Analyst Says Two Elections Blow to Reds

By DEWITT MCKENZIE
AP French Affairs Analyst

We should not miss the significance of the French general election and Italy's plebiscite to determine whether that country shall have a monarchy or a republic.

There are no ordinary elections for basically they represent major battles in the drive by communists to control Europe, as it already does the eastern part of the continent.

In France the reds have been unopposed as the strongest party for a number of years towards the right. The Italian results are still too incomplete at this writing to permit of a definite estimate of the way the tide runs.

Of these two, the French elections are more important in determining the political future of Europe—perhaps the whole world—because the government in Paris would go far towards giving leadership to the European bloc through the English channel. The present swing towards the right, though not great—moves France further from dictatorship and closer to the western democracy of America and England.

What has happened in France is this: The last government was a coalition comprising communists, the popular republican movement (which is middle-of-the-road politically) and socialists, whose representative in the assembly were 150, 10 and 40, respectively. The assembly drew up a new constitution, the framing being dominated by the communists and socialists. It was submitted to a national referendum on May 3 and was rejected, necessitating the election of a new constituent assembly which has now taken place.

The rejection of this constitution was a result to the tendency towards totalitarianism. The present election nullifies this tendency. There is considerable speculation whether the turn of events in this election should bring the communists back into the political arena.

France needs powerful leadership at this crucial juncture, and many feel that De Gaulle is the one to give it.

Final Hearing Set In Johnson Case

Final hearing in the much-publicized property suit of M. W. Johnson versus Gertrude Walter Johnson will be conducted at 2 p. m. Thursday in district court with Judge Guy Stevens, Blackfoot, presiding.

The plaintiff claims he had an oral contract with his father, the late C. F. Johnson, to the effect that the father would leave all his property to the son. The father later married the defendant and in his will left all the property to her. M. W. Johnson is suing to recover his father's property plus the defendant's property which was operated by the defendant and the late Mr. Johnson.

Attorneys for the plaintiff are Marshall Chapman and R. P. Parry. Attorneys for the defendant are James R. Bishwer, Twin Falls; J. W. Taylor, Bluff, and Branch Bird, Gooding.

Repairs Underway On Idaho's Roads

BOISE, June 4 (UP)—Idaho's highways today are half-way toward the state department's goal of perfect roads.

T. M. Hilly, state director of highways, said 800 miles of badly broken roads have been repaired 50 per cent.

He said several factors contributed to the road break-up this spring—moisture and frost penetration deep into the road base and "the fact that practically no construction was attempted by the state in the past few years because of the war."

Name-Checkup Is Tough Job—More On the Way, too

Court Clerk C. A. Bulles said Monday he had a "bit weary" after having checked 40 names on 25 name petitions filed recently. He expects many more names to arrive by June 20 on Allied Civic Power petitions.

The same petitions seek to place the fall election ballot a proposal preventing members of the state and each commission from buying and selling law pets of certain four-legged animals, "presumably beavers," except police officers in connection with state law violations. Certified were 172 westerners. The ballot had voted at the last general election.

The ACF plans to circulate petitions to have three proposed laws placed on the ballot. The laws would regulate liquor and gambling. Four thousand signatures are to be sought for each proposition. Petitions are to be placed on the ballot for each proposition. For a proposal to be placed on the ballot, 10 per cent of the total vote at the last election for governor must back the petition. Some 21,000 certified signatures are needed.

City Nodds' Rib Each Other on Recovery Cases

Two Twin Falls city commissioners exchanged some good-natured ribbing over the week-end, although the occasion seemed more to humor than to hurt. The ribbing was over the fact that the city had not yet received a check from the federal government for the cost of the city's recovery cases.

Park Commissioner Orville H. Colman reported to city council that his car, a 1937 light tan coupe, had been stolen sometime Saturday night. He said the car was stolen from his home and he was sure it was the same car that was stolen from the city's recovery cases.

Masten, a representative of the Producer's Livestock Marketing association of Ogden, Magley was in Twin Falls Monday morning.

The lambs netted $17.10 a hundred and the average weight of lambs was 55.8 pounds. The price is the record high for ranch lambs sold on the Ogden market.

Brooder, Chicks Burned; Rear of House Is Charred

A brooder house and the week-old chickens it contained were destroyed and the rear of an adjacent tenant house was damaged by fire that started in the brooder house on the Tom Alworth ranch a mile north of Curry at 10:30 p. m. Sunday.

The Kimberly volunteer fire department was called and extinguished the blaze, which had been kept under control by efforts of Tom Alworth, occupant of the tenant house, members of the Alworth family and others taking fire extinguishers from the brooder house to the other structure, but the occupants were awakened in time by the light from the flames to escape injury.

Speakers Named
For Vet Meeting

IDAHO FALLS, June 4 (AP)—A. E. Baber of the U. S. bureau of animal husbandry will be one of the speakers at the July 1-2 meeting of the Idaho State Veterinary Medical association at Boise, Secretary-Treasurer Dr. Paul H. Graves said today.

Graves said other speakers include: Owen Holm of the University of Idaho; L. L. Maren, head of the animal husbandry department at Utah State Agricultural college; E. J. Fink of Kansas State Agricultural college; and H. T. Simms of Washington, president-elect of the American Veterinary Medical association.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEER
PAUL, June 4—Fred Watson left after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Watson a few days. He returned to Pittsburgh to resume his study with the Westinghouse Electric company where he went after graduating from the University of Idaho a year ago with an electrical engineering degree.

Graves said the present shift is an acceleration of the trend of recent years. About 80 per cent of all beer was brought immediately after repeal. Now about 70 per cent is bottled.

Hopkins, whose trade association members distribute beer from brewers to retailers throughout the country, explains the shift thus:

1. It's more profitable to sell beer in bottles.

2. The limited supply of beer "goes further" in bottles as there is no waste.

3. It's better merchandising practice to sell beer in bottles because the trade mark identity then is visible.

Brewers Say Draught Beer To Disappear

CHICAGO, June 4 (AP)—Draught beer is on the way out. R. H. Hopkins, general manager of the National Beer Wholesalers association, makes the prediction and adds unapologetically, "I'll be glad to see it go. Draught beer belongs back in the horse and buggy era."

A spokesman for the United States Brewers association confirms the trend, saying it is expanding grocery sales and more advertising.

A minor dissent is offered by William O'Shea, secretary of the Small Brewers committee, a trade association of brewers. He feels that draught beer will not disappear entirely since small brewers will continue to make it for local trade.

Many of the country's largest brewers have stopped or curtailed draught beer production, Hopkins said. Some companies make it only for their own cities.

You still can get draught beer in the big cities out, but drive 50 miles out into the country and see if you can buy it. It has practically disappeared," Hopkins said.

Both O'Shea and Hopkins said that the present shift is an acceleration of the trend of recent years. About 80 per cent of all beer was brought immediately after repeal. Now about 70 per cent is bottled.

Hopkins, whose trade association members distribute beer from brewers to retailers throughout the country, explains the shift thus:

Idaho to Fail on June Draft Quota

BOISE, June 4 (AP)—Idaho will be short half the men needed to fill this month's draft quota, state selective service headquarters estimated today.

The call was not given in numbers but officials said the recent legislation permitting the induction of men from 20 through 29 years will not affect the state to any great extent.

River Dikes Hold To Defeat Flood

DONNERS FERRY, June 4 (AP)—With the help of the army, a breakthrough was averted and the battle of the Kootenai river won.

More than 800 soldiers and hundreds of local volunteers were mustered to hold back the rampaging river which threatened to top its 31-foot dikes and inundate 40,000 acres of farm land.

With the drop of more than a foot since Sunday and about six feet since flood stage a week ago, Boundary County Agent James Keyes said the danger was probably past.

More soldiers from Geiger field, Spokane, and Ft. Lewis, Wash., left today in the wake of units which pulled out yesterday.

Crews continued to inspect the dikes which spring minor leaks in a few spots.

Plane Nearly Crashes After Speed Record

DAYTON, O., June 4 (AP)—Army air force pilots set two new speed records here but one—established by a B-29 over a 2,000 kilometer course—almost ended in disaster when the plane began screaming parts over nearby Springfield and had to limp back to the field on only one motor.

The B-29, piloted by Capt. James M. Little of Wright field, set a speed record of 361 miles an hour on a two-round trip course between here and St. Louis.
Air force officials disclosed at a press conference that as it was making its final approach to the field, however, the right outboard motor began throwing oil. Then the propeller broke loose and struck the right inboard motor, causing it to stop.
As Little headed for the field, the
