

Dental Group Blasts Army's "Brass Hats"

CHICAGO, April 1 (AP)—The Journal of the American Dental Association asserted today that army dental officers suffered "gross maladministration" at the hands of army "brass hats" during the war and charged the army high command had "secretly" recalled the "corrective" measures it issued at the time.

The Journal said editorially that "even when this maladministration approached the stature of a national scandal and dental officers of every rank openly stated it gravely impaired the effectiveness of the army dental corps in time of war, the 'brass hats' of the medical department and the army dental corps were unwilling to move directly for correction."

The editorial said the army "threw its hat" to the medical officers two days after the Hiroshima bomb was dropped, granting several administrative concessions but "retained" a year later without giving official notice to the dental officers or dental profession.

Commenting on the editorial, Dr. Harold Hillenbrand, Chicago, general secretary of the association, said that under current army regulations "dental officers again are made subject to the same domination by medical officers and the medical corps, regardless of rank, as the expense of maintaining adequate dental health services for military personnel."

He charged that during the war, "trained dental technicians were arbitrarily assigned to other duties and dental officers were denied the right to deal directly with post commanders."

Notices Being Sent Farmers On Spud Goal

Notifiers are being sent out this week informing Twin Falls county potato growers of their acreage goals to govern this year's crop on raisinable by the county agricultural conservation committee. Chairman Ben Jackson announced Monday.

Goals are set up for producers who have reported their potato history to the county committee. Chairman Jackson pointed out. Producers not satisfied with the committee findings have 10 days in which to appeal for reconsideration. The officials warned that growers who are not sure whether potato goals have been established for their farms should apply to the county committee for acreage determinations. Applications must be in writing and must be filed with the committee by April 10. Such growers, otherwise, will not be eligible for price support on this year's crop. The reports must be made early enough to enable the committee to set goals before potatoes are planted. He emphasized.

Producers on farms for which no potato goals were set will be eligible for price support if the acreage of the farm does not exceed 2.9 acres. Such producers must give advance notice to the county committee, however, that they want to be considered eligible for price support. Those not included on records of the county committee may request allotments in writing at the ACA office in Twin Falls.

$10,000 in Death Denied by Council

A written request for payment of $10,000, as the result of the drowning of a 10-year-old youth in the Twin Falls municipal swimming pool last summer, was denied by the city council at its Monday night meeting.

Mrs. Elsie Parrott requested the sum for the death of her son, Fred Parrott, 16, on the night of July 21, 1946.

Her letter indicated the youth was killed as the result of suction from valves being opened at the bottom of the pool. However, the city council expressed the opinion that investigation had shown the valves were opened during the search for the boy's body.

ON THE SPORTS FRONT

These Wells brothers-in-law are an interesting lot in fact, so interesting they hold the athletic champion's year around.

Ray and Johnny have just completed a season of basketball in which they made the first of the big attractions in the Magic Valley, winning one out of two tournaments and finishing in the runner-up position in another.

Now it's brother Rust's turn. He'll be the family big shot when the football season rolls around about six weeks from now. Oh, yes, Ray and Johnny play football, too, but it's Rust who has the head lines.

Rust has his team all picked. It will carry the Brewster banner instead of the National League and will show several of the state's best players.

"We'll have the greatest football season ever," Rust told the Magic Valley Sports Review as they break-fast together the other morning.

"Already half dozen teams have been organized and have backers. They could go to the post tomorrow."

The senior of the Wells brothers said that he would favor a league of six or eight of the strongest teams.

"We had too many teams in the league last season," he said. "Oh, yes, there could be other leagues, but I don't believe we should have a league with half of the teams weak and pushovers for the others."

Rust said he believed Twin Falls could have the state tournament this season if the football players here really went after it.

"But we must get our lights for night games first," he said.

AND THAT'S THAT FOR NOW, except that J. B. Harris may have a state high school basketball championship just around the corner.

Future Gloomy if Rivals Wait for Young Cardinals to Wear Out

By HARRY GRAYSON

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 1

—What strikes you more than anything else about this flock of Cardinals is their youthfulness.

The Red Birds are remarkably young for an outfit that has won four pennants in the last 10 years and were barely beaten out of the fifth. Their average age is less than 27, with Terry Moore the oldest member of the group at 34.

It seems that St. Louis must have been a reserve yet. Stan Musial has twice been the major league batting champion and served a year in the navy, but is only 26.

Outside of Country Slaughter and

Moore, not a key man is 30, and Slaughter who kept right on going to win the deciding run home in the World Series last fall won't be 31 until April 27. Schoendienst is 24, Kuroshi 22, Harry Walker 23, Grapaglia, the first-string catcher, has just become of age. Rice is 24, Wilber 22, Howie Pollock won't be 25 until June and Red Munger, who is expected again to be a "big right-hander" this trip, is 28.

It goes without saying that the future of rivals would hardly be bright if they waited for the current St. Louis Nationals to wear out, and replacements for their stars have already satisfactorily shown themselves—Hearn, Ken Johnson, Grit, Blare, McLeod, Pappal and Yochim, among the pitchers; infielders Glaviano, Greer and Binnam; and outfielders Diering, Horton and Basco.

This collection of Red Birds may well break the record held jointly by the Giants of 1921-22-23 and Yankees of 1923-24-25 by winning five straight flags.

COACHES SAY CLASSIC DATE WILL BE TOO LATE

The setting of March 24 for the annual Idaho high school track and field meet by the athletic board of control may confine the big event to athletes from schools in the immediate vicinity of Moscow, its site, a Magic Valley coach said last night.

The Idaho Coaches association had requested that the meet be held at Boise on May 17.

"There will be a lot of schools in southern and eastern Idaho that will not have representation at Moscow on May 24," the coach said.

With examinations now closing problems at that time, it will be almost impossible for some of them to spare the time for the long trip to Moscow.

So confident were the Magic Valley coaches that the athletic board would see the reasonableness of the May 17 date that they set the district and other meets to conform with the state meet.

STATE TRACK MEET ENTRY MAY BE CUT

Kendrick Wins Big Hunt Mess Hall Will Become Rifle Club Range

In Last Minute

The Kendrick track club might have such doubts creep on the state high school basketball championship ships they defeated the Moreland team, 24-20, and won the class B crown, held last season by the American Falls Damblers.

The game was the third in the series for the title. Moreland won the first game Friday night, but Kendrick came back to tie the series Saturday night, this sending the tournament into a third day.

At the end of the second period, the game tonight dragged at several points. After Kendrick had counted the first point, Moreland jumped into an 8-1 lead, only to have the Tigers tie up the count at 8-8 on the second period.

The teams played on even terms until before the end of the half when a field goal and a free throw gave Kendrick a 13-11 lead.

Moreland got two quick baskets at the start of the third quarter and maintained the advantage to the conclusion of the third frame, leading at that point, 24-22. With only four minutes to go the Eagles with a two-point advantage seemed stalling tactics. However, Kendrick obtained possession of the ball on a quick break Frank Dammond, the Tigers center, cared the ball from under the basket. A moment later Herb Kirsch, called by the university coach "the best high school basketball player in Idaho," took the ball on a quick break and a conference with owner Clark Griffith in his hotel suite.
