In spite of all the read intentions of Congress and the FHA it is gare possible that the veteration from in precision will want do as a dissertice to the veteration will want do as a dissertice to the veteration will want does not for the program as the designed for the veteration in mass as something of a race apart. Some veterans may prefer a colonial farinthouse or a Victorian homostead. But the housing program, with well-mentic generosity, its earmarking gractically all purchases and rentals of new deed insign for veterans. In doing so, it is also restricting the veterans to this type of building.

In fact, 31 per cent of those questioned said they did not feel able to pay more than $50. Accordingly, the new leculation concentrates on houses extring $5000 to less Building costs have risen about 50 per centsince 1940. So the $5000 house of today, which per so that the state of the said of the source of the said of the sa

Yet the new housing lexislation, when put into practice, promises to limit most con-struction to cheap dwellings at infinite prices. And by, in effect, restricting most of the veterans whom it is trying to help to these dwellings, it is restricting them to what may be slum sections in a matter of a few may be alum sections in a matter of a few years.

The housing procram also limits non-vet-rans pretty larcely to their present places of residence. Many of these non-veterans would like to build better houses than are contemplated under the program, and are in a position to do so.

The normal urge to move or build has been drastically inhibited during the last four years. Meanwhile, many families have grown and are straining the seams of their present quarters. Their needs, tastes, and budgets require something different from the one-or two-bedroom dwellhous of four years ago, At the same time, the apartment or housewhere they, now the would be quite adequate for a veteral would pay for some more that the veteral would pay for some more than the veteral would pay for some more than the veteral would pay for some more than the veteral would pay for some forms that the veteral would pay for some forms.

So why would it not be better and fairer for all concerned to permit a reasonable amount of house construction above the $5,-000, or even the $10000, limit, and permit veterans and non-veterans to build or buy such houses? They also would be too expen-sive by 1940 standards. But at least they wouldn't by necessity be jerry-built eyesores. Such a program would seem to offer a bet-ter balance between needs, available space, and sound economy than is offered under the present setup.
