It should not be difficult for the average individual to visualize his postition under a CVA set-up. During the war, we have gotten a real tasste of the authority vested in sovernment bureaus. Some of the administrators have become so brazen as to tell us well do it the governments' sway or else." And with a CVA in control of our natural resources, we can well imagine how far we would get in trying to protect ourselves against injustices concerning us individually. We'd be only a minute part of a monstrous phan." Insignificant in comparison to the combined powers of government.

One of the strategies used by advocates of a government-controlled CVA is that most of the opposition is coming from private utilities and such. That's his same old story whether its used; in the United States or Russia. If the masses can be led to believe that such proposals are for their benefit and are being fought ruthlessly by powerful private interests for selfish purposes, the fight for government control is practically won.

Not all of those representative of the masses, however, are being deceived by such propagagnata. The United Mine Workers Journal, for example, recently carried the statement that the "proposal for the Missouri.

If we are ready for socialism and communism in the United States, well and good.

If not, however, we had better he on our toes before it's too late.

Tex Rankin rode to renown on high-flying wings

One of the top pilots of all time, Tex Ran-kin has streaked through the sky in racing planes, set acrobatic flying records, written aviation text books, trained 10,000 war flyers. It means plenty when Tex Rankin says-

"I rate Chevron Aviation Gasoline tops in the air . . . just as I rate Chevron Supreme Gasoline tops for my car." Yes, lots of flyers do, Tex—they're both tailored for their jobs from the same war-perfected blending agents.

Right now's a good time for you to try Chevron Supreme Gasoline, too. On chilly mornings those plentiful high-volatility in-gredients in Chevron Supreme make starting a snap, cut warm-up time to nothing flat.
