A new plant of 16,500 kilowatt capacity, built on the company's upper Salmon site on the Snake river, will be in operation within 30 days. Hundreds of Magic Valley children started Monday to travel to and from their classrooms in school buses. Each time a school stops to load or discharge its youthful riders, the scene is like that for a potential tragedy if a thoughtless driver fails to observe the law in halt when approaching a stopped school bus from either direction while it is letting off or taking on passengers. Typical group of children is shown above just leaving a bus and preparing to cross the highway. (Staff photo-engraving)

Gotham to Catch It Again; Legion Conclave Is Set

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (AP)—Blaise New Yorkers, who have had 12 years to recover from their last American Legion convention, will get a chance this week to prove they can take it again.
Legionnaires from all of the 48 states will descend on the metropolis for their 29th annual convention, a four-day affair beginning Thursday that is expected to bring hundreds of thousands of visitors. The convention, of course, will have its serious business but the trek to New York also is deemed likely to provide opportunities for some good, clean, old-fashioned, unbridled legion fun.
Residents who remember the 1937 invasion are wondering if Gotham will get the same lively treatment again.
This time the world war veterans mostly will turn in their mid-fifties but they will be reinforced by a swarm of high-spirited World War II fighting men, many of them attending their first national Legion meeting.
On the serious side, there will be talks by high cabinet officers and military leaders, presentation of the Legion's distinguished service medals to three notable, and a scrap among at least eight candidates for election as the new national commander.

King Hill Ditch Repaired Sunday; Crops Said Poor

KING HILL, Aug. 25—Water was available for the irrigation of 8,000 acres of drying crops in the King Hill area today after a weekend of rain through the King Hill ditch tunnel early Sunday.

Bean crops took the heaviest loss as the result of the water shortage brought about by the break in the ditch. About 1,000 acres of beans were reported in serious need of water. Corn, melons and garden crops were said to be lightly damaged.

With a guard maintaining a constant watch on the newly constructed tunnel and banks, workers expected the project to furnish good water to finish out this season.

By MARILYN NORTH
The women of the United States are at war. They're really "feudin', fussin' and a-lyghtin'". And the cause of it all—five innocent inches of material.
The women supporting the "knee below the knee" side of the fashion question are making a valiant attempt to prevent the calf-length skirt with its five additional inches from becoming the approved style in fall fashions.
Little Below the Knee clubs and the WOVW, Women's Organizations to War on Styles, have been formed in many cities throughout the country to prove to fashion designers that their styles with long skirts will not be accepted by the public.
The first LBK club was formed in Dallas, Tex., and has sponsored several "rebellious" parades, ridiculing what they call the "old-fashioned" style of longer skirts in new fashions by wearing their grandmothers' ankle-length dresses and carrying signs proclaiming "Be Sensible."
Following the lead of the Dallas group some 200 wives of veterans studying at the University of California formed the WOVW.
"We'll show them the stylists that we don't like to be pushed around," said Mrs. Carol Reynolds, 21-year-old spokesman for the group recently.
"We're just not going to buy those horrible things. If we don't buy them, they're going to have to send them back to the manufacturers."
In fact, most women in the United States don't like the new long skirt—but the general opinion is that they'll wear them anyway to keep from "looking funny."
A survey of women in 13 cities showed that only one woman in four approved calf-length skirts. But nearly two out of every three planned to wear them this fall.
This seems to be the trend taken by women in Twin Falls.
The longer skirts have not been wholeheartedly accepted, but the shops continue to show the new length, magazines give the new styles big build-ups, and a few courageous individuals are already wearing the longer skirts on the streets.
For these reasons, local women

Varied Social

Secretary Club Installed
Claudia H. Detweiler, Twin Falls businesswoman, will extend a welcome to the newly organized Twin Falls Secretarial chapter at the group's initial meeting at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the Rogerson hotel banquet room.
The following temporary officers will be installed at the meeting: Rose Ella Howback, president; Marjorie Teague, vice president; Mrs. Grace E. Cox, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ruth K. Jones, recording secretary; and Mrs. Gresham Bernard, treasurer.

Mrs. Claudia Smith, registrar from the organization's national headquarters at Kansas City, Mo., has spent the past three weeks in Twin Falls interviewing secretaries and has extended an invitation to all eligible women to become affiliated with the chapter, which offers an educational program and social and vocational benefits to secretaries.
Application for charter members will close Wednesday afternoon.

Schedule VFW Meeting
The regular meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary will be held Tuesday evening in the Moose hall. Election of officers to fill the positions of musician, treasurer and vice president will be held.

Members are requested to bring something for the "sunshine basket" which will be taken to Boise for the veterans at the Boise Veterans' hospital. Items as tooth brushes, toothpaste, cigarettes, magazines, combs, dictionaries, books, puzzles and cards are desired.
The items will be delivered personally to the hospital by the Twin Falls group. Any person wishing to donate articles, whether or not a member of the VFW, is requested to bring them with Elizabeth Reilly, 229 Main avenue west.

ing above the knees—and no one can say that knees are attractive. With a long full skirt you can sit gracefully and have an air of easy dignity without continually tugging at your skirt to keep it below the knees.

Store clerks report that most college students have taken up the new fashions and are buying the most extreme styles with long skirts, padded hips and uneven hemming.
The army has announced in Washington that it plans to lengthen the skirts of the WAC uniform, but the wife of the army chief of staff, Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, said she thinks the new longer skirts "are becoming to the majority of women."

The general's lady admitted, however, that just like other women she is buying clothes with longer skirts and making alterations in others to "keep in style."
Mrs. J. Wilford Holmes, past national commander of Navy Mothers' clubs of America, is against long skirts. Her reason:
"Long skirts add 25 years to a woman's appearance," Mrs. Holmes explained. "As a woman on the shady side of 50 I'd rather deduct than add."

But in spite of the dispute fashion designers predict that skirts will become even longer during the coming year.
"The women will probably become accustomed to the style—but what about the men? They claim that the longer the dress, the longer their faces!"

'Home-Made' Rain Termined Not So Good

CHICAGO, Aug. 25 (UP)—The farmer and the weather man agreed yesterday that man-made rain, with all its admirable qualities, is not all it has been clouded up to be.

George E. Meisinger, field secretary of the Illinois Agricultural Association, elected himself to speak for the farmer.

"I can see all sorts of trouble ahead if a man can just take wing and make it rain when he feels like it," he said, looking out at a cloudless August sky that gave no promise of rain.

Ray Farmer Jones has a fine field of corn which is gasping for a good, hard shower. So he takes his plane out of the barn and goes up, maybe 16, 17-thousand feet. He makes it rain good.

"His corn drinks it in. That's fine for him. But his neighbor has a field of hay which he happens to be cutting that day. The hay doesn't need any rain. But Jones can't wet his corn, without also spilling some of the wet into the next field."

Supports Farmers Weatherman H. A. Downs is inclined to go along with the farmers and their views. He is convinced artificial precipitation if controlled, would be a fine thing.

"Mother nature has something to say about rainfall, man made or otherwise," he said. "First, to manufacture rain, you have to have a special kind of cloud.

"Next, you have to have a plane that can go up to about 17,000 feet. Once up, you have to start cloud-chasing. And once you catch it, you can't steer it. Clouds are contrary."

Low-Income Homes Plan Is Proposed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (UP)—Rep. Charles K. Fletcher, R. Cal., proposed today that the government put its army-navy war-time construction teams to work building groups for sale to low-income private said he was convinced private enterprise could not build and finance new houses for people earning less than $10,000 a year.

Fletcher cited figures used by Sen. Robert A. Taft, author of a housing bill, that 30 per cent of the nation's urban population earned $1,000 or less in 1938.

"I am in hopes that the congressional investigation of the housing shortage will prove my idea feasible," said Fletcher. He is president of the Home Savings and Loan association of Twin Falls.

Under his proposal congress would set up a revolving fund to finance the housing. Actual construction would be done by the army and navy. Fletcher suggested the "paper work" might be done by the federal works agency.

Repayment periods, he believed, should be in line with the from 40 to 50 years users of irrigation projects are permitted to repay the federal reclamation investment.

Interest rate should be held at the U. S. treasury rate of close to three per cent, he said.

"The plan probably would mean expanding army-navy construction facilities, perhaps setting up a permanent engineering corps for this work," he said.

Mob Kills Priest, Injures Another In Trieste Attack

ROME, Aug. 25 (AP)—An Italian news agency dispatch from Trieste today said a mob in the Yugoslav zone of Venezia-Giulia inflicted grave injuries yesterday on a Vatican prelate who tried to defend him.

The agency, Ansa, said the prelate, Msgr. Giacomo Ukner, was taken to a Trieste hospital suffering from a skull fracture and serious knife wounds in the region of the kidneys.

The attack was at Laminche, in that part of the Italian peninsula known as Zone B, occupied by Premier Marshal Tito's forces. Ansa said the Vatican sent Msgr. Ukner, a native of Trieste, to the area after hostile manifestations prevented Msgr. Antonio Santini, bishop of Trieste and Capodistria, from conducting confirmations.
