

Price Decline Of Food Seen By Fall, 1948

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Clarence Francis, chairman of the board of General Foods corporation, said today that average food prices may be down "as much as 15 per cent" by harvest time in 1948.

Francis made no specific forecast as to what may happen to prices in the meantime.

But the United States Chamber of Commerce in another statement prepared for the joint congressional committee on the economic report declared that if the Marshall plan does to effect it is "likely to involve a very considerable upward pressure on many commodities."

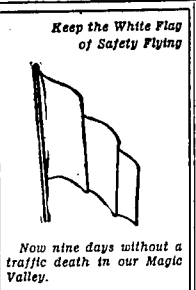

And before the committee convened, Senator O'Mahoney, D. Wyo., a member, told a reporter that the price stabilization of American economy is the rehabilitation of Europe and Asia.

Francis told the committee he believes a "corrective" in food prices is under way and that "the average prices paid for food by domestic consumers may be as much as 15 per cent lower by the time the harvest of 1948 are gathered."

He added:

"I don't mean to imply anything like a wide open break in prices. Such a break would probably occur only in a depression . . . and I don't foresee anything as drastic as that."

In citing reasons for his prediction that food prices will be down, Francis said that food is being "getting more than its usual share of the consumer dollar."

Idaho's Roads 'Not So Bad,' Driver Avers

Inundated area he noted a "business as usual" attitude. Travel was not seriously impeded, and the motorists encountered only two or three washed out bridges.

While in Washington, D. C., they visited their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. June H. Thayer and family. Thayer is secretary to Congressman John B. Sanborn of Idaho.

A highlight of the visit to the nation's capitol was the opportunity to attend the filibuster session on the Taft-Hartley labor bill.

Strongest memory left by the trip was the difficulty encountered at every turn in obtaining hotel, or, in fact, any type of accommodations for overnight stops; and it was often necessary to pay $5 a night for just a room in a home.

Although the Twin Falls man expected to find signs of a slight recession in buying, he found that, with exception of sales of homes where consumer resistance has appeared, retail business is still accelerating and is on the "up" instead of the "down grade."

Campaign Urges Speedy Aid for Victims of Water

With the advent of the swimming and fishing season when death by drowning is a constant menace, the Idaho Power company's safety division has joined in the effort to protect lives by disseminating much illustrated instruction sheets on how to administer artificial respiration.

According to a statement received by the Twin Falls office of the power company from Safety Director Milton Beck of Boise, special emphasis is being placed on saving children who fall into irrigation ditches.

"There have been so many incidents in which the rescuer, knowing nothing about artificial respiration, pulled the victim out of the ditch and then either waited until a doctor arrived or rushed the victim to some fire department in an automobile, instead of applying artificial respiration on the spot," the safety official commented.

"The application of artificial respiration, to be effective, must be given at once. The knowledge necessary to apply the method is easy to acquire and the use of this method will prevent tragedy in many cases. The power company has been approved and has the hearty support of the national safety council, the Idaho chapter of the council and the Idaho chapter of the Red Cross. In addition, referring to the method demonstrated by the illustrated circulars.

Restoring of Farm Money Cut Foreseen

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Senator Aiken, R., Va., predicted after a Republican conference yesterday senate restoration of much of the $340,770,000 the house cut off the agriculture department appropriations bill.

Aiken told reporters the Republican contingent is divided in its views.

No General Accord

Senator Brooks, R., Ill., said they canvassed the reductions but reached no general agreement.

Brooks, who heads an appropriations subcommittee now considering the $347,811,000 measure, said he had suggested as a possible compromise the spreading of soil conservation payment funds over a period of two years instead of one.

He explained that the house eliminated $125,000,000 of a $301,000,000 total sought by President Truman for this purpose and made no provision for soil conservation payments next year.

Conservation Fund OK Seen

Senator Butler, R., Neb., told a reporter he thinks most of the soil conservation fund will be restored.

Aiken said he doesn't believe the senate will go along with a $30,000,000 house cut in school lunch program funds.

Camp Closure Will Not Hit Labor Supply

"Closing of the Twin Falls government operated labor camp definitely will not affect other camps in this area operated by the growers," E. J. Mastas, farm labor division supervisor, said Wednesday in answer to questions from growers in Magic Valley.

Grover camps in Rupert, Burley, Hazelton, Buhl, Jerome, Shoshone, the Gooding, Wendell and Filer are not government operated but only supervised by the government, and will not be affected by the order to close the Twin Falls camp Sept. 25, Mastas pointed out.

"Grower camps will continue to provide farm labor as long as there is a demand in this area," Mastas said. "There have been no orders for any change in their operation."

He indicated that misunderstandings had arisen over the announcement that the Twin Falls camp would close. Growers, he added, have asked if their supply of labor would be affected.

U.S. Atomic Data Taken From File, Partly Recovered

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—A member of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy said today highly secret data on the atomic bomb has been stolen from government files, but that part of the data has been recovered.

This member, who asked that his name be withheld, said he had been "pledged to secrecy" on the matter and declined to go into details.

The member, however, said the secret material had not been taken from files at Oak Ridge, Tenn., as reported by the New York Sun. He said the information had been taken "from another plant."

At the White House, Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said that no theft of atomic bomb secrets had been reported to the White House.

Ross said he thought it would be "very strange" if such a theft had occurred that it would not have been reported to President Truman.

Loses Permit

Judgment was suspended in two cases of drunkenness before Municipal Judge J. O. Humphrey Wednesday. The liquor permit of one of the offenders was taken by the court.

Willard Marlow, Olema Perry, and Clyde J. Middleton, Dillon, Mont., pleaded guilty to intoxication charges and were released after Judge Humphrey had taken Middleton's Idaho liquor permit.

It occurred that it would not have been reported to President Truman.

CAESAR BOWS

When James Caesar Petrillo of the musicians union bent his knee before the country's highest tribunal the other day he demonstrated the almost reverential respect that most Americans feel for the supreme court. Nor was this the only example of recent memory.

At the height of his popularity President Roosevelt found that a loyal and heavily Democratic congress—and the people who elected it—would not go along with him on the so-called "court packing plan." Even John L. Lewis held his oratorical tongue when the high court decided against him a few months ago.

Many reasons for this deep respect are evident. The supreme court is, in theory, and usually in fact, above the hurly-burly of politics. Its members are appointed, not elected, and the appointment is for life. They are the courts of last resort so far as the law which they are considering is concerned.

The justices, to be sure, are human. They have their differences, occasionally open and bitter ones. Some of these differences are political, though it is politics on a high plane. Yet there are usually enough justices of high intelligence and high principle on the bench at any time to merit the veneration which the supreme court receives.

With the other two branches of government it is different. The President and his assistants and the members of congress are subject, and rightly, to a sharp inspection and criticism of their works. The executive and the legislators are elected and paid by the people to do a job. Their employers have a right to see that the job is done completely.

But sometimes this criticism gets out of hand. We have seen Mr. Petrillo refuse a request made by Mr. Roosevelt and we have seen A. F. Whitney defy Mr. Truman, though both Presidents were obviously acting in the people's best interests. We have seen Mr. Petrillo and Mr. Lewis flout the authority of congress and invite legal action by the government.

As a result congress has enacted a new labor law intended to curb such actions. Immediately the country has seen a widespread "spontaneous" and "wildcat" strike by coal miners in defiance of this law.

It is very well for Mr. Petrillo to say, "The supreme court has spoken, and I bow to its decisions." That is commendable. But he and some other heads of unions might recall that the supreme court is only one of three equal and equally important branches of government.

When congress passes a law, or the executive department enforces it, or the judicial department judges it, the government has spoken in each case. If the law is unjust it can be amended or nullified.

But this immediate defiance by one group of an act of the people's government weakens the people's government. It is such defiance that may be within the law. But it is rebellion, not criticism.

THE FORGOTTEN EMOTION

The mystery of those food packages sent to well-fed Americans by ill-fed Greeks was assuming the proportions of a small international scandal. Some said the Communists had persuaded hungry Greeks that Americans were even hungrier. Some muttered "Uncle Sam." Investigations began in both countries.

Then along came an explanation from James A. Booras, president of the American-Greek Chamber of Commerce in New York. Mr. Booras is also agent for the Greek Railway Express, which handled most of the 40,000 food parcels in question.

Mr. Booras' story, which we are inclined to believe, is that the packages were simply tokens of appreciation for American help. Most of them contained such native delicacies as olive oil, dried figs, nuts and honey. Perhaps 50 or 60 of the 40,000, Mr. Booras guessed, included some Greek sausage.

American food must have helped to keep a good many Greek bodies and souls together during the last six years. What is more natural, then, that Greeks who had survived through this American help should want to express their thanks?

The thing that we find surprising, and a little disconcerting, is the storm of suspicion that blew up as soon as the report of these Greek packages was made public. The world and its thinking must be in a sorry state when the warm, instinctive emotion of gratitude seems to be the last thing that people expect.

Any smart girl can get the man she wants, declares a writer. The really smart girl gets the man some other girl wants.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

veto—How can the veto power be reconciled with the principle of majority rule?" asks C. L. Van N. of Salinas, Cal. "How can one man's judgment, even though he be the President of the United States, be brought to bear on the combined judgment of hundreds of elected representatives of the people?"

Answer: President Truman's recent veto of such far-reaching measures as the labor and war reduction bills, and the new labor-relations law, has many questions along this line. The answer is easy, if one reads the debates of the constitutional convention at Philadelphia in 1787.

The reason for vesting such power over legislation in a single man, and for giving a two-thirds vote of congress to override him, is that the founding fathers did not trust the people.

They feared that the artisans and backwoodsmen would send demagogues to congress and they wanted a check on the legislative power. Naturally, they feared that the chief of state would be chosen from the so-called upper economic and intellectual classes as, indeed, they were until the advent of Andrew Jackson.

DEMOCRATS—The current demand that a mere majority be permitted to override a White House veto derives from the orgy of negativity in which President Truman has indulged himself. A study of the use of this power is both interesting and informative.

There has been a total of 125 vetoes, according to the latest and best check, in American history. Presidents used this authority sparingly in the early days, as there were only 81 before Abraham Lincoln entered the presidency.

Since the Civil War when the major political parties assumed their present form, Democratic Presidents have disapproved 125 bills, while Republicans have vetoed 125. President Hoover vetoed 63 measures, 148 more than had been disapproved up to the time of the Cleveland administration. The former Buffalo sheriff, however, ran his hand over 146 congressional enactments, but many of these were pension grabs by Civil War veterans.

The record does reveal, however, a growing tendency on the part of the White House to veto bills which executives, to disregard the will of the people as expressed by its elected representatives to congress.

TRADE—Question from P. R. of Brooklyn, N. Y.: "What is the true picture of our export-import trade? How does it affect our own living conditions—prices, supply, employment?"

Answer:—The picture is extremely lopsided, and basically bad. We are exporting, on the basis of May figures, $16,692,000,000 worth of goods annually, and importing only $8,676,000,000, a difference in our favor of slightly less than $1,000,000,000 a month, or $30,000,000 every 24 hours.

Incidentally, $16,000,000,000 is about one-tenth of our annual national production. Such a lopsidedness in our favor naturally contributes to the bulge in the price index, although it has kept employment at the high level of 58,000,000.

STOCK-TAKING—It is obvious that we cannot continue to pour out our resources and treasure at such a fantastic rate, and it is for this reason that President Truman has ordered a stock-taking. It is a natural outgrowth of the war, and it is a necessary step for the government to take.

Even more important, it is a necessary step for the government to take in order to bring about a more efficient use of our resources. It is a necessary step for the government to take in order to bring about a more efficient use of our resources.

LUXURIES—The cold, commerce department statistics, however, do not present the darkest side of the international trade scene. A commodity breakdown shows that we are shipping materials and manufactured articles essential to national welfare and security, while receiving largely luxuries in return.

Here is a list of what we have been shipping abroad, in addition to lend-lease and UNRRA supplies: Kansas and Minnesota wheat, Pennsylvania coal, Dixie cotton, Texas-Oklahoma-California oil, lubricants, latex, meat, machinery, lumber, locomotives, boxcars, vessels, auto trucks and passenger cars, machinery, and manufactured products.

Here is what we are buying: Strategic materials such as bauxite, tin, copper, natural rubber, manganese, liquor and liquors, Parian perfume, gloves and gums, Belgian lace, South American and Italian fur, coffee, sugar, British tweeds, silver and china, Portuguese and Spanish wines, olives, etc.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

DAMS AND SALMON

The Columbia river and tributaries constitute the largest potential source of hydroelectric power in the United States. The same river system long has been one of the most important food fish streams on our continent. It is necessary, in the development of the national economy, that we harness the power of the waterpower of the Columbia watershed. The salmon fishing industry, concerned over possibilities that construction of dams will have an adverse effect on the future runs of fish, have thrown their weight behind a program that would bring about deferment of dam building on the Columbia below the Oregan river—with exception of McNary on which a start has been made—and on Snake river below the Salmon.

The fishing industry is nearly a century old on the Columbia and it is estimated that the capitalized value of the packing industry and the fish produced annually is $125,000,000. Naturally the whole of the Pacific northwest is interested in the retention of this industry in which thousands are engaged, and upon which several communities depend as a principal source of income.

The area that is interested in the upper river development, including dams and navigation works, is tremendous and is constantly growing. Authorities have been asking that before more progress can be made in the Pacific northwest more power must be developed. Along with these projects for additional energy are numerous aids to navigation, while sizable areas can be developed by irrigation.

The thought has been advanced often that there is no need for a conflict between the two interests, by working out a careful plan of cooperation it ought to be possible to go on utilizing the Columbia and tributaries both for the propagation of food fish and the generation of hydroelectric power. Such interest may need to take steps to see that an orderly development takes place in the case of the prime need on behalf of the fish industry is a strong case to clear up stream pollution. Excepting for the dam at Grand Coulee, fish ways have been, and will be provided so that salmon can be passing ground water will be accommodated. Recent counts indicate that salmon passing up stream through the Bonneville fish ways are as numerous as they have been at any time since that barrier was begun.—Walla Walla, Union-Bulletin.

BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE

Ray Mahaley was the latest man in the village, and whenever his long suffering wife could induce him to lift his hand in labor, the task was certain to be done in the easiest, simplest and most ineffectual manner possible.

Imagine the surprise of Ray's neighbors therefore when, being induced to build an enclosure around his miserable home, he proceeded to construct a fence of the unusual dimensions of four feet high and six feet wide!

"What's the idea of the extra thick fence, Ray?" a neighbor inquired.

"Oh, there's to be no trouble of making repairs later on," Ray explained. "You see, when it falls over it will be still higher than it is now!"—Lawiston Tribune.

Slightly bored by being slapped in the face by another person's relations report every time I pick up the paper, I see the latest in the Times-News is a picture of our diplomatic exchange broad smiles with the Russians and still disagreeing on plans.

I understand they're experimenting with the idea of shooting our daily mail to us by rocket. They're having a little trouble, though, trying to decide whose picture to put on the rocket stamp.

President Truman's or Buck Rogers.

The old saying was, "The postman always rings twice." Now it's "Duck, Herman, here comes a special delivery."

The special delivery service is even faster, of course. It reaches its destination by regular rocket then a postman takes it from there by jet-propelled roller skates.

Yeah, now it'll only take 15 minutes to send a letter. Of course there's one thing that's even faster than these rockets. That's the stamp collectors who chase 'em.

All this speed bothers me and I'm beginning to argue with it. I'm saying, "Everything is Going Too Fast."

You pick up the weekly magazine and they even tell you how fast it is. It's driving me crazy! It says, "Reading time: 30 seconds." And twice they dropped my subscription because I couldn't make it in less than 32.

It's even affecting the clocks. When it's 8 p. m. the cuckoo only has time to step once for a short time. Maybe I'm old-fashioned but I'm afraid too much speed. It's nerve-wracking, dangerous, and besides I get paid by the hour.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—The Pattern Makers' Journal, a small weekly publication, has challenged that part of the new labor-relations law which forbids unions to spend their money for the "freedom" of the press.

The Pattern Makers' Journal is a publication which is financed by the union and other treasury funds exacted from the members.

The union may lend its name to a publication which is financed by the union and other treasury funds exacted from the members.

We have a parallel verbatim in the income tax law which provides that the income of immune institutions, including religious organizations, shall be exempt provided that none of it is used for the purpose of influencing legislation.

If you concede the political hygiene and justice of the income tax at all you can find no constitutional fault with this provision. We don't have to give a church or educational institution any exemption.

This is a very good union, as unions go, composed of aristocrats, of a skilled trade and conducted generally in their interests rather than for the sole personal benefit of any boss. For their money, the men could hire a better writer than the author of the challenge which resounds with the dull, dumb clangor of a rusty bucket and completely fails to state the issue.

For rapier thrusts, we see the editor falling on his face as he refers to Senator "Tait" as "Bobbie" and Congressman Hartley as "Fred" and he is over-dramatic when he cries, after Patrick Henry, "give me liberty or give me death."

No issue of life or death exists here, capital punishment is not provided even in the most flagrant cases. The members of the Pattern Makers' league, to be sure, are heroes of a brave propaganda in the national office who says he is willing to die for freedom may live when he is threatened, at worst, with a slap in the face.

As to the issue, let us see. Does this law impair the freedom of the press in forbidding union publications, supported out of the members' dues, to publish campaign literature or support candidates? It does not.

or not. That is just what he said and, of course, that was a corruption of the home who run the unions and edit the papers.

There has not been the vaguest suggestion that any clergyman be punished. All that has been proposed is that religious organizations with enormous incomes be compelled to obey the law and pay their income taxes like all the rest of us, including the irreligious and the atheists, when they violate the clause which qualifies their immunity.

I think the Pattern Makers' Journal has got that a little wrong. These politicians, or statesmen, did not resent the expression of these religious leaders, although some immune members of one religious group certainly were sore as the devil at being told what to think.

These politicians, or statesmen, merely pointed out that these religious leaders had forfeited the tax immunity which the law grants to their congregations under certain definite restrictions which these clergymen thoroughly understood.

I do not dispute their right to interfere in politics. But they should be the last to evade or disobey the law and should pay their taxes without argument. The tax is the price they are supposed to pay for the privilege of political activity.

The Pattern Makers' Journal asks whether religious communities are to be muzzled next? There you have an example of the sort of thing that congress has in mind in deciding to forbid the financial support of publications through union dues. They are notoriously devout in their misrepresentation of issues to the interest of members, consistently in the interest of the home who run the unions and edit the papers.

Impact of Aid Plan Gigantic, Analyst Avers

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
(P) Foreign Affairs Analyst

It is hard to recall anything except war which has had the impact on modern Europe that is being exhibited by the Marshall proposal. It is too early to gauge the ultimate results. With all the good will in the world, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, after nearly two years of effort, have found no coordination of their national economies to be an extremely difficult proposition.

Yet their problem is simple compared with the ancient grudge, nationalism, politics and military considerations which surround a similar attempt for the larger European countries.

Idea Snowballing

But Secretary Marshall's Harvard speech, just slightly over a month ago has snowballed into a terrific force. Countries which had been looking for salvation in political treaties suddenly realized that by working together, by making themselves a good investment for American aid, they might again become respectably self-supporting.

The tugging at Russian leashes which is going on in central Europe indicates the strong pull which the idea carries. The countries are not worried by the fear that American help would mean interference in their internal affairs.

Slaves Want to Join

Even in Russia's greatest stronghold, Yugoslavia, it is evident that only communist politics backed by Moscow's force can prevent the countries from jumping on the bandwagon.

And it is obvious that there is going to be great unhappiness, boding ill for Moscow's consolidation hopes, among those who are prevented from taking the ride.

Even partial success of the idea in western Europe will prove a tremendous weapon against the expansion of communism.

Rivals to Meet

BOISE, July 9 (P)—The governors of two great potato growing states will shake hands in Twin Falls tomorrow.

Gov. C. A. Robbins planned to leave late today for the eastern Idaho community, where residents will entertain Gov. E. C. Ellsworth of Maine.

The two officials will journey together to Salt Lake City to attend the national governors' conference July 12-14.

Sanitarian Cites Dangers of Milk Not Pasteurized

Buying milk that has not been properly pasteurized is labeled "foolhardy" by Charles Cotton, sanitarian at the south central district health unit in Twin Falls, in a recent report.

Even the fact that milk is pasteurized does not assure the consumer that it is safe, he pointed out. Pasteurized labels may appear on products that have not been properly pasteurized, and these are just as dangerous as the raw product.

Statistics show records of 24 outbreaks of sickness transmitted through milk or milk products, the report indicates. The outbreaks were diphtheria, septic sore throat, typhoid fever, undulant fever, infectious hepatitis and food poisoning. A total of 2,161 cases were reported. During 1945 alone, 10 were traced to raw milk, six to cheese, one to home-made ice cream and one to a dried milk preparation. These statistics cover only definite outbreaks. Cotton said. Individual cases are not recorded.

Cotton sees one of the greatest dangers to this area in infection in dairy cows. Under testing programs for tuberculosis and bangs, a cow is tested once every 12 months. Cotton points out that, under such a program, a cow may be infected for almost a year before the infection is discovered. Some diseases may not be detected by the test, and proper pasteurization is the only sure solution.

Ailshie to Study Liquor Injunction

BOISE, July 9 (P)—Attorney General Robert Ailshie today requested "all papers" on file in district court at Wallace on an injunction issued restraining officials from enforcing new state liquor and slot machine laws at Burke in Shoshone county.

In a telegram sent today to Prosecuting Attorney Albert J. Graf at Wallace, Ailshie said "In pursuance to the authority vested in me . . . request that you send air mail certified copies of all the papers in the case" involving Leo Disbrow, Burke tavern operator.

Ailshie said yesterday the Ada county sheriff served an order dated July 1 on R. C. Lewis, state commissioner of law enforcement, restraining Lewis from "molesteing" Disbrow in the "sale of whiskey and operation of slot machines."

Globe Trade Held Key to Prosperity

SALT LAKE CITY, July 9 (P)—A sizeable world market is necessary for a sound economic policy, R. E. Short, secretary of the Arkansas Farm Bureau federation told the western regional federation conference here late yesterday.

Short, in a lengthy discussion of world trade, world peace and the need for integration of the interests of agriculture, industry and labor, called for a substantial increase in export trade.

"A large world market is absolutely necessary," the Arkansas declared.

He said that a sound foreign policy would be necessary if foreign trade could be so integrated to work towards world peace.

Pageant to Glorify Pioneers Who Envisioned Magic Valley

By LEONARD MIRACLE

Buhl, Kimberly, Piler and Hansen are common names familiar to Magic Valley residents today, but they will become familiar as Magic Valley pioneer personalities in Mrs. Pannier Brum's "Sage of the Snake" pageant during the Magic Valley Yesterdays observance.

A man who was called an "idea dreamer" probably did as much as any one person to make Magic Valley a reality. But this man backed his dreams with surveying instruments and lived to watch them materialize in irrigated fields. His name? Bert Perrine.

Perrine is a central character in the pageant program to be held in Twin Falls July 17, 18 and 19. In the script of the program he will be seen again as the "idea dreamer" who developed the Blue Lakes ranch, planned Minner dam and who kept his faith in Magic Valley irrigation when others abandoned this area as a desert. He was delivering star-berries to Albion when he first decided on Minner as the site for a dam. Explaining this plan to an engineer, he was told that American Falls was the most logical site. That was the year 1903. Now, Magic Valley Yesterdays will turn back the pages for the residents of today and the men who laid the foundation for the present towns and farms will be portrayed in their roles so vital to the future that Magic Valley residents are now enjoying.

Correction Board Picks Director of Prison Education

BOISE, July 9 (P)—Harry L. Wallis, former narcotics education director for the state department of education, has been named chief instructor of education at the Idaho penitentiary, Warden Louis Clapp said today.

Wallis will work with Robert Schofield, a member of the newly created state board of corrections. Schofield has charge of the institution's rehabilitation and education program.

The new board granted two paroles yesterday, the first since the board took over the prison administration July 1.

Fred Finley, San Francisco, western director of the National Probation Association, met with the board. Finley helped draft the 1947 law under which Idaho's new parole and probation system now is working.

Clapp said the Boise Ministerial association has approved a schedule for religious programs at the prison.

Two Small Fires Put Out at Buhl

BUHL, July 9 (P)—The Buhl fire department was kept busy early this week extinguishing two small fires.

Weeds caught fire behind the high school building and burned one side of the agriculture building, which is located behind the high school. Little damage was reported.

The firemen extinguished a fire on west Main street Tuesday. No damage was done in the blaze.

Point Proved, But Man Still Gathers Corn

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—The race right now is to collect flying ears, but Frank Whipple is still fast. He collects corn on the cob. And with corn at around $2.15 a bushel that would sound like pretty profitable collecting. Except the corn Whipple has is not for sale. His hobby started in 1933. A bunch of steel workers used to hang out in Whipple's combination barber shop, post office, and cigar store. One day they got to arguing over whether metallurgists or agriculturists did the most experimenting.

Farmer Leads Research

Whipple, a son of the soil, said that naturally the farmer led in that department and he would prove it. With corn.

So that night he wrote to the governors of the 48 states, asking for samples. Pretty soon he was the owner of 48 ears of corn from 48 states.

To barber Whipple that proved a point and the hang-around in the shop agreed he had won the argument.

Well, it went on from there and today the collector has over 1,000 ears of corn; not a single duplication.

Scrapbook Record

Whipple has got a record of the whole business preserved in an elaborate scrap book. Even a memo from the late President Roosevelt, who wrote he'd be glad to send the barber a sample of kernels when he discovered America.

Whipple would like an ear of that.

Reform Due for Taxes, Not Cut, Hoover Asserts

SALT LAKE CITY, July 6 (AP)—The next session of congress should be concerned with "tax reforms" rather than reductions in income taxes but the "enforce" tax bill now before congress should be passed—that's the opinion of ex-President Herbert Hoover.

The goal of the next congress should be to differentiate between "earned and unearned" income and tax accordingly. Hoover told a reporter yesterday while en route by train to his mining properties near Butte.

"The man who works for wages finds it difficult to build up a savings account," said Hoover. "He is a person receiving his livelihood from annuities, or similar income, usually in a much better financial position. There should be a difference in the taxation rate of those groups."

Another "reform" should be revamping of tax policies for business of less than $1,000,000 capitalization because at present such enterprises are finding it more profitable to sell out to larger corporations which are under capital gains tax provisions, he added.

Full Production Of Wendell Mill To Start Soon

WENDELL, July 6 (AP)—Full production for the Wendell Lumber mill is expected to get underway next week. Live steam was turned into the pipes last week-end for a trial run.

It was one year ago that a group of Wendell businessmen investigated the possibilities of a lumber mill in Wendell when Harry McNutt of the Wendell Woodworking plant presented the idea at a Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Stan Ramsey and McNutt made a trip to the east and purchased the mill, which was brought to Wendell. After its erection it was learned that because of the distance in hauling logs it was impractical for the mill to be located in Wendell, so it was moved to Fairfield. The mill will employ from 16 to 20 men.

The Wabash Screen and Door factory, Chicago, has contracted to buy all the pine lumber cut at the mill.

Taylor Hopes 'Discs' Are of 'Outer Space'

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Sen. Glen H. Taylor, D. Ida., said today he almost hoped the "flying saucers" will turn out to be space ships from another planet.

He said the "mere possibility" that the spinning circles might be hostile would "unify the peoples of the earth as nothing else could."

World Government Quick

Taylor, who is plugging hard for a United States of the world, added "you have world government so quick it would make your head swim."

The senator said that no matter what the "saucers" are they "can't be laughed off."

Advices Check

"If they're something we've invented," he said, "we'd better take note that other people can invent too. If it's the Russians, we'd better look at our 'hois card' and realize we're not the only ones with inventive genius."

Even if it's only a psychological phenomenon, Taylor says it's a sign of what the world's coming to.

"If we don't ease the tensions, the whole world will be full of psychological cases and eventually turn into a global nuthouse."

Prices Down for "Green" Lumber

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The commerce department reported today that demand and prices for better grades of lumber are holding firm, but buyer resistance and improved supplies have reduced both prices and sales volume for the lower grades.

Many small mills which produced only rough green or ungraded lumber have shut down or shifted production from lumber to ties because of declining prices, the department said.

REPORTS ON TOUR

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Burton K. Wheeler, former Democratic senator from Montana, called at the White House today to give President Truman a report on his recent visit to Latin America.

Texas has 284 counties, with the average size of each being 1,037 square miles.

RICHLIFF, July 9—In a candlelight ceremony performed at 3 p. m. Sunday in the Richliff Community church, Edna Faye Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Johnson, and her daughter, Jewel, Portland, Ore., and Mrs. C. O. Chatfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Chatfield, all of Richliff, were united in marriage.

The Rev. Marcus Bloodworth read the nuptial vows before an altar decorated with white lilies and gypsophylla and flanked by white tapers in crystal candelabra and French vases of Shasta daisies and gypsophylla.

The bride wore a white floor-length gown of crepe with a finger-veiled veil edged in lace and held by a tiara of lace. She carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations and gypsophylla tied with white ribbon. As tokens of sentiment she wore a locket, a family heirloom, and carried a handkerchief belonging to her aunt. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Maid of honor was Mrs. Bill Sipe, who wore a floor-length gown of pink and white. Best man was Mrs. F. W. Favel, cousin of the bride, and Maylene Cherry, groomed in blue tulle and wearing her hair in a bun. The bride's attendants wore matching corsages of pink carnations.

Grant Stevens served as best man. Ushers were Thomas and Morris Vaughn.

Provide Music
Mrs. Don Clark and Janice and Jewel Johnson, all of Salt Lake City and cousins of the bride, presented vocal selections preceding the ceremony, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Frank Johnson, who also played the wedding march.

The bride's mother wore an afternoon dress of light blue crepe with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue afternoon dress and carried black accessories. Both had corsages of white carnations and pink roses.

If Graziano Beats Zale Next Wednesday Night He'll Be Champion of World Except in His Home State

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—Can Tony Zale do it again? Can the hard-slogging middleweight champion put the chill on the murderous punching East Sider, Rocky Graziano, as he did in September, 1946?

On the SPORT FRONT With YOSS (The Paddy One)

Mr. Maury Doerr, president of the Twin Falls Cowboys, didn't have to hustle from his life-sustaining labor, too, a few morsels of food to the inner man and rush down to enjoy park at 5 p.m. to officiate at the business manager of the Wanderers Tuesday. He took his time and then settled himself in his easy chair to enjoy his favorite mystery story of the moment.

"This is the life, Harriet," he shouted gleefully to his attractive wife. "I wish we had these baseball off-days more often."

Then the telephone rang. It was Ye Old Sport Scrivener calling.

"How many persons did you draw through the Jaycee park turnstiles in the first half?" YOSS asked.

"Forty-three thousand, nine hundred and sixty-five!" Maury returned proudly.

"Why that's about 4,000 more than you drew in the first half last season. Isn't it?" queried the ancient word puffer.

"Something like that—yes."

The pudgy one noted that that was about 10,000 more than the club pulled through the turnstiles during the whole of the 1942 season.

Then YOSS informed him that President Jack Halliwell of the Pioneer league had announced that Salt Lake City had drawn $4,000, Boise 40,000 and Ogden 4,000 during the first half.

"You mean that we're fourth?" asked the Cowboy president.

"Yes, that's right."

"Well, I'm disappointed."

"The only eye-witness tormentor couldn't see why he should be—with that boost of about 4,000 over last year."

"I had hoped to beat out Ogden and Boise this year," remarked Doerr.

"What you mean is that you have hoped for Twin Falls with a third of the population of Boise and Ogden to outdraw them?" inquired the pudgy one.

He admitted as much, explaining that "we've got more loyal fans in Magic Valley. We get better newspaper publicity and well, we just work harder up here promoting baseball."

So an evening that was to have been one of rest and contentment was spoiled for the popular Cowboy president.

20 Errors in Softy Tilt Won By Riser-Cain

The Orange Transplications and the Riser-Cains each tried to give the other a softball game last night but the latter alone would accept harder up here promoting baseball.

Each team made 10 errors.

However, the Riser-Cains bled 18 hits off Craft and while Hughes held the Oranges to six.

Ken Smith hit a home run for the Gerrishes but the IOOF won the game, 16-3. Yoss and Shaw hurried to the fraternal team, while Erwin went the route for the Gerrishes.

Lynch, Crandall and Lake smashed out circuit swarms for the Ode team which won over the Stirlings, 10-5. Dick Tost's antics proved quite baffling for the Stirlings, while Davis was pounded quite freely by the winners.

Fisher hit a home run for the Sugar factory team, Kimberly made free with his offerings from the hill and won, 10-5. Erickson was the Kimberly hurler.

That question has kept the nation's fight fans buzzing since the first bout between the pair, a fight unrivaled in sheer brutality by any in the past 25 years. The first was Zale, 33, caught the high hard right of The Rock for five rounds, got up off the floor and belted out the 25-year-old challenger, in the sixth.

The result confounded the experts who were certain that the aging Zale would not be able to stand up under the vicious punches of Graziano. Now they're rematched for July 16, and this time the opinion is reversed.

The word is that one of the heart went out of the colorful and vicious Rock when the ex-steelworker from Gary, Ind., took his best shots and puffed they weren't good enough.

Graziano cancelled a bout with inept Ruben Shank after the Zale go. After the Shank affair the New York boxing commission took away his license to fight in this state for not reporting an alleged bribe attempt.

As a result the rematch was called to Chicago. Should Graziano lift the ban on Zale, the ban will create another muddle in the middleweight division. When Zale won the crown in an elimination tourney in 1941 he gained the first clear occupancy to the throne since 1910. For 30 years the royal purple in the middleweight division was the subject of claims and counter-claims. A victory for Graziano would make him the champion in every state but New York, his home and the spot where his drawing power is at its peak.

Even a Zale win might confuse the picture, for Tony could be declared ineligible in New York for fighting a ban fighter in the same state. A boxing board, suggesting that Cerdan and Jake LaMotta, would be made to settle the New York title, and the dual crown situation would be created again.

But it isn't the possibility for a confused middleweight picture that will lure the fans to the rematch. They're looking for a repeat performance of the first gory brawl.

SHOWDOWN ON TITLE ASKED PATERSON, N. J., July 9 (AP)—The National Boxing association stepped into the off-again, on-again flyweight championship bout situation with a suggestion that champion Jackie Peterson fight July 16 in Glasgow or vacate the title.

The scheduled championship battle between the Glasgow Flyweight and Dado Marino of Honolulu has been postponed to the increasing irritation on the part of Marino's manager, Sam Ichinose.

Al J. Greene, NBA president, cabled Charles F. Donnell of London, general secretary of the British boxing board, suggesting that Marino take on Rinty Monaghan of England for the world title if Peterson falls to go through with next Wednesday's date in Glasgow.

And if Peterson does show up confused middleweight picture that will lure the fans to the rematch. They're looking for a repeat performance of the first gory brawl.

Ichinose had contended that Peterson has been getting postponements because he can't make the weight limit. Peterson has come up twice with balls.

Paterman's manager offered an $8,000 side bet to Marino as proof he would be fighting fit on July 16.

Walkingshaw To Face Zavitka on Hill at Start, Rival Pilots Report

Righthander Dick (Riggy) Walkingshaw of the Cowboys will oppose righthander Jim Zavitka of the Ogden Reds on the mound as the northern and southern all-star teams take the field in the annual Pioneer-League classic at 8:30 tonight.

Manager Earl Bolyard, Twin Falls, nominated by loop fans to pilot the northerners, named Walkingshaw, who won nine games and lost five in first half competition, for the starting assignment today. He added that he probably will call on Pan Ammerson, Idaho Falls; Bob Roberts, Boise, Leon Haworth, Idaho Falls, and Hal Lowe, Twin Falls, in that order for any further mound duty.

Meanwhile Manager Tommy Thompson of the first half champion Salt Lake City Bees, the southern squad's mentor, chose Zavitka for his starting chores, and said he would call on Con Dempsey, Salt Lake City; Gene Brocker, Salt Lake City; Dick Buck, Ogden, and Jim Gilmore of Pocatello, in that order. Zavitka has a 6-3 record in the first half.

South African Wins in $7,000 Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP)—Bobby Locke, the South African golf perfectionist, won the $7,000 Tam O'Shanter first prize Tuesday by shooting 140—four strokes under par—and six under 64 (Porky) Oliver's 146 in their 36-hole pro playoff.

The Philomatic, 29-year-old Locke, playing as if he had nothing more at stake than carfare, pocketed $2,000 to go with his $5,000 "guarantee" to appear in the tournament from promoter George B. May.

These earnings vaulted him to second place behind Ben Hogan, who did not compete in the Tam Jamboree—on the pro's financial list. The PGA announced Locke's winnings at $16,187.50.

Locke has collected this swag in 35 competitive rounds, while Hogan's leading $17,000 was banked on 52 tournament rounds.

Locke entered today's final round with a three-stroke edge after firing a 68 over the par 36—72 total yesterday while Oliver shot a 71.

Amateur Ring Show Set for Jaycee Park

Preliminary plans for an amateur boxing match, to be sponsored July 16 at Jaycee park by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in conjunction with the Disabled American Veterans, were made Tuesday night at a meeting of the Twin Falls VFW post. Bill Bell, who was appointed to head the project for the VFW, said full details will be announced later.

Following the business meeting, moving pictures were shown by Lloyd C. Young, manager of the local social security office. Subjects included several captured German propaganda films as well as a pictorial explanation of social security operations.

Loch Lomond, Scotland, is only 22 feet above sea level.

Pioneer Attendance Off in 2 Of League's 3 Largest Cities

POCATELLO, July 9 (AP)—Pioneer league attendance fell off sharply this year in two of the three largest cities of the circuit, a survey of the first half season showed today.

Pioneer League President J. P. Halliwell said attendance totals for the first half season for Salt Lake City and Ogden dropped from the same period for 1946, while Boise figures, while surpassing those of last year by a substantial margin, still failed to surpass the 1939 or 1940 totals.

Total attendance for the cities was 185,693 last year and 145,928 this.

Halliwell revealed that Salt Lake City, long the mainstay of the league's finances, drew only 109,491 fans this year, compared with 144,839 in 1946, and 144,839 in 1947 in the three cities.

Ogden fans turned out 44,839 strong this year, compared with 46,905 last year in the junction city's history. The 1947 total was the second best in loop history.

Boise drew 46,283 spectators in its home games this year, more than half again as many as last year, when 30,703 attended in the first half.

Halliwell said figures for Pocatello, Twin Falls and Idaho Falls would be released as soon as totals are compiled.

Its summary of attendance for the first half season in 1939, 1940, 1941, 1942, 1943 and 1947 in the three cities was:

Salt Lake City—54,229, 55,585, 55,697, 33,697, 37,915, 54,508.

Ogden—28,667, 32,010, 39,400, 18,107, 46,595, 44,839.

Boise—47,228, 54,214, 35,778, 18,293, 30,703, 46,283.

Ladies Choice, too

The ladies, too, like its distinctive, mellow flavor — its refreshing taste.

While he expected baseball fans from Idaho, Utah and Nevada, he said that he had not learned whether the governors of the three states, to whom invitations were sent, would be present. However, he expected President Jack Halliwell of the Pioneer league to occupy a box.

Doerr announced last night that persons desiring to avoid the expected jam at the Jaycee park office could obtain tickets at the Sportsman.

Owner Tom Yawkey has told reporters McCarthy has been considered for the Red Sox post, but always has emphasized that Cronin could remain as manager as long as he is pleased.

Radioed Help Saves Life of Injured Man

WALLULA, July 8 (AP)—Three plasma transfusions—one administered by an expectant mother who listened to a doctor's instructions via amateur radio—enabled a 38-year-old army radioman to survive a night plane crash at Palmyra Island which cost him his right arm and leg.

The blond radioman, whom seventh air force officers declined to identify, was brought by rescue plane to Hickman field late today. He was shaken but unhurt following a crash landing.

Plane Crashes
Their C-48 cargo plane had crashed on a reef at Palmyra, 1,000 miles south of Hawaii, at 12:30 a.m. Rescue crewmen relayed their accounts of the crash.

The plane broke into several pieces and crewmen scrambled out, they reported.

The radioman, they said, told them he thought at first the transmitter had exploded; he reached for a fire extinguisher but discovered it didn't have any hand.

Found Leg Gone
Crawling from the shattered, burning plane into knee deep water, he stumbled twice and thought he was stepping into a hole. "Then I found my leg was gone," he said.

Then they roused the civil aeronautics authority crew on Palmyra, and first aid was given.

Thompson and bandages stanchied the flow of blood while radio appeals for help were transmitted. An Audubon, N. J., amateur heard the calls and radioed instructions from a doctor in that city, some 6,000 miles distant.

Carol's Marriage Adjudged 'Illegal'

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 8 (AP)—District Judge Chern de Miranda today ruled that the death marriage of ex-King Carol of Romania and his second wife, Magda, cannot be legalized until their respective divorce are recognized by the Brazilian supreme court.

Judge de Miranda reached his decision ruling out the marriage after taking testimony from the witnesses who attended the ceremony in Magda's luxurious suite at the Copacabana hotel.

He also examined all available documents presented by both Carol and Magda and then held that the marriage could not be legalized. One of the documents was an affidavit from the Swedish legation affirming that Mme. Lucescu and Carol actually were divorced.

Thrill Seekers

IDAHO FALLS, July 8 (AP)—The Idaho Falls fire department has some shiny new engines, which the local children are so eager to see in action that yesterday they rekindled a blaze so the firemen would come roaring back.

Early in the morning, the department extinguished a small grass fire. Half an hour later they were called back. They found the kids had set the grass afire again and were waiting for the trucks to come back and put it out.

Remodeling of Dam at Milner Is Progressing

Milner dam, last link in the chain of reservoirs providing most of the water in Magic Valley, is being re-modelled to provide a more efficient operating system. Don Stafford, chairman of the Twin Falls canal board, reported after a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The old semi-circle spillway at the dam is being eliminated under the reconstruction plans. Stafford said. That portion of the dam will be filled in with earth and a concrete core to prevent water spilling over that part of the dam. Water can still be spilled through 30 gates already provided for that purpose.

During the meeting, N. V. Sharp, fire board member, stressed that the Twin Falls canal company is not interested in buying rights for more water in the American falls reservoir. He asserts that, protests from Rupert against the sale of such rights are without grounds.

Alert Citizen Aids Pursuit, Gains Praise

A castleford businessman, Everett Hart, was cited Tuesday by Twin Falls county sheriff's officers for the citation was not into any court. Instead, the officers cited Hart's actions as a private citizen as a noteworthy example of the valuable type of cooperation which can be given them in apprehending law violators.

Hart was praised by officers for the part he played in the capture of Henry A. Higgins, Casper, Wyo., who was returned here Tuesday from Elko, Nev., to face charges of first degree burglary resulting from a break-in early Monday morning at the Pastime pool hall at Castleford.

Describing Hart's part in the apprehension of Higgins, the officers said he saw Higgins acting in a suspicious manner near the pool hall. Hart started to question Higgins who then bolted for his car and fled. Hart jumped in his own car and gave immediate pursuit, during which Higgins missed a bridge and damaged his car.

Just as Hart reached the scene of the mishap, Higgins had pushed a companion out of his stalled machine and was fleeing on foot. Hart returned the companion to Castleford and notified officers, who, thus alerted, were able to connect the theft of the two cars with Higgins' escape.

Through information given them by Hart, the officers were able to broadcast a description of Higgins and give the direction in which he was escaping. The broadcast was heard by sheriff's officers at Wells, Nev., where Higgins was apprehended Monday. The second car he had taken was found abandoned a short distance from Wells.

Investigation of Higgins' companion later indicated he was not implicated.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8 (AP)—Push-button telegraphy was inaugurated today between the Philadelphia area and New York. The new system, which permits almost instantaneous relay, is expected to be used in most parts of the country according to Western Union officials.

The relay station, first of its kind, was built at a cost of $250,000. Only one channel—that to New York—was opened today. Gradually, channels from Philadelphia to such cities as Chicago, Oakland, Calif., and Atlanta will be opened.
