from Merburn avenue and one from Locust street, allowing a double unit to be built on the latter. Terry said that moving of the trailers from Kootenai, Wash., where they were purchased by the city of Twin Falls as surplus government property, will probably start in about 10 days. Dismantling must be obtained and the city of Twin Falls will need a week to 10 days to complete its purchase and transfer and secure formal release.

The project is a cooperative effort by the city, which is buying the trailers; the Legion, which is raising money and handling the move; and a temporary housing aid for veterans, the Chamber of Commerce, which initiated the efforts that led to acquisition of the trailers, and the Twin Falls housing authority, which is providing the location.

Terry said Wednesday that transportation of the 42 dwellings possibly would be done by trucks which will haul one trailer and pull another, announced that the government will loan wheels for the trailers, which are to be pulled, and the wheels will be returned to the government after the trailers are set up at Washington courts.

Clarifying the rental announcement, the commander said that monthly rent to start will "probably be between $25 and $30 with water and electricity cost included."

GI Newspaper Raps Solons, "Brass Hats"

HONOLULU, Dec. 5.—A soldier newspaper that raps brass hats, rebukes congress and speaks its mind about official double-deal in demobilization had become the basis of free expression for Pacific soldiers and sailors.

The Honolulu edition of Stars and Stripes, born last May, goes to bat for enlisted men on all occasions. It has succeeded in upholding freedom of the press despite several attempts by high officers to muzzle its editorial staff.

Its most recent disclosure was that Scamman Paul T. Stewart, son of Sen. Tom Stewart, D. Tenn, had been re-assigned to duty at Norfolk, Va., although he had only six discharge points and had been overseas only nine months.

As a result, young Stewart requested that his orders be cancelled. "The Stewart case was only one of a long line of free-speaking incidents in which Stars and Stripes used its powerful influence among its 50,000 circulation in the Pacific and in the boys' hands the paper is on their side with its retransmission."

It recently looked out against official double talk about demobilization which it said was confusing Pacific soldiers and sailors and causing them more unhappiness than anything else.

Its liberal policy can be traced to Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., commander of army forces in the mid-Pacific theater, who consistently has supported the paper's southern front of officers when brass suggested editorial control.

Prevent Land Inflation, Bank Head Urges; Deposits Soar

Since in the past five years the percentage increase in the country's bank deposits is more than double that of the nation, residents here were told at yesterday's Rotary luncheon in the Park hotel that they had a tremendous responsibility to prevent inflation of land values.

This message was delivered by Guy H. Shivers, president of the Fidelity National Bank and Trust member, who discussed wartime effects on banking and on the national and county economies. Posing bad and good alternatives for county citizens, he said:

"They can run the price of land up by buying against each other or they can use some of their money to improve their land and make it worth while. They should improve their farms and put up better buildings. They should have a good modern home on every 80-acre irrigated tract in the county. They ought to keep their wealth permanently invested in the county."

Deposits Boom
To indicate the boom in bank deposits, he said that at the end of 1939 there were approximately $4 billion dollars in national bank accounts. At the end of 1944 the figure was approximately $17 billion, an increase of 425 per cent. But at the same time for the county, the approximate amount was $230,000 and $23,150,000, a rise of 470 per cent.

As another method of preventing this county wealth from fostering inflation, he said that some of the money should be invested in victory bonds which were indeed safe. He added that although there might be inflation, it would not be serious. Our dollars are definitely sound and are backed by the legal percentage of gold. At the end of 1939, currency circulated in the nation was supported 49 per cent. of gold. By the end of 1944 this backing was 40 per cent.

"By May 1, 1945, after we was the greatest war in history, the backing was still as high as 42.5 per cent," he said. "This shows our dollars are still sound because we are only required to have a backing of 40 per cent in gold."

Shivers said that nationally the amount of currency in circulation increased from $4,247,000,000 at the end of 1939, to $23,207,000,000 and that it was now close to 30 billion. In the county, the estimated figures for the 1939 and 1944 dates were an increase from $600,000 to six millions.

Bank Work Increases
War had given much work to the banks, Shivers said. They sold bonds and did many reports including those on excess currency transactions. Banks were affected before the war by new laws. The federal deposit insurance corporation, which guarantees, in insured banks, deposits up to $5,000, has a capital of one billion dollars. He believed this to be the largest financial institution in the world. It was created in 1933 by the federal reserve act. However, he said that "one of the greatest inflationary acts in any time" occurred when in 1934 the gold reserve act increased the price of gold from eighteen more than $20 an ounce to an ounce. When federal deposit insurance legislation was passed, it affected the banks because they made reports about it.

Harry W. Barry was program chairman. The Rev. E. Leslie Ruff, president, reported on his recent trip to Boise to attend a Rotary meeting at which the speaker was Richard H. Wells, Postville, former president of Rotary International.

Who Is He?

"MEN ARE BUT GODS OF A LARGER GROWTH"

By CHARLES C. MERRILL
Born of German immigrant parents who married after arrival in the U. S. A., this boy was born on a farm in Lyon county, northern Idaho, in 1884.

Two boyish ambitions remain unsatisfied. A passion to become a pianist in a big band and a desire to be a drummer are passed on to one of his four sons who is a "natural" in timing and rhythm. A son for achieving the meat, accuracy and grace of an old-time meatcutter behind a butcher's retail block in the days before the advent of electric grids remains unsatisfied. He hopes that you will never be gratified.

There being no high school in his vicinity, his education skipped from country district school to a commercial college course at Mt. Morris, Ill. The Hayward-Peterson trial following the assassination of Governor Steiensen headlined every newspaper at that time and inspired the youth to take up the study of law at Drake university, Des Moines, Ia., where he was a contemporary of Justice J. W. Parker, Twin Falls, and Judge H. A. Baker, Rupert.

All of which conspired to bring our subject to Twin Falls in 1908, where his first pay job was pitching hay for $1 a day on State Horticulturist McPherson's ranch. Later he broke a leg while working at the Blue Lake ranch for T. B. Perrine. He called up apple boxes while the broken leg was mending.

Returning from a visit to his native home, he practiced law which became irksome to his restless spirit.

MERRILL

In 1915 he married a schoolteacher from Kansas.

Upon the advice of his physician he took to outdoor life and in the pursuit of health became a confirmed lobbyist. He has assembled a noteworthy collection of beer steins, another of coins of the U. S. A., and still another of agates and other semi-precious stones on which he delights in demonstrating the fluorescent and phosphorescent qualities under ultra-violet and other rays.

He served his state quite some time as senator and has served his home city in a public utility office since 1919. More detail will make the evening too easy.

Arab-Jewish Issue Draws In Big Three

By LOUIS F. KEEBLE

United Press Staff Correspondent

The Arab and Jewish issues setting the stage for a struggle in the middle east which will involve all of the major powers if a solution is not found quickly.

The Arab states have just declared an economic boycott against goods produced in Palestine. Millions of Jews in Palestine are building up their underground armed movement at a rate which is causing grave concern among British authorities responsible for order in the country.

Three developments have occurred just as a joint British-American committee of inquiry is about to move into the situation and attempt to find a way out. Russia, France and Turkey, among other powers, are working arrangements with keenest interest. The international balance on the cross-roads between the east and west is revealed.

Britain is primarily responsible, since she has charge of Palestine under the old league of nations mandate and has made definite commitments to the Arabs to protect their interests as well as those of the Jews. The United States moved in by agreeing to take part in the joint inquiry, thereby accepting an obligation which henceforth cannot be dodged.

The two powers cannot hope to achieve between them an amicable solution which will satisfy both the Jews and Arabs and at the same time convince Russia, France and Turkey that their interests in the middle east have been adequately safeguarded.

The best they can expect is an armed truce which will avert further bloodshed until the problem can be placed in its entirety before the United Nations organization.

Meanwhile, the urgent matter of Jewish immigration into Palestine appears destined to be shelved, which will leave hundreds of thousands of homeless Jews in Europe without hope at the start of a bitter winter. Britain and the United States have been unable to agree in that respect. President Truman's plea for the immediate issuance of 100,000 immigration permits for Jews into Palestine has been definitely rejected by Britain.

County Board Shelves Plan For Hospital

The proposal of H. C. Jepperson, Twin Falls, superintendent of the county hospital, that the local hospital be operated in cooperation with the Idaho Hospital service, under the Blue Cross hospitalization insurance program, was temporarily shelved here yesterday by the county commissioners, Ernest V. Molander, chairman of the group, announced.

The plan was laid before for consideration by Mr. Jepperson on Monday, Molander said. "We expect to give the proposition some action in the near future."

Molander did not state what the action would be on the Blue Cross plan. The proposed contract was brought here from Boise, where the headquarters of the Idaho State hospital service are located. Jepperson had attended the annual meeting of the Idaho State Hospital association there last Saturday.

Quoting from a speech made the association by R. T. Jones, who is aiding in the organization of the state plan, Idaho and South Carolina are the only states in the nation who are not employing the Blue Cross plan."

The proposed plan for Idaho — which would eliminate the necessity of President Truman's compulsory hospital insurance, according to Jepperson — would cost about $1 a month for a single person, $2 a month for a man and wife and $2.50 a month for a family including children under 10 years of age. Payments would entitle all subscribers to the plan to 21 days of hospitalization each year.

The plan does not affect choice of doctors and does not cover medical fees.

Molander stated that "the commissioners have taken this matter under serious consideration here in Twin Falls and will have more to say on the plan in the very near future."

Wait for the New General! THE GREATEST TIRE EVER BUILT!

Meanwhile, make your present tires last! Your General Dealer has the definite Plan available to you now!

AS SOON as rubber restrictions are lifted, General will present—proudly and without qualification—to the car owners of America the greatest tire ever built!

It will be well worth waiting for! Already thoroughly tested, the new General is ready to go into production as soon as—but not before—the finest natural rubber is again available and government restrictions permit the use of more natural rubber in passenger car sizes. The present allowance is only a little more than an ounce. This increase should come soon, if the government releases only a small part of the crude rubber stockpile now on hand.

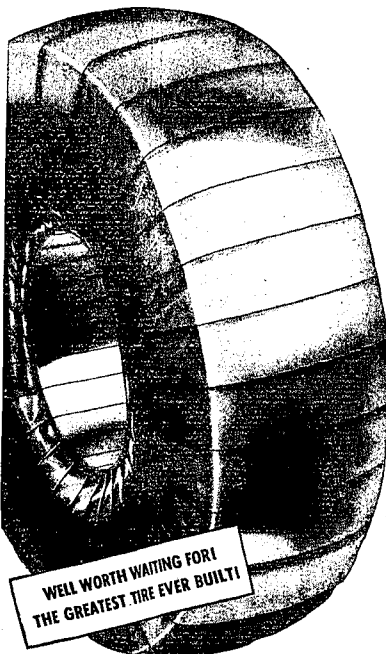

Then, General will build into this new tire all the extra performance its advanced design makes possible and bring you the complete satisfaction you would expect of a tire designed to enhance General's famed Top-Quality reputation.

Even when our dwindling stockpile of natural rubber was one of America's most potentially dangerous wartime shortages, tire manufacturers were permitted to use 30% natural rubber in truck tires, because the military recognized that a certain percent of crude rubber is absolutely necessary for satisfactory tire performance. With 30% natural rubber and 70% synthetic, General is building the best truck tires ever built, proving that all that is needed to get the same performance from passenger car tires is a small amount of natural rubber.

All during the war, General was a large producer of synthetics and its research produced a number of important developments. But, synthetic passenger car tires, while they have served during the era of 35-mile-an-hour top speed, do not represent even the starting point for the kind of tire that General wants to produce...and will soon!

Meanwhile, we have a definite Plan available to keep your present tires serviceable and guarantee you priority delivery of the new Generals as soon as they are available.

Report On the War

By General George C. Marshall

Special Report of the Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army

Published by THE TIMES-NEWS, in cooperation with the War Department

This is the first of a two-part report on the war in Europe. The first part is a report on the war in Europe. The second part is a report on the war in the Pacific.

XVI

THE BREAKOUT
The second phase of the liberation had two objectives: first, the capture of the port of Cherbourg; and, second, the building of sufficient forces to break out from the beachhead and strike toward Germany. Near the fighting zone, after a bitter and costly struggle, Cherbourg fell on 27 June to the 4th, 8th and 29th divisions of General Collins' VII corps. Damage in the harbor was so extensive and difficult of repair that until the late fall thousands of tons of material were still piling up on the beaches. Other allied forces, by 1 July, deepened the beachhead by advancing up to 25 miles in the area between Caen and St. Lo against increasing stubborn resistance. In the aggressively defended hedgerows of the Cotentin peninsula.

General Eisenhower wrote on July: "The going is extremely tough with three main causes responsible. The first of these is always, in the fighting quality of the German soldier. The second is the nature of the country. Our whole attack had to fight its way out of very narrow bottlenecks flanked by marshes and hedgerows and intervening ditch almost every 50 yards ready to trap the attacking tanks. The third cause is the weather. Our air has been unable to operate at maximum efficiency and on top of this the rain and mud were so bad during my visit that it was rendered of little use in winter time. It was almost impossible to locate our tanks, although we have plenty of guns available. Then with clear weather it is extraordinarily difficult to point out a target that is an appropriate one for either air or artillery."

In spite of the lack of a major port, the build-up in the beachhead became completed late July. On August, the 12th U. S. Army group, later designated the central group of armies, became operational under the command of General Bradley. The two armies—the first, under Lieut.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodge, and the third, under Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., totaling 12 infantry and five armored divisions, had been assembled in the beachhead area. The Canadian first army, under General Crerar and the British second army under General Dempsey, composed the two army groups, later designated the northern group of armies, commanded by Field Marshal Montgomery.

Unprecedented Achievements
These armies were still dependent on beachhead supply for their sustenance. Even with unseasonable bad weather which severely damaged and almost destroyed one of the two artificial port installations and halted unloading operations many times, an average of some 90,000 tons of supplies and 50,000 troops were handled every day. These achievements, without precedent in history, were not anticipated by the German defenses and, consequently, their plans for the defense of the French coast had not taken them into account. General Bradley was able, on 25 July, to mount the offensive which broke out of the beachhead at St. Lo and Avranches and carried the last week of the ground attack 1500 other combat aircraft dropped more than 2000 tons of bombs on enemy positions on a narrow front.
