Marines Ired At Positions In Tsingtao

By Hail Boyle

TSINGTAO, China, Dec. 13.—Conflicts once said "One look is worth a thousand words."

General Thomas Smith, accepting his statement verbatim, have had a good long look at this ancient city's home province, and now they're almost unanimous that getting out of here is the only subject I ever knew more than two marines to agree upon.

Tsingtao is one of the chief ports of Shantung peninsula in northeast China, and is important as a rail terminus, textile manufacturing center and coal shipping point.

You don't hear much talk here about "oil for the lamps of China," it's all about coal for the power plant at Shanghai.

Shantung peninsula is shaped roughly like a human head, with the nose dipping from the forehead. The nose just out into the Yellow Sea, which is, of course, no more yellow than a child's shoe.

It is just another example of geography textbook writers' indifference to innocent children. If I ever get out to climb Mount Everest it will take a candle in each hand to turn the light on.

Confucius lived in Shantung province more happily than do most marines, and still residing here is the 7th generation of his descendants.

The old philosopher might be known that his sacred mountain, Tai Shan, is still 5,000 feet high and no rivals have appeared upon the landscape.

Tsingtao has sea bathing facilities and is one of a dozen oriental cities willing to be known as "The Best of the Far East."

The city has a population of well over 500,000, and a visitor gets the impression well over half of the citizens are engaged in peddling counterfeit bric-a-brac and garments of "genuine silk rayon" whatever that means.

I talked here to two navy pharmacists who also served with the marines on Okinawa. They emphasized repeatedly how the marines dislike their present position in China.

"I know the marines would be glad to stay 24 hours a day, even if they were on a 40-hour week," said Frank McCormick of Rutherford, N. J.

"Only the main thing is this—they all want to know just what the hell we are doing over here. The only American property we have to protect is our own equipment."

POT SHOTS

By Hail Boyle

Leave it to Bill Dye, rancher, dog-catcher, hen fancier and whatnot.

He saw that T-N Hen about the Missouri four-couner with three yolks. He squirmed uneasily.

Then he saw that a Twin Falls hen, owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Atkinson, was equally uneasily squirming about the Missouri four-couner and three yolks.

This made Bill feel a little better in his civic pride department. But it wasn't enough.

We don't know whether he went out to the Dye hen house and delivered a lecture to his chickens. But—

He brought us an egg so big it looked like an oblong balloon.

Weight on drug dealer scales, four ounces and 13 grains.

Number of yolks, three.

Measurements, 8 1/2 inches by 6 1/2 inches.

Take that, Missola.

GOT AN ELF?

Our old friend, Dots Stradley, says it's a craft and they got to find some elf for Union school.

She means specifically that the folks out at Union want some "brownie" or elf suits, eight of 'em, for a school program. They can get the material now but figure lots of you parents have such elf suits laid away from the times when your youngsters were in school.

She means specifically that the folks out at Union want some "brownie" or elf suits, eight of 'em, for a school program. They can get the material now but figure lots of you parents have such elf suits laid away from the times when your youngsters were in school.

How about ransacking the attic and coming up with an elf or two (phone Mrs. Stradley at 435 and well pick 'em up)?

REQUENT AND OFFER

Dear Pot Shots:

You have helped so many other people out. I wondered if you could come to my rescue too.

My three small daughters have asked Santa to bring them a puppy. They aren't particular as to what kind of puppy, would prefer a male and I can pay a reasonable price.

Please, Pats, do you happen to have anything that would fill the bill?

—A Northlander

ONE CAMERA FOUND

Dear Pot Shots:

I want to thank you, Pats, for your kindness. And also Lavern Montgomery of Rupert who is so kind to let his camera and which he is sending to my brother, Roy Smith, who is with the army of occupation on Leyte.

Thank you, C. W. Turner of Fairfield, and Mrs. Evan Thomas, Jr. of Burley for your kind offers.

—Mrs. Glen Leonard

SUCCESS

Dear Pot Shots:

I found a radio for the boy in the naval hospital. I'm sorry to have bothered you but they are so hard to get and the time so short I didn't want to pass up any possible chance.

Thank you so much.

Canal Meet To Ballot on Weed Killing

By Hail Boyle

Voting on an amendment would include eradication of noxious weeds as maintenance and operation expense will be carried out at the annual meeting of Twin Falls Canal company stockholders Jan. 8.

Incidents of the weed amendment vote was announced in the company's official call to stockholders issued by A. Wynne Smith, assistant secretary.

Met at 10 a. m.

The annual session will convene at 10 a. m. at the company's office. In the past, the stockholders have met at the company's office.

Election of directors and submission of reports are also scheduled. All members of the present board are understood to seek reelection with no announced opposition thus far.

The amendment to the articles of incorporation would empower the company to include as a part of the service of maintenance and operation of the project or canal system the treatment and eradication of noxious weeds growing on the lands within the boundaries of said project or system and adjacent thereto.

It would also empower the board of directors to utilize available funds and to levy and collect further money for necessary charges and expenses against any given piece of land according to the benefits which shall accrue to said land.

Cooperate With State

The weed work would be carried on in cooperation with the weed program of the constituted authorities of the state.

In this county three special weed districts are existing in operation as "constituted authorities," while the county as a whole is a weed district in itself.

It was announced that the company's stock will be closed for transfer of stock 10 days before the meeting. Proxies must be filed with the secretary no less than five days before Jan. 8.

World's Record Trout Came From South Idaho Hatchery

By IAN SANDERSON

The largest trout ever caught on hook and line—a 31-pounder in Idaho's lake Pend Oreille—was believed to have come from hatcheries in southern Idaho and renewed the prediction that Magic Valley anglers may possibly duplicate the feat in lakes or reservoirs in the southern Idaho area.

Burton Perrine, former state fish culturist, said action is being taken to have eggs spawned in British Columbia and cultivated in Twin Falls and other Idaho hatcheries, planted in local waters.

Perrine said the record trout, caught by E. W. Dredge of Sandpoint after a 25 minute battle, was hatched either in Twin Falls or American Falls.

However, Perrine said, Canadian sportsmen have curtailed the shipment of eggs to the local hatcheries but negotiations are still underway for a resumption of trade which would give southern Idaho a bid for a new national "fisherman's paradise."

The record trout, a Kamloop or Kootenay trout, was caught with 200 feet of 18-pound line and spoon. The lucky angler reported the fish, four-year-old, leaped out of water eight times and took an additional 100 feet of line before being subdued.

Ted Truabold, Idaho sports authority and representative of Trout and Stream magazine, said the Pend Oreille catch was unique in that it marked the first time a record catch was made in which the age of the fish was definitely known. It also 47-Pound Trout Dreams Come True!

The 47-pound trout, at left, caught in a fish trap in Kootenay lake, British Columbia, heralds a new era in trout fishing for the Idaho region following reports that the fish was spawned in Canada but hatched in southern Idaho. The trout is believed the world's largest although another record was set Oct. 15 when a Sandpoint fisherman landed a 31-pound trout on hook and line.

The photograph at the top shows L. L. Fitch of Sandpoint, Burton Perrine of Twin Falls, former state fish culturist, and Irvin Weatherly of American Falls as they planned the first truckload of Kootenay rainbow hatched in Twin Falls and American Falls and transported 630 miles to the northern lakes.

There's an oyster larger at Grand Isle, La., called "Two Jims."

he said, was the result of one of the most successful fish cultural projects ever undertaken.

The project he referred to was directly related to a program inaugurated by Perrine in which the British Columbia-spawned fish were hatched in southern Idaho and then planted in northern Idaho.

First attempts to hatch the Kootenay eggs in 1940 were made in Sandpoint hatcheries, but difficulties were encountered by the cold water temperatures. The next year Perrine had 25,000 eggs shipped to the American Falls state hatchery where results were 100 per cent.

A few weeks after the eggs were hatched, the fingerlings were growing at the amazing rate of an inch a month. But at that time there were no possibilities of planting the fish in any south Idaho lakes.

The big problem then was how to get the rainbow trout to mature in Idaho, previously considered a hopeless case.

Perrine solved the situation with barometers and slide rules by transporting the fish via Montana and avoiding sudden elevation changes that otherwise would have proved fatal to the fish.

In the 630-mile trip not one fish died.

It not only made history in the annals of the fisherman but duplicated previous dedication by fish and game officials that such transplanting was "impossible."

Southern Idaho's bid to fishing fame at present lies in 1500 large brood stock now wiggling in Twin Falls and American Falls hatcheries.

Eggs from these fish during the next year will be planted in Kootenay, Altiz and Red Fish lakes and American Falls and Island Park reservoirs.

Previously stocked fish in these waters consisted of the venerable sockeye salmon, better known as red fish and bluebacks.

But these young salmon are merely bait for the new race of Kootenay fish. The cannibalistic fish thrive on the bluebacks and 50-pound trout isn't as fantastic as it sounds. According to Perrine, the 31-pound record trout is just a beginning of a new era.

So free your dreams, fishermen, possibly a new day is dawning!

Union Favors CVA As Job Help Here

One Twin Falls labor group went on record here Wednesday night in favor of the proposed Columbia valley authority.

Members of the plumbers and steamfitters local No. 701 at their regular monthly meeting adopted a resolution favoring the CVA.

Douglas Borlaac, president of the union, announced.

Pat Ryle, recording secretary of the organization, and the resolution pointed out that a CVA program would bring new industry to the Pacific northwest that would provide additional work for the laboring man.

The union has some 30 odd members.

Area Sportsmen's Meet Starts at 4

Representatives from 11 southern Idaho counties meet today at Park hotel for the annual conference of Fourth District Associated Sportsmen.

Fish, bird and big game committees go into a huddle at 4 this afternoon to thrash out recommendations which will be presented to the entire group following a dinner at 7 p. m. Due to the heavy agenda of reports expected, no speakers are slated for the convention. Walter Price, chairman, said, "It's strictly business and there'll be lots of it."

Committee chairman from the southern Idaho Fish and Game association, who will report, include Lou Drexler, fishing; Earl Davidson, big game, and McEverson, upland birds.

Proposals made tonight will be placed on the agenda of the meetings of the Idaho Wildlife Federation and Idaho fish and game commission at Park hotel starting Jan. 12.

Major issues from the Magic Valley districts include establishment of permanent refuge, the control of plant and possible changes in Silver and Fish creek regulations. Dr. George F. Schaller, president of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game group, said that the Magic Valley district is running on a "hit and miss" schedule with no sanctuary provided to guard the birds from predatory animals and no future assurance of "good hunting."

Price warned that the local area faces a continual decline in fish and bird game unless more definite protection is established.

A report will also be made tonight by A. E. Brown, supervisor of the Snake River National Forest, on the future outlook for deer hunting in the Minidoka region.

The high score was turned in by Buhl's veteran, former coast guard, man, but the series did not count in match results as he was merely establishing an average. Henry Winegar was credited with the best game with a 211.

In a match Sunday, Buhl rolled up a tally of 2033 points over Gracie's Colliery of Burley. Return match is slated next week on the Rupert alleys.

Buhl's implement now leads the local play with 17 wins and seven losses followed by Lewis with 16 and 8 and Moore Lodge with 15 and 8.

Chandler Scores Moral Win In First Major Conference

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Albert B. Chandler, commissioner of baseball, emerged from presiding over his first joint session with the major leagues yesterday, happily victorious and with no sniping against him.

Chandler cast the deciding vote which will allow the clubs to play unlimited night baseball next season, although most of the clubs will continue to limit their night games to 14. The exception will be the St. Louis Cardinals and the Washington Senators.

In connection with night games, it was decided to abandon the doubleheader, since such are made necessary to keep up with the schedule. Night encounters also will be frowned upon as Sunday and holiday attractions.

Report On the War

By General George C. Marshall

Special Report of the Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army

Published by the War Department, in co-operation with the War Department

This is the 32nd of 42 installments of material selected from General Marshall's report on the winning of World War II.

THE KNOCKOUT

The entrance of the Eleventh Army, under command of Lt. Gen. L. T. Gerow, into the line of the 12th Army group on 15 March gave more freedom of action to the First and Ninth armies, enabling them to secure the weight of the offensive into Germany. Ninth Army tanks immediately broke out of the area north of the Ruhr and swept eastward in a powerful thrust toward Münster. On 1 April the enveloping columns of these armies met contact with the German forces, cutting off the Ruhr and a large area to the south, in the largest pocket of encirclement in the history of warfare.

Elements of six German divisions from the First Parachute, Fifth Panzer, and Fifteenth armies were encircled in this pocket. Leaving strong forces to contain and reduce this giant encirclement, the First and Ninth armies continued eastward toward the line of the Weser, spearheaded by the offensive, they headed for Leipzig and a pre-arranged junction with the Soviet forces. There was no loss of momentum, no respite for the enemy forces, and by the end of the first week of April both armies had crossed the Weser in the area north of Kassel.

On 8 April, General Eisenhower wrote me:

"As you can see from the reports, our plans have been developing almost in exact accordance with our original conceptions. You must expect, now, a period in which the lines on your map will not advance as rapidly as they did during the past several weeks, because we must pause to digest the big mouthful that we have swallowed in the Ruhr area. The army has been making efforts to break out of the area and our persistent policy of knocking out its communications to the eastward, and its lack of mobility within the pocket, both make it very difficult for him to launch a really concerted attack. I am confident that he can do nothing about it."

The Ninth Army advance from the Weser to the Elbe was featured by armored galls of 20 to 30 miles a day against little or no resistance. By mid-April our troops were along the Elbe near Wittenberg and Magdeburg and had established bridgeheads across the river. In rear of the armored columns the staff of Hanover and Brunswick fell to Ninth Army infantry. Bypassing Leipzig and strong resistance in the Harz Forest, the First army drove eastward to the Meile Valley south of Dessau.

While these extensive operations continued, the battle progressed against the trapped Germans in the Ruhr. With the Fifteenth army holding the west face of the pocket along the Elbe, and armor and infantry of the Ninth and First armies driving in from the north, east and south, the formidable enemy forces were crushed in less than 10 days. More than 300,000 prisoners were taken in this unique victory, won far behind our forward positions and squarely outside our line of communication.

Soon Leipzig and the Harz mountains were in American hands, and the Ninth and First armies closed on the line of the Elbe-Neisse, the forward limit, which had been agreed with the Soviets. To establish contact with our Allies from the eastern front, First army patrols prepared east of the Meile to Torgau, where the long-awaited junction with the Red army occurred on 25 April.

In the north, the British Second Army, advancing on the Odenwald, Bremen area had crossed the Weser on a broad front near Minden early in April and was at the Meile-Britannia by the middle of the month. From there the British crossed the Elbe, reaching the Elbe south of the city. The Canadian forces of the 1st Canadian Army crossed the Elbe river and pressed on through the Dutch towns, liberating the remaining regions in the eastern and northern Holland.

Far to the south, the Third Army, after capturing Magdeburg, Götting, and Erfurt, crossed the Saale river and turned southward toward the mountains of Czechoslovakia and the Danube valley. This advance was designed to establish firm contact with the Soviet forces in Austria and to prevent an effective reorganization of the enemy remnants in mountainous regions to the south. On the right, the seventh army encountered bitter resistance in Nuremberg, but quickly captured the city and then swung south into the Bavarian plain. On the left of May the Third Army was firm contact with Czechoslovakia on a hundred-mile front southeast of Aachen, along the Danube where elements had driven 20 miles into Austria. The Seventh army had been in the place of the Nazi party, and was sweeping southward toward the Inn river. Along the upper Danube, the First French army captured Karlsruhe and moved on to the south, proceeding with the reduction of enemy forces caught in the Black Forest.

By the first of May the French had cleared the Sava border west of Lake Geneva and were driving into western Austria alongside the Seventh army.

Surrender. In northern Germany, the British Second Army, reinforced by the XVIII American Corps under Maj. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, broke out from the Elbe river late in April and reached the Baltic on 2 May. This action established contact with Soviet forces at Wismar and cut off the Danish Peninsula. Further resistance on this front was hopeless.

On 5 May, the German commander surrendered all forces in northwest Germany, Holland and Denmark. Along the Danube, the Third Army continued the advance into Austria and entered Linz on 5 May. Next day, Fifth Army fell to our force in Czechoslovakia. General Patton's Seventh army swept across the Inn on a wide front and drove 40 miles to capture Salzburg and Hitler's stronghold at Berchtesgaden. Other Seventh army troops who had taken Lumburg drove through the 25th army at Vipiteno. Since its landing on the Elbe, the Seventh army had advanced an average of more than 3 miles a day against what had been the most formidable army in the world. At noon on 6 May, army group G, comprising all German forces in Austria, surrendered unconditionally to our Sixth army group, just 11 months after the landing in Normandy.

The powerful Wehrmacht had disintegrated under the combined Allied blows, and the swift advances into the mountains of Austria and Bohemia had prevented the establishment of an inner fortress. Surrounded on all fronts by chaos and overwhelming fire, the millions of the German government surrendered to the Allies at Reims on 7 May 1945, all land, sea, and air forces of the Reich.

Movie Magnate Tops List of Incomes for One-Year Period

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (AP)—The treasury issued a report on big incomes tonight and the name of Louis B. Mayer led the rest. The movie magnate got $908,000 from Loew's Inc. for personal services in one year.

Mayer's top-ranking was disclosed in a supplement to an earlier partial listing of individuals' income from corporations. The report says a whole chorus returns for the calendar year of 1945 and fiscal years ending in 1945 and 1946.

Ranking immediately after Mayer was his income by nearly $450,000, were Charles E. Wilson, of General Motors, and Thomas J. Watson, of International Business Machines.

of Northern Ordnance Inc., $400,000; Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's $321,600; Ormond E. Hunt, General Motors, $325,512; Albert Bradley, General Motors, $320,432; Deanna Durbin, from Universal Pictures, $320,491; Barbara Blane, from Paramount and Warner Bros., $323,331; E. H. Robt. of Hoffman La Roche, Inc., $301,175; John Thomas Smith, General Motors, $300,310; Donald Brown, General Motors, $300,107; Charles F. Kettering, General Motors, $300,117; Elmer J. Martin, Loew's, $300,725; Stan Katz, Loew's, $293,152; Harry L. (Bugs) Crosby, $294,444; William Howell, $252,190; and David Bernstein, Loew's $235,500.

Income taxes took a big bite out of these payments, however. The rates generally ranged from 50 per cent or more on income of $200,000 to about 90 per cent on income approaching $1,000,000.

Cattle Sale Prices Good

With prices holding strong 1,000 head of cattle were sold here at the weekly auction of the Twin Falls Livestock Commission company. Tom Callen, co-owner stated late yesterday.

Quincy Norris, Twin Falls, sold the top lot of fat steers for $13.75 per hundredweight and also a crackling of mixed steers for $14.50. A crackling of mixed steers owned by John Feldman brought $14.50.

The sale started at 10:30 a. m. and will be held at that time next week, Callen stated. No sale will be the following week because of Christmas. The stockman said he expects the market to hold steady next week and that after the first of the year sales should increase.

Two-year-old Steers Sold for $12.25 to $14.00; Yearlings, $12.25 to $12.90; Good Cows, $11.50 to $12.00; Fair Cows, $10.50 to $11.50; Feeders $7.50 to $8.50; Good Heifers $13 to $15.00; Fair $12 to $13; Feeders $10.50 to $11.50; Bulls $8.75 to $11.00, Yearlings $9 to $12.75.

Lumber Industry Is Topic of Talk At Boys Meeting

O. J. Duhne was guest speaker at the Twin Falls high school boys' club meeting held Tuesday afternoon in the high school auditorium. Duhne spoke on the topic "Lumbering in Minnesota." He told of his personal experiences and touched upon the legends of Paul Bunyan, mythical lumberman of the north woods. He also explained about the industry in Idaho and the northwest.

Bill Mason, boys' club president, presided over the program by reminding the boys about the boys' club dance which will be held Friday December 14 in the high school gym. He urged the boys to support the dance.

The program was in charge of the junior unit. Lynn Snyder, president of the junior unit, introduced the program. Two piano solos were presented by Willetta Warberg, Hilbert Hendrix, high school sophomores, sang and played several numbers on the guitar.

John D. Platt, high school principal, explained a proposed vocational and educational survey which will be taken sometime during the second semester of school.

The program ended with Snyder thanking the committees for the dance.

Hutchinson filed suit here yesterday against Walter Thors for court judgment of $1,000 which he claims is due him for his horses which were taken from his ranch near Rogerson on Nov. 27, 1945, and converted to the use of the defendant.
