

Brosnan Gets "Business" of Rattlesnakes, Cliffs, Wood Ticks on Afternoon Jaunt to Investigate Bomb

By JOHN BROSNAN
It was supposed to have been a nice afternoon's trip. Sheriff Broda Rayburn and Deputy Boyd Thietgen were going out to investigate a bomb found sticking out of the sand on Salmon Falls creek south of Castletown.

Deserted Spot Yields Bombs

Shown with parts of bombs found in Salmon falls creek south of Castletown Wednesday are Deputy Sheriff Boyd Thietgen (left) holding the cap and powder which detonates the bombs, and Sheriff Broda Rayburn examining a fuse. The bombs were marked "Mountain Home" and apparently were dropped in a salvo by a plane during the war.

appeared over the edge, rolling rocks in front of him "to stir up the rattlesnakes." I pulled up in the road doing my best to avoid stirring any up.

The first one we ran across upheld traditions of the rattlesnake tribe. It coiled up beside a rock, rattled its rattles and looked as mean as possible. After everyone was thoroughly impressed, the sheriff pulled out his pistol and shot it.

Several hundred feet farther down we crossed the stream on slippery rocks of the kind you dream about slipping off with nothing to grab. I had the camera at the bottom of the canyon while Parley pointed out clumps of poison oak.

By that time I'd nearly forgotten about the bomb. We finally got to the canyon, he and I, who used to be a gunner on a B-24 bent down and studied it and said, "Yep, it's the real one."

While the rest of us suddenly showed great interest in other parts of the canyon, he and I, who used to be a gunner on a B-24 bent down and studied it and said, "Yep, it's the real one."

Several dozen imaginary rattlesnakes farther on, we came to the edge of what looked like the Grand Canyon.

"A pair of pillars and a screwdriver" like a mountain goat, Virgil did sticking out of his rear pocket to unfurl the bomb.

Areas Set for Idaho School Change Plans

BOISE, April 29 (AP)—General responsibility for the future of the school district consolidation program adopted by the last legislature was announced today among the nine members of the state organization committee before they adjourned until May 28 when they will consider appointment of a state director for the reorganization plan.

Assignments Tentative
"The assignments are tentative," Johnson said, "but they will be made as soon as possible for the purpose of having available to the county superintendents and trustees of the school districts a member of the board for the purpose of giving whatever assistance is possible at this stage of the program."

Johnson said the committee will submit final applications for the position of director at its next meeting May 12.

Wage Issue Ties up Phone Strike Parley

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—New government efforts to end the 23-day telephone strike ran into a stone wall today when the American Telephone and Telegraph company, refused to go along with a union demand for some kind of a wage offer.

Robert Crensy, vice president of the long lines affiliate of the striking National Federation of Telephone Workers, left a bargaining session with ATT charging that "the company refused to bargain."

George S. Dring, assistant vice president of the ATT long lines division, denied the charge.

Crensy demanded that we make a cash offer on a wage basis. Dring told reporters, "We countered by telling him that we are ready and willing to arbitrate wage issues."

that had failed to drop them on the Brunson bombing range during the war and had given the job to the next most deserted spot. There were nine altogether—100 and 200 pounds, some javelin bombs and some demolition bombs.

All had burst in varying degrees and the officers finished the job by firing about 100 lbs. into the power and fuses and then throwing them in the stream.

"I feel better," said Virgil, the original driver. "I wouldn't have known what the damned thing was if I hadn't seen Mountain Home airmen written on the end of it, and I'd even started to dig it up. Some fakemakers or youngsters might have stumbled onto them."

"The sheriff said that it could have been dangerous and asked me to put in the paper that people should avoid handling anything in that vicinity that looked like a bomb."

"I don't figure there's much attraction for people to come down here anyway," said Virgil, "what with the 500-foot drop, rattlesnakes, wood ticks, poison and the fact that it's a final touch when we began scaling the canyon wall, Boyd stopped long enough to ask me if I was sure that was crawling along his arm."

At various points on the way up the canyon, the group regaled one another with tales of people who had fallen into the canyon in that vicinity.

Later, while we were driving toward Twin Falls, Boyd asked me, "Do you think you can get any sort of a story of this?"

"I assured him that I had plenty for several stories."

Summer Camp Sites Set for Scout Groups

Summer camping programs have been set at two Sawtooth forest sites which may be developed into permanent camps by the Snake river area Boy Scout council. The camping committee, under the direction of J. A. Keith, chairman, set the camps for July 19 to 24 at Boardman creek on the Boise river north of Fairfield and for July 26 to Aug. 9 at the head of Altura lake.

Herbert R. West, Scout executive, said during the camping periods a thorough investigation of the area around the two sites would be made. The idea of developing one or perhaps both of the sites into permanent camps. The sites would replace Camp Sawtooth as a council's camp site.

To Study Plans

West said the council camping committee and U. S. forest service officials will go into the area during May to study plans for the development of the camps. At a camping meeting here Monday night, plans for the development of a swimming pool at the Boardman creek site were discussed.

If either is adopted as the camp site, extensive improvements probably will be made and permanent log buildings erected.

Camps Set

Other summer camping plans include a series of district campsorees in May, a Senior Scout bivouac in the Teton peaks country, and Air Scout encampments in Ogden, Utah, and Great Falls, Mont.

Impressive Rites Honor Mr. Wiley

Impressive funeral services for George C. Wiley, prominent pioneer druggist of Twin Falls who died Sunday, were held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the White mortuary chapel. The Rev. Herman C. "You may be the whiz at splitting atoms ... but I can teach you how to pep-up this car"

COED: Honestly, Professor, everytime we hit a hill this chariot slows down to a crawl. It's time I taught you a lesson about gasoline. There's nothing to it—just stop at this Chevron Supreme Gasoline sign for a high-octane tonic that will quiet those pings and make your car as peppy as a 1947 dream-boat just off the showroom floor.

PROF: Truly phenomenal! Observe how rapidly the car accelerates on Chevron Supreme. And the gasoline man assured me it is "climate-tailored" to enliven the engine with precisely the type of power required in this temperature zone. As you would say, my child—let's hit the open road with Chevron Supreme.

It's good going on

State Agency Sets Hearing On Tax Law

BOISE, April 29 (AP)—The Idaho tax commission will meet "probably" next Monday or Tuesday to hear protests from merchants on the compulsory reporting of inventories under a 1941 law, Commission Secretary Thomas Kurdy said today.

Kurdy said the only change in the law as enacted by the recent legislature was making it mandatory for merchants to report their inventories for tax assessment purposes. Otherwise, he said, the law was not changed.

Merchants Protest
Merchants in Idaho Falls, Lewiston, St. Anthony and other cities have objected to the use of the first three months of each year for inventorying for tax purposes. All have protested the use of 70 per cent of the actual merchandise inventory values as the assessed value.

Kurdy said that for years the inventory period has been the first three months of each year. He said 70 per cent of valuation has been used by Idaho assessors for "15 to 20 years."

Wrong Assumption
He added that the commission has asked the merchants to take an average of their inventories as of Jan. 1 and April 1. He said some assessors and merchants probably have been assuming that the inventory of April 1 alone was to be used.

"We'll have to correct them on that point," Kurdy said.

Under the old plan, merchants supplied assessors with their inventories as requested. Under the new law, the inventories must be made under oath. Copies go to the state tax commission where, if necessary, they are checked against state income tax returns.

Pocatello Youth Held on Larceny

GOODING, April 29—Dean F. Thompson, 21, Pocatello, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Pocatello Judge H. D. Jackson, Gooding, on a charge of grand larceny, Judge Jackson set his bond at $2,000 and bound the case over to district court.

Thompson allegedly stole a car, a camera, two guns, a suit of clothes and a photograph from John L. Landwehr, Jr., Gooding, at a motel early Friday morning. He was arrested at the time of his apprehension Friday two miles east of Rupert by Floyd Gierman, Minidoka county deputy sheriff.

Methodists Open Parsonage Drive

SHOSHONE, April 29—A $2,000 parsonage renovation campaign will be launched by the Shoshone Methodist church next Sunday, the Rev. George H. Allen, pastor, announced.

Solicitations will be in charge of Mrs. Ross Borden, Mrs. Charles Peelle and Mrs. John Thomas. The general campaign will be directed by the church finance committee, composed of Mrs. Fred Walker, Mrs. Elmer Powell and Mrs. McMahon. About one-third of the goal has been assured through pre-campaign gifts and pledges.

NATIONAL REPRESENTATIVES
WEST-BOULDER, Colo., April 28.—The Idaho delegation to the National Republican Convention, which will meet in San Francisco, Calif., on May 1, 1947, is made up of the following:

SENATE
The country saw a strange sight last week. John L. Lewis, backed by the United Mine Workers, took the position of his own accord, without court order, threat of government action, or any other dramatic outside pressure. And strange of all was the slightly balky behavior of his United Mine Workers.

Usually Mr. Lewis' slightest request gets unquestioning obedience from the miners. But last week thousands of them ignored his order to stay out of all but two of the country's soft coal mines, allegedly for reasons of their own.

This was an apparent reason for Mr. Lewis' withdrawal from the door. The other was Federal Judge T. Alan Oldsborough's refusal to refund $2,800,000 of the $3,500,000 fine which he imposed on the UNW for contempt. The judge questioned the mine union president's good faith in issuing the stay-away order, and expressed doubt that any day was his first concern.

The dollar sign loomed large in the miners' decision to go back to work. Some returned to mines which apparently had failed to pass inspection on technicalities which involved no great hazard. Others went back to mines where real danger undoubtedly exists.

It is sad that miners must often risk their lives needlessly in order to provide a living for their families. It is no less sad because they have been doing it for years. The hazards of their work have been a challenge to the operators, state mine inspectors, the federal bureau of mines, and to the law which permits dangerous conditions to go uncorrected.

Mr. Lewis could help greatly in lessening these hazards. But he has consistently refused to lend his hand, and week after week for all his shrewdness as a tactician, his self-seeking methods and dictatorial manner have become increasingly apparent. He has brought things to a pass where most of the country now looks with suspicion on his activities in the worst of cases.

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

These two items out of New York seem to us to be of more than local interest. Johnny Torio, one of Chicago's most infamous prohibition gangsters, now lives in New York. Six months ago he got a threatening letter demanding $10,000. He asked the FBI for help. The other day, after a half year's wait, G-men caught the alleged persecutors of this upright citizen. One was an 18-year-old drugstore clerk.

Nearly six months ago Joseph Scottoriglio was brutally beaten on a New York street on Monday morning and died four days later. He had been an active campaigner for Rocco Marcantonio's political opponent. Police arrested a few material witnesses, including a couple of ex-gangsters, and later released them. Nobody called in the FBI. The investigation is apparently at a standstill. And a merciless, obviously political murder remains unsolved.

THE SEARCH FOR DEFINITIONS

The U.N. atomic energy commission has discovered, after 10 months, that it doesn't know what it's talking about. So it has appointed a subcommittee to attempt a definition of some basic words. The members will try to find a common meaning in five different languages, of such things as control, inspection, supervision, management, accounting and licensing.

That's fine as far as it goes, but we doubt that it goes far enough. Also urgently needed are common definitions of even more basic words that will serve for all international discussions, in and out of the United Nations. Democracy, for instance. Liberty, independence, and freedom are some others. What do they mean in Russia, Colombia, China, France, Greece, everywhere? Is there a common universal meaning for them, or are they nationalistic meanings in nationalistic languages?

The world had better find out. For the seeds of war or peace lie in those definitions.

MORE POWER TO HIM

Through his Chesapeake & Ohio railroad Robert R. Young has introduced several improvements in rail service which other lines have been forced to copy. The latest and certainly not the least welcome of these is the elimination of tips to all C & O employees. Tipping is needless, wasteful, and embarrassing class-conscious. Neither party enjoys it. It simply lets an employer pay along to his customers an unfair added expense for employee service. And the harder the employer works you, the more you tip his help. Tipping, once confined almost entirely to hotels, restaurants, and trains, has spread to a dozen or more other service industries. It was stopped. But the custom is so ingrained so impelled by snobbery or timidity, that the employers will have to be the ones to call a halt.

We hope the dynamic Mr. Young's newest innovation spreads through the railroads and far, far beyond.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

QUESTIONNAIRE—President Truman has recently inaugurated his own personal and political fact-finding service in a pre-election attempt to get the inside story on the problems in the field of domestic and foreign affairs. It is designed to supplement the information which he collects in casual or formal conferences with leading statesmen, business men, industrialists and other representatives.

The chief executive himself is understood to have suggested the idea while discussing plans for strengthening party organizations with Ouel Sullivan, executive director of the Democratic national committee, and the first questionnaire was forwarded to the national committee of each state, with the request that they file their replies within 10 days.

"The committee were instructed in answering to make their interpretation broad, general and 'non-partisan,'" Mr. Truman wants a reflection of the thoughts of Republicans, Independents and Democrats, the slightest professional interest in politics. It would be of no service to him or to other policy makers at Washington if they obtained data only from Democratic partisans and supporters.

TAKES—The fact that the first Truman-Sullivan questionnaire put principal emphasis on the administration's handling of foreign problems, especially Europe and Asia, was not surprising. The White House is most concerned over the reaction to the stop-commissioner crusade. It may be significant that the questionnaire requested information on the trip abroad and criticism of the anti-Soviet attitude here.

The second query concerned the administration's policy on domestic affairs. It has become obvious that the top advisers are worried over the effect which continued opposition may have on the presidential election in 1948.

The third question dealt with another dispute which may effect the GOP's handsome ballot-box issue. It asked for a full report on the popular attitude toward President Truman's opposition to any tax reduction, and also on the balance of the budget. It started made toward curbing the public debt. Many politicians fear that the "box" has taken the politically comfortable side of the debate.

AMBITIONS—Oodly, the original questionnaire asked for information on labor disputes reflected in recent disputes and in capital hill Republicans' inaction on enactment of an anti-union law. This failure to mention the labor issue is a general belief that the President will veto any measure as far-reaching as the house-passed Hartley bill.

The questionnaire also asked for a critical sampling of sentiment, depending on the appearance of new issues of domestic or foreign import. Eventually, he may effect to make a critical sampling of party leaders and workers better informed on the administration's plans and attitude.

It may be that the President Truman now takes in these questions of his political and party health is interpreted as further evidence that, despite his own representatives' claims, he is more than willing to stand for election next year.

CONCESSIONS—Numerous prominent Republicans on Capitol hill are quietly reneging on the Vandenberg promise to render non-partisan support to the administration's foreign economic program. The administration's original economic program is a laborable list of "possible tariff concessions" at the current reciprocal trade agreement talks at Geneva has aroused both food producers and manufacturers.

The so-called "statistical list" consists of a 76 page catalog of farm and finished goods on which the administration has indicated a willingness to consider a tariff reduction. Under Secretary Will L. Clayton, may try to trade. The dickering, according to this memo, will include such items as meat, poultry, wool, and various dairy products and grains.

The delegates will also talk of reductions on textiles, metals, machinery, and agricultural machinery. In fact, the range of "possible tariff concessions" is declared to be the most comprehensive since the enactment of the reciprocal trade program in the early days of the new deal.

INSULT—Many American manufacturers and food producers fear that the administration may try to use these concessions as a weapon against further skyrocketing of prices in this country. They are especially concerned over the imports which importations of meats and dairy products may make on the domestic price structure.

If enough people are hurt by foreign competition, or if they can be convinced that their earning capacity and opportunities of employment have been reduced, the GOP may seize upon the old-fashioned tariff issue in the 1948 presidential campaign, especially as the basic law underlying the reciprocal bargaining process expires in June of that year.

LET'S HAVE VOTING RECORD

Representative Rogers of Alabama advances the excellent proposal that voting records of congressmen be compiled by the library of congress and be made available to any newspaper or group of 10 citizens. Such a service would fill a great need. There are always plenty of "voting records" floating around at election time, but they are not authoritative or complete and are often biased. The vote presented usually tend to show the congressman to great advantage or disadvantage.

To be of value, such voting records must be complete. There should be simple explanations of each vote used, and of the significance of the vote. Votes on amendments, postponements and referrals to committee should be recorded. These are often the most important of true convictions than final votes. Many a politician has voted to cripple a measure or postpone it to death, only to turn face on the final roll call and favor the measure with a whoop and a holler.

The Rogers plan is a good one. Congressmen should be proud to have their bills really less than in the days of the Fathers' such 20th century senators as Norris, Borah, Glass, Root, Knox and Theodore E. Burton would surely honor any such proposal. The Rogers plan has generally thought that the ablest senator in our history was that of 1849-51, which included members as Webster, Clay, Calhoun, Seward, Chase, Douglas, Cass, Jefferson Davis and Benton. No sentence since then has had nine stars of such colossal magnitude.—Caldwell News-Tribune.

Importance given a man a chance to find himself, says a judge. At least he knows right where he is.

POT SHOTS

SHORTY

It pays to be short! Just ask "Gadgins" Gentry, who held the aqueduct cowboy centerfield.

Mel Carr, who is quite a baseball fan, has been in the crowd for a while. He wanted to rent to one of the Cowboys. He notified Maury Doolittle, president of the club, who took Manager Earl Boryard over to look at the place.

Earl tried it for a while and was forced to turn it down. Will McElroy, the new Cowboy third sacker, who was tried in place to play, tried it for a while and had to turn it down.

LIFE'S LITTLE IRONIES

Dr. Robert Packard is one of the most enthusiastic golf enthusiasts in the Twin Falls area. But his golfing days for this summer were shattered recently by an attack of the flu.

That was bad enough for a golfing enthusiast, but to make matters worse he was in a hospital room that overlooked the golf course.

SENTIMENT

Dear Polo: Fairfield voters will vote to the polls May 11 for a special election to vote on "local option."

Isn't it ironic that those people who aren't registered have to go to sign up with the registrar. Mrs. Emery Ufer—at the state liquor dispensary?

Noticed in the last issue of the Bull that "John Doe" paid a fine for improper parking in Bull.

What he is covering up by giving that old "John Doe" name?

EXCLUSIVE WORD

Dear Pot Shots: Strange, isn't it, how the small fry try to get in on the act? Some of them in their effort to make this fascinating English language function like the turn-up language is in trouble.

My boy of five enjoys the interesting big words of the adult world but gets them shifted about in a trice.

For two weeks he's been noticing the picketing telephone company employees on his way to and from Sunday school. Last Sunday as he observed them again I heard him murmuring, while that impressive "grown up" word eluded him.

Here's what came out: "Still trespassing!" A Mom

HOUSE HUNTING

LET'S HAVE VOTING RECORD

Representative Rogers of Alabama advances the excellent proposal that voting records of congressmen be compiled by the library of congress and be made available to any newspaper or group of 10 citizens. Such a service would fill a great need. There are always plenty of "voting records" floating around at election time, but they are not authoritative or complete and are often biased. The vote presented usually tend to show the congressman to great advantage or disadvantage.

To be of value, such voting records must be complete. There should be simple explanations of each vote used, and of the significance of the vote. Votes on amendments, postponements and referrals to committee should be recorded. These are often the most important of true convictions than final votes. Many a politician has voted to cripple a measure or postpone it to death, only to turn face on the final roll call and favor the measure with a whoop and a holler.

The Rogers plan is a good one. Congressmen should be proud to have their bills really less than in the days of the Fathers' such 20th century senators as Norris, Borah, Glass, Root, Knox and Theodore E. Burton would surely honor any such proposal. The Rogers plan has generally thought that the ablest senator in our history was that of 1849-51, which included members as Webster, Clay, Calhoun, Seward, Chase, Douglas, Cass, Jefferson Davis and Benton. No sentence since then has had nine stars of such colossal magnitude.—Caldwell News-Tribune.

They have been a nuisance to the Waldorf management for years, filtering in by the back entries and fire stairs and prowling the house in search of nobody knows what emotional satisfaction.

They shirk in a way to suggest serious neurosis; they are persistent and shameless.

Manager, bull-men and movie detective have told me that they are not solely Sinatra's cult now, but rally around whenever any of the more lurid Hollywood life is in the house, and the hotel company has seriously considered the idea of turning away such trade to relieve the nuisance. They have been bad for the hotel.

Plans are currently afoot to present Sinatra in a moving picture in the role of an idealistic prison guard. Of course, this would be only make-believe, but the public has an emotional tendency to endorse a ham-fisted with the virtues of the characters which they portray.

Some reporters and business men do this without reproach. It is still, in some respects, a free country, and there are, in their way, interesting people.

The scenario here proposed should reveal Sinatra's social versatility, his economic thrust through glib adulation and, by all means, the cruel frustration of desire to play the games of "democracy" in person. The public should be given fair means to judge whether his example and habits, including gun-getting in time of peace but never in battle in time of war, were something that American youth had been better off with—or without.

At one time in the Waldorf, he displayed a draft card which he said was marked "A" and said he expected soon to enjoy the privilege of slaughtering the foul aggressors in person. Not long afterward he cut short his drink and signed up such a shrewd run in his own quarters late at night that a house detective went up and physically subdued him for the peace and repose of more decent guests beneath that roof.

Time passed and fate denied him the martial opportunity for which he seemed to yearn but with firm moderation. Other young men, slightly muddled or blind in one eye, quivered to get up and physically subdued him for the peace and repose of more decent guests beneath that roof.

In his comment on the fracas with Sinatra, the journalist said he had referred to the box-boy children of his following as "murderers" and "thugs" on their behalf. Morons they may not be, but they are a nuisance.

Writers Scan Markets

Charles C. Merrill, 39, led the round table discussion on markets, featuring twin Falls chapter of Idaho Writers' League, held Monday evening at the Idaho Power auditorium. Merrill read excerpts from letters he had written editors and from their replies, also displaying some of his published travel journal articles and reading one for criticism and comment.

The Rev. W. D. Bell, Fairfield, welcomed as a new member of the chapter, announced a book of his poems is now in the hands of the publisher, William-Frederick Press, New York, to be off the press May 30.

Parker Kimball, Carmel, Calif., guest, and a cousin of Harold L. Harvey, Buhl, told of a book he is now writing which is a humorous travel account of a recent trip he made to South America, several chapters of which he had already completed.

Mrs. Vic Goertzen, state president of the Ladies of the OAR, outlined for the state writers' conference to be held in Twin Falls in June. Mrs. Hager, president of the chapter, conducted the business session. Roll call response was with the usual pertinent words, phrases or quotations, and also market tips and publications.

Those attending the conference were Mrs. Hager who has recently had poems in Kaleidograph, Statewide Oregonian, and the Idaho Statesman; a short article in Brick and Clay Products Journal; Rev. Mr. Bell's poems in the Statesman and the Oregonian; Mr. Merrill, article in Juvenile Trends, a California travel journal, and a letter in Gooding, byline features and photographs in the Times-News and other publications; and Mrs. Frances Reid, two features in Statewide, a poem and two photographs in Improvement, and an article in Ceramic Industry, travel journal.

Mrs. Iris Shurt, a member recently transferred from the former Buhl chapter, who is making her home in Twin Falls, was also welcomed to the Twin Falls chapter. Ruth Richards, Gooding, was a guest.

Next meeting of the chapter, to be held at the Idaho Power auditorium unless otherwise announced, will be on Monday evening, May 13, at which time Mrs. Lillian Landon will tell of her recent trip to Florida and give highlights of the interesting places she visited there and enroute. There will also be other special program features, to be announced later.

Anyone eligible and interested in becoming affiliated with the Idaho Writers' League, is welcome to attend, and at any time may learn of the objectives of the organization and advantages of membership by contacting Mrs. Goertzen, Mrs. Hager, or any member of the group.

House Guest Feted

AP Columnist Tells Story of World Hotels

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—Tonight's figure is the thousand night I have slept in a hotel room.

It is a memorable occasion to me. But hotel owners of America have long known the significance of the number. No boasting management wants to surprise me with a cheery basket of roses or a cake.

No, I am celebrating this historic milestone all alone. The maid ever forgot to dust off the Gideon Bible.

51 Nations, 17 States and 17 American states. In about 27 cases a room was obtained merely by going up to the desk and registering. I forgot just when this strategy last worked. Hotels are full of rooms. The desk clerks don't really want to keep you out. They just want to be sure you appreciate how lucky and grateful you are if you get to spend a night in their genteel custody.

Swiss Welcome Feeling

The best run hotels are in Switzerland. But they give you an uneasy sense of feeling cozy and grateful. In Chinese hotels the proprietors wake you up before dawn to try to sell you a pair of sleek silk pajamas or a jade-encrusted bracelet.

The nicest thing about hotel rooms in savage countries is they don't have pictures on the walls. Hotel pictures in all western lands are haunting artistic horrors. One solution is to turn them to the wall and draw your own pictures on the back. This is hard to do nowadays because most of the pictures are already inscribed on the back: "Kilroy was here."

Warnings Issued On Bloated Cows

County Agent A. P. Smith Monday warned dairy farmers that they may take the risk of losing valuable animals by turning cows from winter feed to lush pasture in the next few weeks. The county agent said that his office has already received several calls from farmers wanting to know how to treat bloated animals.

Smith stated that Dr. Glenn C. Holm, University of Idaho veterinarian, particularly warns against turning cows to pasture in the morning when they have had little or nothing to eat during the night. Filling up on the soft grasses is likely to result in bloating unless there is enough rough material in the cow's stomach to allow accumulating gases to escape.

A good feeding of coarse, dry hay will generally allow the animals to feed safely on most pastures. It is wise to see that all cows get an even amount of the hay before going out. "Timid animals may be driven away from feed racks and get amounts too small to protect them.

At the same time the veterinarian cautions against turning the cows to fresh pasture on stormy or windy days. Cows eat rapidly on such days so that they can return to the barn to get out of the weather. Such feeding often leads to bloating.

New Officials To Take Jobs On April 30

Twin Falls city commissioners prepared to turn the municipal reins over to the new administration during a brief meeting Monday night that was adjourned until Wednesday evening when three new elective officials will be sworn in and business for the fiscal year will be officially closed.

At Wednesday night's meeting Mayor-Elect H. G. Lauterbach and Councilmen-Elect H. R. Oran and I. E. Nischke will receive the oath of office, succeeding Mayor Bert A. Sweet and Commissioners Kenneth Brock and W. W. Thomas.

Monday night, the council passed an ordinance officially repealing the "locker club law" in conformity with action by the state legislature in negating existing liquor legislation to make way for the new liquor-by-the-drink law.

Applications of 18 establishments for dist. machine licenses were approved. Those granted licenses, with the number granted each, were: The White Horse, one; Sonny's Sport Shop, four; St. Regis, one; Rogerson hotel, two; Perrine hotel, one; The Owl, one; The Mint, one; Lucky bar, one; Log Tavern, three; Hi-Ho lunch, one; Evergreen stores, one; Goodrich lounge, one; Bob's Steak House, three; Antler's Drive-in, one; Dell's Cigar store, one.

Reports of Fire Chief J. S. Gibb showing 19 alarms and Dr. D. A. Jackson, meat and dairy inspector, showing 1,753 animals inspected, were accepted for April.

California Man Recalls Use of "Metal Brogan"

Remember the iron shoe found near Buhl early this year?
T. B. Mitchell, Whittier, Calif., and former Magic Valley resident, came into the Times-News office with another possible solution as to the metal shoe's use.

"That shoe probably belonged to Stanley Earhart, who used to operate a creamery in Buhl about 1910," Mitchell said.

He explained Earhart was a prominent Buhl athlete, wore about a size 10 shoe and used a metal boot while working in the creamery. He said the creamery floor usually was wet and the metal boot kept his feet dry.

Mitchell, who left Magic Valley recently for California, said he is moving back to Murtaugh. He first came to this area in 1909.

Gooding Officers Probe 2 Crashes

GOODING, April 22—Two automobile accidents were investigated by the Gooding sheriff's office Sunday and Monday. No one was injured seriously but sheriff's deputies said the vehicles involved were badly damaged.

A pickup truck driven by Arthur Pearce, Gooding, turned over about seven miles from Gooding at 3:30 a. m. Sunday. Pearce told officers he had put his foot on the brake and that the brakes locked, causing the vehicle to overturn. He was returning to Gooding from Hagerman, accompanied by his wife. Both were scratched and bruised as a result of the accident. Damage was estimated at $200.

A stock truck, loaded with five horses en route to the saddle horse sale in Twin Falls Monday, overturned as it was going down the Bliss grade when both dual tires on the right side blew out. The truck was driven by Wayne Aman, Murphy, Ida., and owned by Burnett Nettleton, J-Bar-T ranch, at Murphy.

One horse and one of the two passengers were scratched, but continued to the sale in another truck. The accident was investigated by Deputy Sheriff R. E. Cecil.
