

Dodgers Even up Series; 2 Scores in Ninth Win, 3-2

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, Oct. 3 (AP)—Cookie Lavagetto's pinch double off the rightfield wall, the only Dodger home hit by Brooklyn, gave the Braves a 2-2 victory over the New York Yankees today in a thrill-soaked ball game that squared the world series at two games apiece.

With Bevens reaching for a world series ball already past the best previous no-hit record, Lavagetto struck the dramatic wallop that scored both pinch runners Al Glonfrido and Eddie Blalock, who had walked, to end one of the most exciting games in the long story of world series since 1903.

The Ebbets field assemblage, 39,443 strong, hummed with excitement throughout the climactic ninth inning as Bevens made his big bid. Three times catches by Yankee outfielders had saved him but there was no chance on the last one.

European Aid Draws Stress on LDS Meet

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 3 (AP)—Aid to Europe was emphasized today at the Latter-day Saints church opened its three-day 11th semi-annual conference.

"It is not only a matter of peace, comfort—yes, luxury—can exist in this part of the world and in the whole world, but it is a matter of life and death for the church," said President Smith, the church's 77-year-old president.

"Word comes from our people in Europe that they are having finer times, but they remain faithful and their expressions of gratitude for the help we have sent warm the heart."

President Smith reported the Mormon church has sent 79 carloads of food, clothing and bedding to its members in European countries.

The church leaders reviewed the Mormon's first church conference held in Great Britain on Oct. 3, 1847, less than a year after the migrating men, women and children reached Utah after a perilous trip across the plains by wagon train and on foot.

President Smith said that there were about 2,000 Mormons then living in Utah.

First Court Order of New Act Halts Strike

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—Striking longshoremen at the port of Albany today called off their 10-day strike in compliance with a court order, the first issued under the Taft-Hartley act.

C. Testa, business agent for local 1294, International Longshoremen's association (ILA), announced that members of the port national labor relations board, headed by Joseph M. Ryan, association president, and C. W. L. Car, issued by Federal Judge Stephen Brennan in New York state yesterday, directed the ILA to suspend its strike at the port of Albany and the state barge canal.

Charles F. Douds, regional director for the national labor relations board, said the board asked the action on the grounds the ILA and its affiliates were violating sections of the Taft-Hartley act prohibiting secondary boycotts.

Douds said the six parts proceedings, without hearings, were necessitated by the urgency of the situation. He said the strike had tied up shipments of grain and oil since Sept. 23. The petition said the Albany port annually handles grain valued at $50,000,000 and other commodities valued at $18,000,000.

The temporary restraining order is effective for five days and directs the union to appear in federal court in Syracuse Tuesday to show cause why an injunction should not be issued.

Louis Waldman, attorney for the ILA, called the action "government by injunction with a vengeance."

"Here we have a statute which makes an ex parte injunction and makes it returnable 300 miles out of the city in which it is issued," Waldman said. "This is legislation which has taken us back 10 to 15 years."

The attorney said the union may "make a test of the act."

The labor dispute revolves around Trailblazers, Inc., a new company that is operating a franchise to ship cargo-laden trailers on two converted navy landing craft between New York and Albany.

Federal Okay Given Jerome Housing Plan

JEROME, Oct. 3—Prospects for increased housing in Jerome are good with federal approval, said David L. Harrison, reported at this week's meeting of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce.

Under present proposals, one type of home, 20 by 23 feet, with one bedroom will be constructed for $3,100, with construction of a similar house measuring 22 by 24 feet planned with addition of a utility room.

Larger homes with finished coats ranging from $4,800 to $8,000 are planned in the housing program. Suitable bids have been submitted for construction of the houses. Harrison gave the housing report in the absence of Kenneth Hamilton, housing committee chairman.

In other matters before the chamber, R. W. Williamson said a committee soon would start investigations of the proposed District Road. He pointed out that the road was outside the jurisdiction of the Jerome highway district and projected difficulty in building the road.

Members heard a report by President August Vogler on his visit to the new Idaho Power company plant near Jerome, according to the merit badge counseling for the district, and a report was submitted on the Snake River area.

Field Executive Marshall Terry reported on the recent national training conference held in Denver, Ind., and attended by several of the Snake River area council executives.

U.S. Considers Purchase Of Aid Grain Directly Off Farmers, Anderson Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson today disclosed that the agriculture department is considering purchases of grain direct from farmers. This by-passing of the grain exchanges would be aimed to curb the inflationary upswing of wheat and corn prices and minimize speculation resulting from the European aid program.

Anderson told of this possible step after a cabinet meeting at the White House which was reported to have been concerned largely with possible effects of the European aid program on prices.

He told reporters the government would "prefer to continue buying through the normal channels of grain trade. If we can continue to do so, (without prices getting out of hand) we will not have to adopt the farm acquisition plan."

The agriculture department will have to buy 570,000,000 bushels of grain which President Truman has set as a goal for shipments to Europe and other shortage areas this crop year. This figure is 100,000,000 bushels more than now appears in sight. It is with the aim of making this extra 100,000,000 bushels available that Mr. Truman has launched his farm acquisition plan.

Anderson said that direct buying from farmers—if ordered—might follow last year's commodity credit corporation buying program, adopted when growers apparently were withholding wheat from market in anticipation of higher prices or in an effort to hold down income tax payments.

Anderson said the program would contain the feature under which payment was not made until the following tax year, so that the transactions would not throw the sellers into higher tax brackets.

Dutch Queen To Lay Down Royal Powers

THE HAGUE, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Netherlands government announced today that Queen Wilhelmina would temporarily lay down her royal power in the near future for reasons of health and that Crown Princess Juliana would act as princess regent.

The announcement said that legislation which introduced a new transfer of the royal power.

The No Alarms Reason

The queen, however, it was said, while the 67-year-old queen was not in the best of health, she was not to make for alarm over her condition.

The queen was reported on Sept. 24 to be suffering from fatigue, and her secretary said she was going to the summer palace for a rest.

Stricken with bronchitis, the queen was unable to open the current parliamentary session Sept. 18.

Born in June, 1880, Wilhelmina was born Aug. 31, 1893, the daughter of the late King William III and Queen Sophie.

She died not come of age until 1906, and was crowned Sept. 6 of that year.

Dust Bowl Fears Spread as Plains Drying up in Heat

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 3 (AP)—The land is on the move once more over the threat of drought-partched acres in Oklahoma and other parts of the midland, government experts today said, as the country's fourth straight blizzard-bashed harvest.

Conservative reversals of the high-price situation during across the country, as both parties showed concern how voters would react to the price situation next fall.

The agriculture department asked farmers to sow 20,000 more acres of wheat than they did last year. If the wheat yield continues high, the record crop of the past three years would be broken.

The calendar prepared at the gathering shows that the next committee meeting will be held Thursday, Oct. 30, in conjunction with a board of review, and this will be followed by a meeting Nov. 6. In most cases the committee and board of review meetings will be held on the first Thursday of each month, followed by the courts of honor on the first Thursday of the following month.

Session Changed

Because of Thanksgiving, however, the meeting for the month of Nov. 20, followed on the first Thursday of December by the first meeting of the December meeting of the committee and board will be Dec. 18.

The general deer season opens Sunday in the closed area of western and central Idaho. The half of the double-header duck season for the state opens for the entire state.

The weather was unseasonably warm for both hunts and the game department urged hunters to be careful for game that is killed. Hunters also were sounding horns to save the birds from the open woods.

Great Display Of Gadgets to Test Weather

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The greatest collection of weather-testing gadgets in history, including some never seen before, is on display here.

Everything from an automatic weather-radio station which can be dropped from an airplane to a wind direction so sensitive it could measure a butterfly's sneeze. "It's strange about this exhibit," said Inspector C. G. Schick Moody, "in spite of the fact, most people still think of a weatherman when he is on the street—and a window to look at the sky out of."

Only one ever built is attending the exhibit. It can peek at a cloud, and estimate how much rain is in it, down to the smallest drop. It will be on the first team which further data is gathered on how to make rain by dropping dry ice into a cloud. You can bet your last speck of dust on that.

Feeling by the anemometer and the sling psychrometer with carrying case for obvious reasons, let's look on the wind measuring machines. The butterfly anemometer has a loop reeled for the anemometer and the sling psychrometer with carrying case for obvious reasons, let's look on the wind measuring machines.

The butterfly anemometer has a loop reeled for the anemometer and the sling psychrometer with carrying case for obvious reasons, let's look on the wind measuring machines.

But there's a wind measurer out which, at $22, is cheap enough to see on the list of gadgets. It is on point at an electric fan, north by northwest, at 45 miles an hour.

Peas, Beans Will Bolster Grain on Shipments of Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Peas and beans will take the place of wheat in foreign relief food shipments this year, replacing grain in short supply because of flood, frost and drought.

The agriculture department, using statistics as a common denominator for bushels, dozens, tons and pounds, figures foods representing 45 percent of the total supply this year for relief purposes. The total includes peas and beans at 7 percent and is in last year's 49.0 total.

There is no separate figure for peas. Last year's national pea production was 629,000 one-hundred pound units, valued at $10,000,000. Last year's bean production was 13,797,000 bushels, valued at $10,000,000. The 1947 estimate is 16,859,000 bushels.

Based on previous relief exports, it would be fair to assume that the suggested 1947 program would take a little more than 40 percent of the total production of peas and beans and slightly less than 10 percent of the bean crop.

The government estimates that the combined market value of peas and beans in the 1947 program would be $32,200,000.

Production of peas has increased markedly during the war years, particularly in California, Washington state and northern Idaho.

Improvement of VA Medical Services Hailed as Bradley's Best Job for Vets

Krug's Special Report of U. S. Resource Nears Completion

By PETER EDSON
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 (NEA)—The study of U. S. resources which President Truman takes Interior Secretary J. A. Krug to make three months ago is nearing completion.

The first of three investigations to see how much aid the U. S. can furnish Europe without having to stretch its resources. The second is to see how much aid the U. S. can furnish Europe without having to stretch its resources.

First draft of the Krug report is expected to be ready in a few days. It will be a document about three inches thick. It will finally be approved by all government agencies.

That have had a hand in its preparation, the report goes to the president. It is up to him to decide whether the report will be made public. It should be a tremendous amount of conflicting information put out about America's dwindling resources and its inability to produce more. Value of the Krug report is that it will be a complete and accurate picture of the country's resources and shortages. As such, it should have as much bearing on future domestic policies as on the European aid program.

Main thing the Krug report may point up is the need for greater U. S. imports, particularly of raw materials. It lacks, U. S. imports have not come close to balancing exports since '36 and '37. Today, exports are running at the rate of $11,000,000,000 while imports are $5,700,000,000—a 3-to-1 ratio. Last year it was 2-to-1. And, while the U. S. is now exporting about eight per cent of its gross national product of 225 billion, it imports only three per cent of that.

To the rest of the world this imbalance of trade is looked upon as a shortage of dollars which is made up by American products. Properly viewed, it is not a shortage of dollars but a shortage of goods which the U. S. needs to buy from the rest of the world to bring its economy into balance.

U. S. supplies of things like tin-ore which the country has none at all—must, of course, be imported before they can be exported in manufactured goods. In a slightly different category, the U. S. doesn't produce enough copper, lead or zinc for its needs. Any open market, including such metals must necessarily reduce American stocks, unless trade can be secured for increasing imports of these strategic materials.

On materials like high-grade iron-ore and petroleum the story is still different. U. S. reserves may be exhausted within a generation, though they are more than ample now. Here it may be shown there is need of sound conservation practices and the development of new processes to refine low-grade ores and shale.

There is enough American coal to last for centuries. With any kind of co-operation from the weatherman, the U. S. can produce all the electricity it needs. The drain on top soil to grow these exports is insignificant. If good farming methods of normal soil conservation are followed.

This is the fourth and final in a series evaluating general Bradley's job as veterans' administrator.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON (NEA)—A "medical service second to none" has been given by Gen. Omar Bradley's goal for the veterans administration. It is the one he is closest to achieving.

What General Bradley has done for VA medicine is hailed by all as his greatest contribution to the U. S. veteran program since his look over in 1945. Even when the going was toughest in the other phases of the VA's activities, Bradley never let his attention wander from the job of improving VA medicine.

How much actual credit Bradley should get for what has been done and how much should go to the VA medical staff, it is hard to say. The man Bradley put in charge of VA medicine, is a moot point. But Bradley is backed by Dr. Hawley at every turn and if Bradley is to assume blame for the mistakes of his assistants, he also should get credit for their successes.

Here are some of the reforms Bradley instituted in VA hospitals which have put them on the track to becoming "second to none." On the theory that to attract the best medical men, you have to offer them a chance to learn, a resident training program was set up. And it was made possible for the best outside doctors available to be brought in as consultants. This has attracted the finest young graduates from medical school into internships in VA hospitals.

This was in direct contrast to the old VA idea of medicine which wouldn't permit its doctors to be members of county medical associations. The VA's department of medicine and surgery employes were taken out from under federal control of the strict federal civil service regulations and put under the supervision of trained medical administrative experts.

The old rigid system of rank among VA nurses was eliminated. A program for the improvement of medical equipment was instituted and the specifications for the hospital equipment were changed to the best available for the time. And the use of the newest drugs and treatment was ordered for veterans.

The clinics and treatment being provided for veterans who suffered mental injury from service is proclaimed as the best of all Bradley's innovations. Instead of merely confinement, these patients get active treatment of the very latest type. Clinics have been set up all over the country and veterans can also get treatment while they work and live their normal lives. There are private entrances to the medical clinics and all the records are kept confidential. No one except the doctor and the patient knows if a man is getting such treatment.

There are 125 VA hospitals in operation today. And 22 additional hospitals are in various stages of construction and planning. There are 22,000 patients in VA hospitals, 13,500 in other hospitals receiving treatment which VA will pay for and 12,000—mostly World War I veterans—in VA domiciliary hospitals, soldiers' homes.

Although all the veterans organizations and prominent medical authorities are outspoken in their praise of the type of medicine Bradley has developed for veterans and the way he has made it humane and non-military, there is not the same enthusiasm about the way he has handled the hospital construction program.

Critics claim Bradley's connection with the army led him to give the army engineers the job of planning construction of VA hospitals.

Midnight Tussle With Grizzly Bear Almost Kills Herder

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Oct. 3 (AP)—A grizzly bear charged toward a man today as Richard Mosher told of his 85-year-old sheepherder's death battle with a grizzly bear in the hills near Augusta, Mont.

The aged sheepherder has not regained consciousness since his battle to save his flock a week ago tonight. Fighting together the evidence of blood splicers, tracks and other signs of the struggle. Mosher, the herder's employer, gave this story of what apparently happened.

The sheep had been raised frequently by a bear. Hearing a noise, Chincian picked up his rifle and started toward the sheep 100 yards away.

Before reaching the flock, he came face to face with the big killer. He fired one bullet, which missed, and drew back the bolt to fire another.

Prices of Meat Rise Right off Grocer Scales

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 3 (AP)—Booming meat prices have soared right off the butcher's scales.

Times was, when the butcher weighed the meat, computer in back took how much it was.

But the pre-war computers, still in use, go only to 75 cents a pound on most meats.

Now, with meat averaging from 12 cents upward, the butcher has to resort to arithmetic gymnastics.

The simplest method of using the computers is to look up half the cost of the meat and double the total. If the meat is $1 a pound, the butcher looks it up at 50 cents and doubles the bill.

The trouble is most meat is priced in odd numbers, eighty-nine cents seems so much cheaper than 90 cents.

Some butchers admit that they just try to work with even numbers. If the meat is 90 cents, they figure it at 90 cents. But this results in short changes of a few cents, which invite criminal prosecution.

The 75-cent computers apparently are here to stay for a while. After the last war, meat prices also boomed. When they settled back to normal, the scale manufacturers were stuck with a lot of price-ripped computers that haven't forgotten.

They add a bright note to the meat picture. The customer has to get back to the computers, so they aren't going to bring the computers up to the meat—at least, not for the present.

Frauleins Taken in 'Stow-Away' Try on Aircraft

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 3 (AP)—The German girls, who fled in efforts to sneak into the United States in boxes, were fined nominally to $100 by a U. S. military government court.

Doris Von Knobloch, 21 and blond, was fined $10 for attempting to leave Germany without proper authorization. She was discovered in an airplane freight box. Pilots said the discovery saved her life because she would have frozen in the unheated plane compartment, high above the Atlantic.

Eighty-eight, blond and 21, packed her friend in the box and planned to follow her similarly if Doris arrived safe. She was fined $5 for the same offense.

Berndt and Walters expressed chagrin in the United States at their fiancée's action.

Accident Expense Up, Council Says

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (AP)—Even the cost of having an accident has gone up, the National Safety Council reported today.

The council said that the average cost of accidents is $50 for every man, woman and child in the nation, compared with about $37 before the war.

Last year, the council said, the cost of having an accident was about $52,000,000,000.

The cost of accidental injuries has risen, the council said, because of higher medical expenses, higher wage losses and greater insurance costs.

The state department announcement of diplomatic recognition of Bulgaria, coming right in the midst of efforts to bar that country from United Nations membership, has the appearance of a tactical move-up but with mitigating circumstances.

Officials must have known the deal would come early next week, and the accompanying explanation that recognition should not be considered as approval of the Bulgarian government. They apparently didn't believe it would be sufficient, however, to make any important gains in the U.N. vote, or to seriously embarrass the American delegation in its arguments. And from their standpoint, it was time to announce the recognition.

The action had been under consideration for some time. It means, as the department explained, no retreat from U. S. opposition to the Bulgarian communists. It secures an observation post in the Russian sphere just as relations with Vichy provided a listening post among the Nazis during the war. It reassures anti-communist elements in Bulgaria that they are not being deserted.

After the decision was reached, some time ago, it was necessary to obtain Sofia's approval of Donan's health as minister, which came the announcement followed as matter of fact, that officials considered it a good opportunity to restate Washington's disapproval of Bulgaria as an actual contribution to the fight against her admission to the U.N.

Also, the United States has been carefully trying to avoid the old conception that diplomatic recognition comports approval. President Roosevelt took the same step as far back as 1933 in connection with recognition of Russia, and it has been followed generally ever since. The only unrecognized Russian satellite in Europe now is Albania, and that gap has little political significance, since Albania is really only a "company" in Marshal Tito's dictatorship.

Ancient Mosque Shelters Refugees

Within the arched, roofless walls of the 300-year-old Jama Mosque in New Delhi, 50,000 Moslem refugees are huddled together like this under conditions as dread as Germany's horror camps. (NEA photo by Peter Brandt)

India Land of Human Torment Where Panic Stalks Refugees, Reporter Finds

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 3 (NEA)—As you take off your shoes and step gingerly through the main gate of the great Jama Mosque, you stand face-to-face with partitioned India's greatest problem—the refugees.

Within this Mosque, 50,000 human beings are subsisting under conditions as dread as Germany's horror camps and in just as constant fear of their lives.

This is only one refugee camp. There are countless others all over India, filled with people who have fled from terror, leaving behind their homes, their possessions and their dead.

They are people without hope. What they will eat, where they will go or how they will get there they do not know. For the moment it is enough for them to know they are still alive.

Some have narrowly escaped death and were forced to watch while their families were butchered and they were tortured.

At one side of the Mosque is a terrace hospital. It has six cots covered with canvas. There is no regular doctor in attendance. There are a few bandages and drugs.

I talked to an aged man on one cot. The slumps of both his arms were wrapped with rough bandages made from old shirts. He said his fear flung toward the Mosque from the rioting around his home with his wife and three young daughters. A gang of Sikhs intercepted them.

"With agony in his voice the old man related:

"They forced me to look on while they stabbed and slashed my wife and three lovely daughters to death. Then they held my arms to the ground and cut off both hands at the wrist.

"They kicked me into the gutter and walked away."

Friends found him shortly afterwards, applied tourniquets and brought him to the Mosque. They think he may live.

Persons who have been in the West Punjab bring back the same kind of stories about the way the Moslems have treated the Hindus and Sikhs alone. It is a massive, universal tragedy, without single cause or effect, without single blame or innocence, with a beginning but who knows what end.

Everywhere among the refugees you hear tales of brutality and violent death. They are constantly near panic for they know there are no guards around the Mosque. If armed rioters should decide to invade the sanctity of their refuge they would have no weapon except their numbers.

The vast open floor of the Jama Mosque is crowded with little family groups sitting on the damp floor or huddled under a blanket against the biting sun or ferocious rains. In the arches all the refugees are packed so closely it is impossible to walk among them without stepping on arms and legs.

Their faces are etched with fear and hopelessness. Many of the women are constantly in the torment of India's partition problem.

A few days ago some were wealthy merchants, craftsmen and land owners. Now they have lost everything. Floating Sikhs and Hindus, looting their homes, looted their shops and killed uncounted thousands in the Delhi area alone.

To escape this slaughter, the Moslems have fled to this Mosque or to other camps.

Mistake Brings Death to Babies

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 3 (AP)—Three babies died in the maternity ward of St. Francis hospital as the result of medication, when Deputy Coroner C. Everett Kelley said tonight he believed had been injected by mistake by an American nurse.

Kelley said a chemical had been injected in mistake for sodium chloride which given to a baby caused infantia. A fourth baby who also was given the injection recovered, the deputy coroner said.

Officials of the hospital declined comment.

Kelley said he was satisfied that there was no criminal intent and explained that further action would depend upon a complete report on the analysis of the victim's organs.

Army Displays New Weapons Before 3,000

ABERDEEN, Md., Oct. 3 (AP)—The army uncovered some of its newest weapons and devices in a demonstration before 3,000 men at an Army Ordnance Association show.

These developments in the guided missile field were shown in a "looker" performance before the guests and night arm and navy officers.

They were:

1. A new type of "focused fragmentation" firing its efficiency was demonstrated by firing a single fragmentation missile at seven close range targets. The direction of each individual fragment of the missile was controlled so accurately that only one pierced each bull's eye.
2. A new device called "Bright Star" that detects and tracks a missile and shows its location on a large electric "score board." As the missile moves on its course its location is shown in electrically illuminated figures that announce its distance from the tracking device.
3. A tracking telescope that picked up an approaching airplane beyond the range of visibility of the human eye. Its operation was demonstrated at a clock installed in the side of the plane.

An army announcement said neither "the specific application contemplated by ordinance nor the details of the technology" which utilized the new principles" can be disclosed at this time.

Value of Two Farms in Ohio Double in Day

By JOHN FYKE
BROWNWOOD, O., Oct. 3 (AP)—The Ohio farms looked different today.

The 200 acres, cupped in a little amphitheater formed by a creek flowing into the Licking river, are ready to grow food as well as being the guinea pigs for the hills instead of across them.

The next rain will take but little of the remaining top soil to the gulf in Mexico. That top soil has been enriched with 675 tons of lime and 45 tons of fertilizer.

There's a new barn, a steel Quonset hut going up near a new farm pond of a half acre. There are new fences, zigzagging the hills instead of dividing them. There is rye and wheat in the ground along with legumes.

This was all done Tuesday—four years soil conservation work in one day—a big demonstration before nearly 100 persons who jammed Ohio's famous national trail (U. S. route 40) all day to see "the opening of the second century."

Rough Hammond Bennett, 60-year-old first and only child of the U. S. soil conservation service and veteran of 50 years of trying to redeem America's land from the exhaustion of overfarming, erosion, and drought, said:

"I never expected a live to see the day when so many people would turn out to see a demonstration of soil conservation farming."

The net effect of the farms program is outlined in value for John Rodman, an ex-OI who owns 128 of the acres, and George Latham, and his 101 son, Bob, who owns the 80 other acres.

The Latham county soil conservation district and the Ohio soil conservation service called it the "opening of the second century" because of the second century's productivity in the soil it has. There are no new lands to open up.

"I just saw" said Bennett in his brief speech after a plaque honoring him was unveiled on grassy ground where the soil conservation service helped farmers in their own districts to apply soil conservation to some 20 million acres of land. Within a few years we expect them to be treating between 40 and 50 million acres a year.

Examining Tall Corn

300 Bushels of Corn to Acre? Tests in Illinois Pointing Way

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 2 (NEA)—With U. S. corn shortages threatening the food supply of much of the world, the experiments of two University of Illinois professors suddenly have taken on added importance.

On land which normally would produce an average yield of 60 bushels to the acre, Dr. Sigurd Melsted and Dr. L. T. Kuris are working to produce hundreds of bushels.

They began their experiment last May at the university agriculture school here, planting seeds at rates ranging from 15,000 to 80,000 to the acre.

"Eight rows produced an average yield of 12 to 20 thousand seeds per acre," Kuris says. "In a normal season the yield would be about 60 bushels an acre." Distance between rows in the experiment varied from the normal 40 inches to only 10 inches.

"For experimental purposes we did not plant a full acre," Melsted says. "Each plot is 1/4 of an acre and a different seeding rate was used for each plot."

New Store of FDR Letters Is Disclosed

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—A new store of letters by Franklin D. Roosevelt, written in childhood and youth to his mother, was disclosed today.

With subject matter ranging from boyish protestations of affection to a college-time pronouncement that President Theodore Roosevelt had erred in interfering in a coal strike, the letters are to be published starting with a volume next month as "F. D. R.'s Personal Letters" (Duell, Sloan and Pearce).

According to Life magazine, which reprints a selection, Roosevelt's mother preserved every scrap of paper on which her son wrote.

From Hyde Park at age 6: "I am in a great hurry. I found two birds nests. I took one egg. We are all well. I am going to the Millers for a party and to meet a friend. Good bye your loving Franklin."

From Harvard at age 19: "In spite of his (FDR's) success in settling the trouble (strike), I think that the President makes a serious mistake in interfering in the coal strike. His tendency to make the executive power stronger than the house of congress is bound to be bad thing, especially when a man of weaker personality succeeds him in office."

From Harvard at age 22, after he had previously disclosed plans to run: "I know what pain I have caused you and you know I wouldn't do it if I really could help you. You are the happiest man just now in the world; likewise the luckiest—and for you, dear mummy, you know that nothing can ever change what we have been and always will be to each other—only now you have children to love and to love you..."

Ways of Whites Prove Puzzling To Utah Indian

PROVO, Utah, Oct. 3 (AP)—The ways of the white man are indeed puzzling to Timothy Morris, 59-year-old the Indian. He said today that he was puzzled by a second degree murder charge late yesterday. But while the jury was out, officials became worried about Morris' frequent reference to "talking to Mary and Jesus on the phone." Accordingly, they scheduled a sanity hearing for him this afternoon.

Through an interpreter, they asked him all the usual questions and he passed with flying colors. "Talking to Mary and Jesus on the phone," he explained was his way of praying—an understanding activity for a man being tried for murder.

Coming out of the sanity hearing after the white man's remark had judged him sane, Timothy Morris said he was shocked. "This morning he was crazy. This afternoon, he all right."

'Battle of Hoses' In S.L. Finishes In Police Court

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 3 (AP)—There has been an honorific to goodness feud in Salt Lake City for the past six weeks.

Only instead of using guns, the families used water hoses.

This is the story as told by Salt Lake City police:

During the past few weeks two families had taken turns at training the hoses on each other. But last night the feud came to a climax.

One family woke up last night to find their garden hose stuck in the front door, pouring out water and flooding the house. They decided it was time to end the funny business and called the police.

During the course of six weeks both sides had been liberally sprayed with water—and with dampening effects.

Conference Stated On Palisades Dam

POCATTELLO, Oct. 3 (AP)—R. J. Newell, director of the regional reclamation bureau, announced a conference would be held in Pocatello late this month to discuss irrigation water costs on the Palisades dam project.

In addition, Newell said a committee to discuss with water users a combination of Palisades and American falls space for development of new lands.

Better Relations Seen With Russia

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Oct. 3 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, Republican presidential candidate today expressed the opinion that Russian foreign policy will shift toward better relations with the United States.

"However," he added, "this will depend upon three points: (1) if the United States does not have a financial crash, (2) if the Russians find they can infiltrate this country, and (3) if we maintain our military strength to the point where no nation would dare attack us."

The former Minnesota governor arrived here yesterday for a dinner and conference with party leaders. He said he would leave today for Chicago.

'Three More to Go!' Shout Dodgers After First Victory Over Yankees in World Series

Put Out Fire

By MURRAY ROSE
 KEBERTS FIELD, Brooklyn, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Dodgers' dressing room really was jumping. Jubilation at their victory over the Yankees, the Brooks streamed through a throng of wild cheers milling around outside their quarters.

Ralph Branca, the heat taken off his relief pitching by the Honeris's strike, fired a salvo of congratulations to the first batch of Brooks with a rousing yell: "Three to go, three to go!"

"That was the solid sentiment of the other happy Brooks who didn't try to hold their on their emotions as they entered their quarters.

He just jumped as it reached him. It might have nicked the corner of the plate or it might have been a ball. I don't know which, but he sure happy the ump didn't have a chance to call it.

A big grin across his face, Manager Shotton went from player to player and said: "Brook, it's wonderful to be back in Brooklyn. That's what you're all about."

Stanley Harris is a self-proclaimed, easy gentleman but after the third world series game his face was flushed, his hands shook, and there was moisture in his eyes that might have been tears of joy.

We couldn't catch up with 'em," he said. "We had chances but we just didn't get them. We just must go on from day to day. No, this had not changed his notion of how the series would come out.

Idaho Spuds Improvement Drive Starts

BOISE, Oct. 3 (AP)—Idaho's famous potato crop will reach consumers in even better condition if present plans of the University of Idaho experiment station and the Idaho advertising committee are carried out.

Cooperative plans of the two agencies call for full scale experimental work to determine how the tubers can be better harvested, handled, stored and shipped to make them more attractive to housewives and hotel chefs.

May Taba Years

Announcement of the plans which may cover the next several years, came from Glenn C. Holm, vice-director of the university's experiment station.

Work will be in charge of the departments of horticulture and agricultural engineering and for the most part will be turned over to trained men selected to work under Earl Verner and J. W. Martin, respective department heads.

Verner said the work at the Aberdeen experiment station and for the most part will be turned over to trained men selected to work under Earl Verner and J. W. Martin, respective department heads.

Verner said the work at the Aberdeen experiment station and for the most part will be turned over to trained men selected to work under Earl Verner and J. W. Martin, respective department heads.

Spuds will be planted at Aberdeen to find the how, when and where of damage to potatoes. Dealers, buyers and consumers have felt that the actual quality of Idaho potatoes reaching the kitchen was below what it might be if the tubers were given greater care between digging and the time they reach consumers.

The department of agricultural engineering has obtained the services of Elmer Humphrey, Halley, to determine how each error in handling and storing can be remedied. Humphrey was graduated from the University of Idaho in 1935.

Farmers Advised To Burn Rubbish

Farmers Friday were warned to dispose promptly of rubbish and animal manure by Bill Priest, Twin Falls county club agent and selling county agent, to avoid the drying of waste material that may become ideal under for a discarded match or a stray spark.

Many farmers, burdened with farm chores, are apt to let piles of rubbish, hay, and other material lie around for weeks, Priest said. "Disposal of this waste should come first, not the heating of manure piles." Not only are such piles of rubbish a definite fire hazard, but they are unsightly and often breed disease.

Piles of manure and other rubbish have been known to ignite by spontaneous combustion, he pointed out. Farmers can ignite the most highly contained material under layers, which on being exposed to the air sometimes burst into flames.

Once a farm fire gets out of control a farmer's life work can be wiped out in a few minutes, the agent concluded.

Wind-up Nearing In Murder Trial

SANTA ANA, Calif., Oct. 3 (AP)—The arguments are just about over, the lawyers have had their final liming and a jury of six men and six women, have been deliberating late this afternoon on whether hush Louie O'Connell and George (Bud) Collins are guilty of murdering her parents.

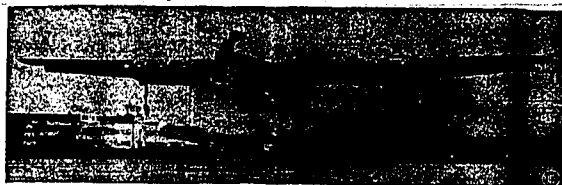

Eugene Williams, grizzled veteran of many sensational court trials, was delivering the final accusing salvo at the college lovers today.

"The defense lawyers have accused us of planting evidence," Williams told the jury trying the longest, most bitterly contested murder trial in California's history. "But there was something they didn't say we planted—the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. O'Connell. The defendants planted those bodies on the O'Connell yard and then blew up the bodies." Williams characterized the scores of accusations by the defense that the state exhibited evidence as a "grading attempt to take the minds of the jury off the issue in the case."
