

Price Boosts GOP's Doing, Demo Claims

FAIRFIELD, Sept. 21—(AP)—Lewine, Democratic candidate for second district congressional seat, charged tonight that the GOP grants a cost-of-living price increase to the people at the expense of the price control act in an effort to gain last-minute approval of a watered-down OPA.

In an address prepared for delivery to a Canaan Valley Democratic rally, Lewine charged that "Republican congressmen maneuvered delays in extension of the price control act in an effort to gain last-minute approval of a watered-down OPA."

Lewine declared "increases in prices which are now being approved by OPA are increases which are forced upon the law which these Republicans jockeyed through congress. The administration fought extension of the price control act in an effort to gain last-minute approval of a watered-down OPA."

"The end," the Demo attorney said, "we got a law which will not be the Republican goal—but still not the Democratic goal. It is a law which we should have."

Crop Oddities Contest Will Come to End

Peeking out from behind the myriad of potatoes, carrots and tomatoes started on his desk, the agricultural oddity editor Saturday frantically announced that he's going to have to close his contest, pay off the winner $5 and forget all about odd-looking vegetables.

Deadline for getting your freak vegetables into the Times-News office will be Wednesday noon, he announced as someone else brought in a twin squash.

County Agent Jack P. Smith has been warned of the large collection of oddities, pictures of which will confront him the latter part of the week for his decision as to the winner.

"I didn't know there were so many odd looking vegetables in Magic Valley," the agricultural oddity editor exclaimed. A total of 45 oddities already has been entered in the contest.

With the announcement of the termination of the contest, the mountain kelp kept across the face of the social editor, he has been collecting most of the tomatoes and cucumbers for salads. Free of charge.

Final Rites Held For Charles Boss

Final rites for Charles A. Boss, 58, Wendell, were held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in the White mortuary chapel under the direction of the LDS church.

Edward James B. McClure, Wendell, offered the opening prayer, which was followed by remarks by Bishop Francis E. Hulst, Wendell, and the Rev. R. B. Davis, Bliss, Bishop Hulst dedicated the grave while Edward McClure pronounced the benediction.

Mrs. Homer Christensen and Mrs. J. Christensen sang three duets, accompanied by Mrs. Ina Christensen. Flower girls included Miss Roma, Ina and Arlene Christensen.

Palbearers were Paul Schnell, Nelson, C. P. Charles, E. F. Nelson, Charles Christensen and Lawrence Christensen, all of Wendell.

Interment was in Sunset memorial park.

Controls Not Imposed Over Dairy Prices

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Dairy producers went their way in a free market today with butter and cheese prices under the watchful eye of the price control board.

In announcing a decision not to reimpose ceilings now, the board declared it would maintain vigilance over the dairy price trend and allow ready for any action which might be necessary.

"Sore Spots"

A board official told reporters cheese and butter are the "sore spots" Chairman Roy L. Thompson had in mind last night when he said prices are "approaching the critical point."

The board nevertheless repeated its decision of a month earlier that milk, cream, butter, cheese, ice cream and other dairy items should remain free from OPA controls because there has been no "unreasonable price increase over June 30 ceilings plus subsidy."

Paul Porter, OPA administrator, who expressed disappointment at failure of the board to restore these controls a month ago, told newsmen he had nothing to say this time.

Notice Protests

Along with its dairy decision the three-member board took public notice of protests against the meat controls which followed return of price lifts ordered by the board.

Thompson pointed out that the situation now is this:

"Any request for decontrol of meat must be made by an industry advisory committee to the secretary of agriculture. Only if the secretary of agriculture deems the petition, or fails to act on it within prescribed time limits, could this petition be appealed to the board."

The board cannot, under the new OPA law, initiate a move for decontrol.

Meanwhile OPA agreed to further discussion next week of protests by restaurant men against returning to June 30 price levels for meat meals despite increases permitted all other meat sellers.

LDS Rites Honor Mrs. Alice Homer

RICHFIELD, Sept. 21—Mrs. Alice Homer was paid final honor at funeral services held at the Burdett mortuary, Shoshone. The funeral was held Sept. 20 in Englewood, Calif., where she had resided with her sister, Mrs. Julia Thompson, for several years.

The funeral address was given by P. L. Maxwell, president of the LDS Bismarck state. Music was provided by Maxwell and his daughter, Mrs. John Lazen, Salt Lake City, with Max Maxwell accompanying.

Funeral services were held at the Burdett mortuary, Shoshone. Burial was in the Shoshone cemetery.

District Meeting

RUPERT, Sept. 21—The first fall meeting of the Minidoka Scout district committee will be held at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the office of Dr. L. H. Hyde, according to district chairman David G. Rice. Reports will be given, monthly plans outlined and camp awards and program notebooks presented.

Archers Bagging Deer in Special Hunt

They were close enough to a picture, if I had the camera ready. We stood and I loaded the camera up and was all set for the next deer.

We didn't see any more deer that day.

Reminiscence of the days of Robin Hood was the next scene, as a curve in the road brought us upon an archer striding along. He looked very professional, for, besides his bow and arrow, he was decked out with hunting knife, field glasses and was ready for cold evening that might be necessary.

His name was Bob Getty and he had come from Pocatello for the shoot. Last year he tried too, but didn't get any, but he was dogged if he wasn't going to get one this year.

The board nevertheless repeated its decision of a month earlier that milk, cream, butter, cheese, ice cream and other dairy items should remain free from OPA controls because there has been no "unreasonable price increase over June 30 ceilings plus subsidy."

Paul Porter, OPA administrator, who expressed disappointment at failure of the board to restore these controls a month ago, told newsmen he had nothing to say this time.

James W. Wilkins, 18, Ellettsville, enlisted for three years in the cavalry, and going in for 18 months unassigned. He was Donald L. Strider, 18, Buhl, and William Northrup, 18, Ellettsville. Strider and Northrup were high school lettermen in football and basketball.

$600 Check Ends in Suit for Collection

Claiming payment was refused by the defendant on a $600 check, J. Robert Bath filed suit for collection against A. D. Boone in district court here today.

Bath endorsed the check which was made payable to Lawrence Lazen, David G. Rice. The check, $600, which includes a $2 protest fee, costs and fees. Earl E. Walker is attorney for the plaintiff.

Howatt had made the biggest kill to date, getting a 250-pound three-point buck.

They had been sitting by the side of the road waiting for Bill Howatt, also of Yakima, to pick them up in a blue coupe we'd seen down the road. They said they'd welcome a ride back to camp, though, and we left a note on a stick by the road informing their companion they'd come on.

He's Fruit Farmer

On the way in we learned that Howatt operates a fruit farm near Yakima and makes bows and arrows on the side. As the years pass this year, he's been hearing down through the animals' shoulders.

Howatt spoke with enthusiasm about the hunting here.

He was joined in this by Mrs. Howatt, who exclaimed, "We are as many deer here in a day as we do in a week over in Washington!"

Yes Wood

They also gave us some inside tips on the art of bow and arrow making—cutting male yew wood from the slopes of Mt. Rainier, backing it with horse manure, turning out arrows and other shop talk.

Suddenly we came upon a new clearing which was home sweet home to the deer hunters. Fires were burning brightly among the early evening shadows and looked inviting in the chill mountain setting.

While we were waiting for Dr. Kenney to return from his hunt, Bill Howatt demonstrated for us how his small, ultra-modern pup tent worked. It looked attractive, but from previous experience with pup tents I was satisfied just to take a picture of it.

As we rolled along the dark forest roads to town, Claude expressed the opinion that it was going to be plenty chilly before the night was over, as there were still patches of snow among the trees from a snow flurry the day before. I couldn't help but ponder the fascination of the hunt that kept those archers out in that mountain fastness all night just for the chance of getting that one good shot the next morning. I finally decided that the harder something is to get, the more we cherish it.

Nature Lore

Claude pointed out how the bottoms of the white aspen trees that lined the road and shown in the car headlights were bent outward.

"That's from the pressure of the snow sliding down the mountain," he observed.

"Very interesting," I commented. "A person can always learn something new."

Yes, there's always something new, even though it's old. Claude said, and I pondered the ease of the hunters who had gone back to hunting with bows and arrows in preference to high-powered rifles as we rode in silence toward the lights of the city.

A Marvelous Shot

This brought up what happened to one Joe Dolan of Rupert.

Early one morning when the hunt first started, Joe rubbed his eyes when he saw two deer standing on a ridge quite a distance away. An arrow and brush were between him and the deer, he figured there was nothing to lose by trying a freak shot, so he shot an arrow nearly

"Twilight deepened into darkness and Dr. Kenney was still trailing deer, so we sat around the fire and talked. Getting into the spirit of it, Mrs. Howatt remarked that every evening after supper they sat around the fire and told tall tales of what they'd done that day and what they were going to do tomorrow."

Williams Hits Slot Machine, Liquor Laws

RULIN, Sept. 21—Gov. Arnold Williams, Democratic candidate, believes that a bill providing for a more adequate enforcement of slot machine regulations and a more stringent regulation of liquor traffic must be promoted to replace the current Republican legislation which is inadequate.

He recognized the slot machine-liquor problem in a speech at a Democratic rally here Friday night.

Pete Leguineche, Democratic candidate for congress, asserted the world organization for peace, stood for a long range farm program, and suggested changes in veterans' legislation in a three-point address.

"I believe it necessary for us (Democrats) to devote our full time and energy to the creation of a world organization," he asserted, "which must have the authority for decision plus the powers of enforcement."

"I stand for a long range farm program which will guarantee a bottom on farm prices and will prevent the catastrophes of 1920 and 1921," he declared.

He stated that the $200 maximum income to married veterans in on-the-job training "should be re-evaluated."

Necessary changes must be made in veterans' legislation which will provide veterans loans direct from the government," he said, "and the government should stand any loss or financial setback the veteran might incur due to deflation in the national economy."

HAILEY, Sept. 21—A decree of divorce was granted Katharine W. Banning from William G. Banning by District Judge Doran H. Stupien in Gooding. The couple married Nov. 15, 1939, in Evanston, Ill., and have two children. The plaintiff was ordered to pay alimony and support for the children.

Williams Hits Slot Machine, Liquor Laws

RULIN, Sept. 21—Gov. Arnold Williams, Democratic candidate, believes that a bill providing for a more adequate enforcement of slot machine regulations and a more stringent regulation of liquor traffic must be promoted to replace the current Republican legislation which is inadequate.

He recognized the slot machine-liquor problem in a speech at a Democratic rally here Friday night.

Pete Leguineche, Democratic candidate for congress, asserted the world organization for peace, stood for a long range farm program, and suggested changes in veterans' legislation in a three-point address.

"I believe it necessary for us (Democrats) to devote our full time and energy to the creation of a world organization," he asserted, "which must have the authority for decision plus the powers of enforcement."

"I stand for a long range farm program which will guarantee a bottom on farm prices and will prevent the catastrophes of 1920 and 1921," he declared.

He stated that the $200 maximum income to married veterans in on-the-job training "should be re-evaluated."

Necessary changes must be made in veterans' legislation which will provide veterans loans direct from the government," he said, "and the government should stand any loss or financial setback the veteran might incur due to deflation in the national economy."

Lowery Protests 2 Beer Licenses

Records of proceedings of the Twin Falls county commissioners show that the board has approved beer licenses for two retail establishments in the community of Rock creek seven miles south of Hagerman.

Licenses issued were to Orel Clark for sale of beer at the Wooden Shoe and to A. R. Emory who operates a party establishment.

Following receipt of word that these licenses had been issued, Sheriff W. W. Lowery issued a statement pointing out that this had been done without receiving his recommendation on the matter.

"The action of the commissioners in issuing two beer licenses at Rock creek was not upon the recommendation of the sheriff's office," the official declared.

Customary procedure in such cases is for the board to call upon the sheriff's office for an inspection of establishments to be licensed, after which the sheriff recommends action to be taken.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

INDEPENDENCE—Holland will soon follow Britain's example in India by giving outright independence to a part of Java while retaining a portion of the Dutch East Indies island as a crown colony.

The more direct the racial and ideological clashes between natives and rulers that were precipitated by World War II.

Like England, The Netherlands are too exhausted and impoverished to maintain an extensive and bloody colonial conflict. Queen Wilhelmina and her ministers must have a peaceful settlement of the Indonesian problem not only in Java but possibly in other possessions of the Dutch.

Two influential factions in Java, Borneo and Sumatra, her majesty's principal producers of rubber and tin, have been stirring disquiet in an attempt to block any solution. They consist of a group of Dutch planters and a group of native and civilians who still remain on the spot of their early conquests.

FINANCED—As in India, these trouble-making cliques aim to destroy both the British and the Dutch over the rubber and tin. The Dutch are determined to fight the Japanese until they have become more of a headache than a help.

It is expected that American owners of properties in the portion of Java to be declared free will be confronted by the rubber planters and the tin miners and any other holdings. But the negotiations will be difficult and protracted, and eventual settlement of claims may have to be financed by an American loan.

It will be difficult for the Truman administration to finance the Indonesian rebellion, as well as native revolts in other sections of the world, derived directly from the American "four big powers" and the American guarantee in the Atlantic charter.

WALLACE—Henry Agard Wallace has frequently been described by friends and enemies as a "daddy-daddy," a "starry-eyed visionary" and an "amateur politician." But his close acquaintances over the years have determined that he is stubborn, determined, fanatical and almost sadistic. They have pictured him as a "strong and smart man" in many ways.

It must not be forgotten that, when FDR decided to drop Mr. Wallace as vice-president at the behest of the isolationist politicians in 1944, Mr. Wallace became the outstanding candidate at Chicago.

"Senator" Truman paid a special visit to the late Henry Agard Wallace, CIO political boss, to explain his plan to keep him to withdraw his objections to the South Carolinian. Mr. Hillman's actual refusal led to the nomination of Mr. Truman and made straight his path to the White House.

INSIDE—Mr. Byrnes emerged as secretary of state. Ironically, he is virtually vice-president—Henry's old spot—for he will become President in the event of any mishap to Mr. Truman. Mr. Byrnes has the title and the honor and the No. 2 political post. Mr. Wallace seemed to be trying to assume America's actual leadership in the world. He was a vocal and active CIO political boss and a virtual reputation of Mr. Byrnes' Stuttgart appeal to the Germans.

JONES—Henry also had a tiff with Jesse H. Jones, the chief financier of two administrations as member and chairman of the reconstruction finance corporation. The "Texan" place in the federal establishment seemed as assured and permanent as the Washington monument behind the White House. He was a vocal and active CIO political boss and a virtual reputation of Mr. Byrnes' Stuttgart appeal to the Germans.

He thought he was sitting pretty after FDR backed him in his disagreement with Mr. Wallace over war-time business contracts and general foreign policy. He regards Henry as a "nut," and the latter considers the Texan an "utter reactionary."

TOP—But the first thing FDR did after his 1945 inauguration was to fire "Uncle Jesse" because he wanted to give the commerce cabinet post to Henry as a reward for his services during the fourth-term campaign.

Dismissing Mr. Wallace's business, industrial and financial account, congress stripped his office of everything except his desk, chair, rug and title. Again it appeared that Henry was down and out, hanging on only because he needed the money.

Now, national and international repercussions from his pro-Russian speech have forced President Truman to repudiate his Soviet spokesman.

WALLACE IS OUT—AT LAST!

If any administration ever looked silly in trying to cover up its blunders, the present regime in Washington takes the prize.

After all his vacillating double-talk, denials, repudiations and inconsistent explanations in connection with the Wallace issue, President Truman finds it impossible to sustain out of a very embarrassing predicament.

In spite of all his statements to the contrary, the press services and news correspondents still contend that the chief executive did express complete approval of the controversial speech which Henry Wallace delivered in New York.

It should be quite apparent to everyone as to just what happened. At first, it seemed like good politics for Wallace to make a half-hearted appeal for appeasement of Russia in his speech at New York because it would be heard by a lot of left-winged communists, and others who might favor such a proposal coming from a cabinet officer.

In fact, Mr. Truman seemed so enthused about the idea that he explained the opinions to be expressed in Wallace's speech were actually the administration's policies on foreign affairs.

And then came an atomic bomb of a different type.

In no time at all, Wallace's speech had the world in an uproar. Coming from the man who appears to spearhead the communistic invasion of the United States, the outburst all but scuttled what was left of the administration's policy in peace negotiations at Paris. It was nothing less than a left-handed slap in the face for Secretary of State James Byrnes who has been given credit for doing a good job of representing this country at that conference.

But President Truman couldn't stop being wishy-washy. He was still careful to explain that he wasn't putting Wallace on the spot with any "shut up or quit" orders. He still wanted to make it appear that he and Wallace were friendly, that it was nothing more than a "natural misunderstanding."

But all attempts to distort the ugly facts were hopeless. Mr. Truman and all the others high in the administration were well aware of that humiliating fact.

Wallace had finally shown his true colors in such a dramatic way that even his own party could no longer use him to curry favor with this country's most radical elements—a mission he has been serving for years, and apparently with the administration's full approval.

Although the President helped to bungie the whole affair by trying to concoct a mixture of national politics and foreign relations, there was no other way out. It had to be Wallace's scalp.

One thing the American people should keep in mind. This fiasco bears out those who have been criticizing Wallace and his ilk all along—fearless critics like Westbrook Pegler for instance.

It should be remembered, too, that Wallace was permitted to hold one of the most important cabinet positions in American government right up to the time that he defiantly revealed his own despicable stripe, even at the expense of endangering his own country.

And to think that we have a lot of these "Wallaces" in important places in our government!

UNOFFICIAL POLICY MAKERS

On Labor day A. F. Whitney, head of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, told the world that strikes were a protest against congress's failure to "carry out the people's will."

Now we find that AFL longshoremen, in a strike within a strike, refuse to load UNRRA supplies for Yugoslavia until Tito's government makes proper restitution for the shooting down of five American airmen.

It is easy to sympathize with Mr. Whitney's lack of patience with congress. Most of us have it on occasion. It is even easier to sympathize with and applaud the longshoremen's spirit in refusing to refill Uncle Sam's helping hand while Tito's tooth marks are still visible on it.

We fear that in neither of these cases are the means as laudable as the aims. We have an electoral method of expressing approval or disapproval of congress. We have a President and a state department in whose custody the program and procedure of foreign relations must remain, however much the longshoremen or others may disagree with their actions.

It's the same old story here as was found in the veterans' good-government "revolt" in bygone days. Whenever a group or individual bypasses law or procedure with impunity, however good the reason, the act becomes precedent and an invitation for others of less noble intent to do likewise.

A writer says too many people think too much of their bank rolls. Well, there's no harm in reminding once in a while.

NEW YORK—In the spring of 1945, Harry M. Daugherty, a Republican machine politician, no better than Harold Ickes, nor any worse, uttered a casual remark which remains in the public imagination.

The more direct the racial and ideological clashes between natives and rulers that were precipitated by World War II.

He was a vocal and active CIO political boss and a virtual reputation of Mr. Byrnes' Stuttgart appeal to the Germans.

JONES—Henry also had a tiff with Jesse H. Jones, the chief financier of two administrations as member and chairman of the reconstruction finance corporation. The "Texan" place in the federal establishment seemed as assured and permanent as the Washington monument behind the White House. He was a vocal and active CIO political boss and a virtual reputation of Mr. Byrnes' Stuttgart appeal to the Germans.

He thought he was sitting pretty after FDR backed him in his disagreement with Mr. Wallace over war-time business contracts and general foreign policy. He regards Henry as a "nut," and the latter considers the Texan an "utter reactionary."

TOP—But the first thing FDR did after his 1945 inauguration was to fire "Uncle Jesse" because he wanted to give the commerce cabinet post to Henry as a reward for his services during the fourth-term campaign.

Dismissing Mr. Wallace's business, industrial and financial account, congress stripped his office of everything except his desk, chair, rug and title. Again it appeared that Henry was down and out, hanging on only because he needed the money.

Now, national and international repercussions from his pro-Russian speech have forced President Truman to repudiate his Soviet spokesman.

WALLACE IS OUT—AT LAST!

If any administration ever looked silly in trying to cover up its blunders, the present regime in Washington takes the prize.

After all his vacillating double-talk, denials, repudiations and inconsistent explanations in connection with the Wallace issue, President Truman finds it impossible to sustain out of a very embarrassing predicament.

In spite of all his statements to the contrary, the press services and news correspondents still contend that the chief executive did express complete approval of the controversial speech which Henry Wallace delivered in New York.

It should be quite apparent to everyone as to just what happened. At first, it seemed like good politics for Wallace to make a half-hearted appeal for appeasement of Russia in his speech at New York because it would be heard by a lot of left-winged communists, and others who might favor such a proposal coming from a cabinet officer.

In fact, Mr. Truman seemed so enthused about the idea that he explained the opinions to be expressed in Wallace's speech were actually the administration's policies on foreign affairs.

And then came an atomic bomb of a different type.

In no time at all, Wallace's speech had the world in an uproar. Coming from the man who appears to spearhead the communistic invasion of the United States, the outburst all but scuttled what was left of the administration's policy in peace negotiations at Paris. It was nothing less than a left-handed slap in the face for Secretary of State James Byrnes who has been given credit for doing a good job of representing this country at that conference.

But President Truman couldn't stop being wishy-washy. He was still careful to explain that he wasn't putting Wallace on the spot with any "shut up or quit" orders. He still wanted to make it appear that he and Wallace were friendly, that it was nothing more than a "natural misunderstanding."

But all attempts to distort the ugly facts were hopeless. Mr. Truman and all the others high in the administration were well aware of that humiliating fact.

Wallace had finally shown his true colors in such a dramatic way that even his own party could no longer use him to curry favor with this country's most radical elements—a mission he has been serving for years, and apparently with the administration's full approval.

Although the President helped to bungie the whole affair by trying to concoct a mixture of national politics and foreign relations, there was no other way out. It had to be Wallace's scalp.

One thing the American people should keep in mind. This fiasco bears out those who have been criticizing Wallace and his ilk all along—fearless critics like Westbrook Pegler for instance.

It should be remembered, too, that Wallace was permitted to hold one of the most important cabinet positions in American government right up to the time that he defiantly revealed his own despicable stripe, even at the expense of endangering his own country.

And to think that we have a lot of these "Wallaces" in important places in our government!

UNOFFICIAL POLICY MAKERS

On Labor day A. F. Whitney, head of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, told the world that strikes were a protest against congress's failure to "carry out the people's will."

Now we find that AFL longshoremen, in a strike within a strike, refuse to load UNRRA supplies for Yugoslavia until Tito's government makes proper restitution for the shooting down of five American airmen.

It is easy to sympathize with Mr. Whitney's lack of patience with congress. Most of us have it on occasion. It is even easier to sympathize with and applaud the longshoremen's spirit in refusing to refill Uncle Sam's helping hand while Tito's tooth marks are still visible on it.

We fear that in neither of these cases are the means as laudable as the aims. We have an electoral method of expressing approval or disapproval of congress. We have a President and a state department in whose custody the program and procedure of foreign relations must remain, however much the longshoremen or others may disagree with their actions.

It's the same old story here as was found in the veterans' good-government "revolt" in bygone days. Whenever a group or individual bypasses law or procedure with impunity, however good the reason, the act becomes precedent and an invitation for others of less noble intent to do likewise.

A writer says too many people think too much of their bank rolls. Well, there's no harm in reminding once in a while.

POT SHOTS

NEW YORK—In the spring of 1945, Harry M. Daugherty, a Republican machine politician, no better than Harold Ickes, nor any worse, uttered a casual remark which remains in the public imagination.

The more direct the racial and ideological clashes between natives and rulers that were precipitated by World War II.

Like England, The Netherlands are too exhausted and impoverished to maintain an extensive and bloody colonial conflict. Queen Wilhelmina and her ministers must have a peaceful settlement of the Indonesian problem not only in Java but possibly in other possessions of the Dutch.

Two influential factions in Java, Borneo and Sumatra, her majesty's principal producers of rubber and tin, have been stirring disquiet in an attempt to block any solution. They consist of a group of Dutch planters and a group of native and civilians who still remain on the spot of their early conquests.

FINANCED—As in India, these trouble-making cliques aim to destroy both the British and the Dutch over the rubber and tin. The Dutch are determined to fight the Japanese until they have become more of a headache than a help.

It is expected that American owners of properties in the portion of Java to be declared free will be confronted by the rubber planters and the tin miners and any other holdings. But the negotiations will be difficult and protracted, and eventual settlement of claims may have to be financed by an American loan.

It will be difficult for the Truman administration to finance the Indonesian rebellion, as well as native revolts in other sections of the world, derived directly from the American "four big powers" and the American guarantee in the Atlantic charter.

WALLACE—Henry Agard Wallace has frequently been described by friends and enemies as a "daddy-daddy," a "starry-eyed visionary" and an "amateur politician." But his close acquaintances over the years have determined that he is stubborn, determined, fanatical and almost sadistic. They have pictured him as a "strong and smart man" in many ways.

It must not be forgotten that, when FDR decided to drop Mr. Wallace as vice-president at the behest of the isolationist politicians in 1944, Mr. Wallace became the outstanding candidate at Chicago.

"Senator" Truman paid a special visit to the late Henry Agard Wallace, CIO political boss, to explain his plan to keep him to withdraw his objections to the South Carolinian. Mr. Hillman's actual refusal led to the nomination of Mr. Truman and made straight his path to the White House.

INSIDE—Mr. Byrnes emerged as secretary of state. Ironically, he is virtually vice-president—Henry's old spot—for he will become President in the event of any mishap to Mr. Truman. Mr. Byrnes has the title and the honor and the No. 2 political post. Mr. Wallace seemed to be trying to assume America's actual leadership in the world. He was a vocal and active CIO political boss and a virtual reputation of Mr. Byrnes' Stuttgart appeal to the Germans.

Wallace Gets Support From Soviet Radio

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Moscow radio said today that former Secretary Wallace had championed a policy of "peaceful collaboration and understanding" in opposition to "imperialist expansionist groups" in the United States.

Contrasting the former commerce secretary's utterances with Winston Churchill's Zurich, Switzerland, speech calling for a United States of Europe, Commentator, Mikhailov said the former British prime minister "picks up the pebbles where Bryce left them last week in Stuttgart," and added:

"Whereas Wallace's speech is anxious to do away with all references of a strict policy towards Russia, Churchill's speech gives the impression that what he wants is the establishment of a Franco-German alliance which could be used by Britain and the United States as a means to create regional federations strong enough to oppose the Soviet Union."

"Churchill is suggesting," Mikhailov said, "... that a comradeship be established between France and Germany under the aegis of Great Britain and the United States which would, naturally, serve as a basis for anti-Soviet combinations."

Meat Lists Here For Housewives

Handy price lists showing the new ceilings on various types, grades and cuts of meat are available free at the Twin Falls price control board office, A. S. Henson, chairman of the board, reported Friday.

These lists are miniature reproductions of the ceiling price posters displayed in retail meat stores since meat ceilings became effective again Sept. 15, Henson explained. Use of these lists not only helps in handling the family food budget, but they keep the holder familiar with the current maximum prices and safeguard shoppers against possible overcharges," Henson said.

MURTAUGH, Sept. 21—Funeral services and burial for John D. Jones, who died here Monday, will be held at Camp Douglas, Wis.

The body was shipped there Friday afternoon by the Reynolds funeral home, Twin Falls.

Paul Pioneer Dies

PAUL, Sept. 21—Fletcher Pukerson, early pioneer of the Minidoka project, died recently in a Kansas City hospital, according to word received here. Mr. Pukerson homesteaded and still owned the farm now operated by John Halstead, a half mile west of here.

HE PASSED ON CURVE
Overturning and passing a motor vehicle on a blind curve resulted in a fine of $5 and costs for Albert McGill, Jr., Salt Lake City, in the court of J. O. Humphrey, justice of the peace. The case was made southwest of Buhl by John E. Lester, state highway patrolman.

TO THE VOTERS Of Twin Falls County

Another election is approaching, and with that approach come many untrue statements which are usually made for political purposes.

It has always been my policy to conduct a clean campaign, and I have no ideas of changing that policy in this election.

There have been many rumors going around relative to my having interests in night clubs. I am taking this means of denying all such statements, as they are false and untrue. I wish to remind those who make such false statements that clubs in Twin Falls county are operating under the laws of the State of Idaho and are licensed under the statutes.

I also seem to be criticized for not taking over the policies of incorporated cities and towns of our county. Each one of these operates under its own little form of government, with ordinances subject to the state laws. It has been my policy to assist them at all times, whether it has been an officer or a citizen asking for our help.

In finishing my third term as sheriff, I wish to thank you the citizens of Twin Falls county, for the cooperation I have received during all that time. It has always been my policy to enforce the laws—efficiently, economically and, above all, honestly.

If you see fit to elect me again in November, I assure you the sheriff's department will continue to operate under this same policy.

Shades of Alley Oop! Cub Scouts Parade

The weird assortment of "animals" at top spiced up the parade that started off Friday evening's Cub Scout circus at the Twin Falls city park. Cleverly designed and powered by Cub Scouts, the animals included elephants, large and small, a giraffe, camel and a pink ostrich. At bottom are a few of the performers, including two egg-faced midgets, a tall man at rear and numerous clowns and Indians. (Staff photographs.)

Scout Leaders to Plan Area Meet

Plans for an entire Snake river area Boy Scout council meeting in October and a general membership drive will be discussed at a meeting of the council executive board at 7 p. m. Wednesday at the Park hotel, Herbert H. West, Scout executive, announced Saturday.

O. D. Sharpe, Portland, Ore., regional Scout executive will be in Twin Falls for a series of meetings Oct. 9, 10 and 11, West said.

Preliminary plans for the 1947 budget, camping reports and plans for the 1947 camp program and a "round up" program to recruit all youths into Scouting will be in October and November will be aired.

Circus Given At City Park By Cub Packs

Complete with clowns, acrobats, Indians, a circus pony, circus band of the kitchen utensil variety, and wild animals, the Cub Scouts of four Twin Falls packs and one Kimberly pack put on a circus in the band shell of city park Friday night before approximately 150 spectators.

The parade of animals, all constructed by the Scouts, included a spotted giraffe, a camel, a pink ostrich, a monkey and two elephants. There was even a wild lion, a kitten trapped in a bird cage, and an acrobat with four years experience in still-walking.

Packs participating in this first circus here, according to G. E. Young, Cub Scout commissioner in charge of the event, were Dicket school No. 4, Lincoln school No. 7, Baptist church No. 69, Washington school No. 2, and Kimberly No. 42.

Free Economy To Be Upheld At Town Hall

The reasons why collectivization is a deviation in progress will be explained by Douglas Miller, former commercial attaché at Berlin, in the opening Town Hall program at 8 p. m. Tuesday at Twin Falls high school. Miller will speak on "Free Economy Versus Collectivization."

He is a champion of free economy, believes that it can be made to work, and that once the wheels of

Woman Judge Finds Gambling Case Handling Unsatisfactory

Editor, Times-News: I don't know whether it is considered proper for a judge to comment publicly on a case that has been before the courts, but I am not a lawyer and I do not know law. But I am a Christian, and I do know right from wrong.

I have been a clerk of the peace, some time, also police judge, and some time ago I was appointed justice of the peace. I have tried to perform my duties to the best of my ability.

Several months ago I personally signed a complaint against one of the small boys to be in these places. Nothing to my knowledge has ever been done about this case.

Last week when I discovered that there was wide open gambling being carried on in the city of Twin Falls, I was very angry and hurt. It seemed to be common knowledge and it was common that the sheriff of this county and his deputies and the police officers of Piler knew about it. It was being carried on openly with money stacked on tables in public view from the street.

In our town and in the community is one of the greatest things that the great majority of the people here are not in favor of the things that were being done publicly here. I did not know what to do, but I did know that it was wrong, and I did know that it was a disgrace to the peace after some citizens had made affidavits that they had seen open gambling, and I directed this warrant to the sheriff as we have no constable in Piler and the law says it must be to the sheriff or constable, to pick up the gambling equipment and destroy it.

The sheriff came down. He told me that he did not believe I could get the device in the city office, that there was not room, although our office is pretty good sized. So I told him to pile it up in the buildings where I had seen it. He would order it destroyed.

He went out and brought in four men whom I thought he had arrested, and one of them put up $200 for appearance, he being the one from Piler. I told him that they were all to appear on Monday morning. He also brought in a book about the law, and had picked up off some of the gambling devices.

On Monday morning I discovered that apparently no one had been arrested and that there were no charges made. I was very angry, although we had the money and the equipment and the men, or some of them. Any one who writes this letter I do not know that there has been anything done.

Rec. 17-2003 of the Idaho Code Annotated reads:

"Officers to enforce law—Every prosecuting or county attorney, sheriff, constable or police officer, after investigation and diligent prosecution persons whom they have reasonable cause to believe offenders against the provisions of this chapter, and every officer refusing or neglecting so to do is guilty of a misdemeanor."

This chapter referred to is Chapter 23 of Vol. I, which chapter deals with gambling and devices used in gambling, the very things that we had seen.

Rec. 17-2003 provides: "Proprietor of house punishable—Every person who knowingly permits any of the games prohibited by the preceding section to be played, conducted or dealt in any house owned or rented by such person, in whole or in part, is punishable as provided in the preceding section, without prejudice to testify."

Rec. 17-2006 provides: "Refusal of witness to testify—Every person duly summoned as a witness for the prosecution, on any proceedings had under this chapter who neglects or refuses to attend as required, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Rec. 17-2007 provides: "Self-incrimination no ground for refusal to testify—No person otherwise competent as a witness, is to be excused from testifying as such concerning the offense of gambling, on the ground that such testimony may incriminate himself, but no prosecution can afterward be had against him for any offense concerning which he testified."

Mr. Lowery told me he would like to dump this gambling equipment over the high bridge. I told him I would like to be a witness. When the trial left town I went to the high bridge to be a witness, but the truck never did arrive to my knowledge.

And then I saw in the paper that night, where the sheriff had changed his mind and "burnt" the equipment. But in the picture it appeared that the mechanical parts of the roulette wheel had not been removed. They seemed to have been removed. Maybe they were destroyed some other way but I told the sheriff I wanted to be a witness.

I do not know what to do nor do I suppose there is anything I can do. I have tried and I know in my own heart that the good people who have children and families here do not want to live in a state of lawlessness. I cannot believe that self-respecting, upright, law-abiding and decent in this county are gone, and I definitely feel that law enforcement in this county is a mockery.

Sometimes I feel that I should quit, but again I think about it. I am not a quitter, but they say it takes a person with courage to carry on. And, while I know that I am not a quitter, with God's help and the help of the decent folks of this county, if you will all help me, I can carry on. I am a Christian and I believe in this county a decent place for people to raise children.

More Sugar and Higher Ceiling on Hogs Not Absurd

Editor, Times-News: I always thought that, from his previous letters to the Forum, "Pop" Bottenhower was a pretty reasonable guy. I know that many readers enjoyed his letter in answer to one from Evans Wood in regard to the sugar situation.

I find I wonder what has happened to this reason. Why is it that he said that people want more sugar and farmers want a higher ceiling on hogs? Of course, workers need present wages can't afford to buy pork chops from a $2 hog. I know they can't. My family can't afford to buy them now on a salary of $45 a week.

But at the same time, the hog raisers have a side of the picture, too. It costs 18 cents a pound to produce a top hog, at the present price of grain and essential supplies. This information I received from one of the largest and most efficient hog raisers of the northwest. The government surely doesn't expect the farmer to keep his hogs at a loss for a total loss of two cents for every pound he produces has been put into hog.

How can anyone eat pork chops if there aren't any to eat? And what about the present fat shortage? It is obvious that the curtailment of hog-raising will help the fat shortage. As for the sugar, well, I could very nicely use three times as much as I am now able to consume. I am getting pretty tired of being led.

Britain Causes Wars for Own Ends, He Says

Editor, Times-News: In a letter to this Forum, a week ago, I joined with Henry Wallace and Harry Truman in denouncing the British balance-of-power doctrine, and advocated a United States of Europe, with Britain left out. And now, just before yesterday, Winston Churchill advocated the high mountains of Switzerland, a United States of Europe with Britain in it. In other words he does not want United States of Europe unless Britain can dominate it. The British have blocked every attempt of the United States of Europe to federate. That has happened twice in our lifetime.

Back in about 1914 Germany was becoming influential and had good reason for wanting to dominate Europe and then Britain started World War I. Then again about 1939 when the United States of Europe united under Germany and Britain started World War II, and some part of the world is bloodied.

What moral has a Britisher like Winston Churchill to advocate the United States of Europe with Britain in it when in the past they blocked every move in that direction by denouncing the world, or some part of the world, as bloodied.

Yes, I stand with Henry Wallace in digging a grave for the British balance of power and I stand with Henry Wallace for world peace!

We Need More Christians to Take a Full Interest in Politics

Editor, Times-News: For the first time in my life I am participating in political activity, in a small way. I was out of the service less than 15 days when I was asked to take my present job. One reason for accepting the position was to do the thing I had pledged to do while in the service—to do everything possible to make our government better.

Since taking this job with the Republican central committee, and I have never worked with a finer man than our chairman, many people have seemed surprised that I would be associated with politics—a term that means the administration of government or of a loaded word meaning the ruthless machine party power.

Some people may call me a religious person because I try to maintain the standards of my committed faith and honor the scriptures, but I don't like the attitude of many people that religious people should not think on politics. These people are digging a grave for religion.

Among the many good Americans who believe that economic salvation and security are to be found along the left-hand road to collectivism and socialism, I am sure that many of them are sincere. I am sure that many of them are sincere. I am sure that many of them are sincere.

They would be offended, if not horrified, if they were accused of being irreverent or unreligious. They would protest that their religion has nothing to do with politics or economics. Here I would like to take the hat off to the Rev. James Brown of Piler.

Too Much Talking, Too Little Thinking, Says Former Officer

Editor, Times-News: In last Sunday's Public Forum H. E. Hammerquist of Piler, wrote much talking and too little thinking; that is, as far as I am concerned.

In the first place he belittles officers two counts. I believe that both are unjustified.

To take them one at a time: Mr. Hammerquist says that the county farm is a blessing for her to be there in an surroundings and the county farm is a blessing for her to be there in an surroundings and the county farm is a blessing for her to be there in an surroundings.

He speaks in a laughing way of the "juvenile delinquent and the girl who held up the sheriff and his wife and tied us up." Did he remember that it was a girl named Guinnard had a tough police record, was dangerously discharged from the marines, that he was 23 years

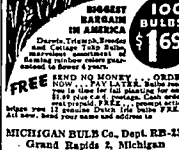

Teachers Aren't Getting a Pension Without Paying

Editor, Times-News: May I reply to Jennie Ham's letter of Sept. 16, regarding the Peabody school survey report and the teacher retirement law? If it will help and the right men to our legislature then perhaps that report should be published prior to election time. However, I do hope the people digest it and get all the facts and not just a few as did Jennie Ham in regard to the teacher retirement law.

This law was very much discussed in PTA groups, church groups and almost all civic and social organizations several months before legislation was passed. Where was our critical Jenny?

When she does get the true facts she will find that each teacher does pay a just portion toward the fund. A schedule per cent of the teacher's salary is withheld every month from the salary similar to our withholding tax. This is then matched by the school district and the state of Idaho. What could be more just and fair?

THE WIRES STILL HUM-M-M-M

• DURING THE SUMMER just past we have seen the greatest influx of vacationers in history—and these visitors kept long distance wires humming with a record volume of long distance calls.

Now, with the tempo of business activity still rising, there is no appreciable let-up in the demand for long distance service.

In the face of continuing material shortages, we are pushing the job of adding circuits—using every conceivable substitute for scarce items—and we're making some headway.

Sometimes, however, on certain busy circuits, the overload on telephone facilities still is evident—in delays, in busy circuits.

By and large, we are giving more telephone service than ever before in our history, and in most places and at most times, it's good service, which will grow better as time goes on.

If your call encounters a delay, we hope you understand that we're doing our best to handle it speedily.

THE MOUNTAIN STATES TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH CO.

*"My Country 'tis of Thee
Sweet Land of Liberty: of Thee I Sing..."*

WHY ARE YOU Proud to be an ... AMERICAN?

America's "melting pot" is in reality her Liberty Bell, into which men and women of every origin pour their faith, their hope, their sacred desire for the security and happiness of their children.

To that faith, hope and sacred desire they add hard work, good fellowship and unselfishness. That's why our country is great—because of these great component parts.

We find comfort and assurance in the fact that we're a people united for a great common purpose—freedom, security and happiness which are the priceless rewards of a democracy that is functioning successfully.

The great progress this country has shown with its system of free enterprise, the highest of world standards of living, the independence we enjoy as individuals—these are the things we cherish.

All that, when you stop to think about it, is why you are proud to be an American!

But it's time for the American people to start being honest with themselves because it's quite apparent that sinister things are afoot. Let's ask ourselves frankly whether the mention of any of these American principles we cherish seems to have a hollow ring—quite different from the ring our Liberty Bell is supposed to represent.

How about "free enterprise"? Are we all united in the belief that this is still the American system for continued security and happiness? Or are we fearful of the forces that are working to destroy this fundamental concept? And why are these forces making headway?

If we're fearful of this undermining influence, how about "security"—that American bulwark that has made us the greatest country on earth?

Then let's ask ourselves about "freedom," the very foundation upon which a democracy, must be built—that happy relationship that comes from the people and their government working in unison, without class distinctions, unbalanced powers or ulterior purpose.

Come right to the point: Are we, the American people, as free under the present widely broadened powers of government, as was intended by those who set up our Constitution?

Are we being regulated, investigated, intimidated and sometimes actually persecuted by our government because of our own choosing, or is there some other reason for all this new evidence of federal power?

Of course, we are all proud to be Americans, but are we as sure that those American principles of which we have been so proud are still intact in all their fundamental solidarity?

If we are not so sure, we have only ourselves to blame. We are the ones at fault, because we are armed with the only weapon that can defeat these sinister influences. That weapon is the power to vote. Failure to exercise that power is the forerunner to any democracy's collapse.

Real Americanism is faced with a serious challenge. We have too many representatives in government who delight in tearing down our traditions—whose so-called "leftist liberalism" is advanced to the point of breeding class hatreds that spring from foreign "isms."

Now is the time for decisive action if we are to maintain the type of democracy that has made us proud to be Americans. Now is the time to keep our government from going further out of bounds.

Now is the time to vote with every ballot at our command—for public officials who are capable, honest and freedom-loving Americans at heart.

It's up to every REAL AMERICAN to meet that challenge!

This is one of a series of advertisements sponsored by a group of civic-minded business and professional men who see a serious need for better government—local, state and national

Mrs. S. H. Proctor, state committee chairman, will lead a discussion on the Republican platform at the meeting of the Republican Women's club scheduled at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the American Legion auxiliary rooms.

Education in Public Institutions
Mrs. C. H. Krenzel, president, will officially at the session. Participating in the discussion will be Mrs.
Krenzel, who will speak on
"Education in Public Institutions";
Mrs. Russell Miller on "Labor and Public Ownership"; Mrs. Everett
Sweeney on "Liquor and Gambling"; and Mrs. B. McCoy on "American-ism."

There will be a general discussion on the qualifications of the leading candidates. All women are invited to attend.

Rural Federation
A complete report of the State
Federation of Women's clubs convention, Sept. 16 and 17, at Nampa, was given by delegates sent from the Rural Federation at a meeting Saturday at the Idaho Power auditorium, according to Mrs. C. E.
Gris, president of the local federation.

Mrs. Ray Shepherd, official representative of the Rural Federation, Mrs. Eliza Anderson, delegate from the Land-a-hand club, and Mrs.
Leola Smith, delegate from the side club, presented the reports at this first meeting of the season.

All delegates and members from each of the eight clubs answered the roll call.

Attend Convention
A number of Magic Valley women have just returned from attending the 26th convention of the Idaho State Federation of Women's clubs held in Nampa Sept. 16 and 17.

The hostess clubs were Women's Century at Nampa and Occident club in Meridian.

Participating in the program were Mrs. A. S. Hanson, Twin Falls, who reported on "American Citizenship"; and Mrs. T. S. Nicholson, Piler, on "American Home."

Mrs. Stanley Phillips, president of the local Twentieth Century club, was also a delegate to the club.

The "Women's Influence in the Home, Community and Nation," was the theme for the convention. The topic was presented by Mrs. J. M.
W. M. Mader, Boise, who was the speaker at the formal banquet.
More than 100 delegates from 42
women's organizations throughout
Idaho attended.

Baptist Missionary Society
Portraying the year's theme
"Brotherhood and Fellowship" menbers of the Baptist missionary society gathered for the initial meeting of the year in a form of a no cost service at the local church.
The program, in charge of Mrs.
E. S. Shovel, was divided into three separate sessions: local, international, interracial and interdenominational.

Highland View Club
Members of the Highland View club will donate canned fruit and vegetables to the Children's Home in Boise at the next meeting scheduled Oct. 2 at the home of Mrs.
Stanley Sturgeon. Mrs. Ann Drury will be the hostess. Members voted the donation at a meeting at the home of Mrs. M. G. Gustin.

Mrs. J. M. Morgan conducted the business session in the absence of Mrs. Stanley Sturgeon, club president. Mrs. Ray Menck received the club prize. Quizzes were given by Mrs.
William Hoyer, Secum, and Mrs.
Mary Miller, Piedmont, Calif.

Royal Neighbors
The Royal Neighbors of America met for a potluck dinner at the 100P hall this week, and pinocle was the evening's diversion.

The group voted a 25¢ contribution to the Salvation Army building fund.

Mrs. Chris Sims, Mrs. Ethel Stein and Mrs. W. D. Stearns were in charge of the dinner.

Top Baseball Year Closed by Cowboys

The greatest Pioneer league season ever experienced by the Cowboys, during which they played to close to 90,000 fans at the park, won the first half championship and lost the playoffs to the Lako City Bees, the second half victors, had finally come to a close today. Most of the players, carrying checks for $150 cover their share in the playoffs, were en route to their homes. Ready for the winter were second baseman Jack Radtke, center-fielder Leysr, catcher Buddy Heisel, shortstop Hal Lowe, pitcher and traveling secretary-utility man Bill Wickert who are

The season's close left only one regret—the inability of the club's leading hurler, Jim Arnold, to pitch after the first two games of the playoffs because of a tumor under his right shoulder blade. Although the Gambusia will blast its way

However, there was no criticism of Manager Earl Bolyard's refusal to use the star surfer, who won all games during the regular season. They realize that Arnold is regarded as one of the most promising rookies in the entire New York Yankee chain with the possibility of a major league career in front of him and were content to pass up the winners' share of the series money.

Arnold returned here with the club but is scheduled to leave today for Los Angeles, where he will undergo an operation at the hands of a Dr. Hitchcock, a specialist in baseball players' injuries. The operation there was on the order of the top Yankee officials.

The pitcher said he suffered the injury in the ninth inning of the final game at Pocatello. He had two strikes on a batter and "reared back" to throw a fast ball to fan the batter. "Something snapped in my shoulder," he said. Pocatello then went on to score three runs after he had shut out the Cardinals.

In the preceding eight innings.				READ TIMES-NEWS

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

By INEZ FUCKETT MCWEN

This copy is written under a big tree in Frederick-Nelson's hair dresser in Seattle. As we watch the still rain swirl and rain down the streets we yearn for the bright sun and blue skies of Magic Valley.

Twenty-two assorted in the hair dresser are sitting under driers with us in this "salon". Home doze, some read, and behind each lady trying to be made more beautiful is a husband, lost or sweetheart. Women don't sit for hours having hot air blown on their scalps just to come forth more alluring for other women.

Reasons—eyed young man in booth 21 "bent" our hair, and put us under this drier. As his long muscular fingers worked the hair, "I'm a Greek from Chicago," he said. "I was born in the rear of a beauty parlor and cut my teeth on beauty plus. They used to let me crawl around the place. Once I drank about half a bottle of hair cream and once I bit a customer on the ankle."

The lad said his hobby was cooking and he gave us his best Greek recipe. Come on, you gals of Magic Valley, we dare you to try it: "Take a pound of cooked noodles and a pound of hamburger and alternate them in a baking dish; between each layer of this meat put very strong cheese and a good dusting of cinnamon; make an egg and milk custard, pour it over the top, and bake."

It's good with wine and snappy music," and the young hair-bender, "and you should include about a yard of crusty bread."

"These Seattle people are friendly. On the streets and behind counters they smile warmly."

This is a nice lot of folks who seem to dwell in a continual drizzle, with forests and hills crowding in. The only direction you can really see is up.

Everyone asks, "How do you like it here?" and you answer easily as your mind flits back to old Magic Valley where you can see clear into tomorrow whenever you look.

Yesterday we zoomed up to the 15th floor of the Hoge building where a flock of lawyers have their hide-out. There are lawyers coming out of the woodwork everywhere up there. We watched and compared them to Idaho's men of Blackstone. Our lawyers have flavor and personality—Mr. Black, for instance, large and benign in his suit with the brown cheeks; Mr. Ryan, keen-eyed as a hawk, ruddy of face, quick of movement; and boyish, soft-spoken Branch Bird.

But these lawyers in the Hoge building all looked and acted alike. The stamp of the city was on their bald heads and in their bottle noses. We felt very sorry for them even after we peeked into their plucky offices through window blinds.

looms a distant panorama of sparkling water and great ships.

In these gasoline trucks around the land one bumps into all types of the human crowd. "The hotel clerk who acts like he had four stomachs, all of 'em ulcerated; the waitress with icicle elbows and an ex-marine boy friend; the crooked cowboy, fugitive from a rodeo, trying to lead his pony into a barn; the road-hog crowding along in his rich enamel and leather; the truck driver, twinkling his lights on curves, lustily wolfing huge pinners of steak and potato in wayside eating joints."

"The truck driver is the most independent and colorful character on the road. We admire him no end, and always touch our hat when we pass him, wheeling his great mechanical monster along America's

THE QUESTION
What is your reaction to President Truman's recent action dismissing Secretary of Commerce Wallace?

THE WINNER
Tom Farrer, Twin Falls, wins the $1 award for submitting the question chosen this week. Questions may be submitted by phone, mail or in person up to noon on Saturdays.

THE PLACE
On various streets in Twin Falls and in the city park.

THE WINNERS
Adriana Lansing, school teacher at Hurdhigh high school, correct answers in the city park. "I wonder if it just wasn't a political move."

MISS LANSING

Chester Hansen, industrial art teacher in Twin Falls high school: "I think it was about all President Truman had left to do—he hadn't much choice."

MRS. HANSEN

Dr. Clarence H. Schilt: "The way I look at the situation, it was just a case of a man not satisfying his boss and thus getting fired." Dr. Schilt added that because the present administration has no clear cut policy, "it is not surprising" that differences arise in cabinet members.

Virgil Olson, high school senior seeking the lawn of the Christian church: "I advocate Wallace's policy of friendliness toward Russia, so I think President Truman should have left him in the cabinet."

MISS OLSON

M. F. (left) Simmons, service station operator: "The only mistake the President ever made in this case was putting Wallace in the cabinet in the first place."

Requests Set On Universal Army Service

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—Six months' universal military training with the army plus additional training with four options as to how it shall be taken will be proposed by the war department when congress convenes in January, Secretary of War Robert Patterson says.

Speaking at the 68th annual conference of the National Guard association last night, Patterson said "we will urge congress to enact a plan of universal training with an initial period of six months' continuous training with the army and with further training provided by alternative courses, one of which will be service in the national guard."

In an interview Patterson explained that the other alternatives would be service with the ROTC in college, "scientific work" or "other further service with the army."

4 Year College Scholarship Is Offered by Shop

Some deserving, but as yet unknown, Twin Falls high school senior girl has a chance of winning a $1,000 four-year scholarship at any college of her choice to which she may gain admittance.

That possibility is offered by the local Sweetbriar shop, as one of 14 senior girl and women teacher scholarships amounting to $25,000 in a nine-state territorial contest sponsored by Sweetbriar shops, according to Mrs. E. N. Pettigrove, local manager.

The girl must poll 50,000 votes (for each dollar spent at the shop the purchaser is entitled to one vote for a senior girl and one for any woman actually engaged in teaching) before the contest closing date, May 31, 1947.

Teachers may win a maximum of $1,250 in an all-large scholarship, alternative would be left up to the individual offered, Patterson replied "not entirely."
