Pay Boost Is Sought At Hailey

HAILEY, Aug. 6.—Negotiations for the settlement of a union wage increase at the Triumphant mine in Hailey today were continued in Salt Lake City today after a freight train collision near here today, resulting in 25 persons being injured. No fatalities were reported.

Charles Spriggs, union president, said the strike vote was called in the Triumphant mine on Aug. 1. He said the mine is still operating at full capacity. Spriggs said the demands are part of the national policy being followed by the International Mine Mill and Smeltermen's union (IOMM), with which the Hailey union is affiliated, for miners working in the West. He said the demands have already been met by mine operators in Utah and at Butte, Mont. He predicted the demands would be accepted at Coeur d'Alene.

150 Men Employed
The mine is now employing 150 men, 100 of whom are employed by the Triumphant mine at Hailey. Their last strike was between April 12, 1946, and 1946.

A contract signed then expired June 30, and company officials requested time to negotiate. Negotiations were begun today. The Triumphant mine was sold several years ago to the Federal and Idaho mining companies. The Federal and Idaho mining companies, which retained a portion of the concern. It produces lead, silver and some zinc.

The mine pointed out that metal prices have nearly doubled in the past year and that there are still government mining. The price of the mine has risen from 8 1/2 to 15 cents, and that lead has risen from 8 1/2 to 15 cents.

Higher Yield Forecast for Valley Crops
An Idaho beet yield of 18 tons per acre this year compared to 18 tons last year, and excellent yields for nearly all Idaho crops were forecast Tuesday in a report issued at Boise by cooperating federal and state agricultural agencies.

The report for Idaho Valley for the week ending last Saturday showed spring grains were being harvested with excellent prospects for extremely heavy yields. Sugar beets continued to make good growth. The outlook for potatoes and seed crops remained good. Beans were growing well with tillage crops being planted. Harvest of second crop alfalfa is well along.

42-Cent Level Set on Price Of Wool Aid

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The agriculture department announced today it will resume government support of growers' prices of wool. At levels expected to average slightly more than 42 cents a pound, grease basis.

This announcement was made shortly after President Truman signed legislation authorizing resumption of a price support program which expired last spring.

The department also announced an increase in the selling price of finer grades of wool, effective at midnight last night.

The increase is from 1 to 2 cents a pound, clean basis, on the grade involved. For example, the selling price of staple fine territory graded wool is being increased from $1.23 to $1.25 a pound, clean basis. Selling prices on most grades below "fine" are unchanged.

The department said the price increase is due to a generally good demand for the grades involved.

TARIFF CUT SEEN

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 6 (AP)—J. Nelson Jones, secretary of the National Wool Growers' association, last night said the wool bill signed earlier in the day by President Truman "will tend to take the heat off the state department and make it easier for them to reduce the present tariff on wool."

"Domestic wool has been made the scapegoat of the state department to permit them to save face as a result of the ultimate failure of the Geneva (world trade) conference," said Jones. "The United Kingdom has started already to break down provisions of their loan agreement and prepare for new and increased gifts and loans from the United States."

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

FRIEND—Henry J. Kaiser's mysterious role in the Howard Hughes Aircraft Co. inquiry explains why the shipbuilder was never popular with army-navy officers, war production board officials and the RPO during the war. It also explains why his current pleas for additional financial help in his clash with United States Steel have fallen on deaf ears at Washington. Kaiser's most influential friend at the capital was not Elliott Roosevelt himself. Both were men of feverish imagination, and they were born promoters. Hughes' admitted genius in building ships in record time first endeared him to the late President. They knew how to sing songs and make headlines, political or industrial, which appealed to the people.

WASTE—Again and again the cash-on-the-barrel-head loss of the RPO, Jesse H. Jones, refused to make loans or delay them, when Mr. Kaiser was the applicant. But each time the phone would ring in the building only three blocks from the White House, and the cash would be forced to advance the money. Thus the Kaiser-Hughes, $40,000,000 superplane, which has not left the ground since it was started in 1942, is bracketed with such schemes as the Canal oil project in Canada, the land route to Alaska, the Pan-American highway and numerous other 1941-1945 fantasies.

Including the wartime waste and unwarranted expenditures first revealed by the Brewster committee when President Truman headed it, it is estimated that at least $40,000,000 has been demonstrated to be unnecessary. Some of the calculations put it at a far higher figure. And this body has touched only a few selected and comparatively minor activities so far.

LOANS—The RPO's long-standing prejudice against Mr. Kaiser's pressure and publicity methods underlies their present refusal to aid him in building up his plant at Fontana, Calif., as a healthy, western rival to eastern steel interests.

The California erected the Fontana factory on government loans, which have financed so many of his projects. The total $122,000,000 were credited to his account, and $112,000,000 has been disbursed. He has paid back $17,858,000 on the principal and $9,283,000 in interest. Now, he wants the overall, and the cash would be forced to advance the money. Thus the Kaiser-Hughes, $40,000,000 superplane, which has not left the ground since it was started in 1942, is bracketed with such schemes as the Canal oil project in Canada, the land route to Alaska, the Pan-American highway and numerous other 1941-1945 fantasies.

HEAT—U. S. Steel, they contend, took a "white elephant" off their hands in buying the Geneva property. Nobody else wanted it, and they were only too glad to get any kind of bid. Meanwhile, the super-steamman is "turning on the heat from the outside," as he did with respect to the flying boat contract. Charging that RPO discriminates against western industrial expansion, steel, aluminum, aviation, shipbuilding, the heat mobilized capital hill politicians, chambers of commerce, civic groups and Pacific coast industrialists.

However, he does not seem to have cast the same spell over Mr. Truman, that he did over FDR.

MATERIALS—American concern over leftist movements, internal dissensions and actual warfare in the middle east, the far east, the south Pacific has far more realistic basis than Washington's humanitarian desire for world peace. Army-navy-state-university on an economic level have been described before congressional bodies. It is from these remote regions—Turkey, Malaya, China, Java etc.—that we draw many critical and strategic materials upon which the armaments and industry depend. They supply chrome, rubber, oil, quinoline, naphthalene and many other products, not to mention coffee, tea, silk, etc., essential to the United States in peace or war.

HEAT KILLS 500 A YEAR
Dog days are heat days. Watch out for over-exercising. About 500 Americans die every year from excessive heat, warns the National Conservation Bureau. Temporary illness and disabling strokes due to heat account for more than one-third of the deaths. The peak months are July and August.

If you must work in the sun, says the bureau, keep your head covered, take an occasional salt tablet, and, above all, don't over-exercise yourself. You can do more and better work in hot weather if you do it with the least possible exertion and take frequent short rest periods.

If you're planning a summer vacation apply the same rules and make it a happy one.

TAKING INVENTORY
On a half a dozen fronts, efforts are now being made to determine the economic strengths and weaknesses of the United States.

The President has three committees at work on the subject under Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug, Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman, and Chairman Edwin O. Norris of the Council of Economic Advisors.

A new farm program, a long range tax policy and other issues of equal importance are being given careful consideration.

All these matters are of tremendous importance. For if the United States is to determine where it's going, it must first learn where it is. Nobody really knows the answer to either question today.

It is important to make these determinations for two reasons. First, to find out how much aid the United States can give Europe under the Marshall plan. Second, to find out what the United States wants to do at home for its continued growth and attainment of still higher standards of living.

POT SHOTS

LONG OR SHORT OF IT
Dear Pot Shots:
What's the matter with women anyway—making their skirts long? It must have been started by some "gal" with fat legs who wanted to hide them—maybe she didn't want her husband looking at other babes' legs when hers didn't come up to par.

Women are supposed to dress to please men. Do you think long dresses do? Hope some women have sense enough to keep them short. Pardon me, there goes a dame in a short skirt. Those legs—where! Little Joe (Jerome)

WHY EDITORS GET GRAY
Dear Pot Shots:
A certain Piler newspaper publisher—editor was not amused, he said.

It seems some gents called him up around 2 a. m., insisted that he listen to their local radio station with accent to the "rend" (such as in lard). He hung up the telephone in the midst of their vociferous but they promptly called him back, claiming they had a "scop" for him if he'd put up with them until they figured he had heard enough.

Some 45 minutes later the "gents" informed Art Kurts that there appeared to be some sample surgery on a certain part of a horse's anatomy as compared with another part of equines.

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

BOB HOPE
A motion was made in congress to reduce taxes and pay off the national debt. If the government starts collecting money through games of chance, there will be a lot of changes in the national capital. Yes sir, Washington is liable to put Reno off the map as a place to bet on horses in a quick dollar.

When they talk of "rules of the house" they won't be referring to legislative regulations in the house of congress. They will mean you can't cash in your chips until the place closes. And bookies will assume a new stature in American life. They will become known as "the men who got the nation back on its feet." In fact, I wouldn't be surprised if they judge the next president not by his political abilities, but by how fast he pays off.

The government will be getting money in all sorts of ways. When you get on a bus, the driver won't hand you a transfer. You will drop your dime in a part-mutual machine and the clerk will quote the odds against your getting a seat. Even the movie houses will become a big source of income to the nation. Just picture those pretty actresses with their tight blouses, short skirts and green eyeshadows.

But the government adopts this idea, America may have repercussions around the world. I can see a horse coming around the far turn now and as he thunder in the stretch he yells to the next horse, "Out of my way—please. If I don't win this race, Afghanistan won't get its loan."

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

The Brewster investigation of Howard Hughes' warplane, the construction contract has accomplished at least one good end already. It has brought to the open the political pulling and hauling to get overseas air routes and the government subsidies that go with those routes.

So far, this has been merely incidental to the effort to find out whether political influence was used to jam through the Hughes contract over the experts in the field. The matter is a side-show. The big show, if any senator or group of senators had the courage to look into it, is in the politics behind the assignment of the overseas air routes.

The trouble is that so many senators seem to be linked with the fortunes of the airlines. There have been constant reports of the pressure used for this or that line. It is a little the sound of the old days when the railroads were invariably linked with that of Elliott Roosevelt.

The other lines have retained with charges against Pan-American. The strategy of Pan-Am has been to push in congress bills providing a "chosen instrument" or United States monopoly line for overseas in which, theoretically, all lines would have a share. A newly issued aviation business letter, discussing the light over the "chosen instrument" links Sen. Owen Brewster to the fight for Pan-Am's goal.

The letter suggests a political tie-up between Brewster and Pan-Am. The name of Sen. Warren P. Pryor, Jr., who is also Republican national committeeman from Connecticut, Pryor is said to have agreed to go all out for Brewster for the GOP vice-presidential nomination.

Certainly Brewster has done all he could to further the "chosen instrument." But then, so has a leading senate Democrat, Pat McCarran of Nevada, who has promised an opportunity to aid Pan-American.

Other senators are linked to other airlines. The name of Sen. Warren Magnuson, Democrat, of Washington is frequently mentioned in connection with Northwest Airlines.

Trans-World Airlines, in which Hughes has a dominating interest, got exclusive privileges to fly to Paris, Rome, Cairo and other world capitals. America got exclusive rights to Berlin.

Trimp and other Pan-American executives were bitterly resentful. There have been repeated intimations of political pull, especially in old days when the railroads were Alaska, who hoped to see an inland air route established, with lower fares than those on the route through Seattle. Blame him for checkmating their plans. Magnuson denies this charge. He says that he owns a small block of Northwest Airlines stock and that his former law firm in Washington state does some local business for the company. But his interest, he insists, is only that of any senator in a local enterprise.

The taxpayer foots the bill for the subsidies to the airlines. How much has actually gone out to the lines is scarcely known. The complicated confusion of post-office and airline bookkeeping. Certainly it is hundreds of millions, and it may be billions. How much has been returned to the government for carrying the mail is also a matter of figures, and the interpretation of those figures is beyond the comprehension of the ordinary citizen.

A senate committee should find out. That is the heart of the controversy—how much you and I are paying to keep the airlines going. That is so much more important than the side-show in spite of the spectacular billing of lobbyists' parties with bathing beauties for each guest.
