

Mississippi Crest At 103-Year High As Quake Strikes

ST. LOUIS, June 30 (P)—The Mississippi river climbed to a new 103-year record here today and U. S. army engineers warned that the battle for two remaining "critical" levees in this area was "far from over" with another crest pouring down from the mouth of the Missouri river.

A brief earthquake at 11:26 p.m. yesterday brought the threat of breaks to waterlocked barriers holding back the river from thousands of acres of rich farmland on the Illinois side but the engineers said no levees were reported damaged by the tremors which lasted about five seconds.

Dupreux denied that there was any evidence at least far to indicate that the union of French people, headed by Gen. Charles De Gaulle, was involved in the plot.

The center of the plot was uncovered at Rennes which has long been a center of Breton nationalism. The police were alerted by a letter from a Breton nationalist, and turned loose communications and laboratory and German prisoners of war.

President Signs 'Inadequate' Bill On Rent Control

WASHINGTON, June 30 (P)—President Truman today signed the rent control extension law, although he said he regarded the legislation as a "step backward."

The president said he had no choice except to sign, since otherwise rent controls would expire at midnight. He added that the cost of living was already too high without the additional burden of increased rents.

The new law is effective tomorrow. It provides:

1. Rent controls go off newly-built, newly-rented and remodeled dwellings, and hotel accommodations.

2. Individual landlords and tenants may sign "voluntary" agreements raising rents up to 15 percent in return for the extension through Dec. 31, 1948.

3. Special eviction safeguards set up by CFA are discarded, and evictions are back under the old law. In most cases, this means landlords will be able to evict tenants at any time—infected as the month—

SCS Training Parley Called 'Big Success'

JEROME, June 30 (AP)—Advanced methods of soil conservation held the attention of soil conservation representatives from southern Idaho and northern Nevada during an irrigation training meeting completed in the north side soil conservation district Thursday.

Approximately 35 soil conservation personnel attended the conference held at W. McQuillan, chief of the irrigation division of the soil conservation office in Portland, Ore.; Ellis L. Hall, irrigation engineer, Fortia and Wayne Cridle, research engineer from Boise.

"Latest methods of water control by the use of various types of siphons, flumes and other control devices were a main item of training," said McQuillan, who was directed at that particular problem.

North side soil conservation district was selected for the meeting as an outstanding area in conservation work in irrigation agriculture. This area represents a good example of the work being done in Magic Valley. Luther Jones, district conservationist, said.

First day of the conference was devoted to demonstrating proper conservation irrigation on the Eric Jensen farm north of Jerome, where a field of beans was irrigated. Two were made on the amount of soil moisture to determine when to irrigate. Measurements were taken on the amount of water penetrating the soil by the efficiency of irrigation by the amount of water run off the field. In addition, various types of water control devices, such as flumes, siphons, and plastic pipes, look-seam metal flumes with gated outlets and wooden flumes with gated outlets for each furrow.

Divided Into Sections
The soil conservation group was divided into four sections on Wednesday and made irrigation trials on the farms of Leon Alder, Kenneth Layton, Lyman Galtier and Frank Brown. Following these field trials a group assembled in Jerome for a discussion of observations.

J. V. Beahm, regional training officer, Portland, was in charge of the work done at the conference. Luther Jones, said. He commended the very high degree of training and expressed appreciation for the cooperation of district supervisors and the town of Jerome.

Railroad Seeking Tax-Dodge Shift

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The Southern Pacific company asked the Interstate commerce commission today to allow it to move its headquarters from Kansas to Delaware to save more than $100,000 annually in taxes.

The railroad, which operates 15,000 miles of line in the southwest, told the ICC hearing it desires a new franchise as a Delaware corporation because Kentucky taxes are "utterly disproportionate" to the value of being incorporated in that state.

George L. Buland, associate general counsel, said the company had paid an average of $1,000,000 annually in the last three years in Kentucky while its Delaware taxes would be about $14,000 a year.

$3,750,000 'Fair' Price on Airline

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—A United Air Lines attorney told the civil aeronautics board today that the line considers $3,750,000 a "fair" price for the Denver-Los Angeles route of Western Air Lines which it is seeking to purchase.

John R. Kelly, United's attorney, said that the company's president, W. A. Patterson, agreed to the figure because he believed the route has great potential earning value.

Relly said the Denver-Los Angeles line will be especially valuable as a part of United's system in linking the Midwest cities of Omaha and Lincoln, Neb.; Des Moines, Ia., and Moline, Ill., with the southern California line. There is direct "community of interest" between these cities and Los Angeles, he said.

Although it insists at 450 degrees Fahrenheit, it does not boil until it reaches 4,100 degrees Fahrenheit.

Solution of Saturday's Puzzle

Figure 1 is a 10x10 grid showing the distribution of the number of species (1-10) across different numbers of samples (1-10). The grid is divided into 10 columns, each representing a number of samples. The rows represent the number of species. The cells are shaded to indicate the frequency of each combination. The distribution shows that for a given number of samples, there is a peak in the number of species observed, and the total number of species increases with the number of samples.
