'Fight Aggression In All Its Forms,' Truman Declares

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—President Truman, introduced to an enthusiastically cheering Democratic audience as "the man" for the party in 1948, called tonight for "a positive stand" against aggression abroad and for resistance to tax cuts and to rising prices at home.

The President summoned his fellow Democrats to fight against Republican-sponsored "so-called economies" in government funds which he described as "an invitation to disaster."

He declared that the United States has a responsibility to "stand guard" before the United Nations and "when necessary, supplement its activities."

In the discussion of attempts to cut his 1948 fiscal year budget Mr. Truman cautioned specifically against "cutting money and lives" by reducing the effectiveness of the armed forces.

Boomed for 1948

On the eve of the late, he told a $10-a-plate Jefferson Club dinner that in a period of high income "it would be extremely shortsighted to cut down the federal revenue without making a real effort toward debt reduction."

The introduction putting into direct words the 1948 implications present in the whole affair came from Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas, Democratic leader in the house.

Local cheers, whistling and hand clapping greeted Rayburn's avowal that in the President's stand he has the man to carry the party's standard in the next campaign.

Speech Drafted

Praise for Mr. Truman's speech came from men of varying views within the Democratic party.

His only opponent of the Republican party by name came in a departure from his prepared text, at the point where he said the budget for the fiscal year 1947 would balance.

And that was done without aid from the Republican party, he remarked.

His theme was that the United States must maintain "a sound economy."

Many prices now, he asserted, are "unusually high" and have been brought down by our entire economy, not to our own.

For his own part, the chief executive pledged "stringent economy" in government and announced definitely that he would not run for a second term in 1952.

Mr. Truman, while saying nothing about his plans for the next election, set forth his stand on the prime domestic issues of taxes, spending and prices.

Used the occasion, also, to amplify his doctrine of "limited government" which he said would be "wrecked on the rocks of paper money," and commended both Democrats and Republicans who have supported it.

'Renew Faith,' Speaker Tells Idaho Demos

BOISE, April 5 (AP)—Idaho Democratic leaders were urged tonight by Attorney General Grover A. Giles to "renew faith in the virtues and ideals of the political philosophy and to dedicate ourselves to a militant aggressive action to restore our government in the affairs of our country."

After an address at the Gem state dinner on defense day dinner at the Idaho hotel, Giles said that "the day through tomorrow lack of ground and vision we choose to surrender to the adversary party. There was no such reason in the 1946 campaign."

Replaced Taylor

The Utah attorney general came to Boise on less than a hour's ride after Sen. Glen H. Taylor, 1946, the scheduled speaker, was grounded by bad weather on a flight from Washington, D. C.

Giles was introduced to the nearly 300 Democratic party members by former Gov. Arnold W. Benson, brother-in-law of the guest speaker, and introduced the other special guests, including State Chairman Charles E. Smith, and Sen. Hiram Allen, former state chairman, and others.

Referring to "Differences"

In an intelligent, energetic, and forthright manner, Giles asserted that "this can and will link us in 1948 with the past to compose our differences."

Reasons Listed for High Gas Cost Here

Reasons why Idaho gasoline is higher than in surrounding states, as taken from a letter to Sen. Henry C. Dvorshak from the Idaho Petroleum Association, are listed below in response to the U. S. senator's request for an investigation of the price problem.

The letter from Attorney General Tom C. Clark, received here Saturday, points out that gasoline prices charged by oil companies and service stations are uniform at each sales outlet.

Idaho. This situation results from what is termed a "follow the leader" price policy, resulting when each oil company follows the prices charged by other companies.

Also, the communication indicates that Idaho gas prices are based on the tank-wagon price at the nearest refinery center, plus the all-rail freight rate to the destination.

The nearest hauling point for most of southern Idaho is Salt Lake City. The freight rate amounts to approximately two cents per gallon.

"Another factor which causes higher prices in Idaho than in other states is the higher service station mark-up," the letter continues. This mark-up is from four to four and one-half cents on regular gasoline, compared to a national average mark-up of about three cents.

"Three various factors combine to cause prices in Idaho to run from three to four or five cents higher than in certain Utah cities," the attorney general said.

He cites an action now pending brought by the department of justice against the American Petroleum Institute, charging violations of the anti-trust laws "by combining and conspiring to monopolize." Price-fixing is also charged.

"I have directed the anti-trust division to devote particular attention to prices and pricing practices of the oil industry, affecting Idaho, as well as other states, with a view of insuring an additional case on this narrow issue of price fixing, should such action be warranted," the letter concludes.

Attorney General Clark also indicates that anti-trust legislation enacted by Congress in 1936 and 1937 is being enforced by the department of justice.

Extension of Mine Walkout Indicated By Union's Orders

PITTSBURGH, April 5 (AP)—Strong indications that a large portion of the nation's 400,000 soft coal miners will remain idle after Sunday midnight were seen tonight in orders issued by some United Mine Workers (AFL) district leaders backing up UMW President John L. Lewis.

After Lewis asked Interior Secretary Krug to close all but two of the country's more than 2,000 bituminous mines — and Krug refused — scattered UMW district officials began directing locals to stop certifying mines as safe until federal inspectors gave the pits the once over.

West Virginia and Pennsylvania, and 2 coal-producing states respectively with 100,000 miners each, were among the first to feel the effects. Two of three West Virginia district offices sent out "stop certification" orders and at least two Pennsylvania district heads took similar action.

Parley Fails to Stop Phone Strike Threat

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach expressed hope tonight of settling the dispute which threatens a nationwide telephone strike Monday and appealed to union members to "keep on working" while negotiations continue.

"Anything can happen between now and Monday morning," Schwellenbach said in a statement.

"I am asking all telephone employees to remain calm and to keep on working until they learn the results of these eleven hour discussions."

A union official in New York had predicted that the telephone workers there would "jump the gun" and start walking out ahead of the 6 a. m. Monday deadline.

Schwellenbach's statement came after lengthy talks with J. A. Heine, president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, and C. F. Craig, vice-president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. The secretary said each party.

Intense Negotiations

In intense negotiations between the union and company representatives, both in Washington and at the state level, the secretary said.

Schwellenbach's statement added: "The telephone industry is a public utility. It is essential that it continue to operate without interruption."

The secretary said that the government is hopeful of settling the strike but has no progress on the 10 major issues in dispute.

No Progress Told

The labor department planned to go ahead with conciliation talks far into the night.

The negotiations went on until midnight, when Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach said that the government is hopeful of settling the strike but has no progress on the 10 major issues in dispute.

Dismissal Given In Check Charge Case Filed Here

A request for permission not to file information and for dismissal of action in the case of the state of Idaho against Carl L. Guffey was filed in district court Friday by Prosecuting Attorney Everett M. Swetley, and granted by Judge James W. Porter, who ordered the cause for action dismissed.
 Guffey was being held under $1,500 bond and the case was bound over to district court April 1 by Probate Judge S. T. Hamilton on felony charges of obtaining money under false pretenses. The complaint was signed by Charles Casey who charged Guffey cashed $325.50 worth of checks signed by Raymond Anderson, allegedly knowing Anderson had no bank account.

Listed as reasons in Swetley's request for dismissal were that in the preliminary hearing in probate court March 31, Guffey had claimed that he did not know the checks were worthless, and that further investigation indicated Guffey's contention may be corroborated to such an extent as to make conviction before a jury doubtful, especially as the money obtained had been repaid to those accepting the checks.

Airman Escapes Serious Injury; Plane Destroyed

Although he escaped with only minor injuries, a small airplane piloted by Rex D. Jenkins, 291 Van Buren, was totally destroyed in a crash Friday night about 40 miles west of Wendover, Utah. He had just purchased the airplane, equipped with crop dusting apparatus, in Coaling, Calif., and was bringing it here.

Jenkins said the craft was not insured because of high rates on crop-dusting airplanes. He had planned to use his newly-acquired airplane in crop dusting operations here this summer, with Lloyd Graybill, last summer, Jenkins was associated in that field with Peris Lind.

Jenkins, 29, a student at Idaho State college, Pocatello, and spends his summer vacations as a crop-duster.

One man in the write-in column was Graydon Smith who received 19 votes for commissioner. Receiving one vote apiece for councilmen were Verle Moore, A. S. Henson, A. H. Hensen, Kenneth Shook and W. O. Smith.

Senator Proposes Greeks Ballot 'to Prove Democracy'

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Senator Russell, D. Ga., proposed today that congress require a new vote by the Greek people on their form of government as a condition to American aid, despite a senate foreign relations committee report that such a move would violate the spirit of the Greek-Turkey assistance program.

Russell told a reporter he does not believe either Greece or Turkey has a democratic government. He added that the aid program should be required for what it is—a move to assist the Greek people.

Senator Taylor, D. Ida., a vigorous opponent of the $400,000,000 aid bill, agreed with Russell that the Greek government is undemocratic. Taylor, who has proposed with Senator Pepper, D. Fla., that the Greek-Turkey problem be turned over to the United Nations, said he sees behind the aid program "an oil grab" to benefit "American monopolies." Some critics of the proposal contend its main value would be to safeguard U. S. oil concessions in Arabia.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

By INEZ PUCKETT

The Easter. All over Magic Valley the deers are going to worship in their meadows and clover. By now the kids have whopped and hollered their way behind every bush and tree where a jeweled-colored egg is likely to have been hidden. All day they will be peering and stuffing, dashing about with yolk on their faces and dribbles of vivid shrill down their fronts. Junior, "neared" on by his pals, is apt to overdo the hen-trust. About dusk he will get a stomach ache.

Long before the church fathers made it a Christian event, Easter was an ancient festival to "Astra," the goddess of spring. The people made bonfires, burned "Paschal tapers" which symbolized the resurrection of Christ, and had a joyful time. In countries like Idaho where the seasons are definite, this celebration to spring really means something. After months of winter snow and bleak skies, you get out some March morning and actually smell a change. The trees are still bare and brown, the earth is still sear, but beyond the horizon the feet of spring can be heard running toward you, and nothing can stop her. It is a wonderful experience.

The "mechanical moon" is a machine made of orange sticks, knitting needles, paper clips, pins, toothpicks and matches. It has an electric motor which makes it jump and jerk in an awe-inspiring manner. Guss Burgess, the author, has a party named "Pier," pick up unbroken stuff around the country, mostly old and discarded. The average pin or orange stick, he says, is a little more sluggish at catching on than your teeth. "I've seen a tooth that was in for a while," he said. "They were used for light bulbs in the old days. A lot of them are quick mitters, and so are oranges. They are flimsy and stubborn."

Some of this young cowboy's horse-training philosophy assumes a lecture in the care and handling of children. "You have to take a child and handle him," he said. "No harsh treatment. Cowboys Train in Valley of Moon

AQUA CALIENTE, Calif., April 5.—The advance guard of the Twin Falls Cowboys, consisting mainly of pickers, greeted Manager Earl Boyd today for the first workout of spring training, but rain rained the boys out of the field to delay the schedule. The Cowboys are candidates to take advantage of the weather to get acquainted with their beautiful surroundings, the famed Valley of the Moon, one of the most fertile spots in these United States.

ON THE SPORT FRONT

There's a big note out in the Coz league and its reverberations can be heard all the way to Twin Falls, and so far as the Coz Sport Service is concerned, they beat picked the team to play in the Coz league.

The big note is Joe Brown, the former Salt Lake City outfielder who is setting his third and probably last—chance with the San Francisco Seals of the Coast league. Joe is playing the ball all over the lot. The other night the six-foot-three home run hitter hit a 404-foot home run and followed this up with a 320-foot triple.

The fans will recall that big Joe came to Twin Falls in mid-season leading the league and on a batting streak that was approaching the 300 mark. But when he stood of a half dozen grandstand wolves here and they rode him into a batting slump.

Joe was helpless here. The hefty youngster couldn't have hit the home run even had it been served up to him on a string. He did better but his chance to lead the circuit's hitters was left in jeopardy.

But the wolves weren't done. That was troubling Joe while he was here—something that YOSS learned from the big outfielder himself during the play-off series in Salt Lake City.

Joe was in love—love that Uncle Sam wouldn't allow him to marry into marriage.

Brown was an ex-serviceman, as you may know. While stationed in Austria he met a blond fraulein and they fell deeply in love. But she was of an enemy nation and the army authorities barred the door to matrimony.

The baseball player was returned to the U.S. and mustered out. Later Uncle Sam lifted the restrictions on marriages between U.S. citizens and enemy nationals. But Joe needed $500 to bring the blond fraulein to the United States, and when he was here he was trying to collect that $500 with his bat. It is, indirectly, his last season with the willow meant his advancement to the Coast league and on to the major leagues.

The gardeners' love affair wasn't any secret. It couldn't have been the manager about his being in love and displaying half dozen photographs of his blond fraulein that he carried in his wallet always.

Now, the ancient word padder wonders, like the fair Austrian arrived in America to give Uncle Sam a beating punch?

ALL THAT THAT FOR NOW, except: Where are the Bruins going to play their baseball games in Twin Falls with many a diamond available?
