

Local Lawyer Urges Drastic Court Change

(From Page One)

Ada, Canyon, Emery and Owyhee counties be consolidated into the second district with two judges instead of the present four.

Valley in Third District

The fourth and eleventh judicial districts embracing Blaine, Camas, Gooding, Lincoln, Minidoka, Jerome, Cassia and Twin Falls counties be consolidated into the third district with two judges instead of the present three.

The fifth, sixth and ninth judicial districts embracing Lemhi, Custer, Blaine, Shoshone, Bonanza, Jefferson, Madison, Fremont, Teton, Clark, Bannock, Power, Oneida, Bear Lake, Caribou and Franklin counties be consolidated into the fourth district with three judges instead of the present four.

Chapman further suggested that the supreme court membership be reduced from five to three members with district and retired judges called in for service when the need arises.

Chapman said a plan in many states abolishing probate courts has proved "highly satisfactory." Under this arrangement probate court ministerial duties would be assumed by the clerk of the district court. Juvenile cases would be handled by justice courts with other probate work handled by district judges.

The Twin Falls attorney also recommended that justices of the peace—now elected—be appointed by the district judges.

Salary Boost

Chapman further recommended that annual salaries for supreme court justices be raised from the present $5,000 to $12,000 and district judges from $3,500 to $10,000. He said despite the increase through a reduction in the number of justices and district judges and elimination of probate judges and court clerk duties the state would realize an annual savings of $128,000.

Assignment of district judges whose court calendars are clear to preside in other districts where the work load is heavy was also suggested by Chapman.

Earl J. C. Robbins said that overlapping functions of various state taxing units "just doesn't seem to be good business."

Black Light To Be Used in Pageant Here

Black light, a recent development by General Electric, will be a distinctive feature of the lighting plan mapped for the Magic Valley Yesterday pageant to be held in Twin Falls July 17 and 18.

Don Smock, chairman of the lighting project, explains that black light is basically a process using mercury vapor as an agent in a lamp with a quartz lens to produce a lamp with a spectrum of light in the ultra violet rays. These rays are filtered to eliminate those that are injurious to the human eye. The actual lighting effect is produced by the reflection of the color pigments in the costumes and equipment of the pageant performers. Startling lighting effects can be produced, Smock stated. The pageant lighting should be something entirely different in program from the past.

"We're all doing our best to make this program an outstanding annual event, not only in Magic Valley and Idaho but in the entire western area," Smock continued. "We expect to present a program that will be different in its lighting effects, but in all the grand phases of pageant production."

The venture is sponsored by the riding club and the LDS church. "We have a lot of authentic, colorful history in southern Idaho and this is an opportunity to present it in a program that will be of great benefit to the people and do big things for Magic Valley."

Man Hurt, So Neighbors Do Up His Crops

MARSHALL, Wash., June 27 (AP)—Last week Tage Mortenson, who owns a 100-acre farm near here, broke his leg when a runaway team hurt him as he finished cutting his hay. Idaho's Fishing Lures Honolulu Man Back Home

"Honolulu's fishing is better than Idaho's, but I still find myself drifting back to this country for the fishing season," Cliff Bentley, formerly with the Cioa book store in Twin Falls, said as he arrived in Honolulu for his annual vacation from Honolulu.

Bentley spends his winters in the famous vacation land of Hawaii, but reverses the accepted vacation procedure by returning to his native Idaho for his own vacation.

Accompanied by Mrs. Bentley, whose mother resides at the Tourist hotel in Twin Falls, Bentley was making plans to get back into Stanley basin for salmon fishing.

"I can catch a lot of big fish at home," he remarked, "but salt water fishing makes me seasick."

ANOTHER PROPHECY OF DOOM

Congress' zeal for fact-finding has seldom been more abundantly displayed than in the matter of unification of the armed forces. Unification was proposed before the war ended. A plan was finally drawn up and a bill introduced. The top, middle, and low brass of each branch of the service was quizzed. It would seem that all necessary information should be in by now. But the congressmen are still asking questions.

The latest is Rep. W. Sterling Cole, who has polled more than 200 navy officers. Perhaps he hasn't uncovered any fundamentally new arguments against unification in his questionnaire. But he must be given credit for turning up a prophecy of doom that tops any navy forebodings published to date.

This was in a reply from a Capt Walter Karig, USNR. Captain Karig, who is also identified as a novelist, naval historian and former newspaperman, thinks that the proposed bill not only is a threat to the national defense, but also to our republican form of government.

He says that the result of giving "extravagant" powers to the proposed secretary of national defense would be "the domination of the composite department by the professional military, in violation of the spirit of the constitution."

Why? The proposed new cabinet post would be headed by a civilian. He would be responsible to the President. His assistant secretaries at the head of the army, navy and air force departments would be civilians. Now is this any more of a threat of militarism than the present setup?

Captain Karig thinks the proposed unification would create a self-perpetuating bureaucracy outside the reach of congress. How? The national defense secretary would have to be approved by congress. Congress would control the new department's funds. So how would this department be more of a self-perpetuating bureaucracy than any of the existing departments?

Furthermore, the captain believes that this bill is being "propelled to enactment by a hysteria produced by distorted images of approaching war." (Considering the speed of congress' action, it's scarcely jet propelled.) And he thinks the new bill, if made law, would hasten a war.

We don't get that last point at all. We hope however, that it doesn't mean that Captain Karig thinks that such men as Admiral Nimitz and General Eisenhower are warmongers who would seize the new department and plunge us into another conflict. We hope he doesn't think that the creation of such a department would be the signal for congress to abandon its great responsibility and authority, and for the people to give up their voice in the conduct of their government.

If these are the bases of Captain Karig's warning—and such an inference is hard to escape—they betray a lack of faith in our democracy which certainly is not justified by the proposed unification bill.

THOSE FLYING SAUCERS

There's something fascinating about a mystery story, and that's why the report from Pendleton that a Boise pilot had seen "nine bright, saucer-like objects flying at incredible speed at 10,000 feet altitude" will intrigue the average reader.

It's easy to let your imagination run wild. What are those silvery things slipping through the skies at 1,200 miles an hour, apparently strung together, weaving in and out of formation?

Are they being manned by individual pilots, or are they controlled remotely from the Lord only knows where? Maybe they are not manned at all. Maybe they are "out of this world"—from Mars, for instance.

Then it could be that they are regular something-or-other coming at us from modern science—those mysterious nine-unit teams combining to form some new and greater natural force to counteract mankind's meddling with things super-natural.

But then we brush all such thoughts aside with the conclusion that the Boise pilot probably was seeing nothing more than sun spots before his eyes... we hope.

AFI VIEWS ON DP'S

Time was when American unions fought for stricter immigration laws to protect their members and the wage standard from the competition of cheap labor. But times have changed.

President William L. Green has put the AFL on record as supporting the Stratton bill, which would admit 400,000 displaced persons to this country over a four-year period.

This is an important statement from a source which obviously would be greatly concerned with such a threat, and which must have weighed its decision carefully. Congress, it is hoped, will give the statement the attention it deserves.

POT SHOTS

WALLACE—Henry A. Wallace's prospective entry into the 1948 presidential contest as a third party candidate may have a greater effect on the Republican selection of their national ticket than it will have on President Truman's political fortunes. The Iowa's trouble-making potentialities in both camps is the most sensational conversation at the capital today.

His general address is that if the political yogi tosses his turban into the 1948 ring, he will roll up enough votes in five or six states—Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado—to swing them into the Republican column. The defection of these states, which have more than 100 votes in the electoral college, would be almost sure to defeat Mr. Truman.

In fact, his veto of the Hartley-Taft labor bill was designed primarily to take the sting out of the Wallace threat. Secretary Marshall's more recent suggestions that the Russian might carry the day in the European economic cooperation was also aimed at Stalin's love-nester, Mr. Wallace.

THREAT—Here is how the Wallace threat of a third party will affect the Republicans and perhaps ruin Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's present, bright chances for the presidential nomination. In the Senate, Robert A. Taft or Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg as his running-mate. Of the record, the three gentlemen mentioned as second-placers think that their chances are better than Mr. Wallace's.

However, suppose that Mr. Wallace decides to run as a radical, Russian candidate, and assume that he might take those 100 important electoral votes away from President Truman. That assumption, which Republican political leaders are now making, will govern their choice of a presidential slate at Philadelphia in June of 1948. Here is why.

DEWEY—The Republican warlike will renounce Governor Dewey, breaking a historic tradition that no elected candidate could get a second chance. Only because they have their eyes on New York state's 47 electoral ballots. With FDR dead, Herbert Lehman and James A. Farley in political retirement, they figure that Mr. Dewey would carry the Empire State.

But—and this is no news—the practical, bread-and-butter, backroom politician just do not like Tom Dewey. With the possible exception of Senator Fives, a brilliant collaborator with Senator Taft in framing the Senate labor bill, he has not a single friend among national, Republican moguls at Washington.

In fact, Mr. Dewey is so hated only if he is the GOP, wanting power and jobs, thinks that he is the only man who can win for them.

It is an unhappy and unfortunate phrase which the writer does not like to use but he is sure that the Republican politicians "hate Dewey's guts." He knows it, and so does Paul Lockwood, his extremely able and likable Main Friday.

REPUBLICAN—If Henry Wallace tosses his turban into the presidential ring next year, his defiance of President Truman may assure a Republican victory. The Republicans may not need New York's 47 electoral votes under such circumstances. They can afford to disregard Dewey.

In that event, the Republicans will name a safe-and-sound ticket. And, if Mr. Wallace enters the race, the betting is that the Republican slate will be Sen. John W. Bricker, O., for vice president and house speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., Mass., for the No. 2 spot.

APOSTOLIC—The Rev. Peter D. Marshall, Presbyterian chaplain of the United States senate, may lose his job if he does not support the Senate's "swelled heads" and "making mountains out of molehills." Obviously, the senate chaplain is not a politician.

KING—Adm. Ernest J. King seems to be made of ice. He is a stiff, frigid person. Underneath his naval officiousness, however, he is a delightful and charming individual.

Admiral King and "Bull" Halsey, who was King's subordinate, recently met at a Washington dinner party. Said Halsey:

"King, I once thought you were made of ice, or worse. But from the directions you gave me in the Pacific, and the way you handled army-navy strategy at Washington, I think you are tops."

VIEWS OF OTHERS
RADIO CAN'T BE FREE
Testifying before the senate commerce committee Friday, Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia broadcasting system, urged that "radio should be as free as the press... equally free from government control."

Contentious, but Stanton's broadside against the half-free, he added: "It has been singled out among all the media of communication of thought for government regulation."

What Stanton said regarding restrictions upon radio is true, and necessary. The freedom he asks would be desirable but, unfortunately, is unobtainable. And there are good reasons for both.

Radio's attractiveness arises from its own inherent physical limitations. Because the number of broadcasting channels available is limited, those who hold them have a semi-monopoly and, like other monopolies, must be under protective regulation of the government. The government licenses the use of these broadcasting channels because that is the only feasible way to avoid the chaos that would result from unlimited freedom for radio to use whatever channels it pleased whenever it so desired. And the very fact that the government must have this power, which includes the right to withdraw as well as issue licenses, gives it a potential bludgeon over radio.

That is why radio, in its present stage of physical development, can never be as free and independent as the press and other printed media of information and entertainment. It has the status of a regulated public utility, and also shares its privileges and obligations. That is not a happy circumstance but it is difficult to suggest what could be done to change it and still serve the broader public interest.—Lawson Tribune.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—Take it as a rather personal favor when my friend, Benny Pross, of the New York Times, writes me a letter. Benny is a high inflexible totem pole, indites one of his moralistic messages to American Labor. Just as he is writing me in such a tone as I am able to make my point that the devil has a little tongue for a scolding.

Then such an old muckmouth as William Green, a known ogee in the labor movement, takes energy and work to set down the facts which prove that on other occupation this side of burying him so high a proportion of thieves and thugs, and to whitest a nice point on the undeniable fact that Green, far from throwing them out or helping the public authorities throw them into prison where they belong, often has taken their side.

But when Pross produces one of his essays, as he did again in the June 16 number of the Beverage Retailer weekly, published in New York, he proves my case so nicely that I don't have to get out of my chair. I just say to the jury, "listen while I talk." I don't know why my friend, Benny, is so good to me, the low-down, dirty thief.

Anyway, please understand that I am not scolding him. I owe him for many an essay and it will be another sad day for me when they catch him in some felony and take him away.

Benny, as some of my pupils may recall, is executive director of Wine, Liquor and Distillers in New York union, local No. 1, and a boss under various other titles, of many other APL unions of salespeople, warehouse workers, and handlers of drugs and cosmetics and clerks.

He has twice been convicted of fraud in bankruptcy, which seems to be the principal occupation of several members of his charming family, one of whom, on the distaff side, also got a bit for running a gambling joint in New York.

He was tried in the federal court in Newark on a charge of slugging 0.500 cases of over-proof whisky into the black market for our brave boys in the training camps early in the war. He wigged off the hook there but, after all, he is a union-buster, and this trial was held in the political jurisdiction of Frank Hague, and before Judge Thomas P. Meaney, who was Hague's appointee.

The mayor will return shortly with a long face and a pan of amoragorbo to match, but I really can't blame them for not wanting to hold the games in Los Angeles. They were afraid the pedestrians here would outrun the track stars. They'd never be able to break any records here in Hollywood anyway. After all, how fast can a guy run in galoshes? And with all the snow the runners would be lucky if they found the finish line. (But they'll find it easy in Helsinki.)

The high jump would have to be made more sophisticated for the Hollywood crowd. It would've been changed to see who could leap over Gary Cooper's head. And I can just see those relay runners galloping furiously around the track wearing woggles and sunglasses.

Of course Sidney Greenstreet would walk off with the weight-lifting awards. He not only can lift it; he's been carrying it around for years. And my money would be on Peter Lorre to win the 100-yard dash, that is provided they have Humphrey Bogart chasing him.

And just picture some big handsome star winning in an endurance race when suddenly he has to stop and call his make-up man after all, you never know when you'll be caught in a photo-finish. The committee was seriously considering Los Angeles, but when the news leaked all the loving couple would be filled with orange juice, that was too much.

BOB HOPE
Mayor Bowron has been in Sweden these past weeks in an effort to have Los Angeles chosen as the site of the next Olympic games. He has been carrying it around for years, but to no avail. The high jump would have to be made more sophisticated for the Hollywood crowd. It would've been changed to see who could leap over Gary Cooper's head. And I can just see those relay runners galloping furiously around the track wearing woggles and sunglasses.

OF COURSE
Of course Sidney Greenstreet would walk off with the weight-lifting awards. He not only can lift it; he's been carrying it around for years. And my money would be on Peter Lorre to win the 100-yard dash, that is provided they have Humphrey Bogart chasing him.

AND JUST PICTURE
And just picture some big handsome star winning in an endurance race when suddenly he has to stop and call his make-up man after all, you never know when you'll be caught in a photo-finish. The committee was seriously considering Los Angeles, but when the news leaked all the loving couple would be filled with orange juice, that was too much.

THE MAYOR
The mayor will return shortly with a long face and a pan of amoragorbo to match, but I really can't blame them for not wanting to hold the games in Los Angeles. They were afraid the pedestrians here would outrun the track stars. They'd never be able to break any records here in Hollywood anyway. After all, how fast can a guy run in galoshes? And with all the snow the runners would be lucky if they found the finish line. (But they'll find it easy in Helsinki.)

tern, and when he defends the character of the typical AFL criminal parasite, the pot is calling the kettle black.

"There is no doubt that a few elements of organized labor have sometimes shown a deplorable lack of responsibility and an utter disregard for anybody but themselves," he wrote, this yellow racketeer, under the title of "great editorialist" in this trade publication on June 16.

"This reckless selfishness has naturally resulted in some public impudence (Benny bought a beautiful high-society estate at Lake Mahopac last year which couldn't have stood him for a dollar less than $20,000, all told) and is the greatest factor for explaining the present hue and cry against labor."

"Labor" is a term used by all the Prosses, Bioris and Pays as a synonym for themselves and for some other specimens of the lowest vermin that our society has yet produced.

"A small minority of the hue-and-cryers are merely grinding their own axes of prejudice and hate." But if he means he is unjust to Westrook Pegler, I love Benny Pross. Does the terrier really hate the rat?

"The vast majority of the remainder, must be made to understand, if they already do not, that their impudence caused by a few unions, cannot fairly be leveled at all sets of all unions."

"The impudence of an aroused section of the public, it is said, will easily be prevailed upon to condemn all unions because of a few. For one, will never believe it. Of course, congress may pretend that the people want shackling of labor. But the people, and many of them carry union cards, will prove that sound and fury, like chickens, come home to roost."

Brother Pross' record has been on public display through these wino little essays for about four years. He is well beloved of the higher orders of the American Federation, detested and feared by the rank and file who wear his shackles, and I will ever cherish him as a perfect example of the hue-and-cryers are merely grinding their own axes of prejudice and hate."

Scout Joe Devine's 'Yes' Gave New York Yankees Their Winning-est Pitcher--Frank Shea

Joe Devine, the Yankee scout, will visit Twin Falls one of these days to view in action the players he has sent to the Cowboys for seasoning. He'll move down to the Times-News office over so often during that visit and there'll be a reason. Joe will be seeking information on how the latest Bronx pitcher, Frank Shea, is performing. You see there was some doubt whether Shea, who hurried for Calicut Paul Krichell that did, Krichell first saw Shea when the Connecticut Yankee was 17, then playing in the outfield for his high school team and pitching relief roles only when the regular hurler was better in 1940.

when the regular hurler was better in 1940. Crimping on his trail for a last year he tried out with the year. Krichell signed the young-Yankees in spring training, but the morning of an exhibition game in Panama was stricken and underwent an appendectomy. After recuperating he was sent to Oakland. Rated no better than sixth among Yankee pitchers, Shea's first start was a loser, but the 1-0 shutout by the Red Sox' Ted Lyons on, in which Shea allowed only three hits, took some of the sting out of it. Then came May 2, the White Sox and the first of seven sharp victories. Frank's best pitch is a sharp curve ball second in speed only to that of Bobby Feller and Hughson.

Perfect Game
KANSAS CITY, June 27 (AP)—Carl DeLoach pitched a perfect no-hit game to shut out the Minneapolis Millers here last night, and give his Kansas City blues a 5 to 0 victory. The big pitcher, who has had 3 or 4 batters, was hit by a sore arm all season, retired 27 men in order, allowing no bases on balls. His mates gave him errorless support.

WHITE HITS SECOND HOMER

Outfielder Drives in 5 Runs; Cowboys Win

By GEORGE F. REDMOND
Times-News Sports Editor
The youngster that A. J. Baker, the drugstore magnate, has been bragging about ever since he transferred here from Payette-Tom Lyda--and he comes through, of which A. J. has no doubt, the Wranglers will sweep their four game series with the Pocatello Cardinals.

The Waddies got three-fourths that far last night when they thumped the Red Birds, 11-6, the winning margin of which was contributed by the six-foot-seven-inch newcomer, Bob White. The outfielder hit his second homer in three days and as before George Ayer and Jack Radtke were camped on the paths for the purpose. In fact, during the evening he drove in five of the valuable markers.

Homers Again

White's big bat--it looks almost like a toothpick when him swinging--helped Dick Weidner, who is ninth Pioneer league victory, an honor shared only by Haworth of Idaho Falls. The Salt Lake City kid wasn't as effective as usual, getting up nine hits, but for that matter he didn't have to be.

The victory moved the Cowboys closer to the leading Salt Lake City Sox than they have been for some time--three and one-half games. They were again in second place last night, but they couldn't win the first-half title on the nine-game road trip on which they will embark after tonight's contest.

The Cowboys got their first run in the first inning when George Ayer walked, Jack Radtke drove in a run, and White hit a home run. The Cardinals came through with a vicious line drive through the box.

The Cards took the lead in the second frame when Neil singled and the league's leading home run hitter, Thomson, parked No. 12 over the left field wall. The Cardinals' home run pitcher, who was to have a tough time tonight, parked one over almost the same spot.

Wangler's Big Innings
Then came the W's' first big inning--the third. Leyer opened with a single and Radtke's one-base hit sent them to the lead. White grounded to Thomson at second and he fumbled the ball, allowing Leyer to coast the second of the five runs he was to score during the evening. McKnight walked to fill the bases and Leyer hit to center, allowing Radtke to cross the plate. Chuck Baker was then hit by a line drive to fill the bases and then Dan Johnston singled to center to send White and McKnight over the plate. White, the Pocatello center-fielder, allowed the drive to get away from him. Baker also came all the way home.

Leyer's walk, Radtke's single and White's bouncer, which was converted into a double play, put another Cowboy run over the plate in the fourth.

In the fifth, Thomson's single, McKnight's walk and O'Laughlin's single presented Pocatello with a run, and then the White Sox hit the homer and White hit his homer, the ball hitting the top of the left field wall and bounding over.

Leyer Makes Error
The Cardinals' final two runs came in the seventh. Leyer dropped Lane's fly for his second error of the season. Stone reached first on Leyer's throw on his second outfield Radtke of the bug in an attempted double play. McKnight grounded out, but Lane scored on O'Laughlin's fly to left, and Stone came home when Vinbladh singled to center.

The Cowboys wound up their scoring in the eighth. Leyer walked and second, Radtke was safe on Leyer's error. White sacrificed and Leyer was waved home a minute later when Stone committed a balk.

Analyst Gives Cause Behind Baruch Pleas

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst—The cause behind Bernard Baruch's pleas for a deep feeling of disappointment that the recent efforts in behalf of international cooperation to discuss the necessity of all American military preparedness.

Universal military training and total mobilization law that would make the plea of Baruch. But since World War II he has been working with other plans which he hoped would make total mobilization a thing of the past.

But his atomic control plan has not been accepted, and the times have more of a pre-war than a post-war complexion. So Baruch appeals once more to a nation to expect not an immediate war with Russia. The implication is that he is sure about the future. What would start it? Do our military leaders actually fear that Russian bombers will drop atomic bombs on our large cities?

Senate Approves New Presidential Succession Plans

Permit Asked For $50,000 Plant Project

An application for a building permit for the erection of four iron and steel buildings, costing an estimated $50,000, was filed with the city clerk Thursday by the Magic Valley Processing company.

The four buildings will be used in conjunction with the $200,000 starch factory being built at the Chamber of Commerce industrial site. Ground was broken the early part of May for the starch factory. The application for the buildings was filed by C. H. Detweiler.

The buildings will be 60 by 200 feet, 40 by 100, 40 by 100 and 40 by 60. Two other applications were filed by Barker Back and C. C. Dudley. Back plans to move a one family dwelling to 150 Munroe and place it on a cement foundation. Cost is estimated at $4,000.

Dudley, 1022 Blue Lakes, plans to build a 12 by 17 addition to be used as an office and photo studio and excavate a 20 by 25 basement and cement it. Cost is estimated at $2,000.

Order of Arrow Name Is Changed

The lodge name for the Order of the Arrow, honorary Boy Scout campers organization being established at the Snake river area council's summer camp, has been changed to "Shoshoni," according to James Schutt, lodge chief.

The name, "Ee-Bah-How," first selected, is being reserved for the Christian church-sponsored Sea Scout ship.

The lodge for the local lodge will be "aseekoo," meaning "a snake that rattles," Schutt announced. Outstanding Scouts and Scouters will be invested into the order at the Boardman creek camp, July 19 to 26, and at the Alturas lake camp, July 26 to Aug. 9.

To qualify for membership, a boy must have had at least two years of summer camp experience, be at least 14 years old and be at least first class rank or above.

Lipstick Termed Dangerous Stuff By Unit's Expert

Lipstick can be dangerous stuff when women are wearing it, but it still packs a potent punch after it has been separated from its original owner, according to Charles Cotton of the south central district health unit.

Husbands might have reason to fear an unfamiliar shade on their collars, but the danger to the public is when it appears on glasses and silverware in public eating establishments, he said. Lipstick has a grease base that is hard to remove with ordinary restaurant cleaning facilities, Cotton explained. This accounts for smudges which often appear on cups and glasses in such places, and while the lipstick itself may not be particularly repulsive, it may conceal germs that are capable of spreading disease to anyone who comes in contact with it.

The solution to the problem of cleaning eating utensils smeared with this common germ carrier requires special equipment and careful supervision of cleaning methods,

Navy Recruiters Set Valley Drive

A drive to create an added interest in the program of the U. S. navy, under the direction of OQM Edgar F. Palmer, local recruiting officer, is slated to open in Magic Valley during the next two weeks.

The schedule outlined by Chief Palmer calls for visits to surrounding towns and communities for the purpose of interviewing prospective applicants and explaining new points of the navy program.

On 1/6 O. W. Whitaker will be at the postoffice in Filer at 9 a. m. Saturday. Buhl applicants can reach him at the Buhl postoffice at 10:30 a. m. Saturday.

Cotton said, "As a simple solution: 'Why not an antiseptic lipstick?' he asks.

$87 Taken From Ransacked Room

Loss of $87 in currency from a Rhodair hotel room occupied by Harold Dunavant was being investigated by Twin Falls police Thursday.

Dunavant reported loss of the money, a safety razor box and razor blades after the room had been ransacked.

Entry into the room apparently had been made between 7 and 10 p. m. Wednesday after a key had been left in a door.

Singers Rehearse For Pageant Role

Choir groups from four Twin Falls wards of the LDS church and from nine neighboring towns are now rehearsing for participation in the Magic Valley Yesterday's pageant scheduled for July 11, 18 and 19. At least 300 voices will be represented in the vocal program presented as a part of the pageant, Charles Shirley, director of musical arrangements, said Thursday. Sound recording will be blended with the voices of the vocal group to present a musical arrangement that the program sponsors predict will be a unique feature of the celebration.

Choir groups represented in the program will be from: Twin Falls, Filer, Kimberly, Murrah, Buhl, Hagerman, Jerome, Rupert, Burley and Paul.

The dry land area of the world is about 15 million square miles.

Congratulates Mr. C. A. (Bud) Gore on the opening of his new, modern garage.

Gore Motor Company, DeSoto-Plymouth dealers in Twin Falls, are having their formal opening of their new rebuilt building located at 3rd and Shoshone So., Saturday.

Mr. Gore is already well known to the Twin Falls motoring public, and represents one of the oldest automobile establishments in this section of Idaho.

The public is cordially invited to come to their showrooms where they have on display four great new cars. They will have on display the latest DeSoto Suburban which is an entirely new body style, having never been built by any manufacturer before. This is one of the first times this new model has been displayed in the United States.

The new Plymouth, of course, is the car with 60 great improvements in the low-priced field.

Gore Motor Company will offer DeSoto and Plymouth owners in Twin Falls the latest in service facilities with complete equipment for all types of maintenance and repair work. A complete stock of Chrysler Corporation factory engineered and approved parts and accessories is maintained to provide the servicing of customer cars. Mr. Gore emphasizes that they cannot too strongly impress upon the motoring public the importance of proper servicing of their present cars. He states that no one can say when there will be a sufficient number of new cars available to all who want them, and the wise owner will see that his present car is maintained in the best possible condition. This will give the owner two advantages.

We cordially invite each and every automobile owner in our city to visit them and to see what they believe to be the most modern, finest equipped automobile establishment in this area.
