CALL HIM THAT-BUT SMILE

CALL HIM THAT—BUT SMILE There are real possibilities in Charles Luck-mar's proposal that management and labor cooperate to send 1.000 young men and women to college for a year. The president of Lever brothers has offered $100,000 toward a million-dollar fund. He suggest that organized labor select 500 can-didates, and management another 500, to be invloughed on full pay for a special course in labor relations. The million dollars would help colleges provide the best instruction and research facilities and would defray tu-tion and incidental expenses of the students. Presumably the unloss and management ion and incidental expenses of the students. Presumably the unions and management ould choose young folks who, in the coming ears, are in line to deal with one another, n the two sides of the contract fence. They ould be taught "the most enlightened meth-des for making our seconomy produce a higher tandard of living for all."

The curriculum would include methods of increasing productivity and wages; the inter-relationship of wages, prices and profits. It would take up problems connected with the guaranteed wage, in which unions are show-ing great interest. It would consider the rights of the public, the correlation of man-agement, labor and government, basic prin-ciples of labor legislation. And Luckman adds: "I might suggest a quickle course on 'how to eliminate name-calling' as a prerequisite to labor negotia-tions."

Johns as a pierequisite to lator negotia-tions." Even if every one of the 1,000 students se-letted had ileast a bachelor's degree from a good college, he still could learn much from such a course as this. Labor negotiations derive much of their bil-terness from ignorance on both sides. Neith-er knows what the other to thinking. Neither knows what the other really wants or is pre-pared to give or take. Neither understands of the other as a creature from a different world.

world. The negotiators meet with Ebth'sides as-suming that there has to be a battle royal that will end, eventually, in compromise. Bo the union asks for more than it expects, man-agement offers less than it is willing to grant. Both sides feel a bit guilty, so they bolster their preside by a bit of public name-calling. Maybe we're wrong, but we don't think this is necessary. We bolleve that contract nego-tiations could be placed in the hands of men, both sides who not only know asch other on both sides, who not only knew each other by name but who understand each other's problems. If the men who will negotiate tomorrow's contracts live together, study together, listen to the same lectures, read the same books, there is no reason why they can't get together and make enlightened agreements in a spirit of good will or good will. Name-calling might not disappear. You may call your fraternity brother as harsh names as your worst enemy. But you smile when you say it. The smile counts, not the name.

GRIFFITH ON IMMIGRATION Bome very scious charges against this country's immigration officials and its de-fense and scurity forces have been made by National Commander Paul Griffith of the American Legion. He toid the DAR conven-tion in Washington that a flood of illegal immigrants is making the U.S. the "laugh-ing stock of the world." We do not know how true his charges are. He did not document or prove time. He simply fired a broadside and left the burden of proof to others.
