County Will Buy
Tractor, Sprayer
To Battle Weeds

Kernan Green, county commissioner, announced last Friday that he is calling for bids for a tractor and sprayer to be used for spraying noxious weeds, with chemical sprays and the treating of livestock for external parasites. Green pointed out that surveys indicated that the use of 24-D after Sept. 1 is not as effective as previously to that date.

The addition of such equipment to county owned weed killing devices would enable the county agent to make good use of the equipment in the fall for experiments in destroying external parasites on stock.

Albert Nydole, county agent, said that he "would be able to use such equipment to spend advantage in experimental work along the lines described by the county commissioner."

Green, who has used 24-D extensively on his ranch south of the city, commented the chemical highly as "the best weed killer I've ever used."
