—from twenty to thirty-five dresses a week and most of these are white and come out iron so smooth and smell good. Thanks again for Pauline Starch. It sure saves me many hours of ironing."

"That's probably the most wonderful letter I have ever read," Pauline Starch Mrs. Hankins is a busy wife and mother and she has found that Pauline Starch makes easy and work for her. She makes starch without chemicals. She has found that Pauline Starch makes easy ironing easy. She gets a kick out of people saying that Pauline Starch is for lazy people. Certainly she isn't lazy!

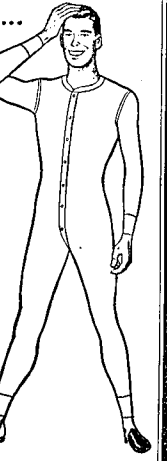

"If you are busy, too—especially on washday and ironing day—you deserve the best-saving and working for you. Pauline Starch gives you a special way to help you through your washing and ironing hours of tending. So why not enjoy Pauline Starch? All you have to do is set your groove for it. Then you can make perfect hot starch without cooking! And you can make ironing so smooth, easy and beautiful. It's yours for the asking... Pauline Starch—Adv."

RELIEF AND FREE PRESS

Action of the house of representatives in acting a "free press" provision to the $550,000,000 appropriation for relief in liberated countries was an untimely, though well-intentioned move.

Secretary of State James Byrnes, in a letter to House Appropriations Committee Chairman Charles McNary, stated the objection to this action very plainly when he said:

"We cannot put ourselves in the position of denying promised relief to millions of human beings because we have failed to secure our other objectives in the bill."

The willingness to grant relief money should not be tied to irrelevant "ifs." Either we are willing to aid the suffering people of the world, or we are not, and there should be no political qualifications involved.

The motive behind the house action is apparent. It aims directly at Russia, where tight censorship continues despite the fact that wartime need for such secrecy no longer exists.

The willingness to grant relief money should not be tied to irrelevant "ifs." Either we are willing to aid the suffering people of the world, or we are not, and there should be no political qualifications involved.

More than that, we want to know what is going on inside the other nations of the world. We can trust the officers of UNRRA to keep a sharp eye on the administration of its funds, and to report to UNRRA members honestly but tactfully.

There has been much talk of "one world" and international cooperation as the guarantees of lasting peace.

One's observance of Armistice day suggests that the country needs to report itself with an over-abundance of military holidays on our calendar. That is said without any thought of disrespect to the veterans of earlier wars or to those who gave their lives in these wars.

THE ONE MILITARY HOLIDAY... This year's observance of Armistice day suggests that the country needs to report itself with an over-abundance of military holidays on our calendar.

It is quite possible that the very number of these occasions will dissipate the honor and gratitude with which they should be marked.

CASE FOR ONE-POWER CONTROL... It may be hoped that this government will not retreat from its present insistence that United States policy in Japan will prevail in the event of any deadlock in the Far East.

It must be admitted that the problems of hunger, cold and poverty in the exhausted Germany plague the reasonable tact Japanese economy much less. But once that admission is made, the advantage of one-power control is obvious.

Two experiments in an Illinois town were attempted for throwing cast... of them please move next door to us.

Radio's Hams Get Frequency Change Nov. 1

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Amateur radio operators will have new frequency bands starting Nov. 15.

The federal communications commission announced today, and added it had extended the operators' licenses to May 15, 1946.

The commission also revoked the wartime order prohibiting amateurs from communicating with foreign stations.

The amateur's temporary authority to operate in the frequency band 112 to 115 megacycles expires Nov. 15. This band has been allocated to air navigation.

The following bands may be used by amateurs, effective Nov. 15:

- 28 to 29.7 megacycles, using type A1 emission.
- 31 to 35 megacycles, using type A1 emission.
- 35 to 40 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony (2A).
- 40 to 48 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 48 to 54 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 54 to 60 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 60 to 65 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 65 to 70 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 70 to 75 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 75 to 80 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 80 to 85 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 85 to 90 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 90 to 95 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 95 to 100 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 100 to 105 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 105 to 110 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.
- 110 to 112 megacycles, using type A1, A2, A3 and A4 emissions and special emission for radio-telephony.

Discuss Future of Imported Labor in Magic Valley

This group held informal discussions here over the week-end regarding the future of the imported labor program in the Magic Valley. They are, left to right, Harry A. Elock, district manager of the Amalgamated Sugar Company; Bill G. Hinton, former Washington boss of the group; William Tolbert, Portland, chief of operations for the office of labor; Roy C. Lane, Boise, state chief of the group; and E. J. MacLean, Twin Falls, district supervisor of the organization in the Magic Valley. (Staff photo-engraving)

Imported Labor Program up To Farmers, Parley Advised

Regional, state and local officials of the office of labor conferred informally here over the week-end regarding problems associated with the handling of imported labor for harvesting Magic Valley crops.

The official of the group here was William Tolbert, Portland, chief of operations for the office of labor in Idaho, Washington, Utah, Colorado, Oregon, Wyoming and Montana.

Others included Vevie Wood, Portland, chief of transportation for the organization in the same seven states; Roy C. Lane, Boise, state representative of the office of labor; and E. J. MacLean, Twin Falls, district supervisor for the federal agency in the Magic Valley.

Highlight of their meeting here was an informal talk with Bill G. Hinton, former Washington boss of the group, who is now in charge of the federal agency's operations in the Magic Valley.

Hinton said that the federal agency is now in charge of the federal agency's operations in the Magic Valley.

Orofino Still Mystery Is Still Mystery

OROFINO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Four witnesses testifying at an inquest to establish the cause of the mysterious death of Neil Bonner, 27, failed to throw any new light on the slaying. Coroner George Blake said today.

Bonner was shot through the heart as he stood in the front room of his home near a glass paned door. His wife and two children were with him.

Sheriff Jack Conrad said his investigations indicated the bullet was fired from a distance of about 25 feet. The sheriff said he followed footprints for a short distance, but they were finally obscured by snow.

Orofino has lived here many years and was an employee of the Safeway store. He had 12 years, serving in Oregon for eight years and three years at Rupert as manager of that store. He resigned and worked for himself on a farm near Jerome.

NEW GIANT X-RAY

The Latest Development in 50 Years of X-Ray Research

1923—Coolidge develops "tube with water-cooled target. This tube yields the greatly reduced time required for x-ray treatment.

1933—General Electric produces 800,000-volt x-ray tube with water-cooled target. This tube has been in constant use ever since.

1940—First 1,000,000-volt unit, plus portable unit, plus mobile unit, plus medical and industrial units built by G.E. X-Ray Corporation used in U.S. war production—sweden from England. In 1943 General Electric develops and engineers produce the first portable 3,000,000-volt unit.

1945—New G-E 100-million-volt "Betatron"!

This 130-ton giant while electrons, finest parts of atoms, faster than man has ever been able to speed them before. So fast that they make the nearly 17-foot circular orbit of a doughnut-shaped vacuum tube 250,000 times in 1/240th of a second, and striking a tungsten target, produce x-rays of 100-million-electron volts!

Dr. E. E. Chilton, left, and W. F. Westendorp, G.E. scientists, designed this new machine, which generates x-rays over a thousand times as intense as the early Coolidge tube—with a wave length of 0.00025 Angstrom units, up to the cosmic ray band! These rays will penetrate a thickness of metal considerably greater than even the 3,000,000-volt x-ray unit.

But more important still may be the uses of these super x-ray machines in medical and atomic research. G.E. is making them available to medical science for experimental therapy.

Gossett Has A Puzzler in Thomas Post

By JOHN COLLETT
 BOISE, Nov. 11.—The death of Sen. John Thomas Cole, Charles C. Gossett confronted with a puzzler last Friday.

Thomas, Idaho's senior senator, died last Friday morning after a stroke. He was a Republican.

The question facing Gossett, a Democrat, was whether he should retain and have himself appointed by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, or whether he should appoint Williams to succeed him.

No Love for Taylor
 Gossett's decision was expected to have far-reaching effect on the conservative element of the Democratic party in Idaho. Taylor, however, has no love for Glen H. Taylor, Democrat, nor for the state's senior senator.

The governor already has been advised that he is not too susceptible to the advice, but he may be persuaded in his political career and the fortunes of his conservative Democratic are not endangered.

But Williams is a conservative. "Temporarily and politically," he is almost certain to support Taylor's forces. Unless Williams could be made to follow Gossett's political lead, the appointment would not allow Gossett to succeed Thomas.

Bellows or Donors?
 Twin Falls Democrats are boosting Williams as the man who will twice lose the senatorial nomination to Taylor. Appointment of Bellows to the post would mean that he would also lose the nomination. Appointment of Williams is expected to be urged.

Appointment of either of those men would mean that either the other loss of the senate post, or the loss of the support of the other two.

Any dark horse then must be a candidate who has not been named in this category. But in the appointment of a dark horse the name of the person chosen must be someone with enough political clout to carry the nomination of Thomas' term.

What's more, the appointment must be someone who will be able to beat former Gov. C. A. Holtzclow. Most Republicans agree that Holtzclow will seek the post from front, appearing as an important factor in the campaign.

A Balanced High School Program

This week, Nov. 11 to 17, is American Education Week. To give our boys and girls a better understanding of the schools of America today, a series of state-wide activities are being held. These activities are designed to show that constitute a balanced educational program at Twin Falls high school level will be published in the Times-News. Information for these was furnished by Principal John D. Hild.

Six Goals
 The six things of a well balanced high school program should do are as follows: 1. Provide sound academic training; 2. Provide terminal and exploratory experience in the vocational fields; 3. Training in fine arts, music, art and drama; 4. Good guidance which includes individual, group and community guidance; 5. An adequate social, physical, business, and manual training; 6. An adequate provision for competitive experience in a wide field of human endeavor including athletics, art, music, commercial work, debate and oratory.

Principal Paul states that the academic curriculum of a high school should be broad and deep. Students who plan to go to college should be given a course which is technically trained should be given thorough training in English, science, languages, speech arts, music, and mathematics.

For example, the student who wants to become an engineer should have knowledge of algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and calculus. A student who wants to be a physicist should have a knowledge of physics, chemistry, and mathematics. A student who wants to be a biologist should have a knowledge of biology, chemistry, and physics. A student who wants to be a geologist should have a knowledge of geology, physics, and chemistry.

Thinking Younger
 Therefore, it is not only for education and every child of human endeavor we should strive to develop broad thinking in our children.

Academic courses in Twin Falls high school are many. They include courses in all of the higher mathematics, science, foreign languages, speech, art, and music.

"IT WAS ALMOST UNCANNY"

"Do you" we said, our interest in fever pitch.

"Well" she said, "I'm referring, of course, to the fact that my little son has been itching in with the ditches. This was unheard of last week."

"And to what do you attribute these minor miracles," we asked as it didn't knock.

"To my new ROYAL OIL BURNING HOT WATER HEATER," she said, hanging up.

MOTHER'S HEALTH FAILED
XXVIII

I often look mother with me while rehearsing my tale for the treat to the Palace. I must have had this. The Wonder Bar presentation, a spectacle with a magnificent did, father well, and I received an offer from Henri Halls and the famous restaurant, his, produce and dance two more tableaux for a revue they were presenting at the Theatre de l'Avance early in May.

I accepted this offer, and three weeks later, a stormy scene with Henri Varna when I gave him my notice. He resented my leaving, but it was an opportunity I couldn't pass up.

Mother spent a week or so in Spain, then went to England and wrote the play "The Lioness" as Marlow on the Thames—about an hour and a half by train from London—with the Australian singer, Nellie Melba. I gathered from the tone of her letters that she was feeling perfectly well and intended singing again in opera. For six weeks of studying the part, she spent three times a week in London. One night just as I was going on to the theatre to rehearse, Marie handed me a telegram. It said "Mother has suffered a stroke. Please come once" — signed by Dr. Macdonald. There was the address of a nursing home in Malton.

I did not arrive at the Malton nursing home until afternoon, and I learned that Dr. Macdonald had been called the previous evening and found my mother's medical and dental condition desperate. He had judged it best to send for an ambulance to remove mother to an institution, but on the way she suffered a further brain hemorrhage and his hopes for her recovery were very slight. My mother had arrived several hours before me and was bitterly resentful that mother should have been removed from her own room without our consent. For he was certain the effort of the trip had produced the second hemorrhage.

For 10 ghastly days we fought to save her life. The day following my arrival I went to London and arranged for the best specialist I could find, Sir Frederick Treves, to give me the best medical opinion for a consultation. His opinion was that mother might live but would remain in a hospital for an indefinite length of time, and that there was nothing science could do to effect a complete recovery.

When I met father at the boat train a week later, he looked so old and frail, my heart ached for him. He was not certain to see that my mother's illness was the crowning blow to a long series of sorrows he had suffered all his married life and that the thought of losing her had completely unnerved him. He would not accept the opinion of either the doctor or the specialist, nor could he believe that such a brilliant, beautiful woman would be tied to a bed in helpless inertia, to drag out her remaining days in the Palace. That the third week of her illness, she improved enough to speak a few words, recognized my father, and even smiled at the flowers he brought her every day.

Father's finances were in no condition to stand the terrific expenses involved in her care. So I did what I could to help by making a quick trip to Paris to bring my mother, if possible, and send Marie and the animals to Violette, whose sympathy and kindness, like that of such friends, were beyond expression. I was trying to do some packing when I received a long-distance call from father. I could have the ambulance in his voice while one of the boys so he told me that Dr. Macdonald had noticed a change in mother's condition, that morning, and I should come back at once. Violette drove me to Le Douquet where I caught the afternoon train.

When I arrived in Malton at 6 o'clock that evening my mother was dead. The doctor cautioned me to get father back to the town as soon as possible, for there was a possibility of his having a complete nervous collapse. All sorts of details had to be attended to, so I begged him to stay with Junnie at the hotel and not stand the look of utter misery in his tired gray eyes, and the thought of leaving her a moment's sorrow that could be avoided. He wished to see me, and I entered all sorts of obstacles in obtaining their permission for a return to the nursing home. He wished to see me, and I entered all sorts of obstacles in obtaining their permission for a return to the nursing home. ### Forces Using Strategy in Merger Fight

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Army and navy are using every trick of post strategy in the lengthy public argument over merger of the two forces under a single defense department.

Both sides fervently favor merger, navy opponents fear a central command expects to catch every word of the opposition testimony before the Senate military committee. Civilian secretaries and admirals are generally on the navy side, while publicists and junior officers are in line to get along.

The end of hostilities is not in sight and the final outcome is even less certain.

Bond hopes high—Treasury statement privately express hopes of lifting the $11,800,000 Victory bond issue by at least $5,000,000.

They have little doubt that the $2,000,000 quota for Indians will be passed. However, they think the $2,000,000,000 "E" bond quota part of the industry quota may be a tight squeeze.

Footnote on democracy—A senator recently back from South America reports one of the things he was puzzled over the U. S. political system.

"Let me, senator," he said—"why is it that when Franklin Roosevelt died the Roosevelt family did not seize power?"

The filibustered senator—A Democrat—thought quickly.

"I guess it just never occurred to them," he said.

Smith stamp—The post office department says many stamp collectors are rating their eyebrows over the Alfred E. Smith commemorative three-cent stamp to be issued Nov. 20.

Objectors point out that never before has a U. S. stamp honored a private individual many years after his death. The E. Franklin Smith stamp so reply has been made to printing letters and that none will.

Warlike controls—The administration is calling on congress to put in the "warfare controls" legislation continuing for one year the rationing and allocation powers which otherwise will expire.

Jobs and bonuses—Administration leaders on Capitol Hill privately have given up hope of getting an unemployment compensation bill through this year but still expect to get compromise "full employment" legislation passed.

Airline outlook—Civil aeronautics administration (CAA) forecasts that expansion of domestic and foreign air traffic will not require three or four new railroads or ship lines.

CAA grants that the rail and water carriers will continue to be the main mode of passenger but certain that freight, their big money-maker, will hardly be touched.

Change of Venue Sought in Suit

The U. S. Fidelity and Guaranty company, Howard Sims and Joseph Sims, attorney, defendants, have filed a demurrer and request for change of venue in district court.

This occurred in the complaint filed Oct. 16 by B. E. Aspy who sought to collect $100 with interest and 10 per cent from last Jan. 18, allegedly due as commission on the sale of a ranch for $35,000.

The demurrer said that Aspy's complaint did not present sufficient facts for a trial. The change of venue request asked that the case be tried not here but in Lemhi county, Idaho. Harry Bennett is attorney for the defendants and C. Walker Lyon, Gaston, and E. H. Cavellin, Boise.

CASTLEFORD

Set. William Gillette has returned to Camp Deming, N. M., after spending a fortnight with his wife, Mrs. C. Roland Griffith, Ft. Story, Va., in visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Griffith, in his native Hamilton, S. C.

Paul Ulrich has left for Yakima, Wash., where he has received a position.

Price Huber has left for Detroit, Mich., to drive his new school bus back.

Mrs. Curtis Nielsen and Mrs. Frank Wisell, Oden, Utah, are visiting their mother and sister, Mrs. John Barrow.

Mrs. Harry Reese and Pauline Reese have come to Starbuck to visit Phyllis who is a cadet there.

Mrs. Golde Okey and Elmer Lee have left for Clatsop, Ore., to visit her husband, Sgt. Elmer Okey. They were accompanied as far as Cheney, Wyo., by Maxine Okey. Sgt. Okey met them there.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Meyers and Ray Yarrowish are leaving for Arkansas to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shipley accompanied Mrs. Dave Graybill to Boise recently. Mrs. Graybill was joined there by Mr. C. Crane and children for a trip to Priest River to visit relatives.

Young and Going Places

DALE CLARK (Staff engraving)

What H. L. Hinds Clark can't figure out, he says, is how they got that way.

His two older sons, he means—when is a top-ranking American electronics engineer at the age of 30, and when, only 22, just appointed instructor of industrial model making at the Cooper School of Arts and Sciences in New York City.

The electronics engineer is Homer Clark; the young instructor, himself, is Dale Clark.

Hind Clark is just about the product dad in town these days but he says without bragging around the boys.

"They must have received their talent from their late mother. Mr. I can't even make a little robot on a home appliance."

Dale's bent for design began early in Twin Falls, when he used to make model airplanes, miniature auto and model. He graduated from high school here in 1942 after winning the state championship in model aircraft at the Boise tournament and competing in Salt Lake, Ogden and Ontario, Ore.

After his first year at the Cooper school and research school, he worked during the summer as an industrial model maker for Norman Bell Groves, world famed industrial designer who did the Oakland-San Francisco bridge and many other wonders. Cooper school executives assume that these young industrial design student is already expert at making industrial models (you make them for every product, from an ash tray or paper clip on up), designed to facilitate a model making course and put him at the head of it.

This is the first time the school has offered such a class. In order to handle the instructorship, Dale will extend his own industrial design studies to a five or six-year course.

His older brother is research engineer for International Telephone and Telegraph company, and as such is at present project engineer for Federal Radio and Television, Inc., Newark, N. J., an affiliate of International Telephone. He has about 2000 new under him with about 35 manufacturers and subcontractors. As part of his job he has served as liaison man between the company and the army and navy. His firm is still working on naval contracts.

Incidentally, during the war Homer Clark was responsible for directing about $80,000,000 worth of war material contracts. He was awarded the U. S. maritime commission citi-

Powerful New X-Ray Speeds Developments

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Developments of a revolutionary new x-ray tube capable of producing rays of an intensity hundreds of times greater than heretofore attained was announced tonight by Dr. Grover L. Clark, university of Illinois x-ray expert.

Professor Clark, addressing Marquette university's symposium on industrial radiology, said the 20,000-volt tube produces a dosage of five and one-half million roentgens of x-rays per minute. The present procedure produces only one-tenth of that amount at the university of Illinois was 50 units per minute. Professor Clark said.

The 10-inch tube, said by Professor Clark to be a direct offspring of research at the university of Illinois, was made only last week by T. H. Rogers, managing engineer of the Manhattan laboratories, Springfield, Conn.

Describing the tube as "the most promising development in x-rays in many years," Professor Clark said that "for industry it means x-ray pictures in seconds instead of minutes; for research it opens possibilities which exceed the imagination."

"Study of the effects of x-irradiation on living cells, bacteria and cancer tissue can be undertaken in a way which was previously prohibited by the point of time and of operation of x-ray equipment."

Sentence Suspended On Sobriety Promise

Probate Judge C. A. Bailey Saturday suspended the remainder of a 30-day jail sentence imposed last Monday on Lloyd D. Hill for being drunk and disturbing the peace.

The judge took action in the case after the defendant promised that he would abstain from future use of alcoholic drinks.

In the event he violates the pledge he will be subject to serve the rest of the sentence.

Electronic Shorthand Among First of Postwar Inventions

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLIE Associated Press Science Editor NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—A new kind of electronic shorthand, known in green light, which translates spoken words directly and instantly into readable patterns on a television screen, is the first spectacular postwar gift of science.

The electronic tubes write the new language by a method perfected by the Bell Telephone laboratories here. The tubes not only write in instantaneous light, but also compose the new form of language on paper.

This new language is useful for the totally deaf and blind and aids deaf children to learn how to speak so that they can be understood.

The electronic robots write also music, notes, dialect, any language wherever they find copies. They can write across two thousand miles of ordinary telephone circuit as easily as in the same room. They could be used for automatic telephone recording, except that it takes a person about 100 years to learn this new language. But the translator is a new tool for analyzing sound of all kinds and correcting both the speech faults of human beings and the mechanical failures of transmitted words.

Every sound, no matter how slightly different, makes its own distinctive pattern. The characters resemble shorthand done in fat and sometimes funny strokes. The word "saw" looks like a diving bell. The sound of a is a broad wiphish curl.

At the first demonstration an audience saw the words of some of its members on the screen. They heard words who had studied the shorthand language for a year and had translated readily.

Panther Milk Potent Stuff, Says Trapper

CHIEFTEN, Wyo., Nov. 12 (AP)—Panther milk is potent stuff. Take Alford (Big Foot) Trumbull's word for it.

Trumbull read recently that a thermoplastic, Wyo., creamery official said he had been considering feeding panther milk to the firm's line of products, that is if someone would milk a pack of panthers.

That recalled to Trumbull his experience. It was 25 years ago when Trumbull was prospecting on Copper mountain near the central part of Wyoming. Trumbull was lonely so he caught a jackrabbit for companionship.

The animal became a pet and followed the prospector while he was working. Bigfoot said he got to calling it Wilbur and became right fond of the jackrabbit.

"There was some panthers up there that got to chasing Wilbur," Trumbull said. "That made me mad, so I set up a trap and caught one of them."

One day Trumbull told the panther up about, milked it and gave some to Wilbur to drink.

"Well, sir, it was funny what that jackrabbit done," Trumbull said. "At first, he just sat there, kind of stupid-like. We were campin' on the south rim of Wind River canyon and it narrows down there where it ain't no more'n a quarter mile wide."

"Wilbur just sat there for a spell and then all of a sudden he jumped about 20 feet in the air. And you can believe it or not, but Wilbur knocked his heels against each other three or four times in the air. When Wilbur hit the ground, he was 'sorely pained' and started running around in bigger and bigger circles," Bigfoot said. "Then Wilbur headed for the canyon and Bigfoot figured he was a 'goner.'"

"But when Wilbur hit the rim, he gave an awful big jump and sailed right across Wind River canyon from rim to rim. Least I seen of him, he was diggin' in and headin' for Washakie meadows, and I could see the dust for miles that he raised."

Bigfoot said that as yet he has never touched a drop of panther milk himself.

"But lots of times," he said, "I figger on it now that I'm getting older and I seen what it done for that there jackrabbit of mine."
