

Odom Flying Toward India In Globe Hop

CAIRO, Aug. 8 (AP)—Pilot William P. Odom, a third of the way along on his effort to set a new solo record around the world, left Cairo today at 8:30 p. m. (MST) for Karachi, India.

The former British ferry commander, now living in Roslyn, N. Y., was only 22 hours 45 minutes out of Chicago, his starting point, as he headed down the 2,300-mile leg to Karachi.

Odom is trying to cut to 90 hours or less the 186-hour record for a solo flight around the world set by Wiley Post in 1931.

Odom spent only 35 minutes in Cairo refueling. He arrived from Paris at 8:44 p. m.

Odom averaged about 315 miles an hour on his flight from Paris, where he set off earlier today after an overseas hop from Gander, Nfld. Tail winds were expected to help him on the next leg.

Odom stopped in Paris one hour and 31 minutes for rest and a brief refueling.

Takes "Light Lunch"

Odom was offered toasted turkey sandwiches to eat on the Paris stop but he ate only a chunk of the turkey from one sandwich, with some tea, leaving the rest.

He said his average across the Atlantic was 320 miles an hour and he expected to make good time to Karachi, since reports of weather along the route were good.

Openings Listed for Licensed Embalmers

Let's Cause

Asbury, an international representative of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers union (CIO), told the Associated Press the strike was set because the union objects to higher differential of pay at the Hailey mine and to what he termed "individual contracts of the company with miners completing a piece work" system.

However, Otto Herres, vice-president of Combined Metals, said the company had offered the union a 12-cent hourly wage boost and six paid holidays, an offer which he said the firm had not yet agreed to the labor organization.

Company Policy Explained

"As for piece work contracts, our company pays a guaranteed minimum wage comparable to others of its class, but in addition offers incentive pay to individual miners on an individual contract basis," said Herres.

He said the extra pay under "individual contracts," amounted to "two or three dollars more a day."

Shoemaker pointed out that since passage of the Taft-Hartley bill, the union does not need to give the company any advance notice of a strike. However, after Aug. 22 of the union would be required to give 90 days notice before calling a strike, the mine official said.

Herres said he considered the dispute to be "still in the talking stage," while Asbury said the federal conciliation service had been asked to intervene. No further negotiating sessions between the union and company are scheduled, Asbury added.

Fireman Hurt Fighting Big Wendell Fire

for 10 minutes the Gooding department called to the scene.

The Wendell trucks obtained water from the tank for the first 35 minutes and then switched over to pump from a nearby ditch. Four lines were laid by the Wendell departments and two by Gooding to fight the blaze and keep it from spreading.

The body and fender shop was destroyed, the adjoining Gates brothers shop.

Johnson said it was "lucky" there was a two-foot rock wall between the garage and body and fender shop which prevented the blaze from spreading. A crew of firemen went inside the Gates section of the building to keep the fire out of the attic and from spreading to the machine shop.

The garage was a total loss, estimated at $25,000. It was partially covered by insurance. Electrical and radio equipment, as well as appliances, were also damaged. But 20 new tires escaped unscathed even though they were in the building.

The body and fender shop was located directly behind the garage, and it could not be saved entirely from the flames. New office building near the Gates shop escaped damage, however.

One car in the garage was destroyed and the body and fender shop were damaged.

Johnson lauded employees of the Gates firm for assisting firemen and thanked the Gooding and Jerome fire department for responding to the fire. About 15 men from the Wendell department and six from Gooding responded.

Burglary Termed "Screwball" Job

Burglary of the Military Inn, 157 Washington street, between 2 and 3 a. m. Friday was believed by Twin Falls city police to have been the work of a "drunk or complete screwball."

Officers making regular patrols checked the restaurant at 2 a. m. and found everything to be in order. When they checked again at 3 a. m. they found the back door broken and a 20-cent slot machine robbed. Nothing else was reported damaged or stolen.

In the police report of the burglary, investigators said that it was "definitely not a first class burglary but appeared to be the work of a drunk or complete screwball."

Divorce Given on Desertion Charge

A divorce was granted Donald Felton from Meta Felton, Springview, Neb., Friday by District Judge James W. Porter.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASTE—A review of lobbyist effect on legislation during the recent session reveals that the supposedly heavy spending representatives of the "interests" fared no better than the special pleaders for labor, the veterans, the farmers and similar groups which know from long experience the skill and cunning of the lobbyist.

Washington, D. C., August 7.—The lobbyists, for instance, obtained cuts in funds for irrigation, reclamation and power projects. The veterans' bill, however, was not touched. But to the economies were largely due to the general bipartisan drive to reduce federal costs, and lower tax rates. Congressional inquiry had disclosed that many of these agencies were overpaid with payroll projects, and spending cash for projects never authorized by Congress.

But the power people lost their biggest battle. They failed to force through several measures designed to restrict the federal power company's monopoly over the production and sale of natural gas, petroleum and hydroelectricity.

PACE—The real estate lobby has been constantly assailed for its activities against permanent rent controls and enactment of the Taft-Wagner housing program. Here again, as even President Truman's representatives do not entertain from governmental legislation had to be made some time.

Moreover, neither the White House nor the Democratic leadership—Senators Wagner and Ellender—lifted a finger on behalf of federal subsidization of home building over a period of years. It is generally believed that the industry will revive this program at the next session for political support it may win them in a presidential year.

Lastly, President Truman set the pace for turning this problem over to the private construction industry when he scrapped the elaborate scheme outlined by former Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt. It was also Mr. Truman who lifted many controls originally designed to give preference to veterans and people requiring inexpensive dwellings.

FOOLISH—The fact is, too, the most clamorous, heavily financed and effective lobbies at the capital are operated by such groups as organized labor, the American Legion and its allies, the farmers' paid, professional representatives, insurance interests and the federal government itself.

Unlike John Meyer, who reported that he paid "party girls" $100 a night for merely dining with army-navy and WPB officials, he did not entertain on an openly lavish scale. But year in and year out, their aggregate expenditures for headquarters, research and legislative agency special reports, propaganda movements and salaries well exceed the more spectacular outlays by inexperienced industrialists and business men.

In the latter are not so extravagant as they are foolish in their use of money for its effect on congress. Like Mr. Hughes, they usually expose themselves to congressional investigations which make them look ridiculous.

DINNER—Outward lobbying, as a matter of fact, was not directed so much toward influencing congress as making friends around the House and among army-navy, maritime commission and WPB officials. It was they who had final authority over the award and terms of contracts running into billions of dollars.

Donald Nelson, former WPB chairman, was a frequent dinner-out, and his hosts were usually contractors. Army generals, officials and even mayors never ate or drank or lived so well as they did from 1941 to 1945. Nor are they to be held especially blameless for accepting these invitations. Frequently, more important and necessary business was done at the posthouse or a Scotch-and-soda than over a Grand Rapids desk.

CHECK—While House relatives, secretaries and hangers-on likewise lived well during the bizarre era that was so well described in "B. F.'s Daughter," Elliott Roosevelt was not the only one who capitalized on JDR's prestige and power.

Incidentally, the Brewster expose has President Truman's blessing. A former head of the senate war investigating committee, he discovered how susceptible members of executive departments were to flattery for which somebody else took up the check.

"FAIR"—The writer has received several letters from well-informed Californians about his recent characterization of Gov. Earl Warren as "ultra-liberal" and "pro-CIO." They take kind but firm exception to these adjectives, and further inquiry substantiates their objections.

Governor Warren is regarded by Californians who know him best as "liberal but not ultra-liberal," and as "fairly to labor," but not tied up with any labor group, and especially the CIO.

Since publication of the original article that provoked these rejoinders, the governor's approval of a law banning jurisdictional strikes has led both the AFL and the CIO to criticize him and threaten his future advancement in politics.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

A-BOMB OR SLINGSHOT?

Gen. Jacob L. Devers, speaking to an audience at the Newark, N. J., airport, said A-bombs probably won't be used in another war. The bomb, said Devers, probably be "as dramatically" avoided in the next war "as gas was in World War I."

It's a thought, but its premise is as nebulous as the gas about which he spoke. Anyone who can predict what weapons will be used in the next war—and God help us, we speak a truth in the next war—could make a mint of money at the closest race track. The life is even.

Gas was not used in World War I for two reasons: 1.—The knowledge that other countries had gases that might be superior; 2.—The inefficiency of gases, always subject to weather elements, plus their cost, and the cost of their transportation in relation to their "killing power." No doubt, human impulse may have been found in America. But had Hitler thought gas would have helped in any sense, he would have quickly used it.

On the other hand, the next war will see no Pearl Harbor for America or any other nation attacked by surprise; no such targeted nation will have sufficient time to sit back, build a new industrial plant and then counter-attack. The A-Bomb, self-guided missile and long-range planes have eliminated the possibility.

If there are such strikes in war as Devers suggests, it is time we use the Olympic games as the arbiter of international disputes.—Lawson.

THE ETERNAL CURSE

There is something eternal in the war, and notwithstanding the onus scoring to some of their folk in this country it is refreshing to know that even the holiest war has not eliminated them from tumultuous Europe.

Undaunted, careful, and scornful of the civilization to which they owe their living, the apocryphal of ancient Roman tribes still live on, wandering, wandering, since they have lived since the early 1800s. But they are thinning. The Associated Press in a recent survey found that of the estimated 700,000 European gypsies in 1939, nearly 60,000 perished in the extermination camp of Auschwitz, Hungary, once a haven for thousands of gypsy campfires, sent 5,000 of the wanderers to Germany during the war, and no one knows what happened to them. Another 5,000 are reported to have been slain in Yugoslavia's mass executions, and other thousands were "liquidated" along with Jews in Poland.

How many remain no one knows. Gypsies never have been receptive to census-takers, and there is little chance of counting them in the disorder of post-war Europe. But they are far from lost race. They have been shunned and oft-times persecuted ever since they appeared out of the east—possibly from India—hundreds of years ago, but a hard core always has survived. At least something in Europe is changing.—Salem (Or.) Statesman.

"POLICE ACTION"

Dutch authorities in Indonesia have expressed regret that two of their fighter pilots shot down an American-made transport taking medical supplies to the Indonesian capital. They said the pilots thought it was a converted Jap bomber, that it was hedging in a police action, and that the Indonesians hadn't warned the Dutch that the plane was coming.

The Dutch call their military campaign "limited police action." But letting loose some trigger-happy pilots who shoot first and identify afterwards scarcely fits the description. The very least the Dutch could do would be to make their punitive expedition a little more limited and a little less like total war.

A CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY

YELLOWSTONE PERILS

Joe Macintosh, a "Potato King," and a gent who is no candidate for the poor house, just returned from a trip to Yellowstone park but he nearly spent time in jail for driving along the new. Joe was driving one of his new Buicks when he parked in front of a service station. It seems Joe and his companion, Pete Kowarski, Buhl, waited "for nearly half an hour" for service. Finally Kowarski went into the service station to investigate and found the station attendant phoning the cops to report Joe as a car thief.

Efforts of both men to identify Joe as the "Potato King," a person who could well afford the Buick he was driving and a good bet to pay the gasoline bill, were met with indifference.

Finally, the service station operator was convinced. Then it started all over again. Joe pulled out a well-placed billfold and the tension was increased again. "Car Thief" Joe and Pete finally avoided the cops and got back home safe and sound—where people know Joe.

BOB HOPE

You can never tell what a woman will do. In fact, the female sex in Phoenix, Ariz. has done something that women just don't do—they've rebelled against the latest clothing fashion—longer skirts. They insist upon wearing shorter skirts. In Arizona and all I can say is "Go with the flow."

Some of the women even formed a club called "The Western Women's Society for the Preservation of Short Skirts." Some thing like that.

Elks, only with cheese. We actors have our "Lamb club"—these girls have their "Limb club." It's understandable. Western women are used to showing their calves.

But the girls seem to have a point there. They say long skirts are just dust and very few men. Personally, I don't care what happens, just so long as they don't wear skirts.

If you're short, ignoring the fashions it will be terrible. The first thing that you know they'll start wearing hats that make sense, and then Miranda's chapeaux will all have to go back to being rabbits food.

And if the younger set rebels also and changes its fashion, Elks won't be able to figure out how many fans he has. He'll no longer be able to figure it out in the old way—counting sex and dividing by two. To make a long story short and skirts, too—I wish the girls all the luck in the world.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

A group of men are sitting at luncheon around a conference table in the state department. The group includes top policymakers and veteran experts who in recent years have followed at first hand the sweep of world events. One of the veterans "I don't think I've ever seen anything like this past two weeks. Not even in the years that led up to the war. This beats everything."

Around the table there was general agreement. Rarely, if ever, have so many hurricane warnings gone up at once in so many different places. Never has there been the same urgency to try to deflect the storm, if possible, and failing that, to batten down what can be saved. As usual the ship of state is undermanned and the able members of the crew are badly overworked.

It would be hard to say which crisis has top priority. Each one touches the roots of American foreign policy and, deeper than that, American security. Each one demands urgent attention and effort. Number one in its immediate effect is the United Nations struggle over Greece. The Russian veto of the Balkan border commission was long expected, and yet some small hope persisted that the Soviet union might merely abstain. But the veto is an unmistakable sign that the Soviets mean to continue to try to destroy the government and bring Greece within the iron curtain.

The Greek crisis is the three-alarm fire on the European horizon. What is happening in Indonesia is like a conflagration in the earth, spreading, indelibly and promising to flame into the open on the horizon. The potentialities for ultimate disaster are far greater in Indonesia than in Greece. The immediate results are bad enough. The smoke of burning plantations thick in the air means the destruction of food and drugs desperately needed throughout Asia.

More serious is the long-term result. We in this hemisphere can hardly begin to appreciate the reaction in Asia. The effort of the Dutch to restore colonialism will be passionately and profoundly resented wherever colonial peoples are struggling for independence. The tragedy is that it will tend to nullify the magnificent performance of the British in helping the people of India achieve statehood.

The stubbornness of the Dutch, in the face of pleading and warning from the United States and Britain, will be credited to "white imperialism" without regard to nationality. It is a handsome gift to the communists, who will make full use of it in their drive to annex Asia's millions.

The resentment in Australia is just as great as it is in India and China. Seven million Australians constitute a tiny island in a world of color, and they know it. This realization is behind the action of the Australian delegation at Lake Success in urging immediate action by the United Nations to bring about a truce in Indonesia.

We forget so quickly. About a year before the war in the Pacific ended, Japan underwent a subtle change. The Japs began to hint that they would be compelled to withdraw from the areas they had taken by force. It had been a mistake, they intimated, to enslave the local populations. But, they added, we will come back as partners and together we will sweep the old colonialism off the face of the earth.

What is happening in Indonesia, in Palestine, in Greece, in Germany, is taking place against the background of the squences in London. The Allies government is trying frantically to slash expenditures. The gloomy prospects which have made Great Britain could not possibly afford to maintain such a large military establishment seem to have been licked.

As Britain cuts down, our responsibility increases. We must learn quickly what that means. Beyond collapse and chaos, the jackal of totalitarianism communism waits to take over.

The big headlines in our newspapers tell of mistakes that were made in the conduct of the war. If we can learn something from our mistakes and there were plenty of them, then well and good. But we do not have time to gloat over the blunders of the immediate past. After all, we did win the war. We have not yet won the peace.

Scouts 'Land' In France on Big Jamboree

LEWISBURG, France, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Boy Scouts have landed and the situation is out of everyone else's hands.

The villages of Molson and Bomy, ancient and peaceful communities 40 miles west of Paris, certainly never have seen anything like it.

Boy Scout monitors are directing traffic for miles around the special encampment in a 1,500-acre wooded site. Train loads of Scouts from all over the world are being disgorged at a special Scout railway station.

The arrival of 1,118 Americans brought to 18,919 the number of Boy Scouts from 17 countries who have built a tent city in three days. The International Boy Scout jamboree will not open officially for another day, however, and it appears that its total attendance will exceed the 25,000 expected.

The Scouts still were pouring into the encampment at midnight last night. Some of the more conservative Scout leaders were worried about the boys staying up so late, but were comforted by the fact that the jamboree—or preparing for it—was no lark.

It was hard work and a real taste of the rigors of outdoor life, and the boys were taking it in their stride.

Another worry was that uniforms were disappearing in an ever-increasing series of swaps. The Scouts were so busy exchanging items of apparel that at some points in the encampment the Scoutmasters were having trouble getting them to police the grounds. The kilts of the Scottish Scouts and the turbans of the Indians were getting especially acrobatic examination by the swappers.

Wendell 4-H Girl Wins Scholarship

GOODS, Aug. 8—Barbara Brewick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Brewick, Wendell, has been selected as the Carl Raymond Gray scholarship winner of 1946, according to County Agent Robert E. Higgins.

Miss Brewick, 17, will be graduated from Wendell high school next spring. A 4-H club member for eight years, she has completed 15 4-H projects. She has been assistant club leader and led a club of her own last year. She has completed six years of canning, four years of livestock, three years of nutrition, one year of farm labor, and one year from foods.

During her 4-H career she has raised 1,003 quarts of food, raised 30 pigs, and has a project valued at $232.28. She has been outstanding in 4-H leadership and through her participation in 4-H club work has brought many improvements and better ways to her home and community.

One Will Be Filer's "Queen"

One of these six Filer girls will be chosen queen to represent Filer at the Twin Falls county fair. The contest will close Aug. 30. Left to right are Margie Rayborn, sponsored by the FFA; Gerry Brown, Kiwanis club; Jo Brasie, Filer Quarterback club; Wilma Belle Wilson, Filer Grange; Jeanette Childers, county 4-H club; and June Hoffman. ## 2 Tennis Courts Built for Hailey HAILEY, Aug. 8—Two modern tennis courts at the corner adjoining the Hotel Hiawatha natorium have been completed and surfaced with asphalt, the Rev. Father L. M. Dougherty, committee member of the Hailey Chamber of Commerce, said.

Lights have been purchased from the war assets administration and it is hoped to equip the courts for night play. The chamber is planning to hold tennis tournaments for adults and children.

The Hailey city council plans on installing a drinking fountain for the courts soon. Also, it is planned to renovate an old building adjoining the courts to increase the playing space.

The Rev. Father Dougherty expressed thanks to Hiawatha hotel, Christiansa club and other firms which donated to the fund.

Army's Recruits Allowed to Pick Own Assignment

Men with former army service now have the privilege of specifying in which of several units they desire initial assignment upon enlisting, according to a new directive received by First Lieut. George P. Claxton, officer in charge of the Twin Falls army recruiting station.

A number of openings exist in various units, and men who are qualified can be sent directly to these organizations without basic training, the official said.

These units, with the posts, camps and stations at which they are located are: second infantry division, Ft. Lewis, Wash.; fourth infantry division, Ft. Ord, Calif.; medical detachment and Letterman general hospital, Presidio at San Francisco; station complement at Ft. Douglas, Utah; and Camp Stoneman, Calif.; station hospital, headquarters detachment and post service detachment, Ft. Lawton, Wash.; station complement at Ogden arsenal.
