CIO Set To Erase Red Hold

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 18 (AP)—The CIO's eighth constitutional convention convened today prepared to blackball communist party interference in CIO affairs.

President Carl H. Hadden of the New Jersey state industrial union council called the 600 delegates from 41 unions claiming more than 600,000 members to order. The convention will receive a program for economic action calling for substantial wage increases, reduced taxes for low-paid workers and new federal levies on postwar excess profits.

CIO President Philip Murray took to the convention opening a declaration of unity unanimously adopted last night by his 52-voting executive board rejecting communist party interference. He expected to avoid a floor fight since the pro-Communist CIO union leaders joined in its approval.

Murray called for tax laws to "curb profiteering," increase exemptions for small individuals and married couples, reduce the exemption of $500 per child or dependent, impose a new levy on postwar excess profits, put a new tax on undistributed profits, eliminate loopholes in the capital gains tax law, the exemption on income from federal, state and municipal securities, the option permitting married couples to split income, and the exemption for substantial wage increases.

Politics Won't Be His Guide, Robins Avers

BOISE, Nov. 18 (AP)—Couching most of his remarks in reservations, except for the termination of the "no strike" agreement next month, Dr. C. A. Robins, governor-elect of Idaho, today looked as though he would not be "guided by political considerations."

The Republican physician from St. Maries who was swept into office along with the householder majority in the election after last month arrived last night and will remain here until Monday.

Cutting the 1,000 odd political jobs at present was indicated by Robins who said he did not want to be "a man looking for jobs as formerly."

He added that "he probably could maintain the present government without impairing efficiency."

Major appointments under the Republican government will be made "by the middle of December," Robins said.

After noting that other states have been able to cut personnel as much as 40 per cent, Robins said the present amount of "unfilled" positions in Idaho will be a lot of examining and expert advice before anything is done.

Robins said "before we're through with this personnel problem we should have law enforcement and highway departments in a pretty bad shape."

A move would affect about 1,400 persons in the highway department and 100 in the law enforcement department, state police and liquor law investigators.

Robins said he would like to see the legislature spend much time on the Peabody report on Idaho's educational system.

He said the problem, Robins said he believed the session would be over in 60 days.

Man Forced to Loose Burglar By Gun Threat

A burglar captured single-handed by a Twin Falls householder—then freed when the burglar threatened to shoot the householder—was the subject of a police search here today as officers hunted for four week-end burglaries.

Police held two suspects in jail in one minor burglary.

At 6:15 p. m. Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Hansen returned to their home at 329 Eighth avenue east while a burglar was in the act of ransacking the house. While Mrs. Hansen was calling police, Hansen charged him to the back door and seized him until the prowler threatened to shoot and forced Hansen to release him.

Entry had been gained through the front door, which was unlocked, and the thief had apparently not time to take any property, as a check-up disclosed nothing was missing.

Two hours after the theft of a nutcracker machine and its contents had been reported by the Hansen family, police officers, Patrolman Woodward, 22, and James Harp, 20, of Kimberly, were apprehended as suspects and are being held in jail.

Cult Convictions Upheld by Ruling Of Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—The supreme court today affirmed 6 to 3 the conviction of Mary and Charles of six members of a "fundamentalist" cult which practices plural marriage.

Justice Douglas delivered the majority opinion. It noted that the convictions of Mary and Charles were upheld by the supreme court.

The government replied that a professed religious belief in plural marriage could not be a defense for their term for it is "obscure marriage"—they were observing a marriage from God.

Icy Storm Whips Alaskan District

NOME, Alaska, Nov. 18 (AP)—Residents of this frozen city today waiting for their homes today, waiting for the second violent storm in two weeks to pass the peak of its fury.

Gale-whipped waves from the icy Bering sea rolled up over the defenses, stripped of its bulkhead defenses by the earlier storm, and broke the main street.

Temperatures dropped to 32 degrees below zero last night and wind roaring in at 45 and 50 miles an hour brought snow, fog and a freezing drizzle.

No casualties were reported.

American Girls—American Music

Music "Platters" Reflect the National Mood; Sentimental Ballads Back in '46 Recordings

By JOHN BROSNAN

Ever since Jazz jumped the Mississippi river from New Orleans to Chicago, it has cut a pretty clear off-beat recording of the nation's mood.

You probably know by heart the older disc records, even down to where the needle scratches. Then there are some new and shiny ones just out of the mold, but if you want to sit back and feel nostalgic while you play the older ones, it'll put you in the mood to see something of significance in the 1946 recordings.

Here's one, "Way Down Yonder in New Orleans," and on the other side is "Chicago." They're both fast and loud, but they seem to tell the story of the nation's mood.

Cutting the 1,000 odd political jobs at present was indicated by Robins who said he did not want to be "a man looking for jobs as formerly."

Court Sets Hearing for W. 27; Order Seeks to Avoid Stoppage of Work

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough today called on John L. Lewis to continue mining soft coal for the government for at least 10 more days.

On the government's complaint, Goldsborough signed an order restraining Lewis from terminating his contract at Wednesday midnight—a notice that already had prompted thousands of mine workers to quit their jobs in advance of the deadline. The judge directed Lewis—and the United Mine Workers—to hold the termination notice in abeyance at least until Nov. 27 when a hearing will be held on whether a temporary injunction will be issued to uphold the government's position that Lewis cannot breach his contract.

The legal action was another step in what was heralded as a showdown fight between President Truman's administration and the powerful chief of the United Mine Workers. Mr. Truman was reported determined to smash Lewis' leadership or force him to come to terms for continued production of coal.

An hour after the court's order was issued, it was served personally on Lewis at UMW headquarters by two deputy marshals. A UMW official told reporters, however, Lewis would have no statement today.

Goldsborough said that if Lewis' notice to terminate his contract Wednesday night remained in effect, the miners may walk out of the mines and refuse to resume work.

"The resultant stoppage in bituminous coal production will cause great loss and irreparable damage to the plaintiff (government)," the jurist said, adding:

"Lewis has today rejected a presidentially-enforced plan for settlement of the coal wage dispute and terminated his contract as of Wednesday midnight."

Last night Secretary of the Interior Krug issued an appeal for the miners to remain at work under this government contract which he consistently contended could be breached. Over the week-end Krug also forced all soft coal mines.

Today, with the supplies in prospect, the order of federal transportation ordered a 25 per cent reduction in railroad passenger service performed by coal burning locomotives effective at 11:59 p. m. next Sunday.

The announcement of Goldsborough's action was made by the justice department where Attorney General Tom Clark and his aides spent a busy week-end preparing the government's petition.

Goldsborough's order, the department said, expires Nov. 27 at 3 p. m. "before such time as the order is extended, or unless the defendants consent that it may be extended for a longer period."

A hearing on the justice department's request for a preliminary injunction to bar breach of contract was set for hearing Nov. 27 at 10 a. m.

The court action was taken as thousands of miners quit work, curtailing bituminous production in advance of the termination deadline given by Lewis.

According to the justice department, Goldsborough's order restrains Lewis and the United Mine Workers from "breaching any of their obligations under" the Krug settlement, and "from coercing, instigating, inducing or encouraging the miners in the government's possession, or any of them, to strike, to refuse to work, or to otherwise, with the operation of said mines."

The order of restraint, or which would impair, obstruct, or render fruitless, the determination of this case by the court.

Executive order 9728 is the order of President Truman sealing the 230 bituminous coal mines during last week's strike May 22.

Goldsborough is a justice of the federal district court here and served in congress as a Democratic representative from Maryland.

The order of restraint by Goldsborough at 12:59 p. m.

Hours before he acted as the judge, he said, miners by the thousands were quitting their jobs in advance of the Wednesday deadline.

President Truman had called for a showdown fight with Lewis over the coal strike.

The order of another nationwide soft coal strike.

Attitude of New Congress Adds Complications to Row of Miners

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Lewis has kicked up with the government over modification of his present contract with Coal Mines Administrator J. A. Krug is complicated by speculation as to what the new congresses intend to do about labor legislation.

If congress decides to "get tough" with labor, then it is to John L. Lewis' advantage to make his own deal with the government and the coal mine owners before the new congress convenes in January.

On the other hand, if the Republican congress convening in January is of mind to repeal a lot of the labor laws now on the books and pass some new ones more to the liking of management, then it is to the advantage of the coal mine owners to stall along and make no new contract till the Republican America policy is determined.

As if the Truman administration hadn't had enough bad luck already, it is now caught right square in the middle of this battle for time, facing a walkout Wednesday midnight.

A month ago, the United Mine Workers' journal carried an editorial which spelled out pretty completely the "double game" played by the miners.

It predicted an effort to pass a new labor code that will destroy the Wagner act, the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction act, and continuing the double game and hours act.

Then the editorial went on to say: "Proposals to outlaw the right of foremen to unilaterally compulsory arbitration and all the other restrictive suggestions that have been made over a period of time to harass and harass labor by government fiat are to be rolled into a legislative package for congressional approval."

No one knows exactly what John L. Lewis thinks or what he's after till he gets ready to tell. That has been borne out in past coal crises, when the people closest to Lewis have been wrong about what demands he would make for wage increases, shorter hours or changed working conditions.

The big issue in this present crisis, however, isn't what modifications may be made in the contract under which the miners work. It's getting coal. It's what the contract is getting that's important. It's getting the mines out from under government operation and control and back into the hands of the mine owners. It's getting these real owners of the mines—not the government—who should now be

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—Foreign ministers of the United Nations' five great powers met today to work out "code of conduct" to restrict the use of the veto in the U. N. security council.

The ministers moved to lift the veto issue temporarily from the U. N. assembly and add it to their own agenda, but the Russian peace treaties and beginning American peace talks.

Hope for Agreement

By joint action Bevin and Secretary of State Acheson were reported hopeful they could meet the anti-veto position of the American and simultaneously preserve cooperation with Russia, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov agreed to talk things over.

Auto Practically Wrapped Around Tree; 3 Escape

Although the 1933 sedan in which they were riding was practically demolished and its occupants were injured, three youths escaped with painful bruises and a broken arm when an accident Sunday morning near the edge of Filer.

According to Deputy Sheriff Don Scott, who investigated at 8:10, the machine was driven by Sam Uptain, 16, Buhl. Other occupants were Roy Hylton, 18, route one, Buhl, and Lee Embrey, 16, 325 North H street, Buhl.

The accident occurred when Uptain attempted to turn from U. S. highway 10 onto Yakima street, but crashed into the tree at the northeast corner of the intersection. Uptain told the officer he had attempted to pass a car in front of him, but that the vehicle, without a signal, turned left onto Yakima.

At the last minute, said the Buhl youth, he decided to make the turn also to avoid two other cars approaching from the rear. Deputy Scott described Uptain's speed as too great to negotiate the curve.

The impact, according to the report of a Filer physician by N. A. Kratz, who happened to be near the scene, resulted in painful bruising of the head, lacerations, and Embrey required several stitches to close cuts on his face.

Jump Preceded War
It looks as though there has been a jump in the past two numbers. Here's Duke Ellington singing "It Don't Mean a Thing, and here's one as jump as the jitterbugs who danced it just before the war—Harry James and the "Ole O'Clock Jump."

You'd almost think the nation was building up to something from these, wouldn't you? Well, could be, because this last one of the old pop is "Johnny Doughboy Found a Rose in Ireland."

This last record, humm, a new record, says the Howard singing, "To Each His Own."

To show you what I mean about modern music reflecting national moods, I'll tell you about some recent vinyl I had with the people who furnish the mood reflections.

I dropped around to the local music stores and talked to the people who furnish the mood reflections. I noticed that since the end of the war there's been a big drop in the demand for the old-fashioned national music, with a steady trend toward sentimental ballads. The meaning of the word "ballad" has been changed from something that holds you in suspense to something that has a hint of future to it.

Remembrance Takes Over
The slum-dog boys who furnished the slumped whole in the arm during the war have given way to Elliott Lawrence, whose band leans toward the sweet side in trying to provide what he describes as a "purple mood."

"Overseas the kids loved old jazz-music," he said recently. "But now they're back, they want sweet music. They just want to put their arms around their old friends and remember slowly. Let's not kid ourselves, that's why they like my music."

As I left one of the music stores, a couple was clamoring for a recording of "Old Buttermilk Sky," which is all about a fellow who is going to pop her the question.

I went up to visit Bob Lewis, program director of station KVMV. Overlaid at the abundance with which he talked while a recording was playing from the control room until he told me we couldn't hear it, I watched him conduct his request program in which songs of love and romance predominated.

"It's all about that way now," said Bob, "except that western music is still pop, even though most people don't want to admit it."

Wolf in etc.
State Police Officer John E. Leiser said he felt like a wolf in the state office, who is called, clothing or no clothing.

It happened Sunday morning when the state officer, who is called, clothing or no clothing, was driving along near Filer, was driving along in the family car with some other family members. He pulled up and beckoned to him to stop. The driver did. The state officer then issued the customary court citation to the fatherly motorist and also identified himself as a state officer, despite the civilian garb.

Boy Scout Drive To Start Tonight

BURLEY, Nov. 18.—The annual finance campaign of the Boy Scout drive will get under way tonight at 8 p. m. today at the Almo LDS church, James L. Hammett, field executive, announced.

Rawlins J. Harper, Malta, is finance chairman and team captain. Included in the drive are A. J. Colby, Malta; George Darrington, Elko; H. G. Oman, Vot; Utah, and F. F. Erickson, Buhl.

R. M. Maxfield, district chairman and Silver Beaver award holder, will address the group.

Music is still pop, even though most people don't want to admit it.

Rhumbus Run Second
From Lenore Otto, traffic manager (which means program director) at KTFP, I learned that she starts it up this way:

Sweet and sentimental music is most in demand, followed by that produced by small instrumental groups, such as the King Cole trio and the Three Suns. South American music places next.

Maybe there's a reaction taking place against South American music and things, though, as indicated by "South America, Take It Away," in which may be found a note of humorous repudiation.

So that's the way it stands in late 1946, with no hint of what 1947 will bring.

That is, unless you want to look upon the tin pan alley boys as being prophetic in their recent work titled, "Wait 'Til You Get Her up in a Plane, Boys."

Army Stands in Way of Big 9-PCC Tie-up for Rose Bowl

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18 (AP)—Apparently intent upon writing a new chapter of two in Rose bowl history, Pacific coast conference members from here and elsewhere along the seaboard—along with representatives of the Big Nine—began conferring today on Berkeley for an unprecedented meeting.

Delegates from the local PCC members—UCLA and Southern California—were permitted to play a leading role in any agreement reached. Their teams (angle Saturday for the title) to represent the conference in the big Jan. 1. Both are agreed that Army should be the opponent.

In Chicago, it was learned that the Big Nine, which wants a five-year closed shop pact on Pasadena grounds, might not be averse to accepting a permanent bowl alliance with the Western Conference (Big Nine) if it means slamming the door to other institutions.

On one point, all seemed agreed: tomorrow meeting should be the hottest in conference annals. It will be unique in that the entire conference will, in effect, be choosing the eastern bowl representative. The choice hereafter has rested with the PCC's Rose bowl committee of seven.

England Takes City Individual Pin Lead

Twin Falls bowling today found it had a new high average leader in Harold England, the newcomer replacing Chuck Morris and the earlier top man, Ray Frels. 3 Men Sued For $118,000

Judgment of $118,000 plus $100 for costs of suit was asked in a civil action filed in district court Monday by Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Gardner, Blingham county, against Billy P. Thoren and Loren O. Kinsford, Blingham county, and H. A. Gardner, Blingham county, as the result of a truck collision four miles south of Hansen on the Rock road Sept. 25, in which Kinsford's left arm was severed above the elbow.

Thoren, with his wife and two children, was driving south in a pickup truck and Thoren was traveling northward in a loaded one and one-half ton gravel dump truck when the two vehicles collided. Thoren was driving the truck as an employee of Kinsford, owner, who in turn was hired by Gardner. Gardner was engaged in highway construction work in Jerome county under contract with the bureau of highways of the department of public works of Idaho.

Thoren was hauling gravel in Kinsford's truck from a pit eight miles south of Hansen to a point 14 miles north of Hansen.

The complaint charges that the defendants failed to have the dump truck equipped with brakes adequate to control the truck when loaded with gravel, or to stop and hold it. It also stated that the trucks had not been properly equipped with a certain working order, and that Thoren "operated and drove the truck negligently, recklessly and with full knowledge of his excessive and imprudent speed."

Damages asked include medical expenses, hospitalization, remuneration for mental anguish and loss of future earnings capacity.

John B. Smith and H. H. Clark are attorneys for the petitioners.

Cherokee Chief Performs War Dance at School

Chief Hallstrom, a full-blooded Cherokee Indian, gave an assembly to Twin Falls high school students Friday morning. His program was a series of songs and ritual dances, and his men and other tribes. The highlight was his war dance of the Cherokee.

He told the students all tribes had a different war dance, but the same procedure. They danced for different reasons before going to battle. The Indians dance in relays in their native numbers. Chief Hallstrom's wife beat the drum on the long-tom while he danced.

The chief displayed many articles of interest to the student body. He had an Indian flag made of eagle feathers, and some different weapons Indians used in battle.

Another item displayed was his war banner.

He explained each of the many feathers signifies a scalp taken in battle. At this there was a murmur from the audience, but he stated that the banner wasn't his, it was his father's.

A moment later the chief came on stage in the regalia of a medicine man. Selecting a number of the audience as his patients, he performed the medicine man's dance.

Chief Hallstrom travels about the United States giving programs to schools, meetings, and clubs. The chief has traveled in all of the states, as well as 14 foreign countries. Chief Hallstrom speaks in many different foreign languages, including Japanese, German and Russian.
