WASHINGTON, May 23 (P)—The hour for slarting a strike of 250,000 railroad en-gineers and trainnien passed today and the government clamped controls over non-rail transportation to carry essential food and mail. When the 4 p. m. deadline for the walkout was reached, the office of defense transporta-tion directed the truck and bus industries, the airlines, water carriers and those railroads interesting and the strike of the strike of the strike of the strike of the strike promptly, also, the interstate commerce commission ordered a general embargo on rail-road freight movements, but with some exceptions. There was no word of progress from the ngeoliators who had been busy for hours at the White House striving to head off a atrike. Shortly after the deadline, John R. Steelman, presidential labor adviser who has been conducting negotiations between labor and management, appeared and told reporters: "Nothing yet, boys." At 4:12 p. m. Presidential Press Scretary Charles Ross told report-ing the the the food for a strike.

argiens, and wint we have had in the way the least. In years past, it has seemed next to impos-sible to put over a bond election for any major improvement, the reasons most often given being that we had too many penny wate politicians, moss-backs and tightwads for the city to show any real progress in mu-nitigal developments. By the constraint of the state of the city to show any real progress in molegal developments. The constraint of the state of the city of the developments of the state of the state developments. That's why the outcome of Tuesday's bond elections to the past, experience with bond elections to the past, and the state of the state detection is particularly statifying. Not only does it mean that we'll have a modern alipport of which we can all be proud, sever and water systems that will meet our needs, and a city building worthy of that designation, but equally important it means that the tappapers of the thick is the stappares will give Twin Falls the opportunity to make the most of a bright future, instead of mak-ing its struggle along under handleaps as its hard to the star.
