

Schools Face Critical Time, Savant Avers

BOISE, April 26 (AP)—Edna B. Stott, Wyoming state superintendent of public instruction, said today that because more than one-third of the nation's teachers, or more than 350,000, left the profession during 1944-45, "education is now faced with the greatest crisis in history."

In a address delivered before a luncheon meeting here of National Federation of Women's Republican club delegates from nine western states, she declared "one of the urgent responsibilities of all of us... is to immediately begin doing our share in solving this problem which confronts the educational program of this country."

Another luncheon speaker, Mrs. Glenn Suthers, Chicago, former president of the national federation, said the Republican controlled congress is fulfilling its campaign pledges for tax relief, sound labor legislation and reduction of government waste.

Mrs. Suthers in her prepared address outlined a seven-point program for the federation members to follow before the 1948 campaign and election which she said would be "the most crucial of our time."

Mrs. Stott said, "It is very important that women should serve to a greater extent than they now do in state legislatures, state boards and state and local committees, school boards, pardon boards, educational boards and many others are enriched by the feminine touch."

Mrs. Robert W. Macaulay, Washington, D. C., assistant chairman of the Republican National committee, said that American women "freed from the broom and the washboard by modern labor saving devices" should participate to a greater extent in public affairs.

Henry Busse Reminded of 1926 Solo That Made Music History

By JOHN BROSNAN

Henry Busse picked up his gold-plated trumpet and blew into it speculatively.

He pushed a mute into the end and blew it again. Around him his 16 musicians were also warming up. Henry Busse blew speculatively into his trumpet and then sat back to wait for the Paul Whiteman orchestra to make a routine recording of "When Day Is Done." The orchestration called for a muted trumpet solo. When the time came, Busse lifted his horn and from it came musical history.

Second collectors prize this masterpiece of early jazz styling.

Busse, who is short and dark and wears horn-rimmed glasses, acted at first as though he hadn't been right when asked about the part he played in "When Day Is Done."

"He had probably expected to be asked what he thought the trend in jazz modern music was," he said, "but he walked over to the side of the hall and sat down before answering."

"Oh, yes," he said, "I was famous that recording was to become."

"You never know. 'You never know what will hit. I just said and it came out right.'"

"Back in 1926... I was with Whiteman for 10 years, and then I got my own band in 1930."

Busse reached for a cigarette, looked around and then looked at his watch. It was nearly time to start so he was just time for three obvious questions.

"Where did you get the idea for your shuffle rhythm?" That's the introductory riddle to the Busse band arrangements that's as much Busse as his theme, "Hot Lips."

"We just stumbled onto it while rehearsing... got jammin' around and ran into it."

Came obvious question No. 2.

"District chairmen and district commissioners have been invited to attend with their camping leaders."

"What is the trend in modern music?" said Busse emphatically. "That's what I been telling them for a week about. Yes, it's definitely 'sweet,' he added for emphasis, as the sweet bands that had such a tough time of the war and before, are now making in their heyday."

"All the big hot bands are breaking up," Busse said, clinching the point. "The Busse band plays on the sweet side mostly."

Obvious question No. 3. "What do you think of Twin Falls?"

"I couldn't recall the place until I got into town," said Busse. Then as I drove in it all came back to me.

He never did get around to passing a candid opinion on Twin Falls patterns of the dance.

But then, that's understandable. Wednesday night he played at the Flamingo in Las Vegas. Friday night in Boise. Saturday night at Pullman, Wash. Sunday at Tacoma, Monday at Victoria, B. C. Tuesday at St. Vernon, Wash. Wednesday at Spokane. Thursday at Seattle, then 11 days at Portland, then nine days at Salt Lake City, this summer he holds court at Chicago.

It's just all in the night's work.

"You never know. 'You never know what will hit. I just said and it came out right.'"

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG POT SHOTS

COMPLAINTS—The 36 American newspapermen who met at Moscow conference on foreign news have forwarded confidential complaints to their home offices about George C. Marshall's attitude toward the country's press representation. Although admitting his ability, they question the wisdom of his aloofness at such a critical moment.

Unlike Secretary Acheson and his staff, according to these reports, Secretary Marshall has not kept the American press in touch with the government through briefing of this nation's newspaper representatives. He saw them only once during the month of the meeting, and on both occasions they had no chance to talk to him intimately or socially.

In the past it has been the custom for the head of the American delegation to keep American reporters informed on all matters affecting this nation's welfare.

ROBERT—Secretary Marshall, according to these critics, acts as if he were still chief of staff. During the war, security considerations naturally prevented him from outlining his plans. Now will he permit his publicity man to make the enemy's ally Michael McDermott, to give an off-the-record "fill-in" to the American correspondents.

It is a pity that the writer made this criticism of the American secretary of state, for they have been impressed by his great ability, integrity and his ability to keep the enemy's ally Michael McDermott, to give an off-the-record "fill-in" to the American correspondents.

WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—Assistant Secretary of State William Benton was justifying the other day before a House appropriations subcommittee, on the state department's information program.

Suddenly Chairman Karl Stefan interrupted the other day before a House appropriations subcommittee, on the state department's information program.

Another time when Benton faced Stefan, the chairman held up photographs of modern paintings which state department purchased and displayed in Europe. He demanded that Benton tell him what the pictures were about. This went on for several hours.

It so happened that, at that very moment, the pictures were being exhibited in Prague, where they attracted so much favorable attention that President Eduard Benes asked permission to show them in other cities in Czechoslovakia. He even got the Czech government to pay $6000 to pay for the cost of sending the exhibit around the country.

The pictures in the exhibit cost the state department about $40,000, which was the occasion for much jeers by committee members. Not long afterward, a prominent art firm in New York offered to buy them for half again as much as had been paid for them. Incidentally, the modern exhibit is one of several the department is circulating. One particularly striking exhibit is industrial art.

There is a terrible irony in all this. Among those who sneer and sneer louder at any effort to further understanding between peoples are the noisiest avowed-artists who talk about spending billions for "defense" in every corner of the globe. Not one cent for understanding but billions for armaments, seems to be their motto.

BOB HOPE

For the past week the California Chamber of Commerce has been sponsoring debates, "Do we have an earthquake or not?"

I figured they were just bouncing the pedestrians a little hard this year.

It's a amusing how the natives react to these quakes. I greeted one fellow after another with the words "Yes, sir, when one of these California earthquakes hits the ground, you know it."

It was really a shock. I visited Professor Coleman's house later and the walls were more cracked than the professor.

He had a picture of Whistler's mother hanging on the wall and she was doing the rhumba.

It shook things up out in the country, too. In fact, one farmer reported that his chickens were laying nothing but eggs.

Nobody at the studio noticed the quake. Betty Hutton was rehearsing.

It took me, too. I thought Sinatra had dropped one of his muscles.

It caused a great deal of confusion among drivers. One house, riding home, stopped a cop and said, "Officer, arrest that street. It's drunk."

Episcopal Vicar Goes to Capital

GOODENO, April 26—The Rev. John W. Goodeno, vicar of Trinity Episcopal church, Goodeno, St. Barnabas' Episcopal church, Wendell, Calvary Episcopal church, Jerome, and Christ Episcopal church, Shoshone, left April 18 for a two week's trip to Washington, D. C., where he will attend a theological conference at the College of Preachers, of the Washington national cathedral, Mount St. Alban.

The Rev. Mr. Goodeno is being sent by the national council of the Protestant Episcopal church and the district of Idaho. On route he will visit churches in Chicago. During his absence the Rt. Rev. Frank A. Rhea, bishop of Idaho, will conduct service at Calvary church, Jerome, and at the other three churches Sunday.

FAIR TRADE AND HIGH PRICES

One factor seems generally to have been overlooked in all the appeals to manufacturers to cut prices and reduce living costs. That is the right to fix retail prices which the majority of states grant many manufacturers.

That right dates back to the depression years. Price-cutting wars were on in many retail lines. They ruined numerous small businesses and sometimes cut the price-cutter's own throat. In 1931 the California legislature passed a fair trade law which allowed certain manufacturers to set the retail price of their products. Other states followed suit. Now only Vermont, Missouri, and Texas are without some such statute.

The states' right to permit a producer to fix specific or minimum retail figures was upheld by the U. S. supreme court in 1938. Justice Sutherland, who wrote the decision in the test case, said this law neither gave a private person price-fixing powers nor the right to use compulsion. However technically true that may be, the result was that a manufacturer could say to the retailer, in effect, "You don't have to buy my product, but if you do you must agree to sell at my price."

The small retailer and the manufacturer liked this protection. It permitted the former to compete profitably with the chain stores in selling most trademarked goods. It avoided cheapening a high-quality product on which the manufacturer had lavished high-powered advertising. Under the fair trade laws were a help at a time of depressed business conditions.

Today, of course, the story is quite different. Many retailers want to cut prices even though it means cutting profit margins. They want to not only because many overpriced items are not selling, but also because they have good sense and what might be called economic patriotism. But cutting prices on goods protected by fair trade laws constitutes an unfair trade practice and carries heavy penalties.

So prices have stayed up and continued to rise, in spite of high production and increasing buyer resistance. Manufacturers' explanations of this state of affairs have not been entirely convincing.

The peril of high prices has been pointed out repeatedly. But pleas for their reduction have generally gone unheeded. If no voluntary action is forthcoming soon, there are two possible but unsatisfactory remedies. Fair trade laws might be suspended temporarily, or price controls might be reimposed.

Any thought of reviving OPA is discouraging. Its peacetime operation was inefficient and unpopular.

The big difficulty in any action involving fair trade laws is that most state legislatures will not meet again until January, 1948. So special sessions would have to be called.

Voluntary action by manufacturers, with an assist from the unions, would go far toward averting the threat of depression and easing management-labor tensions. But if such action is not forthcoming soon, the scales may have to tilt seriously about amending their fair trade laws as a partial and imperfect emergency measure.

NOT HUNGRY

Herb West, the Boy Scout impresario, was attending a banquet in Burley the other night. A large flying saucer (and some kind of insect) zoomed around the table and came in for a landing—on Herb's dinner.

He called the waitress' attention to the trapped insect struggling in the saucer, and remarked, "It's all right, he won't eat it."

And Herb didn't get a new dessert. He scraped the insect from the plate of the one he had and ate it.

The cards read:

Dear Pot Shola:

I want to say "ta's off" to the little woman who drove the Studebaker car during the Rupert city election Tuesday.

She offered to drive a voter to the polls, knowing he would vote against her husband, who was a candidate. The voter accepted the ride, incidentally.

Yours truly, Rupert Voter

DESPERADO

Pot Shola:

Noticed in the Times-News of the capture in Italy of the prisoner who escaped from Jerome and the number of men that took part.

He really must have been a desperate character with three sheriffs, one deputy and two state patrolmen involved. Noticed that he was caught in a shower room. Was he taking a bath? If so how many officers were necessary if he had his clothes on?

OUR NEW NEUTRALITY

President Truman has requested changes in our neutrality acts of the 1930's as they apply to the shipping of arms and other military equipment to foreign countries. Under the acts we were required to treat aggressor and aggrieved, pacemaker and troublemaker alike, as Mr. Truman pointed out.

That seems an unusual form of neutrality today, since obviously it must have strengthened our future enemies. Therefore, Mr. Truman proposes that the government be allowed some discretion in permitting arms shipments.

Some may think that in doing this he is again "bypassing the United Nations." For the UN charter gives the security council authority to impose sanctions of various kinds, including arms embargoes, in the event that peace is breached or that to regulate arms shipments when no threat is visible.

Some such peacetime control seems necessary for us, for it is doubtful that we can ever again be "neutral" in the prewar sense. So long as the struggle between freedom and oppression continues, America seems destined to take sides.

LOG CABIN STATESMEN

According to the best information available only one member of the 80th congress was born in a log cabin. Rep. A. Leonard says in his official autobiography he was born in a log cabin at Winnfield, La.

There was a time in American politics when it was an asset to have had such lowly origin. It was emphasized to give substance to the claim that a citizen, regardless of his early political life, could become President. Now the log cabin of early days has disappeared from the scene. Those remaining are to be found in tourist resorts, with all modern conveniences, at a fixed fee per day.

Nevertheless, how honest, to say nothing of log cabins, would become America's—President was born there. Children come into the world in these modern times in hospitals, to the advantage of both mother and child.

Politicians of the future who aspire to the presidency must present some other claim to greatness than the log cabin endorsement is out.—Elinore, Winfield, Record.

UNHAPPY CHOICE

At a Moscow press conference an American reporter asked Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vishinskiy what would be likely to happen in Germany if the Big Four conference should reach no agreement.

Said Mr. Vishinskiy, "I don't know why it should be thought that there will be no results. There will be some—fuller or lesser, positive or negative."

The subtle difference between no agreement and a negative result is one lesson in logic which we hope the world will be spared by the foreign ministers.

Texan Has Own Plan to Slash Taxes, Reduce National Debt

Editor, Times-News: We hear much about cutting personal income taxes and reducing the national debt. I would do it this way:

1. Replace the present bank credit system with a single unit-dollar money system. After that, require banks to borrow money needed for loans from the U. S. Treasury at wholesale interest rates of, say, 20 per cent on security the government and depositors will accept. Banks, in turn, loan dollar money to borrowers at retail interest rates of, say, four per cent on security the banks will accept. This would not bank squander under the "profit system" to earn, not create, profits. We would have a 100 per cent sound and understandable money system.

She Says Henry Ford Made Own Place in World

Editor, Times-News: "Some men are born great, some achieve greatness and some have greatness thrust upon them."

Henry Ford was one who achieved greatness by his own efforts. Now, I am not thinking of the money he made, but of the good he accomplished with his money.

How the world laughed at his "tin lizzie" but the world is now laughing today but trying to do him honor for his real, his faithfulness in business, his thoughtfulness toward his workers. He treated them as partners in business. He always looked after them and he paid them good wages, built recreation halls, swimming pools and had the best of food to entertain them on Ford programs.

Yes, he was a fine unselfish man, worthy of the praise of a nation—a nation which he loved and he respected and he did help to make great. Yet he started out with less than $25 per week, while his workers now earn more than in a day. He worked long hours in a dingy shop for he never watched the clock to see if he had worked eight hours or 10. If he had, he wouldn't have been the great benefactor.

He made his plans safe, air-conditioned and altogether nice for his workers. But no one thought to make it safe for Henry Ford to build his first model. He didn't think of government aid, nor did he think the government owed him a living. He knew it was up to Henry Ford to make good, while making a good car at a fair price.

God had given him his talents and he meant to use them for the benefit of mankind, knowing quite well that a man will be judged according to his works, whether they be good or evil.

New 'Ag' Club at Farragut Asking Seeds for Study

Editor, Times-News: The Farragut college agricultural department, which was recently organized, has acquired some 200 acres of agricultural land to be devoted to experimental work in agriculture. The agricultural students at Farragut have organized an "Ag club." The members of our club are very much interested in this experimental farm program, and we are doing everything possible to aid in the establishment and progress of the experimental unit. We feel that this project through participation in actual operation and management affords us an excellent opportunity to gain the type of training we desire.

Farragut college is struggling under a financial handicap at present, and the purpose of the "Ag club" in writing to you at this time is to request assistance in the development of its farm project. It is felt that farmers and farm organizations in the Twin Falls area could aid us materially by furnishing initial loads of certified seed for our various plots.

The following is a list of the seed desired for the project: 150 to 200 pounds of medium red clover seed, 100 pounds of Alsike clover seed, 150 pounds of smooth Bromo grass seed, 50 pounds of crested wheat grass seed, 50 pounds of Grimm alfalfa seed, three bushels Hanchen six row barley seed, 15 bushels Idaho oats, four bushels Marion oats.

Samples of a wide variety of seeds of all kinds would be very beneficial for study, analysis, and identification.

Any help you may be able to offer in this respect will be greatly appreciated by both agricultural students and the faculty.

28 Men From 8 States Win Youth Authors Given Award for Tolerance Works

YAKIMA, Wash., April 26 (AP)—Luck of the draw gave 28 winners a new hope for a prosperous future as modern "homesteaders" on the Yakima River irrigation project. They were the winners of a "liberal" drawing by the U. S. reclamation bureau from a list of 1,272 approved applicants. They represent eight states and many walks of life—but one of the qualities for qualification was background of farm experience to give them a running start on their new opportunity.

C. W. Lindgren, acting superintendent of the Yakima reclamation project, said that except for a small percentage of the winners, the "promised land" will be theirs outright, but they will have to pay for future irrigation and construction costs.

$3,000 Capital

One of the requirements was that each victor have $3,000 of capital or credit for the start of their farming venture.

Some of the acreage, adjacent to one of the nation's oldest reclamation developments in the Yakima valley, already are in partial production.

None of the winners was present when the names were drawn, but one wife, Mrs. Ernest Levens of nearby Sunnyside, Wash., was on hand in the hall port grandstand to let her husband of surprise when her husband's name was No. 71 out of the bowl. Levens is a state engineer.

Four Idahoans

States represented among the 28 winners were Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah, California, Montana, Kansas and Colorado.

The winners from Idaho are Leonard H. Hight, Eugene C. Ketter, Rexburg, and Fred J. Stephens, Ashton.

The first alternate drawn included John J. Butler, Parma.

Odd Fellow Head Visits at Hailey

HAILEY, April 26—Nathan Smith, Nampa, grand master of the Grand lodge of the Idaho Odd Fellows, was honored guest at the regular meeting of Rising Star lodge No. 12, Hailey, recently.

The business meeting he addressed the large crowd present. Refreshments were served by Mrs. E. G. Foster and Mrs. Benjamin Wyatt.

Thursday morning Smith was taken for a two-hour airplane trip with Bob Savaris of the local air club and accompanied by Anthony Bonin and Doryl Martindale. They flew over Camas prairie, the Smokey, Stanley basin, South Boise and Moulton country.

IOOF INITIATES

HAILEY, April 26—Bellevue IOOF initiated new members into the order at the regular meeting recently. Receiving the degree were Orville Camara, Bellevue, and Reed Goringe.

Grand John Selvers officiated at the ceremony. Refreshments were served by Nick Werry, John Whit, Jack Davies and Lester Larson.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

By INEZ FUCKETT

According to experts who test us on speech, 52 per cent of us are sloppy in the matter. Here are some of the main speech flaws: Perfectionism, for particular, was for was, what for what, catch, seven for eleven, don'tch for don't you, willja for will you, noo for new.

These speech experts say we all don't use our tongue, lips, and jaws enough when speaking. Were just plump lazy when speaking the breeze, and the worst example of this is our grunts for yes and no. "Uh-huh" and "uh-uh" are the most common. How Magic Valley citizens do you know who says "Uh-huh" and "uh-uh"? Data on this would be appreciated for our "Maid and Nuts" column.

FUCKETT

These snappy epitaphs actually appear on old tombstones in Maine and Vermont:

IN MEMORY OF ANNA HODGKINS
Here lies the body of Anna Done to death by a banana. It wasn't the fruit that laid her low. But the skin of the thing that made her go.

SACRED TO THE MEMORY OF JARED BATES
Who died Aug. 6, 1900. His widow, age 24, lives at 2 Elm Street. Has every qualification for a good wife. And yearns to be comforted.

IN MEMORY OF MR. PETER DANIELS
Born Aug. 7, 1868 Died May 20, 1946. Beneath this stone, a slump of clay, Lies Uncle Peter Daniels, Who too early in the month of May Took off his winter flannels.

TO OUR BELOVED WIFE SUSAN
Here lies the body of Susan Leary Who burst while drinking a Bed-Head powder. She was called from this world to heavenly rest. She should have waited till it effervesced.

She's a small, dark girl with brown eyes and a quick smile, and has a name a movie star might covet. Almost any day you can see her in the lobby of the Regent. She's been behind the magazine counter about six months, many of us consider Cora a fixture of the lobby, right along with the pictures and chairs.

"I'm a native of Cash Valley," Cora told us, "and I've lived all over Idaho." Her answers to our questions were snappy and intelligent. Yes, there was a bigger demand for fiction magazines than current event ones, she said. Some buyers always took one type, others always took new ones. "We have a big turn-over in comics," she smiled. "And the pulp books are really doing well." Cora's magazines were beautifully arranged on her shelves. They came mostly on Wednesdays and Fridays, she told us, the old ones were taken by the distributors and returned to the publishers. (We shall be awake nights wondering what the publishers do with 'em.)

"The most popular magazines are grouped together and given a better display," said Cora Barry, gazing behind her at the shelves of bright clicks and pulps. "It takes considerable work to arrange and dust them."

Our dark little magazine lady says she likes her job at the stand, which incidentally, is owned by Mr. K. Otto.

Did you ever wonder how the President of the U. S. gets paid? Seems he isn't really on any pay roll. Every month he has to file a claim against the government for one-twelfth of the $75,000 salary authorized by congress. Here's how it works: About the 25th of each month the general accounting office drafts a certificate of settlement authorizing the U. S. Treasury to pay $6250 to Harry Truman. A deduction of $1,147.50 is made from this for willow-leaf taxes (About $450,000 costs annually for federal tax, and another $1,000 for Missouri taxes.)

Truman's salary is $75,000 a year for traveling expenses. He has to feed his guests and the White House staff out of his own pocket.

The certificate of settlement must be signed by a lot of red tape and finally lands on the desk of the general accounting officer. She has a secretary to assist her, and she is the one who actually signs the check to the President.

The general accounting office, where presidential checks are filed, is a wonderful place for autograph hunters. Historical facts about former Presidents pop up everywhere. For instance, George Washington never received any regular salary for being President. He just drew funds in sums running from $200 to $12,500 until they totaled $22,000. Monthly payments started in Jefferson's time.

Long ago, in pioneer times, this verse was popular in south Idaho. My mother and father were very poor people. They lived by a church which had a high steeple. They raised lovely apples but sold them so low They couldn't make a fortune in south Idaho.

Looks like my mother never finished writing this copy because Coker, our Mad Siamese, is lying on the old butt under the lamp, playing hoo with our typing paper. Three times he has shoved a bale of sheets to the floor as he turned those bright blue eyes on us in rage. Since the eyes are crossed, we never know which one to gaze into as they smack him on the whiskers.

Coker is a tease, and loves to get his red Chinese rick. He will wait until she walks past, her fluffly doughtnut of a tail cocked haughtily,

Report Given To C. of C. on Railway Spur

A report by the committee investigating construction of two railroad track spurs into the industrial development area acquired by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and announced that druggists from throughout the state will convene in Twin Falls in June.

R. J. Schwendman, chairman of the industrial site committee, reported upon a recent trip to Salt Lake City with Claude H. DeWeller, committee member, to confer with Union Pacific railroad officials on the need for laying the track.

He indicated that at first the railroad was reluctant to make any commitment, expressing the belief that the site should first be developed to justify installation of tracks. Committee members pointed out that the railroad should participate in the planning phase, as well as the actual laying of the track.

Between 300 and 500 members of the Idaho State Druggists association will convene in Twin Falls June 12, 13 and 14, according to word received from the president, J. J. Lynch of Boise. The association is being assisted by the chamber in obtaining transportation and in making other arrangements for the convention.

Also a $1000 undertaking is that of Clyde C. Briggs, who plans to construct a 10 by 28 frame private garage on Second avenue west. Addition of a bedroom and bath to a one-family dwelling at 5015 15th avenue east is contemplated by Jack Wilson for 1949.

Mozella Aldrich has applied for a permit to re-roof 223 Third avenue west from Bell street at a 10 by 25-foot one-family dwelling and to place the frame structure on a foundation. Cost is set at $700.

Construction of a 24 by 21-foot private garage on Heyburn for use as temporary living quarters is the project of Herb Stacey. His application, which that week will be $1,000.

Week's Building Permit Requests Hit $20,050 Sum

Last week's building program in Twin Falls, consisting of 19 projects totaling $20,050, according to a tabulation of applications received at the city clerk's office.

The total is considerably below the previous week's figure of $46,020, augmented by a single seed company project of $35,000.

Five small operations were applied for as the week drew to a close.

Z. O. Taylor applied for a permit to re-roof with wood shingles the Lane school building, a four-story building for $500. Site of the building was 72 feet.

Also a $1000 undertaking is that of Clyde C. Briggs, who plans to construct a 10 by 28 frame private garage on Second avenue west.

Dog Owners Warned To Obtain New Tags

Dog owners who want their dogs listed for licenses for their city should do so, they were reminded Saturday by Mrs. John E. Lefler, city clerk.

After that date, the 1946-47 license expires, and all dogs should bear the new 1947-48 tags. Licenses may be obtained at the city clerk's office.

then raise up and give her a few lightning swipes on the rear. While the Chow shares in outraged dignity, Coker stalks about twitching his tail, and riffling the hide on his back. This is his gesture of utter contempt.

Bringing Up Father
"When I was a boy of 14," said Magic Truman, "my old man was so ignorant I could hardly stand him around. But when I got to be 21, I was wiser than him, much he had learned in seven years."

Smells are queer than sounds or sights to make your heart strings crack. . . Kipling said that.
