Former GIs Picket Utah Rental Office

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 22.—War veterans picketed a real estate office today but withdrew after the owner, Ralph A. Badger, put a sign in the window saying apartments would be rented as usual.

We won our point, Dr. Don C. Jones, senior vice-commander of the Utah Veterans of Foreign Wars said after the sign appeared.

The returned servicemen, backed by the VFW, were protesting an apartment house association proposal which would have withdrawn properties from rental.

The proposal asked for higher ceilings from the office of price administration. Badger's sign read: "I, and a number of apartment house owners considered the advisability of withdrawing some of our apartments from the rental market in protest of the low ceiling of rentals against the high cost of operation."

Our code of operating has doubled with not a cent of rate in rent. Friday the Apartment House association . . . decided not to go on strike at this time and I am abiding by their ruling. Our apartments are being rented and we will continue their operation as usual."

Badger carried by the picketers read: "Mr. Badger — is the principal one fighting for greater than the principal of giving the veterans a place to live?" "It is no of profits reason for keeping veterans homeless?"

Industrial Site Title Signed Over to C. of C.; Action Soon

Title to the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce Industrial site, purchased by the chamber recently, has been signed and the deed will be in the hands of the board within a few days, Jay M. Merrill, president, announced at the C. of C. meeting held in the Park hotel.

Those signing the title were Merrill, James A. Spriggs, secretary, and the three industrial site trustees, Harry Eaton, Guy H. Shearer and H. R. Grant.

The new chamber board will be ready to sell property for industrial purposes by the beginning of the year, Merrill stated.

Dr. Frank L. Everault, Ph.D., D.D., president of the State Agricultural college, Fargo, N. D., has been secured as principal speaker for the annual chamber banquet to be held Jan. 11 in the Christian church, Merrill also announced at the meeting.

Everault, who started his professional career as an ordained minister in the Presbyterian church, was an instructor in education at Yale before he became president of the Huron college, N. D. From this position he accepted the presidency of the North Dakota Agriculture college in 1938.

In this capacity he organized the writers' open forum and a grassroots control commission for the state.

Everault is an authority on economic and agricultural problems and will make speeches at other chamber banquets in Magic Valley when he visits Idaho in January.

Regarding using the 64 apartments at Hunt to alleviate the housing shortage in the area, Claude H. Develier, chairman of the chamber emergency housing committee, reported that he had written Sen. Charles C. Goebel, but that it was too early for a reply from the national capital. Develier said he had investigated the Hunt apartments and endorsed the feasibility of using these homes on location, with bus service to transport occupants to their places of business.

However, no action could be taken as authorization from the federal housing board is necessary to make this property at Hunt, which has been declared surplus, available for the city.

In paying tribute to Joe-K Koehler, former city mayor who died at the veterans' hospital in Boise Thursday, the chamber members authorized Secretary Spriggs to write Mrs. Koehler a letter "in appreciation of his unselfish service to the Twin Falls community." The board also instructed the secretary to send a floral tribute to the funeral services.

Merrill reminded the old and new members that at the next meeting, Friday, Dec. 28, old directors will retire and the new members and newcomers will elect their officers for the coming year. The new board will also choose delegates to the regional aviation meeting to be held in the city Jan. 9 and for the area conference to be held in Boise, Jan. 21 and 22.

His brother, 8 1/2 (AOM) Jack Alfred, 19, is now stationed at Melbourne, Fla., and the brothers will spend Christmas together at Ft. Lauderdale, Jack. In advanced naval air school, will also be an aircrewman.

Official Sues For Damages

A suit for $2,715.65 was filed in district court by E. V. Molander, chairman of the county commissioners, because of an automobile collision Sept. 15 in Filer which broke one of Molander's ribs and bruised him, according to the complaint.

Molander sued John Clark and W. Andrew Jean, employee of Clark, charging that Clark, as a part of his employment, drove an automobile recklessly in a spiral in excess of 60 miles an hour and struck the plaintiff's car. The collision occurred on the east side of Filer at an intersection of Main street and a highway.

Molander alleged that he was driving west while Clark drove north.

In asking $2,715.65, Molander claimed $2,000 for medical expenses, $450 for car damages and $225.65 for towing and run-use of the car during repair. His lawyer is Ray D. Agne.

Mean Major "Bawled Out" But Boosted

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN THE PACIFIC, Dec. 22 (AP)—This is the story of the meanest major who ever wore oak leaves. Besides being petty and arbitrary he was saddled with a brain that considered almost any idea as dumb and unworkable. On the ship coming over from the States he got to a big argument with fellow officers, trying to convince them that rainwater was salty just like sea water. How else do you think the sea gets salty? he said. So they had to wait until a storm came up to convince him. They caught some rainwater then, and the major had to admit after sampling it that rainwater isn't salty, only he still couldn't figure out how sea water got that way. I suppose it still worries him.

Saw Pistol
By grace of his rank he soon was supplied with a replacement camp. One night, passing by a tent, he looked inside and saw an automatic pistol by the light of a candle. He had been issued to a private on military police duty and he had left the weapon unguarded while he left his tent on a brief errand. Finding the tent was empty, the major quickly slipped in, pulled the pistol from its holster, pocketed it and slipped back out into the night. No one saw him, and a few minutes later the private returned to find his gun gone. He searched for it and then upended his tent-mates when they returned, thinking one of them had hidden it as a joke. But they denied having seen it, and he was reluctantly compelled to let his weapon as missing.

Not He
Other officers, knowing the boy was a conscientious soldier and realizing the gun must still be somewhere in the camp area, were willing to write off the matter. But not the major.

At a time when he had a few objectors on carelessness about equipment, he was determined to find the valuable government property. He will have to pay for it. That is the only way we can teach these men to be more careful. He told the private before him, and told him that he must foot the cost of the gun and that it would be deducted from the boy's pay. Soon after that the private was transferred to another island post. But the incident ratcheted many enlisted men in the major's own camp, and when a private was later prepared to go on to another assignment one of his supply men noted he was packing an automatic pistol. The man checked the records and found none had been issued to the major.

Proved It
He told his suspicions quietly to a sympathetic officer who found a way to check the numbers on the major's gun, and found it was the same weapon taken from the private's tent. By then no one knew where the private was and there was no way to make amends. The commanding officer called the major on the carpet, however, and his sole punishment was a bawling out—and the knowledge that every man in camp was contemptuous of him for his shabby trick. Well, he went his way and joined a new outfit and everybody at his old post was glad to forget him. Whether he ever mended his manners nobody is sure, but they do know he has lost the distinction of being "the meanest major" in the army.

Live Eels in Yule Dinners Gain Favor

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (AP)—Have you bought a fish? Are eels for your Christmas dinner?

Well, thousands have. This cherry Christmas tree is supplied by the department of interior's seal man, William H. Dumont, who today gave a reporter this picture of the industry:

Many Italian immigrants can't bear the thought of an eelless Christmas. That's why an eel caught during the fall is almost certain to be pampered along until the holiday season. Then the eels, don't count! will fetch premium prices.

Special containers and boats are used to keep the eels alive and silencing. And now, with Christmas just around the corner, they're as popular as a nylon salesman at a society house.

Dumont said eels are caught from Nova Scotia to North Carolina, 200,000 to 250,000 pounds are sold each season, and most of the customers live in New York.

An eel, he said, gets as big as your arm, weighs three to four pounds, and sells for 25 to 35 cents a pound.

A girl at the Italian embassy said the eel-eating habit is confined chiefly to Naples and Sicily. She had no idea how it started.

Eels are cooked on a spit, she said, and are flavored with laurel leaves.

Did she plan to eat eel this Christmas?

"Oh, no," she squealed.

Two Vets Return

First Lieut. Mary Lou Kirkman, who has served overseas for two years, is visiting at her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kirkman.

Lieutenant Kirkman served in England and France for the two years in various hospitals. She is now on terminal leave and will be at home until after Christmas.

All That—And Turkeys, too

Climaxing what county officials termed an "amazing" outpouring of unselfish help for an unfortunate family, Boy Scouts took two turkeys (one a 22-pounder) to James A. Farr yesterday. Money and gifts of every kind had flooded the family for days after revelation that the 11 children and their parents were destitute. Here Mr. Farr, his broken heart in a coal, receives turkeys from Scout James Palmer, center, and Scout Charles Conway, left. The 22-pounder was donated by Scout troop No. 60, sponsored by the Nazareth church, Mackay. E. Brown Scoutmaster. (Staff photo-engraving)

Editor, Times-News:

To the good people of Twin Falls county—

I will try to express my thanks and appreciation for all the kind and generous gifts that were brought to the home of my family in the time of misfortune.

I cannot fully express my sincere appreciation for all the gifts because it is beyond all words.

Yours sincerely,
THE FATHER OF THE 11 CHILDREN

Echoes from Ye Old Sport Reviewer's trip last—

If the minor leagues hadn't received Baseball's High Commissioner "Happy" Chandler, the excitement from Kentucky this year would have been the picture of "Happy" shaking hands with Governor President Maury Dorr. . . . It was last night that the high commissioner on the first day of the national convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues in Columbus, Ohio, requested: "For propaganda purposes, Commissioner, I'd like to get a picture with you and our Mr. Dorr shaking hands." . . . The high commissioner, who had immediately "shook Mr. Dorr and the commissioner around anyone" only two days to do it, was short time later Chandler shook his piece to the minor, was told that the power he requested couldn't be granted and when the picture one got around with the photographer he was gone.

A story of a day or two reporting that Pat Monahan had been let out as a second by the Boston Braves recalled to the ancient war puffer that Pat, the ex-Bull farmer, has said that he will be remembered to his old friend, that all-around athlete, Mr. Worley Olds.

The typewriter's tormentor stopped in at the Chicago Tribune to see his famed sports editor, Arch Ward, for the purpose of making a tie-up with the Tribune's national sports columnist, who had been heard that Ward was in New York. The reason: Ward was putting the finishing touches on the organization of All-American Football conference as a rival to the National Football League.

Ward's back office for the 10-year contract to serve as high commissioner at a salary of $25,000 per annum.

Gooding to Name Field for Late Solon

GOODING, Dec. 22 — Gooding high school's new athletic field, to be built during the coming year, will be known as "John Thomas field" in memory of the late U. S. senator from this city, according to plans announced yesterday.

The field will be the project of Gooding high's "O" club and the first movement toward raising funds to build it will be made Thursday night when the traveling House of David team meets the Gooding Lions of the Magic Valley Outlaw basketball league. Also on the program will be a preliminary game between the Wendell and Paintedfield teams of the new circuit.

Plans for the field, as outlined by Coach Elmer Parke, call for a 10-lane track and a grandstand to seat 1,500 spectators.

A field house will be built later. The House of David outfit will also play at Rupert.

The team is exceptionally strong, holding its own with powerful army camp aggregations, according to reports received here.

Arthur H. Ehlers, promotional director of the National association, is working with several other circuits still in the formative stage. It is possible that the all-time high of 44 leagues, reached just before World War II, will be approached before spring training time rolls around.

Most of the increase is shown in class C and below the higher ranking units of the minor league structure weathered the four years in good shape, only the Texas league failing to operate. Several of the 22 "new" leagues will belong to the two lower classes, the key points in the development of young players.

Expansion of the farm systems of the major league teams has been an important factor in the rebirth of the minors.

As of today the new setup will include three leagues in class AAA, two in class AA, two in class A, five in class B, nine in class C and 13 in class D.

Ten leagues that suspended during the war have been restored to active status, nine loops that disbanded have been re-organized and three entirely new circuits have been added. Exactly half of the 44 leagues will be located in the south.

A. L.'s Batting Race Most Dismal Show in 40 Years

CHICAGO, Dec. 22 (AP)—Hitting George Stirmwies last-day, photo-finish triumph over ancient Tony Cuccinello helped brighten things considerably, but still the 1940 batting race was the American league's most dismal show of plate power in 40 years.

The Junior circuit today officially handed the hitting title to Stirmwies, slubby New York Yankee second-sacker, for his 209 average, poorest championship mark since Elmer Flick of Cleveland won in 1905 with an all-time low of .200.

Cuccinello, who led virtually the entire campaign, finished one percentage point off the pace with .219.

Final official statistics showed the 37-year-old Chicago White Sox third baseman, wobbling on the edge of his 15th and probably last major league season, played in only 118 games, while Stirmwies saw action in every one of the Yankees' 152.

Stirmwies also led the league in base hits with 185, stolen bases with 22, runs scored, 107; total bases, 361; triples, 22; and at bats, 522. Cuccinello banged 124 hits in 492 trips.

Wishing you a very merry Christmas

Heartfelt Yuletide Greetings to all our friends.

FARMERS! CATTLEMEN!

YOU CAN GET A GENUINE KRENGEL-BUILT MANURE LOADER!

For Utility farm and ranch work, here is a loader that is unbeatable!

Krengel's Manure Loader can be mounted on ANY tractor . . . NEW OR OLD . . . provided your tractor is equipped with a power take-off. Moreover, this loader is operated mechanically (a distinct advantage), is so strongly built that it will give years of uninterrupted service, and is manipulated by a single lever. In addition, the heavy-duty bucket which carries the load, is adaptable to different pitches with a lever-tilting ground adjustment. Thus it operates efficiently on flat or rolling terrain.

These features, as you can see, make the Krengel Loader the fastest and most powerful ever offered. What's more, this loader is available with a low frame and high lift for working in sheds. It's other uses are legion, some almost unbelievable.

If you own two tractors, we suggest that you have us mount a Krengel Manure loader on the old one, thus freeing your newer tractor for plowing and other spring work. And for further information, write, wire or phone Krengel in Twin Falls!

LOADS DIRT AND GRAVEL TOO!

For a small extra charge we will include a false bottom for the bucket—which converts the manure loader into a dirt and gravel mover!

Only 6 Cage Tilts on Magic Valley's Card

A breathing spell in the Magic Valley's most ambitious basketball season in more than four years is scheduled for this week with only six games on the bill.

Couch Tex Hanks' Heyburn Panthers and Coach Charlie Hawley's Eden quint will be the busiest teams, each playing two games. Heyburn and Eden will tangle on Wednesday night, while two nights later the Panthers will take on the unbeaten Hardtens five.

Only one Big Seven game is billed. That rounds the Fair Willets to Jerome Friday night.

In the other contest billed, Mustangs will tangle with Idaho.

Coach George Hays Rupert aggregation showed its power by defeating Oakley, 56-40, in a preliminary game. Robinson, Oakley forward, however, was the star, finishing up with 18 points.

Basques Plan Annual Party Next Friday

By CHARLES D. WOOD

BOISE, Dec. 22.—The La Jota and the Aurreku, which are as difficult to dance as they are to pronounce, are turning the hearts and feet of hundreds of Basques throughout the west toward Boise again this year.

The annual Basque sheepherders' ball will be held Dec. 23.

It is the high point of the year for some 5,000 Basques and their descendants who emigrated from their native land in northern Spain and southern France in the 1890's. A race which claims to be unique in its origin and language, the Basques say they are related in no way to other Spanish or French strains.

Primarily agrarian in their homeland, the Basques of Idaho and other western states turned to sheep raising when they settled here, and while many now have branched into other lines, they retain the customs and traditions of the shepherd.

That is the primary reason for the Basque ball held annually between Christmas and New Year's. It is in celebration of the "shepherders' return from the hills."

This year, in addition, it will celebrate the return of hundreds of Basque boys who went into this nation's armed forces during the war, and of many more who were captured by the Japanese on Wake Island where they went as civilian workers before war broke out.

Nevertheless, a note of sadness prevails as Zelen Inaguirre and the others make arrangements for the celebration. Patriarch John B. Archabal, one of the founders of the Basque colony and the chief sponsor of the event in years past, died last Sept. 27 at the age of 72.

For a time the Basque leaders thought of cancelling plans for the ball but finally decided to go ahead.

In the words of Inaguirre, Archabal's son-in-law, "we are holding the 10th annual event in Mr. Archabal's memory, and we will plan our program along the lines of those which he directed."

Archabal began work as a simple shepherd, without knowledge even of the language of his adopted country in 1890. He rose to be leader of the Basques and a power in the sheep industry, and his holdings were estimated to be worth $1,000,000 when he died.

Despite the sadness engendered by the passing of the founder, the sheepherders' ball by its nature will be joyous. Reunions of returning servicemen will lend actuality to the traditional reunion of the shepherd with his family after the long months in the mountain pastures.
