

Cyanide Case Details Given To Suit Jury

an acute inflammatory process due to inhalation of gas. Under cross-examination, however, he said that cyanide could have resulted from other causes.
Ingraham followed Dr. Halley on the witness stand and he told of circumstances surrounding the Sunday morning incident. First indication that something was amiss was when he smoked a cigarette and noticed that it had a peculiar taste. As his eyes also burned and smarted, he went to a washroom in the radio building to wash them and noticed in the mirror that they appeared bloodshot. At 8:40 a. m., he made a scheduled announcement and stumbled against the radio turntable as he did so. This was the last that he remembered. Ingraham testified.

Announcer Testifies
Also testifying was John Edington, radio announcer, who said that he had noticed Ingraham "cleared his throat" frequently following the broadcast, although he had not done so previously.

Elwood Bohler, local contractor, also testified on construction of the safe and the radio building, particularly as to air vents and other passages between the two places of business.

Ingraham called six witnesses to testify for the Ingrahams Thursday.
Abe Bohm, KXTV janitor, related that he had come upstairs to the KXTV studios on the Sunday morning in question, and had found Ingraham lying down. However, he testified, he had thought the announcer was only resting, until a police officer came there. Bohm stated he was on duty at the station's transmitter and had become alarmed that something was wrong when Ingraham failed to give station program breaks—station identification between program segments.

Malone related how he had found Ingraham and had moved him to an open window to get fresh air.

Next on the witness stand was Roy L. Lindell, city policeman, who told how he had been summoned to investigate the case. Lindell stated he had found Ingraham when Malone had left him, had started to carry him outside when the janitor arrived and assisted him.

Edington, KXTV announcer, testified that he was in the station at the time of the incident and that he had noticed Ingraham had failed to give a station break at 9 a. m., but had thought that Ingraham had merely overlooked it. Edington said that he received a call to go to the studio to see what the trouble was after Ingraham had failed to give a station break at 9:15 a. m.

Miss Mae Anderson, nurse at Twin Falls county general hospital, testified that she was on duty when Ingraham was brought there.

Navy to Move 'Seat of Time' To New Place

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—The U. S. naval observatory is getting ready to leave its headquarters here because Washington in the past 80 years has become too crowded, smoky, and dusty.

The observatory, an institution without which mariners, aviators, and calendar makers would be in a jam, is going to take its time finding a new location.

"We don't want to be moving every half century," a spokesman said.

Many Requirements

The location will have to satisfy a lot of requirements. For one thing, it must be no nearer than 25 miles to any large city because big cities in addition to being dusty and smoky, radiate heat, which is bad for delicate astronomical instruments.

The world famous observatory was established here in 1844. Its astronomers could see five or six stars in the daytime as clear as the Washington air then.

May Cost $10,000,000

"Now we're lucky if we can see even one," the spokesman said.

The cost of finding and acquiring a new site and establishing there a plant comparable to the observatory's present 45 buildings will be $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, according to Capt. Guy W. Clark, superintendent, and G. M. Clemente, astronomer in charge.

The observatory is being moved to a site, put up the necessary buildings, and install their equipment will take about eight years.
