TRUE FRIEND Bing Croaby got a lot of kidding and little else out of a stable of race horses notorious for their unwinning ways. So Bing eventually disposed of the horses and bought into a baseball club. And what club? Why the Pitts-burgh Pirtsek, who, in the best Croaby tra-dition, are running last in the National Jearna

Regue. Maybe it was bad luck or bad judgment. But we prefer to think that Bing did it be-cause he is a kind and thoughtful friend and didn't want to spoll Bob Hope's gag routine.
